2. The Income-Tax Bill, 2025 was introduced in Lok Sabha on the 13th February, 2025. The Motion for reference of the Bill to a Select Committee of the House was moved in Lok Sabha on the same day by the Minister of Finance and Corporate Affairs. (Appendix-I)

3. As per the motion moved in the House, the Select Committee was to make a Report by the first day of the next session (i.e. Monsoon Session, 2025).

4. The statement of objects and reasons of the Bill clearly states that as a result of amendments, the basic structure of the Income-tax Act, 1961 has been overburdened and language has become complex, increasing cost of compliance for taxpayers and hampering efficiency of direct-tax administration. Therefore, the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 has been prepared to make the law concise, lucid and easy to read and understand. The mandated function of a Select Committee on a Bill is to go through the text of the Bill, clause-by-clause, in order to see that the provisions of the Bill bring out clearly the intention behind the measure, that there will be no procedural defect in its working, that the Bill does not offend provisions of the existing law and that the object proposed to be achieved is adequately brought out.

5. Keeping in view the importance of the Bill and its wide ranging implications, the Committee decided to invite memoranda to obtain the views from experts/industry associations/organizations/stakeholders on the provisions of the aforesaid Bill. With a view to give the widest publicity in receiving stakeholders' suggestions, the Select Committee had publicized its advertisement through various modes. Firstly, it was publicized through a scrolling ticker display on Sansad TV for inviting suggestions/memoranda from various stakeholders. A letter addressed to all the Chartered Accountants' Associations from all States/Union Territories was also sent through email on 09.04.2025 calling for the suggestions. Further, a press communiqué inviting memoranda was also issued on electronic media on 17.04.2025 for two weeks through the Press and Public Relations Wing, Lok Sabha Secretariat which was also disseminated through Social Media Platforms of Lok Sabha viz. LSS Facebook page and LSS "X" handle. The same was published in several prominent English language newspapers including The Economic Times, Financial Express, Asian News International (ANI), Deccan Herald, Hindustan Times and The Print. It was also published in Hindi newspapers including Dainik Bhaskar, Dainik Jagran and Hindustan Delhi. Further, it was uploaded on the Committee homepage on Digital Sansad website.

The Committee received 334 memoranda/suggestions/notes in total (including 02 received after adoption), through both physical and digital mode (Appendix-II). All the memoranda were circulated to the Members of the Committee. The same were also sent to the nodal Ministry i.e. Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) and their comments were obtained. Important points raised/suggestions made by the experts/stakeholders and the replies thereon from the nodal Ministry were examined, discussed, considered and suitably incorporated in the Report.

6. The Committee held 36 Sittings wherein, they heard the views/suggestions of the representatives from various experts/stakeholders, Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue), Ministry of Law and Justice and held detailed internal discussions.

7. The Committee also undertook a Study Visit to Bengaluru and Mumbai from 13th to 17th May, 2025 wherein discussions with 28 experts/stakeholders/other concerned organizations were held to obtain their views on the provisions of the aforesaid Bill.

8. The Committee held detailed internal deliberations and completed consideration of Clause-by-Clause of the Bill at their 35th Sitting held on 07th July, 2025. The Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, is appended after the Report as Annexure.

9. The Committee, in their 36th Sitting held on 16th July, 2025 considered and adopted the draft Report and authorized the Chairperson to present the Report on their behalf. The Committee also decided that one copy of the proceedings of the sittings of the Committee and two copies each of the memoranda received by the Committee on the Bill from various quarters may be placed in the Parliament Library after the Report has been presented to Parliament, for reference of the Members of Parliament.

10. The Committee have in the process of examination of the Bill come across all sorts of views for and against the Bill and to synthesize and harmonize them to a standard acceptable to a majority, if not all, has undoubtedly been a daunting task which it could perform with the active cooperation, sustained support and untiring efforts of one and all involved in the process, especially the Members of the Select Committee, for which they truly deserve special commendation. I extend my sincere thanks to all the Members of the Select Committee.

REPORT

CHAPTER-I

GENESIS OF THE INCOME-TAX BILL, 2025 AND HIGHLIGHTS OF EXAMINATION BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF LOK SABHA

Introduction

1.1 The Income-Tax Bill, 2025 (Bill No. 24 of 2025) was introduced in Lok Sabha on the Thursday, 13th February, 2025. The Motion for reference of the Bill to a Select Committee of the Lok Sabha was moved in Lok Sabha by Smt. Nirmala Sitharaman, the Minister of Finance and Corporate Affairs. The motion was adopted in Lok Sabha on the same day with the instructions to make a report by the first day of the next Session (i.e. Monsoon Session, 2025). Accordingly, the Select Committee of Lok Sabha consisting of 31 Members from Lok Sabha under the Chairpersonship of Shri Baijayant Panda was constituted to examine the Bill and make a report.

1.2 The Income-Tax Bill, 2025 seeks to consolidate and make the law relating to income tax, concise, lucid, easy to read and understand. According to the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Bill as introduced in Lok Sabha, the Income-tax Act passed in 1961 has been subjected to numerous amendments since its passage more than sixty years ago. As a result of these amendments, the basic structure of the Income-tax Act has been overburdened and language has become complex, increasing cost of compliance for taxpayers and hampering efficiency of direct-tax administration. Tax administrators, practitioners and taxpayers have also raised concerns about the complicated provisions and structure of the Income-tax Act.

Therefore, the Government in the Budget Speech dated the 23rd July, 2024 announced that a time bound comprehensive review of the Income-tax Act, 1961 would be undertaken to make the Act concise, lucid, easy to read and understand. Accordingly, the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 has been prepared which proposes to repeal and replace the Income-tax Act, 1961.

Background of the Bill

1.3 The Income-tax Act, 1961 replaced the Income Tax Act of 1922 following the recommendations of the Law Commission in 1958 and the Direct Tax Administration Enquiry Committee. Historically, the tax policy in India has not been just about raising revenue but also about achieving other socio-economic objectives, viz. augmenting savings, promoting exports, ensuring a balanced economy, achieving social justice etc. Following this philosophy, over the decades, several exemptions/ deductions were introduced by amending the Act, such as deductions for export income, industries in specified areas/specified sectors, expenditure made for rural development and so on.

1.4 Over time, these exemptions not only led to a significant erosion of the tax base, but also generated litigation, increased administrative costs and compliance burdens. Such sector-specific, region-specific incentives, profit-based incentives etc. introduced from time to time, have themselves been subject of revisions. The sheer number of amendments speaks for itself. The Act has undergone nearly 4000 amendments, in the form of changes through the annual Finance Act for more than sixty years and 19 specific Taxation Laws Amendment Bills. While constant evolution has preserved the vitality of the Act, it has also rendered it rather voluminous and intricate. Besides, it was written in traditional legal language, which maybe challenging for a common person to comprehend. It uses long-winded sentences with several provisos, explanations etc. For instance, Section 9 (Income deemed to accrue or arise in India) has 21 explanations and 17 provisos; Section 10 (Incomes not included in total income) has 90 explanations and 134 provisos; and Section 10(23C), which provides for tax exemptions for certain educational and medical institutions, alone has more than 20 provisos and 20 explanations. Over time, amendments and additions have resulted in a structure that is fragmented and difficult to navigate. The difficulty is compounded by the existence of several redundant provisions that are no longer operational.

1.5 In this backdrop, tax administrators, taxpayers and Industry set up and professional Associations alike have expressed concerns about the multi-layered statutory framework of the Income Tax Act. Therefore, simplifying its language and format has become essential for the tax system to effectively serve as a reliable, equitable and efficient foundation of India's fiscal framework.

1.6 Since 2014, the direct tax administration and the Income-tax Act have undergone a series of sequential and incremental changes, resulting in changes in tax administration, provisions for incentives and exemptions and tax rates. In 2015, while presenting the Budget, the Finance Minister laid down the plan for the gradual reduction in corporate tax rate with the phasing out of deductions/exemptions. Subsequently, new tax regimes were introduced, faceless assessment and appeals became operative and in several cases of tax exemptions, the sunset clauses were provided. Further reforms related to rationalizing of TDS provisions, plugging of specific loopholes, introduction of general anti-avoidance rules, promoting digital economy, improving provisions for charitable entities, nudging voluntary compliance were brought in.

1.7 The series of reforms introduced in the Income Tax over the last several years have laid the foundations of a simple and stable tax policy. These sequential reforms rendered unnecessary, the requirement of any fundamental reform in the content of the existing tax policy and set the context for the final stage of reforms in the statute aimed at simplifying the language and structure of the law, eliminating redundancies and providing certainty to taxpayers. This was announced by the Finance Minister in her Budget speech in July 2024:

> "I am now announcing a comprehensive review of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The purpose is to make the Act concise, lucid, easy to read and understand. This will reduce disputes and litigation, thereby providing tax certainty to the taxpayers. It will also bring down the demand embroiled in litigation. It is proposed to be completed in six months."

1.8 Following this announcement, a comprehensive review was undertaken by the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) and as a result, the Bill was introduced in Parliament.

Objectives of the Bill

1.9 The present exercise of simplification of the law, through the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, has been undertaken, with the following broad objectives:

a) Simplifying the language of the Act, that is easy to read and understand;

b) Reducing the volume of the Act;

c) Consolidating existing law, as amended to date, into a concise document;

d) Creating easy to understand formulae and tabular structures where feasible, for computation of tax for income of various natures, eliminating the complexities that have crept in regarding certain areas over the years due to multiple provisos and explanations;

e) Elimination of redundancies in sections and chapters;

f) Maintaining continuity in taxation principles with no major tax policy changes or tax rate changes; and

g) Introducing tax reforms through -

i) Bringing clarity in the Act, without any structural or policy change. The long-settled principles of taxation was not being disturbed, however, the latest amendments to be incorporated in the new Bill;

ii) Comparing and learning from global best practices to create a tax statute that balances need for clarity with certainty; and

iii) Laying down a clear path for phasing out deductions.

Methodology followed by the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) while drafting the Income-Tax Bill, 2025

1.10 For a comprehensive review of the Act, a Core Committee at the apex level, headed by an Officer of the rank of Chief Commissioner of Income Tax, was constituted. Various Sub-Committees (initially 14 but eventually expanded to 26) consisting of around 150 Officers across the hierarchy were constituted to identify gaps in the existing Act and to bring in better understanding of various aspects of the functioning of the existing framework.

1.11 A comprehensive consultative process was undertaken for the simplification exercise. A total of 20,976 online suggestions for simplification and removal of redundancies were received, analysed and relevant suggestions were categorized into policy-related, language simplification, removal of redundant or obsolete provisions, etc. Meetings with industry and professional associations were held and field-level brainstorming sessions were held within the Income Tax Department, towards this exercise.

1.12 At the international level, consultations were held with some of the taxation authorities that had undertaken similar exercise in the recent past, viz. the Australian Tax Office and Treasury and the United Kingdom's Office of Tax Simplification. Several Video Conferences (VCs) were held with these tax authorities to understand the quantum of volumes they started with and where they are now in terms of the number and size of volumes. Also, inputs from the relevant verticals within the Department, administering different aspects and areas of taxation, were received and analysed.

1.13 The documents prepared in 2009 and 2019 were also referred, while undertaking the exercise. International and national guidance material such as 'Drafting Guide for Simplification of Laws' issued by Legislative Department, Ministry of Law and Justice, was studied for simplification of legal language.

1.14 A three-pronged strategy was adopted for simplification:-

(i) Minimizing intricate words or phrases to enhance clarity;

(ii) Eliminating redundant and repetitive provisions to improve readability; and

(iii) Structuring provisions logically through tabular forms to ensure ease of reference.

1.15 A meticulous process was followed in drafting the new Income-Tax Bill, 2025. The process began with the preparation of individual Chapter-wise drafts. These drafts were then rigorously reviewed by a dedicated Sub-Committee, focusing on both the accuracy of the content and the completeness of the provisions presented. Following this review, the corrected drafts were thoroughly examined by the Tax Policy and Legislation (TPL) wing of CBDT (Central Board of Direct Taxes), which had its capacity augmented in December 2024 to handle this significant undertaking. The next stage involved the vetting of Bill by the Department of Legal Affairs (DOLA) in close coordination with the Drafting Committee to ensure legal soundness and consistency. Finally, based on the feedback received during the vetting process, all necessary corrections and revisions were incorporated into the final draft of the Bill. The Bill was introduced by the Finance Minister in Lok Sabha on 13th February, 2025.

Simplification and rationalization achieved through the Income-Tax Bill, 2025

1.16 The following has been the qualitative and quantitative outcome of this simplification exercise.

a) Quantitative outcome: The exercise resulted in a substantial reduction in the volume of the Act. The reduction achieved in terms of number of words, chapters, sections and through the use of tabular formats and formulae is summarized below:-

Item	Existing Income-tax Act, 1961	Proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025	Change (Reduction/Addition)
Words	512,535	259,676	Reduction: 252,859 words
Chapters	47	23	Reduction: 24 chapters
Sections	819	536	Reduction: 283 sections
Tables	18	57	Addition: 39 tables
Formulae	6	46	Addition: 40 formulae

b) Qualitative outcome: The language has been simplified making the document easy to read and understand. The existing law, as amended to date, has been consolidated in a concise document. The drafting style of the new Bill is straightforward and clear, making the provisions easier to understand. Redundancies and need for cross-referencing between Sections and Chapters have been eliminated. Greater clarity has been brought in the Act without any structural or policy changes and without disturbing the long-settled taxation principles. A significant aspect of the Bill is the introduction of the concept of 'tax year' (as unit period of taxation), replacing 'previous year' and 'assessment year'. The timelines and computation in the Bill are now with reference to the tax Year for which the income is liable to be taxed. All provisos (about 1200) and explanations (about 900) have been removed. Sub-sections and Clauses have been used, instead of relying on provisos and explanations for exceptions and carve-outs. Structural rationalization has been carried out by consolidation of provisions into self-contained Chapters and using table and formula format, where feasible, thereby improving readability and enhancing clarity for the taxpayers and stakeholders. Continuity in taxation principles has been ensured by simplifying the law without disturbing settled principles and jurisprudence.

Release of Answers to Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1.17 To keep the taxpayers and stakeholders informed and engaged about the scope of the Bill and the nature of simplification proposed for specific areas, exhaustive FAQs have been released by the Income Tax Department, along with Section-wise mapping. These FAQ documents attempt to address the general queries that the taxpayers and stakeholders may have on the scope, nature and impact of the changes proposed to be brought about through the Income-Tax Bill, 2025. These answers, inter alia, includes the compelling reasons for simplification efforts to bring about not only linguistic simplifications but structural rationalization in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 to make it 'concise, lucid, easy to read and understand' based on international experience. The ground rules are set for the simplification exercise by improving the readability and enhanced clarity of the Bill; following the principles of Tax Certainty with a view to minimize the scope of litigation; embedding the transition mechanism in Clause 536 to preserve the legitimacy of pending disputes, protect taxpayer entitlements, and provide a structured pathway for tax enforcement, etc.

Some specific examples of simplification and rationalization in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 vis-à-vis the provisions of Income-tax Act, 1961

1.18 TDS/TCS Provisions: The Income-Tax Bill, 2025 significantly simplifies the TDS/TCS provisions. The number of sections has been drastically reduced from 69 in the Income-tax Act, 1961 to just 13 in the Bill. Readability and comprehension have been enhanced through the use of clear and concise tables. Specifically, 43 sections of TDS provisions have been consolidated into three tables, categorizing them by "residents," "non-residents," and "any person." Furthermore, the conditions for no tax deduction have been consolidated into a single, easy-to-reference table. The revised provisions also incorporate proposals from the Finance Bill, 2025, resulting in rationalized rates and thresholds.

1.19 Provisions related to Salaried Taxpayers: The revised Act provides a self-contained code for salaried employees. While chargeability remains within the Act, the valuation of perquisites, along with their conditions and exceptions, has been moved to the Rules. Deductions for gratuity, commutation of pension, leave encashment and retrenchment/Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) compensation are now conveniently located within the Salary chapter, presented in a tabular format. The salary limit for non-taxability of perquisites will be prescribed by the rules.

1.20 Removal of Redundant Provisions: A comprehensive review of the Income Tax Act identified and eliminated approximately 90 redundant sections and sub-sections. Three entire chapters, along with numerous sections and a schedule, were deemed outdated and removed. This included provisions related to Fringe Benefits, which ceased to apply from Assessment Year 2010-11; Section 10A - Special provision in respect of newly established undertakings in free trade zone, etc., no longer applicable from Assessment Year 2012-13; and Section 10(33) – an exemption for income arising from the transfer of a capital asset, specifically units of the Unit Scheme, 1964, a transitional provision for the scheme that became irrelevant after Assessment Year 2002-03.

