Learn From Mistakes 2011

A person who never made a mistake never tried anything new.
- Albert Einstein

A silhouette of a man wearing a hat and a long coat, walking away from the viewer on a wooden pier. In the background, a tall lighthouse stands on the pier, and a bright sun is setting behind a cloudy sky, casting a warm orange glow over the scene. The water is visible to the left of the pier.

We all make mistakes in our lives. There is no one out there to claim that he has not made any mistakes in his life, if he claims so then he hasn't tried to do anything in life.

A lone evergreen tree stands on a dark, flat horizon. The sky above is a pale, hazy yellow-green, suggesting a misty or overcast day. The tree is dark and silhouetted against the lighter sky.

If you go through life afraid to make a mistake, you'll spend most of your life doing absolutely nothing.

The greatest mistake you can make in life is to be continually fearing you will make one.
~ Elbert Hubbard

There is no harm in making mistakes, it is an essential part of going forward. The more responsibility you take on, the more likely you will make mistakes.

If you feel the need to avoid mistakes at all costs, it becomes a psychological barrier to taking risks. If you make a mistake, don't retreat into a shell.

You must also realize that mistakes are an essential part of self improvement. Don't be overwhelmed with guilt and regret, analyze how you can learn from them.

While one person hesitates because he feels inferior, the other is busy making mistakes and becoming superior. ~ Henry C. Link

To swear off making mistakes is very easy. All you have to do is to swear off having ideas. ~ Leo Burnett

Mistakes and failures come along with a lesson. It is important that you learn the lesson. Actually there is more to learn from a failure than a success.

Value success, but value failure even more because it will teach you how not to do a work.

Learn from the mistakes of others. You can't live long enough to make them all yourself.
-Eleanor Roosevelt

Your life is too short to learn from your own mistakes. In a short span of 60 to 70 years you cannot hope to make all the mistakes that can be made and learn from them.
It is just not possible.

The best and wise thing to do would be watching others. Learn from their failures and mistakes. If you are new in your field read books about failures or better talk to experienced people from your industry; ask them about their failures and mistakes and try not to repeat them.

The essence of success is that it is never necessary to think of a new idea oneself. It is far better to wait until somebody else does it, and then to copy him in every detail, except his mistakes.

~ Aubrey Menen

When you learn from others mistakes you cut short the time required for success. With careful planning and good execution you can avoid the general mistakes made and achieve success faster.*

Experience enables you to recognize a mistake when you make it again.
~ Franklin P. Jones

