127 HOURS

This is story of Aron Ralston who was amazing long before he won fame out of potential death. After five years as a mechanical engineer, he abandoned that life to pursue his love of the outdoors. He will eventually finish climbing all 49 peaks in Colorado higher than 14,000 ft (4.2 km) in a few years.

Fate delivered a blow few of us could overcome. A boulder pinned his right arm for five days (Saturday 26 April - Thursday 1 May 2003 when he was descending The Blue John Canyon). With his time running out, he managed to sever his pinned arm and escape death. He modestly declines the name "hero", but isn't that what heroes are? Do they not overcome severe situations? In his case, he battled nature and death alone, but it does NOT diminish his courage!

He took some Beautiful snaps during his ride to the big blue john canyon

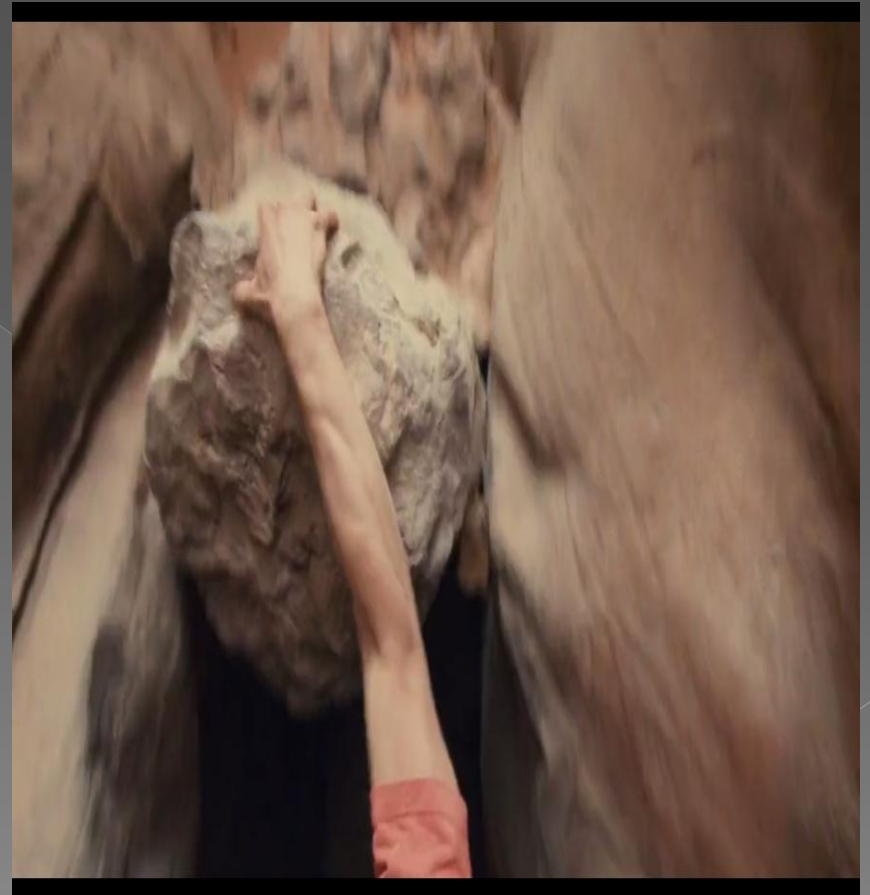

This is where he was heading towards.
Deep down the canyon, The blue John Canyon.

Here it goes.

- While he was trying to get down inside the canyon, he just took the hold of that big rock which was loosely held.

This is what happened in the very next moment OMG! the rock rolled down with him & finally got settled onto his right arm, arm got stuck.

This is where he exactly was.