1.21 Provisions related to Non-Profit Organizations (NPOs): In the Income-tax Act, 1961, the provisions related to NPOs were scattered at different places in the existing Act in Sections 11, 12, 12A, 12AA, 12AB, 13, 115BBC, 115BBI, 115TD, 115TE, 115TF and the provisions related to approval are under the first and second provisos to Section 80G(5). These have been simplified and consolidated into one Chapter. All the provisions related to registered Non-Profit Organisations (NPOs) have now been arranged in Part B of Chapter XVII titled "B.—Special Provisions for Registered Non-Profit Organization" of the new Bill.

1.22 The proposed Bill is a comprehensive legislative effort aimed at focusing on four primary pillars viz. simplification of language, litigation reduction, compliance reduction and elimination of redundant provisions.

Methodology adopted by the Select Committee of Lok Sabha to examine the Income-Tax Bill, 2025

1.23 Taking cognizance of the fact that the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 (Bill No. 24 of 2025) spanning over 600 pages, 536 Clauses, XXIII Chapters and XVI Schedules envisages to repeal and replace the Income-tax Act, 1961, which would impact multiple stakeholders across multiple sectors, the Committee in their first Sitting with the representatives of the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) held on 24th February, 2025 decided to invite Memoranda containing views/suggestions from experts/industries/ associations/organizations/stakeholders on the provisions of the Bill through Sansad TV scroll. Subsequently, for a wider outreach, a letter dated 09th April, 2025 addressed to all the Chartered Accountants' Associations from all States/Union Territories was sent through email calling for Suggestions/Memoranda on the provisions of the Bill giving a time of two weeks.

Thereafter, a Press Communiqué inviting Memoranda was also issued on electronic media on the 17th April, 2025 through the Press and Public Relations (PPR) Wing, Lok Sabha Secretariat which was also disseminated through Social Media Platforms of Lok Sabha viz. LSS Facebook page and LSS "X" handle giving a time of two weeks. The same was covered in several prominent English and Hindi language newspapers including The Economic Times, Financial Express, Asian News International (ANI), Deccan Herald, Hindustan Times, The Print, Dainik Bhaskar, Dainik Jagran and Hindustan Delhi.

In response to that, total 288 Memoranda were received by the Committee, which were tabulated and forwarded to the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) in four Batches (i.e. Batch-I, II, III and IV containing 277, 93, 762 and 180 suggestions, respectively totaling to 1,312) to obtain their views. Out of which, 285 suggestions were accepted by the Ministry wherein 84 are substantive suggestions and remaining 201 are drafting corrections. A total of 68 Stakeholders appeared before the Select Committee for Oral Evidence.

1.24 From amongst the Stakeholders who have requested in their written Memoranda for deposition before the Select Committee and also those suggested by Members of the Committee, an exhaustive list of Representatives/Stakeholders/Domain Experts cutting across both National level and Mid level Industry Associations/individual tax practitioners; Related Ministries of Govt. of India; Commissioners of Income Tax (CITs); Retired Income Tax Officers; Non-Profit Organisations (NPOs), etc. was drawn up for taking oral evidences during which written submission and Power-Point Presentations (PPTs) in a prescribed format were presented before the Select Committee. Thereafter, after their depositions, Post-Evidence Replies on the queries posed by the Members of the Select Committee were also furnished which were circulated to the Members of the Select Committee. The Select Committee also sought written replies on specific issues from concerned Ministries/Departments for more clarity on the issues raised by the Domain Experts/Stakeholders during their deposition.

1.25 For seeking wider consultation, the Committee also undertook a Study Visit to Bengaluru and Mumbai from 13th to 17th May, 2025 wherein discussions with Domain Experts/Stakeholders/individual tax practitioners/ other concerned organizations were held to obtain their views on the provisions of the Bill.

CLAUSE BY CLAUSE EXAMINATION OF THE INCOME-TAX BILL, 2025

Chapter I – Preliminary

Clause 1 – Short title, extent and commencement

1.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025

(1) This Act may be called the Income-tax Act, 2025.
(2) It extends to the whole of India.
(3) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, it shall come into force on the 1st April, 2026.

1.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Income-tax Act, 1961.

(2) It extends to the whole of India.

(3) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, it shall come into force on the 1st day of April, 1962.

1.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 1 of the Bill seeks to provide for title, extent and commencement of theIncome-tax Act, 2025. The new Act is proposed to be effective from the 1st April, 2026. The clause corresponds to section 1 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

1.4 Examination by the Committee

The representatives of the Ministry of Finance briefed the Committee on the objective of introducing the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, and outlined the drafting approach adopted, as follows:

> "I would request permission to give an overview of various taxpayer friendly reforms that have been undertaken over the last ten years or so to provide a backdrop for the Income-Tax Bill, 2025. In the recent years, the Ministry has been a facilitator in bringing a path-breaking reforms in corporate taxation, personal taxation, taxation of capital gain and trusts, and has also made efforts to encourage culture of trusts based voluntary compliance with emphasis on minimising intrusive methods of tax administration. Sir, in 2019, a faceless scheme for assessment was brought in as a new mechanism for making assessment by eliminating personal interface between the assessing officer and the assessee optimising the use of resources through functional specialisations and introducing team based assessment. Based on this experience, in 2020, faceless appeals scheme was notified to eliminate human interface in the appellate function of the department at the level of commissioner of Income Tax Appeals. Sir, a new form 26AS was introduced which contains all the information of deduction, collection of tax at source, specified financial transaction, payment of taxes, demand, refund, pending proceedings etc which enables the taxpayers to file their returns correctly and in case any discrepancy is observed, the taxpayer has an opportunity to file revised return based on the additional information. The time period given to him to do revision has been enhanced recently, Sir.

In order to enable the taxpayer to file his returns smoothly, prefilled income tax return forms have also been provided to the taxpayer.

Sir, in 2020, Vivaad Se Vishwas scheme was introduced and almost 1.15 lakh cases were settled under it and drawing from its experience and success, a direct tax vivaad se vishwas scheme 2024 has also been notified.

Further, for reducing litigation and to give an impetus to dispute resolution of small taxpayers, Dispute Resolution Committee has been constituted. Here, however, we agree that much still needs to be done to fully operationalise it.We have also increased the thresholds for the Department to file appeals in order to reduce unnecessary litigation. We are also trying to see that if a case of question of law is already pending before a forum, we would withhold filing of further appeals till that question of law is settled.

Coming to the Income-Tax Bill 2025, the Government had announced comprehensive review of the Income-Tax Act last year. As a consequence of the said review, this Income-Tax Bill, 2025 has been introduced in the Lok Sabha in February, 2025. The purpose behind the introduction of the Income-Tax Bill is to simplify the existing Income-Tax Act 1961 to make it concise, lucid, easy to read and understand.

The simplification exercise was guided by three core principles: textual and structural simplification for improved clarity and coherence, no major tax policy changes to ensure continuity and certainty and no modification of tax rates for preserving predictability for the taxpayers. Therefore, while drafting the Income-Tax Bill, a three-pronged approach was adopted. One was eliminating intricate language to enhance readability, then removing redundant and repetitive provisions for better navigation and reorganising sections logically to facilitate ease of reference. While undertaking the simplification exercise, conscious attempt has been made to minimise the scope of ambiguity, which may lead to differing interpretations and consequent litigation."

1.5 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee

The Committee note the justification provided by the Ministry and find that the date of commencement to be the only change in the provision.The Committee, therefore, accept the provision of the clause in its entirety, with no change in its extent.

2.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision

2.3.1 Clause 2 of the Bill seeks to provide for Definitions. The clause corresponds to section 2 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. Definition of “Assessment Year”, “Previous year” has been omitted from clause 2. The concept of assessment year and previous year has been replaced by ‘tax year’, which is sought to be defined in clause 3 of the Bill. This is one of the major simplifications in the Bill. Other important changes are like Table has been used in the definition of “Capital asset”. Redundant provisions like Explanation 1 to Section 2(22) of the Act have been removed. The definition of “books or books of account” has been modified to include “any digital form”, “cloud based storage”, “portable data storage device, external hard drives or memory cards”. Definition of “relative” has been clarified by including the phrase “maternal as well as paternal” w.r.t. lineal ascendant. All these changes are made to rationalise the provisions related to the definition and to reduce litigation. The provisions of the existing section have been simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (The word “either of” is to be added in clause 2(29f) of the Bill. the phrase “in the case of a share held in a company” is to be added in clause 2(101) of the Bill).

2.3.2 Sub-Clause 2(19)

The definition of books or books of accounts as per section 2(12A) of Income-Tax Act, 1961 has been simplified and retained in the Bill with some modifications. The definition has been modified to include “cloud based storage”, “portable data storage device, external hard drives, or memory cards” under its purview to avoid any ambiguity.

2.3.3 Sub-Clause 2(29) "company in which the public are substantially interested"

The phrase “company in which the public are substantially interested” had already been defined in section 2(18) of Income-Tax Act, 1961, and the same definition was simplified and retained in Income-Tax Bill 2025.

2.3.4 Sub-Clause 2(103) “Slump Sale”

The definition of slump sale as per section 2(42C) of Income-Tax Act, 1961 was simplified. The word "transfer" is defined in the Bill in clause 2(109) and that applies to the entire Bill. Therefore, there was no need to define this term under the clause separately and hence it was removed.

2.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

2.4.1 Sub-Clause 2(1) “Accountant”

In a detailed submission made during the Committee’s sitting, one of the witnesses strongly urged that the definition of 'accountant' under Section 288 of the Income-tax Act should remain unchanged, stressing that the function of audit must remain the exclusive domain of Chartered Accountants (CAs). The witness noted that several representations were being made by other professional bodies, including company secretaries, seeking to gain eligibility for conducting tax audits. However, it was asserted that such professionals lack the core tax expertise and audit proficiency required for this highly specialized function. Reference was made to Section 44AB of the existing Income-tax Act, which mandates that tax audits must be conducted by a Chartered Accountant holding a valid Certificate of Practice—failing which, the right to conduct audits is forfeited. It was emphasized that the legislature has drawn clear boundaries among the various professional institutes through distinct statutes: the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949 assigns responsibility for tax and financial audits to CAs; the Cost and Works Accountants Act, 1959 governs cost audits; and the Company Secretaries Act, 1980 focuses on compliance, corporate law, and governance. The submission clarified that there is no intent on the part of CAs to encroach upon the responsibilities of other professions, such as cost audits or corporate compliance, and similarly, other professionals should not seek entry into the domain of tax audits. Citing legal and judicial precedents, including the Supreme Court judgment in T.D. Venkata Rao vs. Union of India, it was pointed out that CAs possess a specialized aptitude for audit due to the depth of training and qualification required. Additionally, international best practices were referenced to underscore that, globally, tax audits and financial certifications are restricted to professionals with robust financial and accounting expertise—such as Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) in the United States and Chartered Accountants in the United Kingdom. Any expansion of the definition of 'accountant' to include professionals without such expertise was described as inconsistent with global tax administration standards and potentially detrimental to audit quality.

2.4.1.2 During another sitting of the Select Committee, representatives from a professional accounting body raised significant concerns regarding the definition and scope of 'accountant' under the proposed Bill. A key point involved the placement of the definition within the legislative text. Attention was drawn to Clause 2(1), which defines 'accountant' not directly but by reference to Clause 515(3)(b). A contrast was made with the Income-Tax Act, 1961, where the term was not defined under Section 2. The concern expressed was that since the word 'accountant' appears in numerous clauses before Clause 515, this indirect and delayed definition could create difficulties and confusion for stakeholders attempting to interpret the Bill sequentially. A strong recommendation was made for the definition to be disclosed upfront for clarity. A specific instance of perceived exclusion was cited concerning Clause 12, dealing with the taxation of Political Parties. While the Representation of the People Act, 1951, under Section 29A, allows non-disclosure for contributions under ₹20,000, for accounts requiring certification, the proposed Bill, specifically in Clause 12(vii), mentions only Chartered Accountants. A plea was made for expanding this scope to include other qualified professionals.Furthermore, the discussion extended to the definition of 'authorized representative' under Clause 515, which corresponds to the old Section 288. An argument was presented that the original 1961 provisions reflect an era when the commerce and accounting professions were less developed, computerisation was absent, and even certain graduates or civil court lawyers could represent. Given the significant evolution over more than 65 years and the establishment of specialised accounting bodies, an explicit inclusion of Cost and Management Accountants to represent assessees before income tax authorities was strongly advocated. A revised, broader definition of 'accountant' was suggested as a comprehensive solution to these perceived anomalies and limitations.

2.4.1.3 In a different detailed presentation before the Committee, representatives suggested that the definition of "accountant" in Clause 2(1) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 should be self-contained rather than relying on a cross-reference to Clause 515(3)(b). It was pointed out that the current structure, which necessitates referring to another clause to understand the meaning of "accountant," leads to excessive and avoidable cross-referencing across multiple provisions. This, it was argued, undermines the objective of simplification and transparency in legislative drafting. Accordingly, it was proposed that the complete definition of "accountant" be included directly in Clause 2(1) to ensure clarity and ease of interpretation across the Bill. Further, it was proposed that the scope of the definition of "accountant" be broadened to include members of the Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) holding valid certificates of practice. Drawing attention to the current formulation—which limits the term to Chartered Accountants under the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949—it was suggested that the definition be amended to also encompass Company Secretaries as defined under Section 2(1)(c) of the Company Secretaries Act, 1980. The rationale provided was that this inclusion would expand the pool of qualified professionals available to assessees and tax authorities, particularly in Tier-II and Tier-III cities, thereby easing the burden on a single category of professionals and facilitating timely compliance. To support this suggestion, it was emphasized that Company Secretaries undergo rigorous training in taxation, accountancy, and finance, and are therefore well-equipped to undertake compliance-related responsibilities under the Income-tax law. The ICSI curriculum was cited in detail to show that Company Secretaries study a wide range of taxation and financial subjects—such as advanced accountancy, corporate tax management, and indirect tax laws—making them competent to function in roles currently reserved for Chartered Accountants. Historical and legislative precedents were also referenced in support of this proposal. Particular mention was made of the 49th Report of the Department Related Parliamentary Standing Committee on Finance (2012), which had recommended the inclusion of other professionals in the definition of "accountant" under the Direct Taxes Code. The report, it was noted, had underscored that such an expansion would offer small and medium enterprises a broader and more cost-effective set of professional options. Additionally, it was pointed out that the Direct Tax Code, 2013 had incorporated Company Secretaries in the definition of "accountant", signaling legislative intent toward inclusivity. Other regulatory recognitions of Company Secretaries were also presented as evidence of professional equivalence. Examples cited included roles in concurrent audits for depositories (NSDL and CDSL), issuance of net worth certificates for various statutory and regulatory purposes, and recognition under several regimes such as TRAI and IFSCA. These instances, it was argued, reaffirmed the competence of Company Secretaries in financial and taxation matters.

It was finally submitted that the exclusion of Company Secretaries from the definition of "accountant" appeared to be an inadvertent oversight rather than a deliberate legislative choice. Given that the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides an opportunity to overhaul and modernize tax legislation, it was urged that this oversight be rectified to ensure parity among similarly qualified professional bodies and to promote inclusive growth and compliance efficiency across the tax administration ecosystem.

2.4.2 Sub-Clause 2(5) "Agricultural Income"

Some of the witnesses have suggested w.r.t clause 2(5) that Clause (d) should be amended to word: "Any income derived from sale of live plants, samplings andseedlings." OR d) "Any income derived from sale of agriculture produce (including live plants, saplings and seedlings) coco-pits i.e., in a nursery is agriculture. However, the issue was put to rest by issuance of Explanation 3 to the section 2(1A) of the existing Income-Tax Act which clarified the intention of the legislature and included 'nursery' within the scope of agriculture. In the new bill instead of explanation 3 – sub-clause (d) has been proposed to be inserted which will lead to litigation which is already settled by judicial authorities. · This is amendment is suggested to provide clarity that any income derived from sale of agricultural produce (including live plants, saplings or seedlings) - whether or not such products have been grown in soil or any other substances in or grown under controlled conditions or in a laboratory shall be deemed to be agricultural income. Accordingly, irrespective of how the agricultural produce has been grown, income from sale of such agricultural produce will be treated as agricultural income, thus qualifying for exemption under the new section 2(5) read with schedule II – Si.No 1 of the new Income-Tax Act.