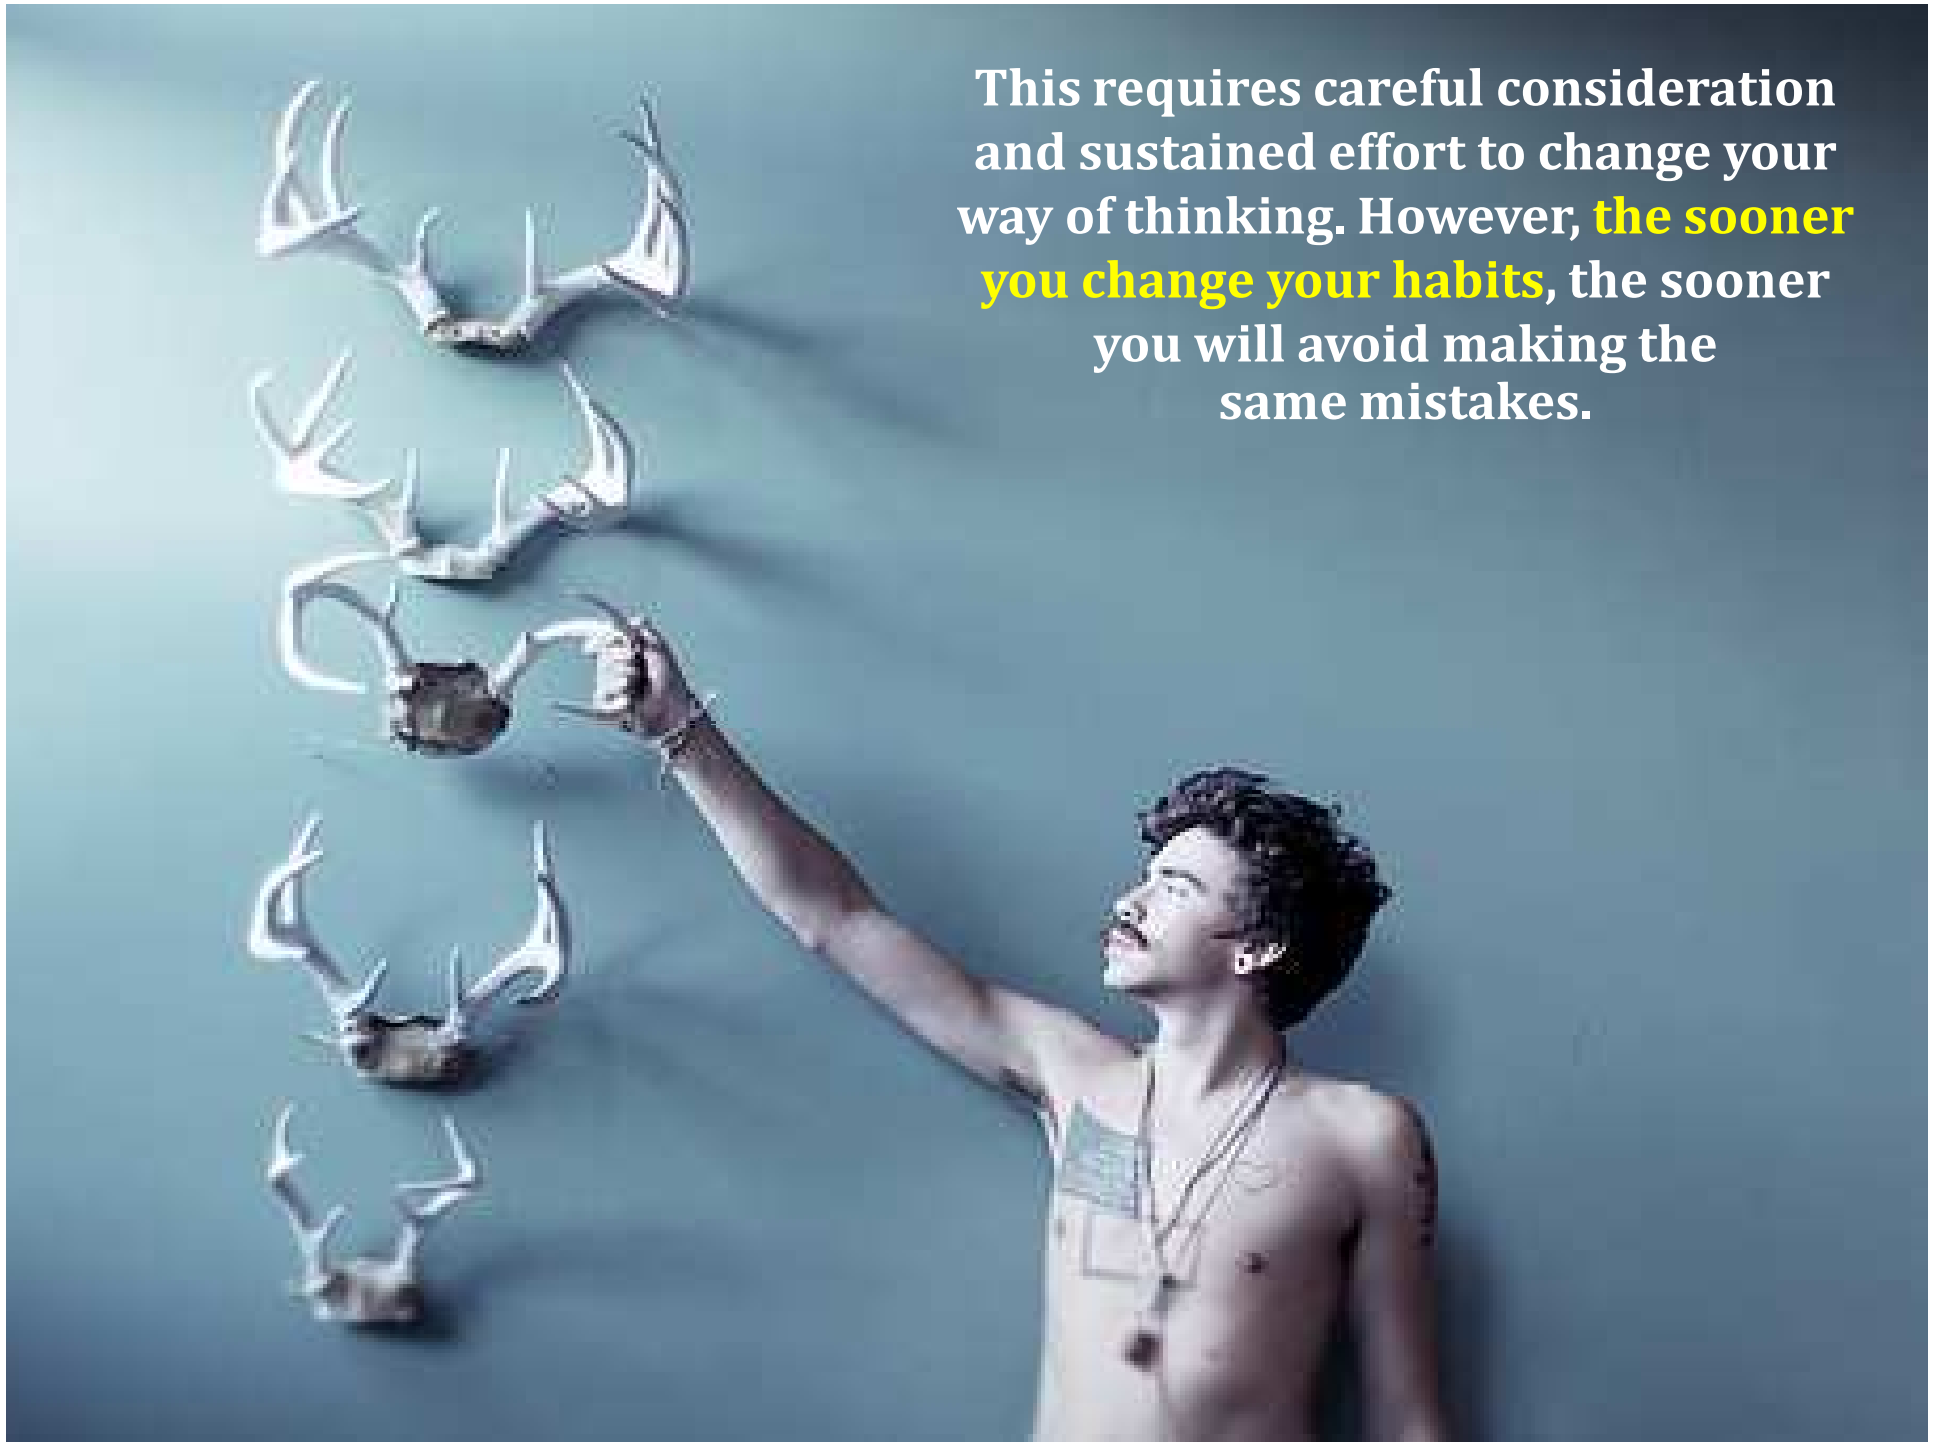

If you repeat the same mistakes, it shows you aren't making progress and causes repeated suffering.

A man with dark hair and a beard is shown in profile, lighting a cigarette. He is holding a lighter in his right hand and the cigarette in his left. The scene is dimly lit with a strong blue ambient light, and the flame of the lighter provides a warm, yellow light. The background is dark and out of focus.

Often mistakes are caused by bad habits. To avoid making the same mistakes you need to break these bad habits.

This requires careful consideration and sustained effort to change your way of thinking. However, the sooner you change your habits, the sooner you will avoid making the same mistakes.

The important thing is to view mistakes as a useful stepping stone to a higher reality and better outlook on life.

Never say, "oops." Always say,
"Ah, interesting." - Unknown