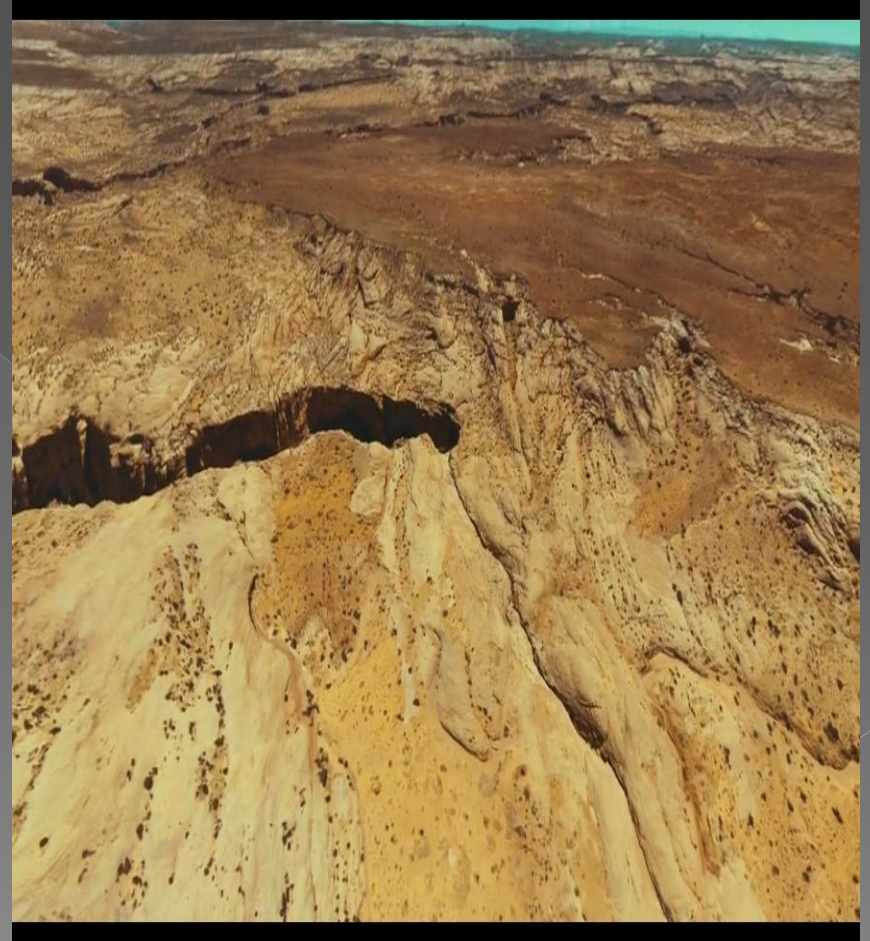

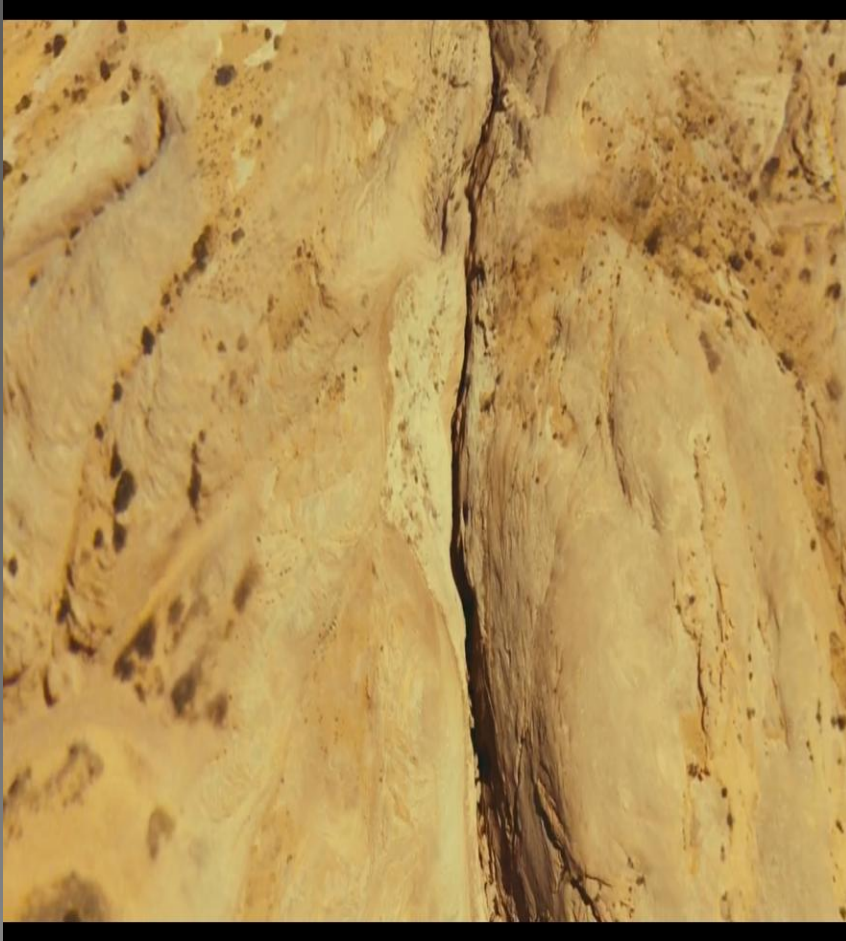

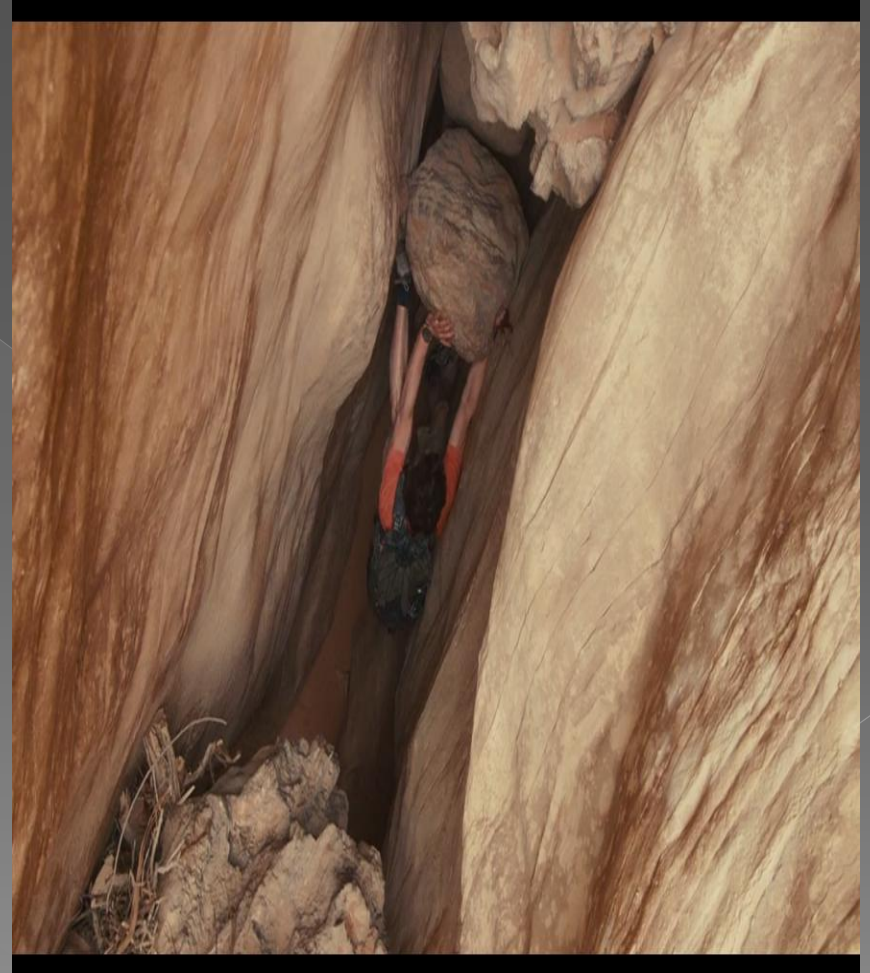

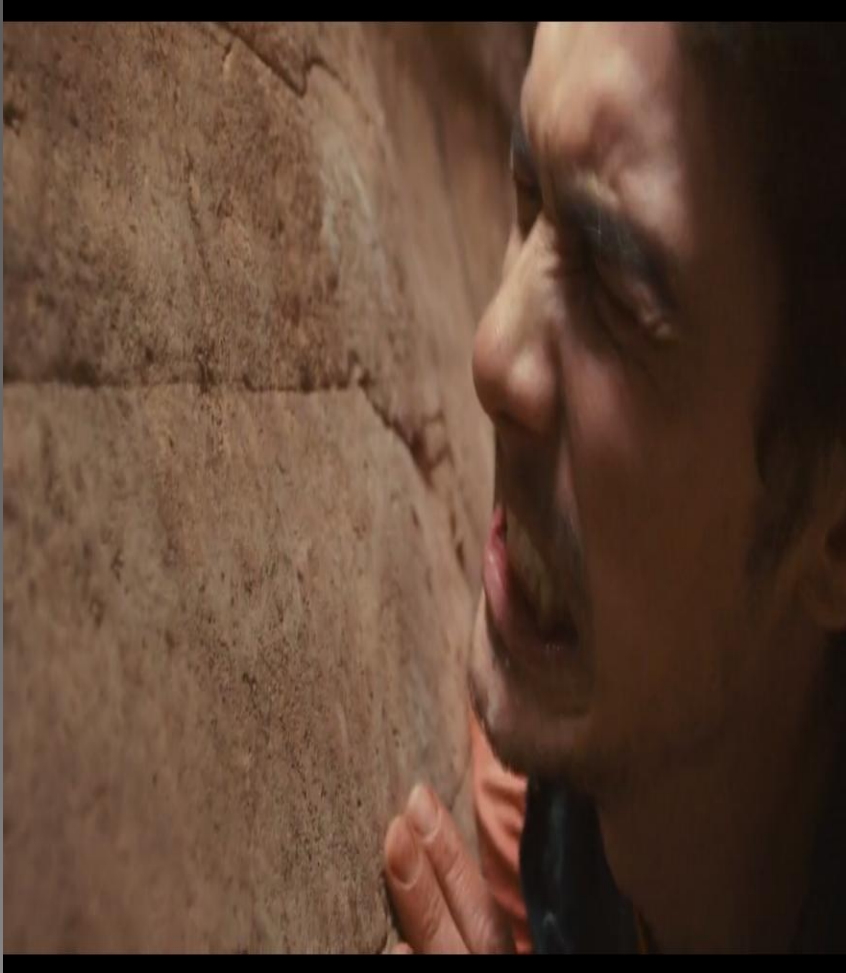

The Grand Blue John Canyon

Inside this canyon Aron was trapped.

Tried to free himself from the Rock, put in what ever energy he had

Arranged all the stuffs he had with him so that he can think which one can help him out.

Finally thought to use his multi-tool knife to cut loose the rock.

But failed, the structure of the rock was too tough to be shattered by this knife.

The Clock was ticking continuously, no help yet , no of sign relief for ARON

Next day, he made a pulley with help of ropes & locks he had with him to pull the rock up by using his own weight.

But alas! That also didn't work for him.

Then came the deadliest + daring thought.

He decided to cut his arm to free him self off the rock.

Recorded a Message for his family, in case he die, they will get to know how he got trapped in.

He thought of all the people whom he loved, family, friends, & his wife

Stabbed the knife in the Hand,
going to cut loose his arm.

Broke the bone and striving hard to cut the arm.

Wohooooo,
here he goes got rid of that stone but unfortunately it costs him his right hand.

Took a snap of his arm stuck in with the rock.

This is where he came out, some how managed to find a way down.

Got help from some tourists

Finally Rescued.

After getting the treatment
he was soon seen in action.

A snap of Mr. & Mrs. Aron Ralston.

This Was a story of Brave Man who gathered all the strength & courage to survive those deadly 127 hours in mouth of death.
After the accident ARON recovered very quickly because of his determination to attain a lot more and a "never Die" spirit gave him the internal strength to fight back the odds of life n challenge the FATE