2.4.2.2 Another similar suggestion was received to the amend Clause (d) to explicitly to include income from the sale of live plants, saplings, and seedlings. Suggested wording: "Any income derived from sale of agricultural produce (including live plants, saplings, and seedlings)." The new bill's proposed wording could lead to litigation on well-settled matters Clarification is needed regarding what constitutes "agricultural income" to avoid litigation. Judicial authorities have determined that the classification of income from the sale of agricultural produce as agricultural income depends on the specific circumstances of each case, particularly the methods used by the grower This has resulted in misinterpretations of the relevant provisions, creating challenges for agriculturists who utilize modern technologies in their farming practices Previous issues arose regarding in early 2000, when whether growing plants in controlled conditions (e.g., nurseries) qualifies as agriculture. The proposed wording aims to ensure that income from all forms of agricultural produce, irrespective of how the agricultural produce has been grown, is treated as agricultural income, qualifying for tax exemption.

2.4.3 Sub-Clause 2(6) "Amalgamation"

One of the stakeholder pointed out that 2(6): “amalgamation”, in relation to companies, means the merger of one or more companies with another company or the merger of two or more companies to form one company (the company or companies which so merge being referred to as the amalgamating company, and the or companies and the company with which they merge or which is formed as a result of such merger being referred to as the amalgamated company) in such a manner that— Justification: It is kindly suggested to review the phrase "the amalgamating company, and the companies" for substitution with "the amalgamating company, or companies" as the latter may be more appropriate.

2.4.3.2 Another suggestion on the sub-clause was that the date of Amalgamation and Demerger needs to be defined to give effect to Clause 116 and clause 117.There are several dates involved in amalgamation or Demerger For example the date of presentation of documents to competent authority, approval by competent authority, approvals by Share Holders of the Amalgamating or Demerging company, Final acceptance by the Company after approval by competent authority, etc .

2.4.4 Sub-Clause 2(7) “Annual Value”

During the Committee’s sitting, concerns were raised regarding the calculation of 'annual value,' a key element for 'income from house property.' The process was described as lengthy, involving the computation of 'gross annual value' based on multiple factors like municipal value, fair rent, and standard rent. A proposal was made to present this complex calculation in a tabular format within the law. It was argued that such a format would simplify the process and could reduce litigation.

2.4.5 Sub-Clause 2 (17) "Block of Assets"

One of the witnesses during the deliberations of the Committee pointed out that the 'Block of Assets' concept, fundamental for calculating depreciation under the Income-Tax Act, is frequently associated with significant litigation. To address this and enhance clarity, a suggestion was put forward to incorporate a structured table within the Bill itself. This table would clearly delineate the various asset blocks and their corresponding, specific depreciation rates.

2.4.6 Sub-Clause 2(19) "Books or Books of Account"

One of the representatives during the meeting proposed that the definition of “books of account” in the Income-tax Bill, 2025 should be aligned with the more contemporary and comprehensive definition provided under Section 2(13) of the Companies Act, 2013. It was stated by the representatives that the current draft of the Bill refers to outdated terminology such as “cash book” and “day register,” which may no longer adequately reflect modern accounting practices. By harmonizing the definitions across legislations, the understanding of what constitutes books of account would be broadened and standardized, thereby enhancing clarity and consistency in compliance.

2.4.6.2 In a written suggestion to the Committee it was suggested by the stakeholders that the terms ledgers, day books, cash books, account books or other books, in the definition in the IT Bill 2025 can be reworded on the lines of definition given under sub-section 13 of section 2 Companies Act 2013. Accordingly, we propose the following definition. “books of account” includes records maintained by all persons in respect of—
(i) all sums of money received and expended and matters in relation to which the receipts and expenditure take place;
(ii) all sales and purchases of goods and services;
(iii) the assets and liabilities; and
(iv) the items of cost;
Justification: In order to broaden the definition in the Tax Bill and to enable uniformity with the relevant laws, the contents and text of the proposed definition may be considered.

2.4.7 Sub-Clause 2(21) "Business Trust"

A suggestion on this clause was that IFSC Authority has issued Fund Management Regulations which provide framework for REIT and InVITs set up in IFSC This framework requires REITs/InVITs to be set up in IFSC but secondary listing of SEBI registered BTs (REITs/InVITs) in IFSC is currently not permissible. Units of such REITs/InVITs are to be traded in a currency other than the INR. However, IFSC BT (REIT/InVITs) do not get pass through status under Income tax Hence, all income of IFSC BT is subjected to maximum marginal tax rate Further, capital gains / MAT exemption on swap of sponsor’s shares is not available in case of IFSC BT and is taxable in hands of sponsor Therefore, while capital gains on sale of units by non-resident in IFSC exchange is exempt by way of specific notification Income of IFSC BT which in- turn gets distributed to unit holders gets fully taxed in hands of BT at MMR.

2.4.8 Sub-Clause 2(22) "Capital Asset"

It was suggested by the Stakeholders that the section 2(22)(b) of Income-tax Bill, 2025 be amended as follows:

(b) any securities held by a Foreign Institutional Investor or held by an investment fund specified in section 224(10)(a) which has invested in such securities as per the regulations made under the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992;
(b) any securities held by— (i) a Foreign Institutional investor which has invested in such securities in accordance with the regulations made under the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992; or (ii) an investment fund specified in sub-section

(10) of section 224 which has invested such securities in accordance with the provisions of the regulations made under the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 or under the International Financial Services Centers Authority Act,"

The Finance Act, 2025 has amended section 2(14)(b) and consequential amendment has to be made in clause 2(22)(b) of Income-tax Bill, 2025.

2.4.9 Sub-Clause 2(23) "charitable purpose"

During one of the Committee's sitting, concerns were raised regarding the absence of a definition for "religious purpose" in the Income-tax Bill, 2025. It was pointed out that while the term "charitable purpose" is defined in Section 2(15) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, no corresponding definition exists for "religious purpose". This omission, it was argued, creates ambiguity in interpretation and leads to challenges during the registration process for religious and charitable trusts. A representative suggested including a sub-clause to define "religious purpose" as encompassing both religious activities and charitable activities that are integral to a particular religion (The witness emphasized that defining "religious purpose" is essential to avoid misinterpretation by tax authorities, particularly at the stage of trust registration, where the lack of clarity often leads to denial of registration on the grounds that the entity is both religious and charitable. The point was reinforced with reference to Article 26 of the Constitution, which permits religious denominations to establish institutions for religious and charitable purposes .Further, it was highlighted that in practice, many activities—such as education or medical relief—may simultaneously fall under both religious and charitable domains, making it difficult to draw a strict line between the two. The absence of a definition has also led to litigation, especially in cases involving anonymous donations, where trusts classified as charitable but religious are denied exemption benefits on the grounds that they are not "wholly religious institutions". Accordingly, it was suggested that the Bill should incorporate a clear and inclusive definition of "religious purpose" to reflect constitutional provisions, reduce administrative and legal uncertainty, and ensure equitable treatment of religious and charitable institutions under the tax regime.

2.4.10 Sub-Clause 2(28) "Company"

Stakeholder pointed out a drafting error in the sub-clause and pointed out that To maintain consistency with clause 3 of the Bill, it is recommended that the phrase "assessment year" in clause 2(28) which defines Company, be replaced with "subsequent tax year." This change would streamline and bring in consistency with the wordings used in various other sections of the IT Bill, 2025.

2.4.11 Sub-Clause 2(29) "company in which the public are substantially interested"

A number of stakeholders in their written submissions to the Committee have suggested that there seems to be a typo in the ITB 2025, missing the language that allows companies which are not private companies to either be listed on the last day as per clause (i) or fulfil conditions set out in clause (ii). Unless corrected, an unlisted company may never become widely held company even if it fulfils conditions of clause (ii)

1. To modify the language in ITB 2025 to ensure that the conditions to qualify as a WHC are the same as in Section 2(18) of ITA 1961 without requiring all companies to be listed on the last day of the year. This can be done by inserting “or” between clause (i) and clause (ii) or by inserting “either of” between “and” and “the following conditions”

2. Substitute the phrase “a company which is not a private company as defined in the Companies Act, 2013” with “a company which is a public company as defined in the Companies Act 2013” to provide clarity and avoid unnecessary controversy on the issue that whether a deemed public company can be regarded as WHC for income tax purposes.

2.4.11.2 Another suggestion received on the Clause 2(29) was that the clause should be amended to designate the SPVs of a listed BT as a company in which the public are substantially interested, if on the last day of the relevant previous, the BT is listed on a recognised stock exchange in India. Section 2(18)(b)(A) of the Act (corresponding to Section 2(29)(f)(i) of the Bill) provides that a company, the shares of which were listed in a recognised stock exchange as on the last day of the relevant previous year would be regarded as a company in which the public are substantially interested Additionally, a subsidiary of a listed company is also treated as a company in which the public are substantially interested. Given the construct of the SEBI Regulations, shares of the SPV cannot be listed; instead, a majority of the shareholding of a SPV must be transferred to a BT and it is the units of the BT that are required to be listed Under the circumstances, the SPVs of BT should be regarded as companies in which the public are substantially interested if as on the last day of the relevant previous year, the BT is listed on a recognized stock exchange in India Designating a SPV as a company in which the public are substantially interested would put a BT listing on par with a listed equity; and confer similar benefits in relation to lapse of losses and fund movements as are available to a listed company.

2.4.11.3 Committee received different kinds of written suggestions on this specific clause, another suggestion was that the Section 2(18)(b)(A) of the Act (corresponding to Section 2(29)(f)(i) of the Bill) provides that a company, the shares of which were listed in a recognised stock exchange as on the last day of the relevant previous year would be regarded as a company in which the public are substantially interested Additionally, a subsidiary of a listed company is also treated as a company in which the public are substantially interested Given the construct of the SEBI Regulations, shares of the SPV cannot be listed; instead, a majority of the shareholding of a SPV must be transferred to a BT and it is the units of the BT that are required to be listed Under the circumstances, the SPVs of BT should be regarded as companies in which the public are substantially interested if as on the last day of the relevant previous year, the BT is listed on a recognized stock exchange in India.Designating a SPV as a company in which the public are substantially interested would put a BT listing on par with a listed equity; and confer similar benefits in relation to lapse of losses and fund movements as are available to a listed company.The section 2(18) of the Act (i.e corresponding section 2(29) of the Bill) should be amended to designate the SPVs of a listed BT as a company in which the public are substantially interested, if on the last day of the relevant previous, the BT is listed on a recognised stock exchange in India.

2.4.12 Sub-Clause 2 (35) "Demerger" :

During the Committee's sitting representatives from an industry body urged that fast-track demergers, as provided under Section 233 of the Companies Act, 2013, be explicitly granted tax neutrality under the proposed Income-tax Bill. It was pointed out that while the existing Income-tax Act, 1961 confers tax neutrality on demergers meeting specified conditions—and although the draft Bill broadly preserves this principle—it appears that fast-track demergers have been inadvertently excluded due to the omission of a reference to Section 233. This oversight, it was argued, contradicts the legislative intent expressed by the Finance Minister in the Budget speech, which emphasized simplifying and widening the scope of fast-track mergers. Accordingly, they suggested that the Bill be amended to explicitly extend tax neutrality to such transactions.

2.4.12.2 During the Committee's sittings, concerns were repeatedly raised regarding the exclusion of fast-track demergers under Section 233 of the Companies Act, 2013, from the scope of tax neutrality in the new Income-tax Bill. A representative from a professional body highlighted that Section 233 was introduced as a simplified and time-efficient mechanism for demergers, particularly for smaller companies, requiring the approval of Regional Directors rather than the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), as is the case under Sections 230 and 232. However, the new Bill appears to recognize only demergers effected under Sections 230 and 232, omitting any reference to Section 233. This omission suggests that fast-track demergers may not qualify for tax-neutral treatment, potentially disincentivizing their use. The representatives further reiterated that the current drafting does not appear to cover fast-track demergers and suggested that the definition be clarified or amended to explicitly include Section 233 to avoid any adverse implications for eligible entities.

2.4.12.3 Another written suggestion on the Clause 2(35) stated that, when Companies Act, 1956 was replaced by Companies Act, 2013, a new concept of fast-track demerger was introduced under Section 233 of Cos Act, 2013, which did not require NCLT/Court approval in certain circumstances. Since s.233 of CA 2013 was considered analogous to s.391 to 394 of CA 1956, fast track demerger is also understood to be covered herein. Ambiguity exists in s. 2(35) of ITB 2025 as to whether fast-track demergers under Section 233 of Cos Act, 2013 are tax neutral, leading to potential litigation. This will have the effect of making them fast track demergers unattractive and defeat the very intent of introducing fast track process in Companies Act 2013.Modify the definition of "demerger" in ITB 2025 to include reference to Section 233 of Cos Act, 2013 to remove ambiguity and reduce litigation risk regarding the tax neutrality of fast-track demergers.

2.4.12.4 One of the stakeholders in their submission suggested that the Reference to accounting standards prescribed under section 129 of the CA-13 may be made so that both kinds of standards (i.e for bigger companies as well as for smaller companies) are referred to. Alternatively: after the words and figures, "Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015" the words and figures "Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2021" may be included. Indian Accounting Standards (Ind AS) referred to in Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015 are applicable only for certain classes of bigger Companies and for the remaining classes, Accounting Standards notified in Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2021 apply.

2.4.13 Sub-Clause 2(40) "Dividend"

Suggestions on this clause stated that there is a need to provide for a safe harbour rule in terms of which bonafide loans compliant with Companies Act 2013 and repaid in ordinary course are not treated as deemed dividends. The safe harbour conditions may include minimum interest rate as per s.186(7) of Companies Act 2013, repayment period of 3 years and any other conditions as may be deemed fit by CBDT. This may be accompanied by reporting requirement by the lending company and recipient as part of income tax return or separate forms.While this is an anti-abuse provision to prevent disguised dividends in the form of loans or advances, it acts as deterrent even for bonafide intra group loan transactions in compliance with s 186(7) of Companies Act 2013 which mandates a minimum interest at the prevailing yield of one year, three year, five year or ten year Government Security closest to the tenor of the loan.

2.4.13.1 Another suggestion was to delete the limb (f) of section 2(40) Taxation of gains on buy-back of shares as dividend goes against the premise that return of capital cannot be dividend. 2 Such tax regime of dividend taxation goes against the accepted economic and accounting norms; and international understanding. 3 Increases tax for oversees investors who otherwise would have availed an exemption under the treaty provisions 4 Challenges may also arise if there are reserves and surplus in the company and the buy-back happens out of the fresh issue.

2.4.14 Sub-Clause 2(48) “hearing””

During the Committee’s sitting, attention was drawn to the new definition of 'hearing' introduced in Clause 2, sub-clause (48) of the Bill, explicitly including the "communication of data and documents through electronic mode." A recommendation was made that virtual hearings, under the new definition, be granted full statutory recognition and be considered part of official evidence. Emphasis was placed on the context of faceless assessments, where direct interaction with assessing officers is absent; making virtual hearings part of the record is deemed essential. The argument presented was that such inclusion would allow appellants to definitively prove submissions before higher authorities, potentially using transcripts, consequently acting as a vital check on the quality of assessment orders and strengthening the faceless regime. A suggestion was put forth that the Bill must ensure virtual proceedings are treated as formal statements and evidence.

2.4.15 Sub-Clause 2(49) “Income”:

In a submission before the Committee, one of the representatives addressed concerns regarding the definition of 'income' in the draft legislation. It was pointed out that the current draft makes reference to Section 2(24) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as a residuary provision for defining income. The witness suggested that instead of relying on cross-references to provisions from the old Act, the new Income-tax Bill should explicitly reproduce the relevant definitions within the text itself. The argument advanced was that importing definitions from the earlier legislation through references creates ambiguity and hampers interpretive clarity. Therefore, for consistency, ease of interpretation, and legislative self-containment, it was recommended that all such provisions—including the definition of income presently linked to Section 2(24) of the 1961 Act—be directly incorporated into the new Bill, rather than indirectly referred to.

2.4.15.2 During the Committee’s sitting, concerns were expressed regarding the phrasing of Clause 2(49) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, which defines “income.” It was noted that the clause, while replicating much of the substance of Section 2(24) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, includes a sub-clause that directly refers to “any other income referred to in Section 2(24) of the Income-tax Act, 1961.” This approach, it was argued, creates a situation where the applicability and interpretation of income under the new law remain dependent on the provisions of the repealed 1961 Act. Such cross-referencing, it was pointed out, undermines the objective of legal clarity and consolidation, as it would require taxpayers, practitioners, and authorities to continuously consult both the 2025 Bill and the 1961 Act in parallel. Accordingly, it was suggested that the definition of “income” in Clause 2(49) be made self-contained and comprehensive, without recourse to provisions of the previous Act, to ensure legal clarity and legislative coherence.

2.4.15.3 Some of the stakeholder suggested that the Clause 2(49) of the bill may be redrafted as follows –

“Income” includes - (a) income chargeable under section 15 under the head “Salaries”, (b) income chargeable under sections 20 and 23 under the head “Income from house property”, (c) profits and gains chargeable under section 26, 38, 58 and 61 (d) capital gains chargeable under section 67 and (e) income from other sources chargeable under section 92 and section 95.""(f) voluntary contributions received by— (i) a registered non-profit organisation; or (ii) an association referred to in Schedule III (Table: Sl. No 23); or (iii) any University or other educational institution or any hospital or other institution referred to in Schedule III (Table: Sl No 19); or (iv) an electoral trust; (g) the value of any benefit or perquisite, whether convertible into money or not, obtained by any representative assessee mentioned in section 303(1)(c) or (d) or by any person on whose behalf or for whose benefit any income is receivable by the representative assessee (such person being herein referred to as the beneficiary) and any sum paid by the representative assessee in respect of any obligation which, but for such payment, would have been payable by" "the beneficiary; (h) assistance in the form of a subsidy or grant or cash incentive or duty drawback or waiver or concession or reimbursement (by whatever name called) by the Central Government or a State Government or any authority or body or agency, in cash or kind, to the assessee other than— (i) the subsidy or grant or reimbursement which is taken into account for determination of the actual cost of the asset as per sections 39(1)(d) and (3); or (ii) the subsidy or grant by the Central Government for the purpose of the corpus of a trust or institution established by the Central Government or a State Government; (i) interest income in pursuance of secondary adjustment (j) income from transfer of carbon credits" income in section 2(49), some sub-clauses directly refer to the nature/description of the specific income, like dividend, profits and gains, etc whereas other sub- clauses refer to the specific clauses of the charging section of the respective head. In effect, there should be consistency in the manner of description of different types of income in the various sub-clauses of the definition of income u/s 2(49)." "Moreover, there is a residuary sub-clause (x) referring to “any other income referred to in section 2(24) of the Income-tax Act, n1961” Reading the provisions of the new law with the provisions of the erstwhile law would increase the complexity In any case, the definition of income under section 2(49) is an inclusive definition. It is suggested that the income definition to refer to the charging nand deeming provisions under the five heads of income and voluntary contributions in case of trusts and certain other income which is not directly falling under the ncharging sections of the heads of income, including subsidy, grant etc."

2.4.15.4 One of the stakeholders pointed out a reference to Income-Tax Act 1961, and submitted to the Committee that Clause 2(49) Clause 2(49) defines the expression income However, Clause 2(49)(x) is a residuary provision which provides that any other income referred to in section 2(24) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 shall be considered as 'income' for the purpose of clause 2(49) of Income-Tax Bill, 1961. The relevant clauses of section 2(24) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, which are sought to be incorporated in the Bill shall be specifically stated.The reference to 'income' in the old Act results in complexity whereby one is required to see the Old Act to ascertain the meaning of the word 'income' For all times to come, one would be required to test whether the income is an income under the new Act as well as Old Act and then arrive at a conclusion This will lead to ambiguity and result in protracted litigation.

2.4.16 Sub-Clause 2 (50) " Income Computation and Disclosure Standards "

One of the stakeholders pointed that profits derived on the basis of accounts drawn in compliance with the accounting standards issued by regulatory bodies be considered for tax purposes, the definition of ICDS may be removed.The discrepancies between accounting profit and taxable profit arising from the application of ICDS have led to disputes and litigation The introduction of ICDS created an additional compliance burden, as taxpayers are required to compute income separately under ICDS. ICAI has, in its Preliminary Suggestions on the Income-tax Bill, 2025, suggested that consideration of profits derived on the basis of accounts drawn in compliance with the accounting standards issued by regulatory bodies for tax purposes will help mitigate litigation and also serve the objective of simplification of tax laws.

2.4.17 Sub-Clause 2(55) "infrastructure capital company"

Stakeholders have suggested that the the business and housing project should be defined in this sub-section.

2.4.18 Sub-Clause 2(72) "Non Resident"

A suggestion on the Clause was recived that the Clause may be Modified definition of "non-resident"to be deleted under sec 2 and moved to Sec6. Definition of "resident"under sec 2(96)to be deleted since residency is determined under sec6. Since the definition of"resident"as per Sec2(96)refers to Sec 6 and Person "not ordinarily resident in India" is not defined under section 2 but defined under section 6(13), all the definitions of residency such as resident, non-resident and not ordinarily resident in India should be included in Sec 6 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025.

2.4.19 Sub- Clause (86) "profession"

Concern was raised regarding the current definition of “profession,” which only states that "profession includes vocation." It was argued that this formulation is overly broad and may create ambiguity. A distinction was drawn between general vocations and regulated professions, which are characterized by specialized knowledge, licensing requirements, and a binding code of ethics. Examples cited included Chartered Accountants, Cost Accountants, and medical practitioners, who operate within defined regulatory frameworks. In contrast, qualifications such as an MBA, which do not involve licensing or ethical codes enforced by statutory bodies, were considered outside the purview of regulated professions. Accordingly, it was suggested that the definition be refined to clearly distinguish between regulated professions and general vocations. One of the stakeholders further suggested that this definition may be removed.This definition does not give the meaning of profession It only includes vocation which may fall under business or profession depending on the nature of activity Artificially, it cannot be deemed to be profession.

2.4.20 Sub-Clause 2(101) “Short Term Capital Asset”

One of the stakeholder pointed a drafting error in the clause and suggested To insert the words “in the case of a share held in a company in liquidation” in s.2(101)(c)(A) of ITB 2025.Under ITA 1961, it is clear that the exclusion applies to shares held in company under liquidation Under ITB 2025, in absence of specific reference to “share held in a company in liquidation”, the exclusion may inadvertently apply to all the assets of the liquidating company.

2.4.20.2 Another suggestion on the clause was that the proposed sequencing (sub-clause numbering) may be amended so that referencing may be made by tax payers easily. This will apply for all provisions where there is such kind of numbering.Suggestion for Structuring Sub- Clauses in Section 2(101) – Removing Confusion in Capital Lettering (A, B, C, D) used after sub-clause 2(101)(c)(D) In proposed Section 2(101), sub- clauses are defined using capital letters (A, B, C, D). This creates avoidable confusion, particularly in Sub-clause (c)(D), where multiple conditions are interlinked. Capital letter sequencing leads to difficulties in legal interpretation and cross-referencing. Such clause numbering may be replaced with roman numerals like (i) or (ii).

2.4.21 Sub-Sub-Clause 2(103) “Slump Sale”

Many of the stakeholder on this subclause have submitted that prior to Finance Act (FA) 2021 amendment, slump sale was defined as the transfer of one or more undertakings as a result of the sale for a lump sum consideration without values being assigned to individual assets and liabilities. FA 2021 amended Section 2(42C) to replace "sale" with "transfer" and added Explanation 3 to include all modes of transfer under Section 2(47). Such wide meaning was assigned to overcome court rulings1 holding slump exchange not being covered by s.2(42C) Since ITB 2025 does not contain provision comparable to Explanation 3, ambiguity may arise as to whether the term "transfer" includes all modes of transfer, such as slump exchange, without a provision similar to Explanation 3 reigniting past controversy. Introduce a clarificatory provision in ITB 2025 to borrow the definition of "transfer" as per Section 2(109) of ITB 2025 and ensure slump exchange is included within the definition of slump sale and reduce litigation risk.

2.4.22 Sub-Clause 2(108) “Total Income”

One of the stakeholders suggested that the definition of gross total income should be clear in the Act. It should not make reference to total income. If the definition of gross total income is modified as above, the phrase in section 122(1) would be in order and the reference of the same can be given in this clause i.e., instead of in the manner as laid down in the Act, it can be mentioned “as laid down in section 122(1)”. “total income” means the total amount of income referred to in section 5, computed in the manner as laid down in section 122(1);". Section 5 defines the scope of income to be included in an assessee’s total income. Section 122(1) mentions that in computing total income of an assessee, deductions specified in this chapter (Chapter VIII) shall be allowed from the gross total income as per and subject to the provisions of this Chapter As per section 122(10), “gross total income” means the total income computed as per the provisions of this Act, before making deduction under this Chapter Hence, the definitions are circular since reference to GTI is given while explaining the meaning of TI and vice versa".

2.4.23 General Suggestions on Clause 2

Clause 2 does not contain explicit, self-contained sub-clauses defining "micro enterprise," "small enterprise," or "medium enterprise”, rather the Bill formally recognizes these definitions not by replicating them in Clause 2, but by ensuring that relevant operative parts of the new Income Tax law utilize the established. In this regard, MSME ministry has submitted that :

> “It was for the first time that the Income-Tax Bill has proposed to define micro enterprises and small enterprises. We welcome this with a small request that instead of mentioning Sections 2(h) and 2(m), if the provisions notified under the MSMED Act could be included in the Income-Tax Bill, then, we could actually be aligning the MSE definition given in our MSMED Act and also in the Income-Tax Bill. This will actually help in bringing about uniformity firstly and secondly, it will also help the enterprises in dealing with their delayed payment matters."

Further suggestions were received that in Definitions it may be also define in a separate clause of the word's (i) Authorized Representative , (ii) Auditor, (iii) Advocate, (iv) Accountancy Examination as per mention in u/s 515(3)(a)(v), (V) Co-operative Credit Society, (vi) Trust, and (vii) Society.

Another suggestion on the similar was lines that the Auditor should be defined instead of Accountant under section 2 of the Income-Tax Bill 2025 There is no specific definition of Accountant in any law Generally graduates and master graduates in commerce are working as accountants in business entities Qualified Chartered Accountants and Cost Accountants are experts in Financial, Cost Management and Taxation These two professional bodies formed by special Act of the Parliament of India and are empowered to conduct statutory audits under the Companies Act, 2013, CGST Act, 2017 and in many other acts So putting these professionals under the definition of Accountant is not justifiable As per their expertise and work assigned to them they should be kept under the definition of Auditor like in CGST Act, 2017 and Companies Act, 2013 By calling them Accountant will not fully stand in the court of law for disbursing their duties as auditor in Income-Tax Act, in case of any misstatement, fraud and scams To be liable for audit report they must be called as auditor and not as an accountant Therefore, my suggestion is to replace the word Accountant with Auditor and include under the term Auditor both professionals Cost Accountant and Chartered Accountant in the Income-Tax Bill 2025.

2.5 Examination by the Committee:

2.5.1 Sub-Clause 2(1)

Representatives of Ministry of Finance on the defination of the accountat as given in clause 2(1) submitted to the Committee:

"एकाउण्टेंट क्योंक उसके बारे में रप्रिजेंटेशन्स कमेटी को भी मलिंगे। ट्रेडशिनली वह चार्टर्ड एकाउण्टेंट्स का परव्यू रहा है, लेकनि उसमें कॉस्ट एकाउण्टेंट्स, सीएफएज, कंपनी सेक्रेटरीज भी हैं।"

2.5.1.2 During the Committee's deliberations with the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA), attention was towards the representations from the professional bodies such as ICMAI, ICSI etc., seeking recognition as tax accountants under the new legislation. It was noted that while these requests had been raised during the drafting process, they were not accepted by the Department, and much of the subsequent interaction with these bodies centered on this concern. Accordingly, the Chairperson requested the views of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) was sought on this issue during the meeting. In response, the MCA clarified the distinct statutory roles assigned to Chartered Accountants (CAs), Cost Accountants (CMAs), and Company Secretaries (CSs) under the Companies Act—where only CAs are authorized to conduct statutory audits, CMAs undertake cost audits, and CSs perform secretarial compliance audits. While certain non-statutory functions such as internal audit may be conducted by any of these professionals or other board-appointed experts, the MCA emphasized that the specific responsibilities envisaged for "accountants" under the Income-tax Bill are best understood by the Department of Revenue. Therefore, the MCA deferred to the Department's judgment on whether to broaden the definition to include CMAs and CSs, noting that such a decision must be guided by the competencies required for tax-related functions.

2.5.1.3 On the stakeholder's suggestion regarding the definition of "Accountant", Ministry of Finance in a written reply submitted as under:

> "The IT Bill, 2025 has been drafted keeping in view the mandate of simplification of provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961. This approach is also reflected in the Statement of objects and reasons presented by the Hon'ble Finance Minister while introducing the IT Bill, 2025 in the Lok Sabha on the 13th of February, 2025. Accordingly, the existing provisions of the IT Act, 1961 have been simplified and presented with a view to –
> (i) making the Act concise, lucid, easy to read and understand;
> (ii) making the language clear and direct in text so that it is simple to understand for the taxpayer and the tax administration, leading to tax certainty and reduced litigation;
> (iii) consolidating the provisions lying in different parts of the IT Act, 1961;
> (iv) using tabular structures and formulae wherever feasible;
> (v) aligning with the existing provisions as well as existing interpretations and implementation practices so as to bring clarity on issues.
> The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

2.5.1.4 Representatives of the Ministry of Finance submitted that the definition restricting "accountant" to Chartered Accountant was in the original 1961 Act from the beginning, referring to a footnote and deposed as under:

> "Sir, in the original Act, the reference to 2015, this definition was right from beginning. You see the foot note. Footnote gives the earlier explanation. The footnote says accountant means chartered accountant within the meaning of the chartered accountants act 1949."

2.5.1.5 Further elaborating on the issue during the meeting, the representatives of Ministry of Finance substantiated their stance further as given below:

"Regarding this Cost Accountant and Chartered Accountant, the suggestion has come relating to various clauses of the Bill. So, everywhere, the Cost Accountants are saying that in this Clause also, we should be enabled to do the same things which a Chartered Accountant is enabled. So, our initial response to this is that functions of a Cost Accountant are regulated by the Cost and Works Accountants Act and in comparison, the functions of a Chartered Accountant are regulated by the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949. So, they have given the details. Both the Acts have mentioned in detail as to what are the functions a Cost Accountant can do and what are the functions a Chartered Accountant can do.
So, our position is that parent legislation of the Cost Accountants and Chartered Accountants is different and is laid on specific functions. So, the functions which are mandated in the Income-Tax Act are relating to audit and accounting and they do not find a place in the domain of work which is specified for the Cost Accountants. So, audit of books and financial transactions, which is our principal work, is specifically included in the Chartered Accountants Act. The parity, which they are seeking, is not available in the principal legislation itself and we have to map our functions with the functions which they can do in their respective Acts. It may be a difficult proposition.

I will just bring and take forward from where my colleague pointed out on the legal issue. There are two parts to it. One is the training or capability and the second is the legal window available to do something. Now, since under these respective Acts, they are authorized to certify and their signs carry a certain legal weight. That authority comes from the respective Act. For example, the Cost Accountants Act says that member will be considered to be in practice if he engages in the practice of Cost Accountancy; offers to perform services involving costing or pricing of goods or services or the preparation, verification or certification or auditing of cost accounting and related statements; renders professional services or assistance in or about matters of principle or detail relating to cost accounting procedure or the recording, presentation or certification of costing facts or data; and renders such other services as which may be rendered by a cost accountant in practice.

So, the issue which will come in here would be that in the Income Tax law, to say that certain types of certifications will be acceptable if it is signed by someone who has qualification, may be legally to be evaluated with reference to the respective Acts which give scope for that person to do something. So, probably, this issue may require some inputs from the Ministry of Corporate Affairs since they handle all the three Acts, and the inter se dynamics of thethree types of professions and the way the legal structures have been worked out could be thought about that…

……in addition to this, any infringement or any gap in the duties that the Chartered Accountants or professionals actually perform, make them liable for consequences under their Act also. So, unless and until their Act specifically permits such sort of a certification, it would be difficult to actually extend it through an Income-Tax Act.

2.5.1.6 Ministry of Finance further elaborated their stance on the parity issues of Cost Accounts vs Chartered Accounts and submitted the following written reply to the Committee

" The functions of a cost account are regulated and governed by the Cost and Works Accountants Act 1959. The Act clearly lays down that a member of the Institute shall be in practice if he :-
"(i) engages himself in the practice of [cost accountancy]; or
(ii) offers to perform or performs services involving the costing or pricing of goods or services or the preparation, verification or [certification or auditing of cost accounting and related statements or holds himself out to the public as a cost accountant in practice]; or
(iii) renders professional services or assistance in or about matters of principle or detail relating to cost accounting procedure or the recording, presentation or certification of costing facts or data; or
(iv) renders such other services as, in the opinion of the Council, are or may be rendered by a cost accountant in practice,"
By comparison a chartered accountant under the Chartered Accountant Act 1949 lays down that member shall be in practice if :-
"(i) engages himself in the practice of accountancy; or
(ii) offers to perform or performs services involving the auditing or verification of financial transactions, books, accounts, or records or the preparation, verification or certification of financial accounting and related statements or holds himself out to the public as an accountant; or
(iii) renders professional services or assistance in or about matters of principle or detail relating to accounting procedure or the recording, presentation or certification of financial facts or data; or
(iv) renders such other services as, in the opinion of the Council, are or may be rendered by a chartered accountant [in practice];"
It is therefore clear that the parent legislations of cost accountants and chartered accountants are different and lay down specific functions. The functions mandated in the Income-tax Act related to audit and accounting, do not find a place in the domain of work specified for cost accountants in their Act. Whereas audit of books and financial transactions is specifically included in Chartered accountant's Act.
Therefore the basic issue that a cost accountant can be or should be considered equivalent for the purposes of tax audit does not hold merit. It is principally limited by the respective Acts and till such demarcations exist the audit related function under the Income-tax Act have to be handled by Chartered Accountants only.

2.5.2 Sub-Clause 2(5) "Agricultural Income"

Ministry of Finance during the deliberations on the subclause submitted as under:

"एग्रीकल्चर के बारे में रेज की थी, हमारा इसे लाने का कोई विचार नहीं है, इसे मैं स्पष्ट कर देता हूं..

The point is that here income-tax is also a well settled law. The present one as well as what we intend to provides the provisions for increasing the base. It is a question of where you set the income level. The question is that we have a lot of exemptions, for example on agriculture income only the States can levy tax as per the Constitution."

2.5.2.2 Representatives of the Ministry in the context of agricultural land, stated the current position on non-taxability if it's outside specified urban limits submitted as under:

"सर, जब भी अपने यहां भूमि बेचेंगे और उसमें अगर वह कृषि भूमि है और शहरी सीमा से, जो 8 किलोमीटर या अन्य दूरी दी हुई है, उसके हिसाब से अगर वह उससे दूर है, तब कोई टैक्स नहीं लगता है।"...

...सर, हमारा यही कहना है कि हमें 23 जुलाई की तारीख को अलग से रेफर करने की जरूरत नहीं है। लेकिन, हम लोग एक बार फिर भी इसको एग्जामिन कर लेंगे।"

2.5.2.3 Ministry on the stakeholder's suggestion seeking to amend the definition of "agricultural income" so as to remove the phrase 'nursery' for production of sapling/ seedling submitted that the suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Explanation 3 to sec 2(1A) was brought vide FA 2008 to address the issue of taxability of income from production of sapling/ seedling in nursery. This explanationwas brought to provide that even soil less production of planting materials in nursery will be considered as agricultural income. The amendment was specifically brought for produce from nursery. The acceptance of suggestion will even include business income in the agricultural income and will be open to tax avoidance.

2.5.2.4 Representatives of the Ministry during an oral evidence further elaborated on the Clause and submitted before the Committee as under:

"Third is regarding definition of agriculture income. Earlier there was a demand that agriculture income from nursery should also be granted exemption..And that was done. Now, the demand is very wide Sampling and business from nursery etc. as well as trading of sampling also to be brought within agricultural income."

2.5.3 Sub-Clause 2(6) “Amalgamation”

Minstry in response to stakeholder’s submission regarding drafting error submitted that “ It is an inadvertent drafting error. Instead of the words "amalgamating company, and the Companies", the words "amalgamating company or companies" as provided in the IT Act should be used. Suggestion made by stakeholders is acceptable.

2.5.3.2 The stakeholder has suggested that the date of Amalgamation and Demerger needs to be defined in clause 2(2) of the Bill. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. In every scheme of amalgamation or demerger there is a court specified date on which the amalgamation or demerger is considered to have effected. The concept is well settled and there is no ambiguity. The suggestion will make the Bill verbose to that extent. So, there is no need to separately specify the date of amalgamation or demerger. The suggestion is not feasible.

Regarding the suggestion from a stakeholder to explicitly define the 'Date of Amalgamation and Demerger' in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, to provide clarity and avoid litigation, the Committee held a detailed deliberation. The Committee pointed out that the lack of a clear definition causes "a lot of confusion and tax complication" and that adding a few words for clarity should not be avoided simply to reduce the Bill's word count. A key issue was raised that not all demergers are court-supervised, especially with the existence of fast-track mechanisms under the Companies Act, 2013, which would not have a "court-specified date".Representatives of the Ministry in this regard submitted before the Committee as under:

> “Sir, 34 is saying that the date of amalgamation or demerger should be identified in the Act. Normally, these are decided by the court which date it will be made effective. So, we go by that date only.
> ..Suppose when the court decides for the amalgamation, in their order, they say that this is the date from which it will be effective. So, that date is sacrosanct for us also. Whatever is there in the order of the court, that is the date that we adopt for the purposes of Income-Tax Act.
> …..In a way, what we are saying that suppose we start defining date in the Act, then we have to say, “Date as specified in the order of the court.” So, that is the date that we are adopting. Whatever date the court decides that from this date, this amalgamation will be effective. So, that date is sacrosanct. It goes as per the court order. That is what we are saying.
> ….For us, for the Income-Tax Act purposes, we are recognizing amalgamation under the Income-Tax Act and we are giving
> ….I was just going through the definition. It does not, as of now, have any reference of date, etc. We will examine this because what he is saying is if you do not have it here, then the application of clause 116 and 117 will become a problem. We will have a look carefully because the point which hon. Member raised that if it is not court defined because if you put it as a date here as defined by court, then it will impact those who are not getting defined in the court. So, we will have to look at it in totality. We will examine it. We will just see that. We will examine it….

…Sir, one case is demerger. The new Act, the Company Act has provided fast-track demerger, which was point No.1 of this also.
In those cases, we have not provided any tax neutrality. So, we have not examined that thing. That is not required for us.
….As I told, many suggestions were there to identify this type of demerger also in the Income-Tax Act.
…Just to bring some more clarity, there is already one Supreme Court decision on this issue where the court has held that where a date of amalgamation is specified in scheme of amalgamation and the scheme of amalgamation is duly approved by company court without specifying any other date, date specified in the scheme should be taken as transfer date.
Our Act also talks of amalgamation as per scheme. That scheme has to be approved by court. So, already it is clarified. But we will further examine it."

2.5.3.3 Ministry w.r.t issue of 'Date of Amalgamation and Demerger' further elaborated their stance vide a written reply submitted as under:

"Section 232 of the Companies Act, 2013 provides for amalgamation or merger of companies. Sub-section (6) of section 232 provides for following
"(6) The scheme under this section shall clearly indicate an appointed date from which it shall be effective and the scheme shall be deemed to be effective from such date and not at a date subsequent to the appointed date."
2. As per sec 232(6), every scheme of merger or demerger has to have an "appointed date" from which the scheme shall be effective and the scheme shall be deemed to be effective from such date. In Marshall Sons & Co. India Ltd. v. ITO 1223 ITR 8091, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that every scheme of amalgamation has to necessarily provide a date with effect from which the amalgamation/transfer shall take place, and that such date may precede the date of sanctioning of the scheme by the Court, the date of filing of certified copies of the orders of the Court before the Registrar of Companies, and the date of allotment of shares, etc. It was observed therein that, the scheme, however, would be given effect from the transfer date (appointed date) itself.
3. Section 232(6) of the Act states that the scheme shall be deemed to be effective from the 'appointed date' and not a date subsequent to the 'appointed date'. This is an enabling provision to allow the companies to decide and agree upon an 'appointed date' from which the scheme shall come into force.
4. Clarifications was issued by MCA vide its General Circular No. 09/2019 on 21st August 2019 under Section 232(6) of the Companies Act, 2013. Summary of the clarification is:

- The ‘appointed date’ can be a specific calendar date or be tied to the occurrence of an event e.g.: grant or transfer of licenses, the fulfilment of conditions precedent, etc. (prospective date).

- If the ‘appointed date’ is a calendar date, it may precede the date of applying for the Scheme before the NCLT.

- If the ‘appointed date’ is predated by a year or more from the date of applying with NCLT, justification should be provided for the same in the Scheme and it should not be against the public interest.

If ‘appointed date’ is based on the occurrence of an event, the said event should be specifically identified in the Scheme upon the occurrence of which the scheme would become effective. If the event-based date is a date after the date of filing the order with the concerned RoC under Section 232(5) of the Companies Act, the concerned

- company shall file an intimation of the same with the RoC within 30 days of such Scheme coming into force.

Fast-Track Business Reorganisation:

The Companies Act, 2013, introduced a "fast-track" process for business reorganisation for specific categories of companies.

The filing and approval procedure is as follows –

- The transferee company must file the scheme of merger or amalgamation with the Central Government, along with copies to the Registrar and the Official Liquidator.
- If the Registrar or the Official Liquidator does not object, the Central Government (Regional Director (RD)) may issue confirmation and register the scheme.
- If objections are received, the Central Government may, within 60 days, refer the scheme to the Tribunal under Section 232 for further consideration.
- The Tribunal may either direct the scheme to be considered under the regular merger provisions of Section 232 or confirm the scheme under the fast-track process, as deemed appropriate.
- Regardless of whether the merger is approved by the court or the RD, every scheme of amalgamation must have an "appointed date" or "effective date". This date is the point from which the amalgamation is deemed to have taken place, even if the formal approval happens later. In fast-track mergers, there is no requirement for a specific court date for the approval of the scheme as the RD's approval is sufficient.”

2.5.4 Sub-Clause 2(7) “Annual Value”

The Committee discussed the determination of "Annual Value" (Clause 2(7)) and its relation to Clause 21, specifically regarding whether it should strictly be based on actual rent or rent fetching capacity determined by municipal corporations. Stakeholders suggested focusing on actual rent or municipal valuation to reduce ambiguity and litigation. The Ministry clarified that the current law already considers rent fetching capacity. Concerns were raised by members about the discretion of Assessing Officers in determining deemed rent and the variability of rents even within the same area, making municipal valuations potentially insufficient. The Ministry acknowledged some litigation in this area but stated that relying solely on municipal valuations might lead to misuse and is a policy change.

Ministry submitted the following w.r.t. submissions on this sub-clause

> "They are asking for blanket depreciation on small assets irrespective of whether they are capital or revenue in nature. The concept is we have a Block of Assets Concept. All assets belonging to a particular class go into that Block of Assets. Till such time they remain in Block of Assets, depreciation as is applicable for that block that is available for all assets which are in that class. We cannot provide a blanket depreciation to small assets because that would run counter to the scheme of depreciation on Block of Assets that we are providing.

2.5.6 Sub-Clause 2(19) "Books or Books of Account":

During the meeting with Regional IT Commissioners, the representatives informed the Committee that the existing definition of "books of accounts" in Section 2(12A) already covers information stored in electronic or digital mediums:

> "The first part is explicit is required for certainty and when once an explicit word is provided in any section, it reduces litigation because the assessees on the other side will continue to argue that this is not explicitly provided here, therefore, it is not included. So, that is why, it has been explicitly provided. You were saying earlier that this is a new provision. I was just trying to submit on that answer that on the books of accounts part, books of accounts already digital books of accounts were available. So, this is not an entirely new thing…
> …..It is given in 2(12)A. It includes ledgers, daybooks, cashbooks, account books, or other books, whether kept in written form or in electronic form, or in digital form, or as printouts of data stored in electronic form, or digital form, in a floppy disk, tape, or any other form of EM storage. So, it was already there. Nowadays, most of the accounting is happening on clouds. Most of books of accounts are being stored on clouds. People, searches are being made. DG (Investigation) is here. He can easily support this position that most of the assessors are keeping their books on clouds just to remove that litigated par. As you are saying that maybe cloud is not included. We will say it is included; assessee will say it is not included. Just to remove that uncertainty, it has been provided."

2.5.6.2 Ministry in their submissions over the stakeholder's suggestion on this particular submitted that the IT Bill, 2025 has been drafted keeping in view the mandate of simplification of provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961. This approach is also reflected in the Statement of objects and reasons presented by the Hon'ble Finance Minister while introducing the IT Bill, 2025 in the Lok Sabha on the 13th of February, 2025. Accordingly, the existing provisions of the IT Act, 1961 have been simplified and presented with a view to –

(i) making the Act concise, lucid, easy to read and understand;

(ii) making the language clear and direct in text so that it is simple to understand for the taxpayer and the tax administration, leading to tax certainty and reduced litigation;

(iii) consolidating the provisions lying in different parts of the IT Act, 1961;

(iv) using tabular structures and formulae wherever feasible;

(v) aligning with the existing provisions as well as existinginterpretations and implementation practices so as to bring clarity on issues. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

2.5.6.3 Ministry have further informed the Committee that the stakeholder seeks to broaden the definition of "books of accounts". The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. Necessary books to be maintained has already been mentioned and relevant documents pertaining to cost records.

2.5.6.4 Ministry during the oral evidence further corroboated on the issue at hand as under:

" the third point is related to the definition of books of accounts. The suggestion is that the definition should be aligned with the Companies Act, 2013. We are saying that the objectives of the Companies Act are different. We have given the definition of books of accounts according to our requirement. It is an inclusive definition. Any item which is not specifically mentioned also, can also be categorised as books of accounts based on the facts of the case. So, our definition is more relevant for income tax purposes. No useful purpose would be served to align it with the Companies Act.

..सर कंपनीज़ एक्ट कॉरपोरेट्स के लिए है, जो बुक्स और अकाउंट्स इनकम टैक्स में है, that will be for individuals….

….The suggestion is, 'the records maintained by all persons in respect of all sums of money received and expended'. It is so wide a definition. एक कॉमन बिजनेस मैन के लिए बुक्स और अकाउंट्स की डेफिनिशन ही बहुत ब्रॉड कर दी है। So, it would be impractical. I think it will be detrimental to the taxpayers. It is defined. Day book, cash book, and ledger are well-accepted and understood. But where we have said that 'all sums of money received and expended', it is a very wide definition. 'All sales and purchases of goods and services' again is a very wide definition. कॉरपोरेट के लिए ठीक है। कॉरपोरेट के लिए तो कर ही रहे हैं।"

2.5.7 Sub-Clause 2(21) "Business Trust"

The Ministry in their written remarks on the suggestion of the stakeholders submitted that the stakeholder seeks to extend the pass through status to IFSC based Business Trusts. The suggestion is the nature of policy change, which is beyond the scope of I T Bill, 2025.There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961. Under Clause 147 (which corresponds to section 80LA of the Income-tax Act, 1961) the income from the approved business activities of any unit of an IFSC is exempted for the specified period. Therefore, when the income is not being charged to tax, the question of providing pass through does not arise. Therefore, the proposed amendment is not feasible.

2.5.7.2 Representatives of the Ministry during an oral evidence further elaborated on the Clause and submitted before the Committee as under

"Sir, in most places we have already added whatever is regulated by SEBI, and if it is regulated by IFSCA that has been included in most places in the Act). One part of the suggestion is to include business trusts which are regulated by IFSCA also to be aligned with the SEBI trust. That is one part of the request . The second part of the request is to allow Units which are traded in currency other than rupee.That is also an expansion of the whole definition. So, we need to go back and see what impact it has on the revenue. It is because IFSC funds are entitled to a 10-year exemption and if we broaden this aspect, then we will end up losing revenue on that account . We have to examine it and we cannot right away give an answer to that "

2.5.8 Sub-Clause 2(22) "Capital Asset"

The Ministry in their written remarks on the suggestion of the stakeholders in 2 submitted as under:

> "ACCEPTED: This is a drafting Correction. The amendments brought in by the Finance Act, 2025 may be incorporated in Section 2(14)/Clause 2(22)(b) accordingly. This is acceptable."

2.5.9 Sub-Clause 2(23) "charitable purpose"

Ministry of finance regarding this particular submitted as under:

> "The definition of charitable purpose has not been disturbed. Whatever was earlier exempt, continues to be exempted in the new Bill also."

2.5.9.2 Department emphasized that the definition in the Bill is the same as in Section 2(15) of the 1961 Act and the stakeholder demand is to explicitly include "skill development".

> "may I compare both the Acts. In 1961 Act, the definition is given under Section 2(15), which says, 'charitable purpose includes relief of the poor, education, yoga, medical relief, preservation of environment including watershed, forest and wildlife and preservation of monuments or places of objects of artistic or historic interests and the advancement of any other object of general public utility.' So, same definition has been brought here. What the demand of the stakeholder is that skill development should also be explicitly included in this."

2.5.9.3 Department further explained that the structural change in the definition of "charitable purpose" is in Clause 2, while procedural aspects for non-profit organizations (including registration, compliances, violations, commercial activities) are consolidated in Chapter 17 (Clauses 332 to 355). Department further linked the definition in Clause 2(23) to the eligibility for registration under Clause 332(2)(a); as below

> " सर, जहां वर्ड रजिस्ट्रेशन लिखा है, आप उसके एकदम ऊपर पढ़िए। special provisions for registered non-profit organisation. यह एक पूरा चैप्टर है, जिसमें registration is the first sub-section. अगर आप उसके आगे जाएंगे तो रजिस्ट्रेशन के बाद कंप्लायंसेज, वायलेशंस हैं। हमने स्ट्रक्चरल चेंजेज यह किया है कि डेफिनेशन को डेफिनेशन क्लॉज में डालकर नॉन प्रॉफिट आर्गेनाइजेशन्स के बाकी सारे जो प्रोसीजरल हैं, उनको एक चैप्टर में ले आए हैं, starting from registration to other aspects.... सर, आप इसको क्लॉज 332 के सब-सेक्शन-2 से लिंक कीजिए।"

2.5.9.4 The discussion continued regarding whether business income feeding into charity is permissible and the Department cited a 2022 Supreme Court judgment (Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority) stating that :

"Sir, I can explain. If you have surplus from business and it will feed the charity, and be allowed to claim exemption is no longer a good law. The hon. Supreme Court in its 2022 judgement in Ahmedabad Urban Development Authority has overturned the judgement of Thanthi Trust and Surat Art Silk which was there for a long time.... Now, the law is, as per Supreme Court, that feeding business income into charity will not grant you exemption. We have made no change in the policy vis-à-vis 1961 Act in the present Bill in so long as business and commercial element of charitable institutions is concerned."

2.5.9.5 There were further discussions on including "skill development" explicitly in the definition, Department in this regard submitted before the Committee as given below:

"They will be included in general public utility. Now, the general public utility has an additional rider that you cannot do commercial activity beyond 20 per cent of the total receipts whereas if you are a per se charity, which is the demand of the stakeholder, then incidental business is permissible…
...महोदय, वर्ष 2022 का सुप्रीम कोर्ट का डिसिजन है। उन्होंने कहा है कि चैरिटेबल पर्पज में जो एजुकेशन लिखा हुआ है, education means only scholastic education, which leads to a degree. इसलिए अगर स्किल डेवलेपमेंट लाना है, तो उसको सेप्रेट लाइन आइटम लाना होगा, वह एजुकेशन में नहीं आएगा।"

2.5.9.6 Committee noted stakeholder concerns over the omission of skill development institutions as a specifically recognised category. The Committee sought to know whether any assessment was conducted on the implications of this exclusion, particularly given the growing importance of skill development in workforce readiness; the reasons for not accepting the suggestion to list it separately to enhance clarity in tax treatment; and whether categorising such institutions under a general residual clause risks inconsistent interpretation and litigation, thereby undermining the stated objective of simplification and legal certainty. The Ministry in response submitted the following written information:

"i) Skill development Institutions are not excluded from the definition of charitable purpose.They are presently covered as 'general public utility'.
(ii) According to court decisions, only formal education is included in charitable activity e.g. CBSE/ AICTE approved courses.
(iii)Unorganised skill development can't therefore be equated with 'education' specifically mentioned in the definition.
(iv) Where skill development is under an organised structure set-up under a Government approved scheme, the same can be examined further for parity by including some safeguards through prescription."

2.5.10 Sub-Clause 2(28) "Company"

Ministry accepted the lacuna in a written reply and submitted to the Committee that

"Accepted: The suggestion seeks replacement of assessment year with 'subsequent tax year' in cl. 2(28)(c).
Even though the reference to assessment year is rightly made in cl. 2(28)(c), the reference itself may not be required. Appropriate drafting correction shall be carried out."

2.5.11 Sub-Clause 2(29) "Company in which the Public are substantially Interested"

Regarding the suggestion to substitute the phrase "a company which is not a private company as defined in the Companies Act, 2013" with "a company which is a public company as defined in the Companies Act 2013" Ministry in their written replies have submitted to the Committee that the suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

2.5.11.2 The current wording of Clause 2(29)(f) seems to inadvertently imply that both conditions (stock exchange listing and 50% public/government holding) must be met, whereas the extant law (as under IT Act 1961) is to allow either condition. Inserting "either in item (i) or in item (ii)" will restore the original scope. This is in the nature of drafting correction. The suggestion is acceptable.

2.5.11.3 Representatives of the Ministry corroborated on the same mistake in the wording of Bill Clause 2(29)(f) regarding conditions (stock exchange listing and 50% public/government holding) and deposed before the Committee as under:

" This has two parts. In first part, there is one inadvertent mistake. The current wording of Section 29(f) implies that both conditions - stock exchange listing and 50 per cent public government holding must be met. It was not in the earlier act, sir. It has become inadvertent. We will be correcting the definition of public company."

2.5.11.4 Department further explained as to why the Income Tax definition of a public company slightly differs from the Companies Act, as under:

"In our Income-Tax Act, there are some sections which deal differently with private companies like our deemed dividend. If we bring the same definition here, then those companies which are in nature of private companies will go outside the ambit of deemed dividend. That is why, in earlier Act also and in the current Act also, our definition is slightly different from the Companies Act."

2.5.11.5 The Committee noted that while Clause 2(29)(f) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 seeks to simplify the definition of "a company in which the public are substantially interested," the Ministry did not accept a stakeholder suggestion to replace the phrase

“a company which is not a private company” with “a public company” as defined in the Companies Act, 2013. The Committee sought to know the specific reasons for this rejection, given the Ministry’s aim of reducing litigation and promoting clarity, and how the continued use of broader language aligns with these objectives. The Ministry submitted the following written replies in response to the queries of the Committee:

> (i) Public company and private companies, both are defined under the Companies Act.Therefore, there is no ambiguity on this account.
> (ii) The definition of public companies in the Companies Act also includes deemed publiccompanies. These may be in the nature of private companies. Section 2(71) of theCompanies Act, 2013 which defines a “public company” also includes the following proviso:
> > a. “Provided that a company which is a subsidiary of a company, not being a private company, shall be deemed to be public company for the purposes of this Act even where such subsidiary company continues to be a private company in its articles.”
> (iii)Thus, replacing the phrase would unintentionally extend the benefit to private companies that are only deemed public merely due to their parentage, despite lacking public shareholding or actual public interest.
> (iv) The definition in section 2(71) of the Companies Act serves a corporate law purpose, governing company structure, disclosures and compliance obligations, whereas section 2(29) of the Income-tax Bill is intended to identify companies with substantial public interest and accountability, justifying differentiated tax treatment. Two instances of such preferential tax treatment are: > > a. such companies are excluded from the scope of deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e) of the Act, as the risk of diversion of retained earnings for the personal benefit of significant shareholders is minimal.
> > b. they are not subject to the stricter conditions under section 68 for share capital and related credits and are not required to establish the source of funds in the hands of the investor, unlike closely held companies.
> (v) The issue will have significant tax implications.

2.5.11.6 Representatives of the Ministry further elaborated, on the issue and responded to the Committee’s suggestion regarding greater alignment of the Bill’s definitions of companies with those under the Companies Act by incorporating (only where necessary) additional words to ring-fence and to clearly define the scope, without effecting broader policy changes, as under:

> “..align the definition of company in which the public are substantially interested with the definition given in the Companies Act. We have stated our position in this respect and we have said that public companies and private companies. Both are defined under the Companies Act and in the Companies Act, the definition of the public company is: that the company which is a subsidiary of a company not being a private company shall be deemed to be a public company for the purposes of this Act. So, in the Companies Act, Public Company also includes a private company. So, if we align the definition in the Companies Act then those private companies will also get included in the companies in which public are substantially interested. That will have significant revenue impact. For example, there is a condition of deemed dividend. Deemed dividend does not apply on companies in which public are substantially interested. So, if we align the definition in the Companies Act, then even, the private companies would be outside the ambit of deemed dividend. So, deemed dividend provisions will not apply on the private companies also. That is why, we have said that it may not be feasible proposition to align it with the Companies Act. Sir, our differences are for the purposes of provisions of our Act. So, it has been aligned to that. This is our submission.

This has two basic segments. One, as you rightly said, it also includes private companies which are listed. Listed private companies form companies in which public are substantially interested. One segment is that segment. The second segment is public companies as we import it from the Companies Act. But such imported from the Companies Act, we say that any company which is not a private company. So that segment we have taken in the second bucket of the definition.

First is the listed company portion. The second portion is companies which are not private companies. So those companies which are public companies as per the Companies Act but not private companies fall into the second bucket. So, we have a full definition of companies in which public are substantially interested. It is a widely held company. Widely people are participating in that company. That is the interest of that…

Sir, we will review this aspect as to how best we can define taking most of what is there in Companies Act and providing carve-outs where we need to protect any specific benefit.

Sir, we will review this aspect as to how best we can define taking most of what is there in Companies Act and providing carve-outs where we need to protect any specific benefit."

2.5.11.7 Regarding the suggestion of the stakeholder to include Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) held by listed Business Trust (BT) as "companies in which public are substantially interested". Ministry have submitted that the suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. BT is in form of a trust. Assets being held by BT are in SPV. The provision are applicable to companies and therefore do not apply to BT being a trust. Therefore, it can't be made applicable to a downstream entity. There are many other provisions of the Act such as deemed dividend, unexplained cash credits and carry forward and set off of losses which are not applicable to a company in which public are substantially interested. All these provisions are anti abuse provisions.

2.5.11.8 Representatives of the Ministry further elaborated on the issue and submitted that:

"Sir, actually, business trusts generally have a pass-through taxation that whatever the nature of income which appears in the hands of the business trust passes through the unit holder and gets taxed there. There is one window which was provided that income which passes through when the SPV is an old regime SPV -- the SPV, the company is in the 30 per cent tax regime -- then whatever income passes down to the unit holder does not get taxed in the nature of dividend. If dividend is being received from an SPV which is an old regime SPV through the business trust to the unit holder does not get taxed there in the unit holders hands. They are wanting to expand this to new regime SPVs also and that is basically again in the nature of a basic policy decision whether we want to expand this exemption of income or not . Once it is at lower rate of tax, that is 22 per cent or 15 per cent in the higher level, then we sought to tax. We did not give that exemption.
Yes, Sir The second part is to treat the SPV, which is the basic asset of the business trust). If the business trust is listed, to treat the SPV as a wildely held company.Giving a private company the status of a company in which public are substantially interested is a different and difficult proposition…
…Just because the business trust is listed does not become a privately wildely held company."

2.5.12 Sub-Clause 2 (35) "Demerger"

Representatives of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs deposed before the Committee about the fast-track demerger, as under:

> "it is basically a statement of the situation or comparison between the provisions of the Income-Tax Act and the Companies Act. Though there is a varying enunciation, but this has been the case before also. I will just focus essentially first on the suggestions with respect to the Companies Act. So, the first point, is regarding the Clause 2,where we have the definition clause, where in the context of de-mergers, a reference has been made to the compliance with the Indian Accounting Standards, which have been specified in our rules. But only one of these standards have been referred to. So, in terms of just apprising the Committee, the previous provision we had referred to Section 129 of the Companies Act, which has the provisions for laying down the accounting and standards for two different sets of companies – the bigger companies and the smaller companies. So, our suggestion is that it may be that the formulation may be resorted to or, alternatively, we refer to both the accounting standards rule, i.e., for the bigger companies and for the smaller companies. So, for the bigger companies, the Accounting Standard Rules 2015 apply. And for the smaller companies, the Accounting Standards Rules 2021 apply……
> Sir, in the definitional clause rule of 35(c), where they have referred to the Indian Accounting Standards, the fourth column, they have mentioned that 'before the de-merger except in compliance to the Indian Accounting Standards specified in the rule 2015'. So, this rule only covers, the bigger class of companies, not the smaller class of companies. It is for both the standards or we refer to the provision of the Act under which the rules are formulated. So, that was the case beforehand…..
> …. we are basically sayingthat the definition which has been used in the Income-Tax Act of 1961, 2025 and the Companies Act are different, but this was a situation beforehand also. So, it does not have a major impact on the interpretation of any of these Sections of the relevant Act. So, the first is in terms of a company in which public is substantially interested. In the Income-Tax Bills, it mostly refers to Government companies and those kind of companies, whereas in the Companies Act, we refer to public companies, private companies, listed companies. As per the NFRA, NFRA also has prescribed certain classes of companies. We use the word public interest entities, but they refer to listed companies both in India and abroad or unlisted companies with paid-up capital more than Rs. 500 crore or turnover more than Rs. 1,000 crore or outstanding loans more than Rs. 500 crore. These can be insurance companies, banking companies, electricity companies, companies governed by any special Act or incorporated by an Act. So, we use different definitions, but I do not think there is a problem in the different definitions being continued. The Income-Tax Bill talks about demerger in relation to companies and Companies Act has been referred. However, we have not defined the term demerger in the Companies Act, although the scheme which is referred to in the particular sections of the Companies Act includes proposal for demerger of companies as a part of the arrangement. The word which we have used is schemes of compromise or arrangement involving division of whole or part of undertaking of a company. So, it means the same, but the word demerger specifically has not been used."

2.5.12.2 Representatives of the Ministry of Finance submitted that the fast-track demerger mechanism under Section 233 of the Companies Act is not made tax-neutral and deposed before the Committee as under:

" सर, अभी हमने जो डिमर्जर का डेफिनेशन बताया है, in Companies Act, 2013, they introduced a fast-track mechanism. We have not made it tax neutral because that is not supervised by any court or tribunal. This is done by the assessee themselves. Whatever is under the supervision of NCLT, that we have made tax neutral as it was in the earlier Act. So, there is no change in the policy."

2.5.12.3 While examining the Clause 2(35) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025—which defines "demerger" with reference to Sections 230–232 of the Companies Act, 2013—the Committee observed that it omits Section 233, which provides a fast-track route for mergers and demergers involving small or group companies. The Committee therefore sought clarification on the rationale for excluding Section 233, given its role in facilitating simplified corporate restructuring; whether this omission could lead to ambiguity regarding the tax-neutrality of such arrangements; and why the stakeholder suggestion to include Section 233 was considered a policy change rather than a clarification in line with current corporate practices. In response the Ministry gave the following written information :

"(i) There is no omission per se. The provisions are in line with the present IT Act, 1961.
(ii) Fast track mergers are non-court monitored and therefore the valuations thereof can result in tax implications or avoidance.
(iii)Hence tax neutrality was never provided to such demergers.
(iv) Section 233 of the Companies Act is therefore not included in the definition of demerger."

2.5.12.4 Ministry in written reply clarifying the suggestions of the various Stakeholders in a written reply to the Committee submitted that:

> "The stakeholder seeks to include demerger as per Sec 233 of the Companies Act, 2013 in the definition of "demerger". The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act.
> The IT Bill, 2025 has been drafted keeping in view the mandate of simplification of provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961. This approach is also reflected in the Statement of objects and reasons presented by the Hon'ble Finance Minister while introducing the IT Bill, 2025 in the Lok Sabha on the 13th of February, 2025. Accordingly, the existing provisions of the IT Act, 1961 have been simplified and presented with a view to –
> (i) making the Act concise, lucid, easy to read and understand;
> (ii) making the language clear and direct in text so that it is simple to understand for the taxpayer and the tax administration, leading to tax certainty and reduced litigation;
> (iii) consolidating the provisions lying in different parts of the IT Act, 1961;
> (iv) using tabular structures and formulae wherever feasible;
> (v) aligning with the existing provisions as well as existing interpretations and implementation practices so as to bring clarity on issues.
> The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025".

2.5.12.5 Regarding the suggestion to reference accounting standards prescribed under Section 129 of the Companies Act, 2013, which will ensure that both types of standards, i.e. for "Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015," or "Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2021" , Ministry during the oral evidence submitted as under:

> "the definition of demerger refers to the Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015. So, the suggestion is that 2021 Rules have come. So, an updated definition should be there. We are saying that 'yes' we will examine it and then, accordingly, provide it."

2.5.12.6 Ministry in a written reply further submitted in this issue as under:

> "Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015 are applicable to companies which are listed or are about to be listed and the companies having net worth of more than 500 crores. Companies (Accounting Standards) Rules, 2021 are applicable to smaller companies which are not covered under 2015 rules. The existing definition of demerger in cl 2(35)(c) of the Bill only refer to 2015 rules and not to 2021 rules. A comprehensive study of 2021 rules is required to be done before extending definition of demerger to the companies covered under 2021 rules. The suggestion has been noted for examination”

2.5.13 Sub-Clause (40) "dividend"

During the Committee's discussions, the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) highlighted a divergence between the Income-Tax Bill and the Companies Act concerning the term "dividend." It was pointed out that the Income-Tax Bill employs the concept of a "deemed dividend," even when using the word "dividend." In contrast, the Companies Act does not recognize "deemed dividends" and adheres to a specific, much narrower definition. The MCA clarified that this difference is not a new development but rather a continuation of an existing approach maintained primarily for taxation purposes.

2.5.13.2 Ministry of Finance in their written remarks on the stakeholder’s suggestion submitted in a written reply that

> “The stakeholder seeks to provide for a safe harbour rule in terms of which bonafide loans compliant with Companies Act 2013 and repaid in ordinary course are not treated as deemed dividends under clause 2(40)(e) of the Bill.The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. It is an anti abuseprovision to tackle situations where to avoid payment of tax on dividend by recipient, the profits are transferred by way of loan, advances etc. The suggestion is not feasible.”

2.5.13.3 During the evidence Ministry further elaborated on the specific point as given below:

> “Presently we have this provision of deemed dividend where a private company which is not a widely held company, closely held company, if it gives loan or advances to certain persons, then that loan or advance to the extent of accumulated profit becomes dividend income in the hands of the recipient. So, this is anti-abuse provision basically, so that the funds of the companies are not utilized without paying due taxes by the individuals or concerns in which they are interested. So, now they are saying that you provide safe harbour on this. Suppose if the loan is given at a certain interest rate, then it will not become deemed dividend etc. So, that is a big policy call, and the provision has been like this for so many years now”.

2.5.13.4 On the suggestion to remove 2(40)(f) Ministry in their written reply submitted to the Committee that the stakeholder seeks to reverse the buy back provisions by deleting clause 2(40)(f) of the Bill (2(22)(f) of the Act). The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act.Vide Finance Act 2020, incidence of tax on dividend has been shifted into the hands of investors and not the company. In similar manner, incidence of tax on buy back of shares has been shifted into the hands of investors vide Finance Act 2024 so that the dividends disguised as buy back are not taxed at concessional rate in the hands of promoters. Further, it is not mandatory for the company to buy back shares as it may distribute the profits by way of dividend also. Thus the provisions of sec 2(40)(f) may not be omitted.

2.5.14 Sub-Clause 2 (48) "Hearing"

Ministry on the representation regarding this particular subclause submitted that :

> "definition of hearing. We have provided hearing includes communication of data and documents through electronic mode. So, it is an inclusive definition. The demand is to explicitly include oral communication also in this…
> ….They are saying oral communication. That is part of hearing.
> Sir, basically, if we specify oral here also, that means for every case. In a faceless regime, we have to give that. Now, there is only the option of the assessee. When you put it oral, हंड्रेड परसेंट केसेस में ओरल वाली बात आएगी। And these are the implications.
> …Hearing includes communication of data and documents through electronic mode. So, virtual is included in that.
> In this faceless regime, the way it works is that the notice is given electronically and a document is also sent electronically. By default, there is no interaction, even virtual interaction or oral submission which is made by assessee. Therefore, if it is a communication of data or document through email or whatever is the channel of communication, that suffices for the purpose of hearing…
> Now, if we put this oral also, that means that for all the cases, there could be a requirement that you have to provide an oral hearing.
> Since it is an inclusive definition, therefore, if the taxpayer so wants that you give me an opportunity for an oral hearing and virtual hearing, through this, since it is an inclusive, therefore, that is afforded."

2.5.15 Sub-Clause 2 (49) "Income"

Ministry in a written reply on the stakeholders suggestion on the clause clarified that The stakeholder seeks to change the definition of "income" so that referencing in definition of 'income' is directly made to the relevant head of income rather than specifying individual items. The term "income" can not be used in the definition of "income" itself to define income. The existing provision provides various nature of sum/amount under various sections of the Act which will fall under the inclusive definition of "income". The scheme of the Bill/ Act is that certain items are first included in income so that there is no dispute regarding their taxability. These items are assigned to different heads. However, since the detail is in the relevant head, therefore the reference in the definition of income appears to make reference to the corresponding head. The matter is well settled. The suggestion will upend the concept of income and is therefore not feasible.

2.5.15.2 During the evidence Ministry further elaborated on the specific point as given below:

> "The stakeholder is asking that the definition of income be changed so that the referencing in definition of income is directly made to the relevant head of income. That means, what we have done, in income we have listed certain items. Number of items are listed that these are the things which will be included in income. And then, those items find reference in relevant head of income. For example, in income from other sources there are certain items which we say that these will get taxed as income from other sources. So, those items are listed in definition of income also in the definition section.
> The stakeholder is saying that why do you refer to individual items in the definition of income? Why do not you mention the head itself that whatever is included in income from other sources that also will be included in it. But the stakeholder has not understood the scheme of the Act. What we are saying is that these are the items of income and then they flow to the relevant head. It isnot the other way around that they are mentioned in the relevant head and then we say that this head is included as income.
> The income is divided into five heads. Heads are included in income, but for certain receipts we have said that these are deemed to be nature of income. These are included in income. Then, we have categorized those items in separate heads. So, that way, that is the concept in which the Act is designed."

2.5.15.3 The Ministry on the suggestion pertaining to the reference to Income tax 1961 in written reply submitted to the Committee submitted that

> "Accepted. It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 2(49)(x) may be omitted as all the sum/amounts covered under the definition of income in the IT Act has been covered in the IT Bill."

2.5.16 Sub-Clause 2 (50) " Income Computation and Disclosure Standards"

Ministry in their written submitted to the Committee that the stakeholder seeks to remove Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (ICDS). The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act

The Act (or the Bill) provides different computation mechanism in accordance with the peculiar nature of transactions in ICDS. ICDS plug the flexibility in the ICAI standards which makes it possible for an assessee to avoid the payment of correct taxes.

2.5.17 Sub-Clause 2(55) "infrastructure capital company"

Ministry in their written reply informed the Committee that the stakeholder seeks that the definition of business and housing project shall be provided in clause 2(55) (infrastructure capital company) of the Bill instead of making reference to the earlier provisions (i.e 80IA, 80IB) of the Act. The suggestion may be examined. Ministry during the oral examination further elaborated on the issue as under:

> "Sir, some of the old provisions were mentioned in the new Act. We did not want to redraft them and bring it here.So, this is one of those items, namely, definition of infrastructure). We have said that we will examine it and consider it. We will bring the definition here -- the infrastructure facility definition."

2.5.18 Sub-Clause 2(72) "Non Resident"

Ministry in their written replies submitted that the stakeholder seeks to remove definition of "resident" from Section 2. It is a drafting suggestion.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Sec (2) provides for all the definitions applicable to the Act. Sec 6 provides only criteria when a person will be said to be the resident. The word 'resident' is used extensively in the Bill. Removing the definition would require that definition of 'resident' is required to be provided in all the sections where it is used. The suggestion is not feasible.

2.5.18.2 Ministry during the oral examination further elaborated on the clause as under:

> "Sir, there are three types of residents in India – resident, non-resident, and resident but not ordinary resident. They are saying that the category 'resident but not ordinary resident' should be removed from the Act. That is a very vital residency for those who have lived for long out of India. When they come to India, for the next two years, they remain as 'residents but not ordinary residents' and their outside income is not taxed in India.
> this is an assessee-friendly provision. If you take it away, it will be increasing compliance and taxation on our own residents.
> these provision benefits a person who has remained a non-resident for a long period.Sir, his income outside India is not included in taxation in India for two years. It gives him time to settle his outside income."

2.5.19 Sub-Clause 2(86) "profession"

The stakeholder seeks to remove definition of "profession" (profession includes vocation). It is a drafting suggestion. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act.It is a settled concept. Omission of the definition may lead to a situation where income from a vocation may not be taxed under the correct head as it can be argued that vocation does not fall under profession. The suggestion is not feasible.

2.5.19.2 Ministry during the oral examination further elaborated on the clause as under:

> "In 22, 'profession' remains as it is. Presently, 'profession' includes vocation. The stakeholder is saying that 'vocation' can be removed from the definition. We could not find any justification for this. This is a second concept. Profession includes vocation. In fact, there is a head of income 'profit and gains of business and profession'. There we have provided the method of computation, that these are the items of income, these are the items of expenditure. Everybody who indulges in a vocation for some period also has to follow that method of accounting….
> …According to us, these are settled concepts. There is no litigation on this account. There has been no ambiguity till date.
> …Sir, this has been also there. In the earlier Act also, this was there."

2.5.19.3 Ministry further elaborated on the issue and submitted a detailed written note to the Committee as under:

> "1. Section 2(36) of the Income Tax 1961 states as follows:
> "Profession" incudes Vocation.
> The same definition of Profession has been included in Clause 2(86) of the Income-Tax Bill 2025. Thus, under both, the Act and the Bill, income earned through Vocation is to be taxed under the head 'Income from business and profession'. This makes the assesse earning income on account of his vocation to claim all expenses which are allowed to be claimed against the income from business and profession including salary paid to employees, depreciation on assets, travelling expenses etc. This definition brings certainty to the computation of taxable income from Vocation and thus is a beneficial provision for assessee. This is also as per the Global best practices as has been discussed in the following paragraphs.
> 2. Section 10 of the Indian Income-Tax Act 1922 provided as follows:
> "10. Business- (1) The tax shall be payable by an assessee under the head "Profits and gains of business, profession or vocation" in respect of the profits or gains of any business, profession or vocation carried on by him."
> 3. The taxability of income from Vocation under this head as been approved by the Supreme Court in its decision in the case of [1959] 35 ITR 48 (SC), P. Krishna Menon v. Commissioner of Income-tax. In this decision the Apex Court has held as follows:

"Teaching is a vocation if not a profession. There is no reason why, if teaching is a vocation, teaching of Vedanta is not. It is just as much teaching, and, therefore, a vocation, as any other teaching. There was no substance in the assessee's contention that it had to be shown that it was an organized activity and that it was indulged in with a motive of making profit; that as the assessee's activity in teaching Vedanta was neither organized nor performed with a view to making profit, he could not be said to be carrying on a vocation. However, there was no want of system or continuity in the activity of the assessee. He had gathered a large number of disciples around him and was instructing them in Vedanta regularly. 'L' came all the way from England at regular intervals to obtain such instructions. All this clearly indicated organization and system. Apart from this, it is not the motive of the person doing an act which decides whether the act done by him is the carrying on of a business, profession or vocation. If any business, profession or vocation in fact produces an income, that is taxable income and none the less because it was carried on without the motive, of producing any income."

The Court further held that:

"Since the payments were income arising from the vocation of the assessee as a teacher of Vedanta, no question of exemption under section 4(3) (vii) as a casual or non-recovering receipt arose. In order that a payment maybe exempted under that section, it has to be shown that it did not arise from the exercise of a vocation."

4. The same concept of taxing of income from vocation under the head 'Income from Business and profession' was incorporated in the Income-Tax Act 1961 by means of definition of profession in section 10(36).

5. Some other relevant decisions are:

a) [1980] 4 Taxman 149 (Allahabad) Addl. Commissioner of Income-tax v. Ram Kripal Tripathi. The Court held as follows:

"The expression 'profession' involves the idea of an occupation requiring purely intellectual, skill or manual skill controlled by the intellectual skill by the operator as distinguished from an occupation or business which is substantially the production or sale or arrangements for production/sale of the commodities. It has a wide import and includes 'vocation' which is only a way of living. A person can have more than one vocation 'Vocation' need not be for making any income, nor need it involve any systematic and orgainsed activity. Even if the assessee was giving discourses on vedanta philosophy without any motive or intention of making a profit out of such activity, this giving of discourses was a 'vocation' and the raising of the contributions for purchase of the car would have to be taken as having been made in consideration of such teachings imparted by him. The giving of such discourses by him was causa causans of the raising of the contributions by his disciples and their purchase of the car for him. On the facts found, there was no merit in the assessee's plea that the raising of the contributions for the purchase of car or the present of a car was receipt of a casual or non-recurring nature."

6. It may be pointed out here that the difference between a profession and vocation becomes significant in the context of proviso to section 64(1)(ii) of the Act which makes it clear that the income by way of salary, commission, fees or any other form of remuneration received or accruing in cash or kind to the spouse of an individual from a concern in which the other spouse has a substantial interest will not be aggregated in the assessment of the spouse having such substantial interest if the fees, remuneration etc., is attributable solely to the application of technical or professional knowledge and experience of the recipient-spouse where she possesses technical or professional qualifications, What is 'substantial interest' is defined in Explanation 2 to section 64(1). Naturally in carrying on a vocation, this will not arise, except possibly in the case of an 'association of persons' where, of course, the tax incidents are different.

7. The taxation of income from Vocation is discussed in the following paragraphs.

a) USA

In the U.S., income from both professions and vocations is generally taxed similarly under federal income tax rules.

General Classification

Both types of income typically fall under self-employment income, especially if the individual is not employed by someone else but instead earns income through their own work or business.

- Profession: Typically refers to specialized work requiring advanced education/training (e.g., doctor, lawyer, architect).

- Vocation: Can refer to a trade or occupation, often involving specific training or skills (e.g.. plumber, carpenter, artist).

Tax Treatment

For both professions and vocations:

- Income is reported on Schedule C (Form 1040) if self-employed.
- Subject to ordinary income tax rates.
- Subject to self-employment tax (15.3% in 2024 for Social Security and Medicare).
- Business-related expenses can be deducted to reduce taxable income.

The IRS does not distinguish between "profession" and "vocation" for tax purposes in a way that changes how income is taxed. What matters more is how the work is structured (self-employed, employed, incorporated, etc.) and whether the income is active or passive.

b) United Kingdom

1. Definitions

- Profession: Jobs like doctors, lawyers, architects that usually require qualifications and are regulated.

• Vocation: Jobs like artists, writers, or musicians based on talent or passion. Both are treated the same for tax purposes if you're self-employed.

2. Filing Taxes
One must file a Self-Assessment Tax Return each year. One can deduct business expenses (e.g., travel, equipment) from income to reduce tax. Both professions and vocations follow the same process.
A self-employed musician (vocation) and a freelance architect (profession) earning £60,000:
- Both are taxed similarly through Income Tax and National Insurance.
- Both use Self-Assessment to report earnings and claim expenses.

c) Netherlands

In the Netherlands, whether a person is a self-employed professional (e.g., consultant, lawyer) or engaged in a vocation (e.g., artist, writer), his/her income is typically considered business profits and taxed accordingly.
The Dutch tax system does not distinctly separate professions from vocations for tax purposes; instead, it assesses whether the activity qualifies as a business.
Key factors to assess whether it is a business include the intention to make a profit, independence and regularity of activities. This classification subjects a taxpayer to income tax and VAT obligations, while also providing access to various tax deductions and allowances available to entrepreneurs.
Income from both professions and vocations is generally taxed under Box 1 of the Dutch income tax system. Income in Box 1 is subject to progressive tax rates. As of 2025, the rates are: 36.97% on income up to €75,624 and 49.50% on income over €75,624.

d) Mauritius

In Mauritius, income earned from both professions and vocations is taxed under the same provisions of the Income-Tax Act 1995. The Act does not differentiate between a "profession" and a "vocation" for taxation purposes. Instead, both are broadly categorized as "income from trade, profession, or vocation" and are treated uniformly under the tax regime.
As per Section 10(1) of the Income-Tax Act, tax is levied on the chargeable income of any person, which includes earnings from any trade, business, profession, or vocation. There is no separate tax rate or classification for vocational income. The applicable tax regime depends on the taxpayer's legal status-whether they are self-employed, operating as a sole trader, or registered as a company.
Professionals and vocational earners are entitled to deduct expenses that are wholly, exclusively, and necessarily incurred in generating income. Common deductible expenses include office rent, professional subscriptions, and work-related travel costs. Proper accounting records must be maintained in all cases.

Currently, individuals are taxed at progressive rates ranging from 10% to 15%. Companies are generally taxed at a flat rate of 15%, with possible incentives in certain sectors. Overall, Mauritius applies a unified approach to taxing professional and vocational income, without any distinction in treatment.

e) France

In France, incomes from professions and vocations are generally treated under the same legal framework for tax purposes, specifically under the category of Bénéfices Non Commerciaux (BNC)-Non-Commercial Profits. However, there can be subtle distinctions based on the nature of activity, tax regime chosen, and administrative guidance.

Interpretation:

Income from professions (e.g., doctors, lawyers) and vocations (e.g., artists, spiritual advisors) is taxed under the same category: BNC, as long as it's non-commercial and not agricultural.

The key test is whether the activity is lucrative (i.e., performed for compensation) and independent.

INCOME TAX REGIMES UNDER BNC-

Regime	Eligibility	Taxation Method
Micro-BNC	Revenue < €77.700 (2024 threshold)	Flat 34% deduction for expenses, tax on remaining 66%. No formal accounting.
Régime Déclaratif Contrôlé	Revenue in €77,700 or opt-	Real accounting. Deduct actual professional expenses. Taxed on net profit.

Both professionals and vocational practitioners can opt for either regime depending on income levels and preference.

Principle: If the income is regular and remunerated, and the activity is not commercial/agricultural/salaried, it falls under BNC.

5. JURISPRUDENCE-KEY CASES-

Case 1: Conseil d'État CE, 14 Oct. 2021, n° 437084

Issue: A clairvoyant argued her earnings were spiritual in nature and not taxable.

Decision: The court ruled that even if spiritual or esoteric, regular paid activity is taxable.

Legal basis: Article 92 CGI "lucrative exploitation" of a skill.

Case 2: CAA Paris, 17 March 2020, nº 18PA02717

Facts: A life coach claimed her income was non-taxable because it was personal "guidance".

Holding: Court held that even activities rooted in personal vocation/spirituality are taxable if pursued for profit.
f) Cyprus
Profit arising from self-employment (whether profession or vocation) is generally subject to normal Personal Income Tax slabs in Cyprus."

2.5.20 Sub-Clause 2(101) "Short Term Capital Asset"

For the clause 2(101)(c)(A) the Ministry in a written reply submitted to the Committee that

> "Accepted.It is an inadvertent drafting error. Repeated as Si.No 7 of batch 1. The words "in the case of a share held in a company in liquidation" is to be added in clause 2(101)(c)(A) of the Bill."

2.5.20.2 Regarding the other suggestion on the Clause to change the sub-clause numbering it was clarified by the Ministry that the stakeholder has suggested to change the sub-clause numbering.Sub-clause numbering is in the domain of Ministry of Law which maintains consistency across all the legislations. Therefore, the suggestion is not feasible.

2.5.21 Sub-Clause 2(103) "Slump Sale":

The representatives of the Ministry regarding the Slump sale deposed before the Committee as under:

> "Then, Sir, another category is that suggestions which are already taken care of in the Bill. So, Clause 2 gives a definition of slump sale, and then slump sale also refers to transfer, that what kind of transfers would constitute slump sale. So, the suggestion was that transfer has to be defined separately, so we have, submitted that transfer is already defined in Clause 2(109), and it is applicable in respect of all provisions, so it applies to slump sale also. "

2.5.21.2 It was further stated by the Ministry that since "transfer" is comprehensively defined in the definition section of the new Bill (Clause 2(109)), this definition will apply to "slump sale" (Clause 2(103)) and deposed before the Committee as under:

> " Earlier when slump sale was brought in 1961 Act, there also transfer was defined. But in the new Act, transfer has been comprehensively defined in the definition section itself. So whatever definition is given, there will be applicable to this clause also."

2.5.22.3 Ministry further explained that the previous structure in the 1961 Act (Section 42C for slump sale and Section 2(47) for transfer) was similar to the new Bill (Clause 2(103) for slump sale and Clause 2(109) for transfer and submitted before the Committee as under:

" सर, मैं थोड़ा सिम्प्ल भाषा में एक्स्प्लेन कर देता हूं। आज के एक्ट में दो प्रोविजन्स हैं। एक प्रोविजन स्लम्प सेल के बारे में है। दोनों डेफिनेशन में ही दो क्लॉजेज हैं। एक क्लॉज है, जो कहता है कि स्लम्प सेल का डेफिनेशन क्या है। दूसरा क्लॉज है, जो कहता है कि ट्रांसफर का डेफिनेशन क्या है। आज के एक्ट में ये दो क्लॉजेज हैं। जो नया बिल है, उसमें भी इसी तरह के दो क्लॉजेज हैं।...
...सर, ट्रांसफर, ट्रांसफर ही है। उस वक्त क्योंकि यह अमेंडमेंट किया था तो यह क्लेरिफिकेशन लेकर आए, उसकी जरूरत तब भी नहीं थी।"

2.5.22.4 Ministry of Commerce and Industry evidence on 2(104) "Special Economic Zone", 2(61) "International Financial Services Centre"

"So, it is a continuation which has been done. Primarily, the focus of the Bill is to ensure that the export of goods and services gets covered. Benefits of income from exports are currently with the sunset clause which is already there. Export incentives and those provisions related to SEZs and International Financial Services Centre continue to be operative in the new Bill which has been introduced without any substantive change"

2.5.22.5 Ministry of Finance in a written reply to the Committee informed that the definition of "slump sale" in the Bill is the same as in section 2(42C) of the Income tax 1961. An amendment was brought in to Sec 2(42C), where the term 'sales' has been substituted by the term 'transfer' by the Finance Act, 2021 w.e.f. 01.04.2021. The word "transfer" is defined in the clause 2(109) of the Bill, and the same includes 'exchange' also. Therefore, it is not required to be define it separately. The suggestion is already taken care of.

2.5.22 Sub-Clause 2(108) "Total Income"

Ministry in their written reply on the stakeholder's suggestion seeking to change definition of "total income" and suggestion that in clause 2(108) of the Bill, instead of "in the manner as laid down in the Act", it can be mentioned "as laid down in section 122(1)", informed the Committee that the suggestion is in nature of drafting improvement. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act.Reference of 122(1) cannot be provided in section 2. Income can be computed under other provisions also and not just cl. 122. Where there is no deduction claimed or allowed, the chapter of deductions does not come into play. The definition of total income has been correctly aligned to the provisions of the Act. The suggestion is not feasible.

2.5.22.2 During the oral evidence Ministry further elaborated on the above and submitted before the Committee as under:

"In business provisions, we have a concept of gross total income and total income. Then total income is also defined in the Act and it says that total income as computed in the manner laid down in the Act. So, the stakeholder is saying, "why do you not give the reference of total income in the business provisions in the definition section." That is not the scheme because there could be a person who is not having business income, still his total income would be there. So, we cannot make reference of one head of total income into the main definition section. So, he is saying, "Total income is there in the business head. So, why do you not make reference to that clause itself where you are saying total income would be gross total income minus deductions, that would be total income..

…The total income has to be computed in accordance with the manner laid down in the Act. So, somebody may not be having business income, still he would be having total income. So, if we say that total income is restricted to the total income which is in that particular head.."

2.5.23 General Suggestions on Clause 2

Regarding the suggestion(s) to define additional terms Ministry have submitted that the stakeholders seek to define certain terms in the Bill. Rationale for the same or the impact analysis has not been provided. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Terms which are absolutely relevant for taxation purposes are defined. Other terms take their natural contextual meaning. The suggestion is not feasible.

2.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Sub-Clause 2(1) – "accountant"

2.6.1 The thorough examination of the proposed Sub-Clause 2(1), pertaining to the definition of 'accountant', reveals that while various suggestions for its expansion were received, the provision retains the long-standing legal position from the Income-tax Act, 1961. The proposed Clause 2(1) aligns with the stated objective of the Bill to ensure continuity and avoid major policy changes. The Committee note the Ministry's detailed justification that the scope of practice for different professionals is governed by their respective parent legislations, and the functions mandated under the Income-tax Act, such as the audit of financial transactions, fall within the domain specified under the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949. Thus, the Committee, having considered the extensive deliberations and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, accept the proposed Clause 2(1) in its entirety.

Sub-Clause 2(5) "Agricultural Income"

2.6.2 During the review of the proposed Sub-Clause 2(5), which defines 'agricultural income', the Committee considered submissions arguing for an expansion of the definition to cover a wider range of activities. However, Committee note that the sub-clause, as drafted, is a textual simplification that preserves the existing legal framework from the 1961 Act. The provision aligns with the Bill's core principle of ensuring continuity by avoiding major policy changes. The Committee took note of the Ministry's detailed justification, which cautioned that broadening the definition could inadvertently bring commercial trading activities under the ambit of agricultural income, creating avenues for tax avoidance. Given these considerations, and after reviewing the Ministry's stance, the Committee accept the proposed Clause 2(5) in its entirety and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(6) – "amalgamation"

2.6.3 The Committee, upon deliberation of the provisions of the Clause 2(6), note a minor textual ambiguity that could lead to misinterpretation. In Clause 2(6), the phrase "amalgamating company, and the companies" needs to be replaced with "amalgamating company, or companies". The Ministry, when this was pointed out, was amenable to this correction. Thus, the Committee recommend the Ministry to rephrase it to ensure precise legislative intent and also reduce potential misinterpretations and future litigation.

Sub-Clause 2(7) "Annual Value"

2.6.4 The Committee note that Sub-Clause 2(7) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 provides for the definition of 'Annual Value' and corresponds to Section 2(2) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. This definition is of fundamental importance as 'annual value' serves as the primary basis for the computation of income under the head "Income from house property". The Committee further observe that the substantive meaning has been carried forward without alteration from the erstwhile Section 2(2) into the proposed Clause 2(7). The revision is primarily one of textual simplification, undertaken for enhanced clarity in alignment with the Bill's overarching goals. Concurring with the Ministry's satisfactory justification for the related provisions, and acknowledging that the essence of the original provision is preserved, the Committee find the clause acceptable as drafted and recommend its adoption without any modification.

Sub-Clause 2(17) "block of assets"

2.6.5 The Committee note that Sub-Clause 2(17) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 provides for the definition of 'block of assets' and corresponds to Section 2(11) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. This definition is fundamental to the scheme of depreciation, providing a basis for grouping various tangible and intangible assets for the purpose of calculating depreciation allowances. It is also noteworthy to mention here that there is migration of the contents from the erstwhile Section 2(11) to the Clause 2(17) of the IT Bill, 2025 in terms of scope and intent. The major difference lies only in the textual simplification of the language for better clarity, which is in line with the Bill's objectives. The justification given by the Ministry is also found to be satisfactory. Therefore, the Committee accept the Clause 2(17) as proposed by the Ministry.

Sub-Clause 2(19) "Books or Books of account"

2.6.6 In the review of the proposed Clause 2(19), which lays out the definition for 'books or books of account' and is the corresponding provision to Section 2(12A) of the 1961 Act, the Committee took note of its importance. The scope of this definition is crucial as it determines the nature of records required to be maintained for tax purposes. The Committee noted that the provision has been suitably modernized to encompass contemporary methods of data storage while retaining the essence of the original section. Specifically, the inclusion of records maintained in 'any digital form', through 'cloud based storage', and on various 'portable data storage devices' represents a timely and essential update to the law. The Committee find the Ministry's rationale for this update to remove ambiguity surrounding modern technology to be sound. Consequently, recognizing that this modernized definition brings essential clarity, the Committee recommend the adoption of Clause 2(19) without modification.

Sub-Clause 2(21) "Business trust"

2.6.7 The Committee reviewed provisions defining a 'Business Trust' as given in the subclause. This subclause, which is the corresponding provision to Section 2(13A) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, defines the term by referencing the relevant regulations of the Securities and Exchange Board of India. The Committee observe that the essence and scope of the definition from the erstwhile Act have been preserved in the Bill. The revision primarily focuses on textual simplification, ensuring the definition is clear and directly aligned with the current regulatory framework. The Ministry's justification that the provision has been simplified while retaining the same intent is found to be satisfactory. Therefore, the Committee recommend the acceptance of Clause 2(21) as proposed, without any modifications.

Sub-Clause 2(22) "Capital Asset"

2.6.8 During the review of subclause 2(22), the Committee identified a need to align its definition of 'capital asset' with recent amendments introduced by the Finance Act, 2025. This alignment is necessary to reflect the contemporary legal landscape regarding the treatment of certain securities held by Foreign Institutional Investors and investment funds. The Ministry acknowledged this as a valid drafting correction and conveyed its acceptance. The Committee, therefore, recommend that subclause 2(22)(b) be modified to incorporate these statutory changes to avoid discrepancies and ensure a clear, consistent, and relevant tax framework and rest of the subclause be accepted as proposed.

Sub-Clause 2(23)– "charitable purpose"

2.6.9 The Committee, upon extensive deliberations on the sub clause 2(23) and the justifications provided by the Ministry, note that the sub clause align with Section 2(15) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and therefore, accept the sub clause in its original form.

Sub-Clause 2(28) – "company"

2.6.10 Following a review of Clause 2(28)(c), the Committee found a terminological inconsistency with the Bill's new lexicon. This clause, corresponds to Section 2(17) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. To enhance consistency throughout the new Bill, the phrase "assessment year" in Clause 2(28)(c) should be substituted with "tax year". The Ministry acknowledged this as a necessary drafting correction and agreed to the modification. The Committee, therefore, recommend the Ministry to rephrase the clause to ensure a coherent and easily comprehensible legislative framework.

Sub-Clause 2(29) – "company in which the public are substantially interested"

2.6.11 Upon careful consideration of Clause 2(29)(f), the Committee identified a drafting ambiguity that could cause unintended interpretations. The provision should be amended to make it clear that the conditions for classification—namely, stock exchange listing and specific public/government shareholding—are alternative, not cumulative. The Ministry accepted this as a necessary drafting correction to align with the original legislative intent. In light of this, the Committee recommend that the Ministry amend the provision to ensure these criteria are distinctly articulated, which is vital for simplifying compliance and reducing the scope for future litigation.

Sub-Clause 2(35) – "demerger"

2.6.12 The Committee, having thoroughly examined sub clause 2(35) along with justification given by the Ministry, note that the said sub clause is mere textual simplification of the Section 2(19AA) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee note that the intent of the corresponding section of the old Act has been retained in the current provision with enhanced clarity. The Committee, therefore, accept the sub lause 2(35) as proposed.

Sub-Clause 2(40) – "dividend"

2.6.13 The Committee observe that the proposed Clause 2(40) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, provides an inclusive definition of the term 'dividend' and corresponds to Section 2(22) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. This definition is crucial as it outlines various types of corporate distributions that are treated as dividend income for tax purposes, including essential anti-abuse provisions related to deemed dividends. The Committee note that intent of the corresponding section from the 1961 Act have been retained without any substantive deviation. The primary revision in the proposed clause is the textual simplification and logical re-ordering of its components, which aligns with the Bill's objective of enhancing clarity. The justification provided by the Ministry for retaining the existing principles within this simplified structure is found to be satisfactory. Therefore, the Committee accept Clause 2(40) as proposed by the Ministry and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(48) – "hearing"

2.6.14 The Committee note that this subclause, corresponding to Section 2(23C) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, formally incorporates modern communication methods into the legal framework. The Committee note that explicitly including the 'communication of data and documents through electronic mode' within the definition is a crucial step towards providing statutory backing for virtual and faceless proceedings. The Ministry's justification is that this inclusive definition provides clarity and is sufficient to cover virtual interactions, which the Committee find satisfactory. Therefore, recognizing that this definition codifies current administrative practices and supports the digital transformation of tax administration, the Committee accept Clause 2(48) as proposed and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(49) – "income"

2.6.15 Upon careful consideration of Clause 2(49), the Committee note a drafting error in sub-clause (x) that undermines the Bill's objective of being a self-contained legislative code, making reference to the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Ministry accepted this as an inadvertent drafting error and agreed to the omission. In light of this, the Committee recommend the Ministry to remove reference to the old Act 1961 from the body of the Bill and by clubbing it in the savings clause 536 of the Bill. The rest of the provision of the subclause may be accepted as proposed.

Sub-Clause 2(50) – "Income Computation and Disclosure Standards"

2.6.16 Committee note that this clause provides a direct reference point for the standards notified under Section 276(2) of the Bill, which are essential for computing income under certain heads. The Committee are of the opinion that placing this definition in Clause 2 improves the the structural coherence and accessibility of the Bill while maintaining an established legal principle, the Committee accept Clause 2(50) as proposed and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(55) – "infrastructure capital company"

2.6.17 The Committee upon consideration of Clause 2(55), note that the definition of 'infrastructure capital company' relies on cross-references to provisions in the repealed Income-tax Act, 1961, leading to unnecessary complexity. The Committee, therefore, recommend the Ministry to incorporate the full definition of 'infrastructure facility' in the new Bill itself, remove reference to the old Act and make the current Bill self-contained by clubbing it in the savings clause 536 of the Bill appropriately.

Sub-Clause 2(72) – "Non-Resident"

2.6.18 The Committee note that this clause, corresponds to Section 2(30) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, and defines a 'non-resident' by reference to the primary residency tests contained in Clause 6 of the Bill. The Committee find that this cross-referential approach is structurally sound, placing the basic definition in the main definitional clause while the detailed criteria for determination remain in the operative section. The Ministry's justification for retaining this definitional structure is that the term is used extensively throughout the Bill, and this approach provides necessary consistency while avoiding repetition. Therefore, recognizing that the proposed clause preserves the established legal meaning within a logical legislative structure, the Committee accept Clause 2(72) as proposed and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(86) – "Profession"

2.6.19 Committee note that this clause, corresponds to Section 2(36) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, states that 'profession' includes 'vocation'. The Committee note that this is a settled legal concept, having been part of India's tax statutes and upheld by judicial pronouncements, including by the Supreme Court. The Ministry's detailed justification, highlighting that this approach is also consistent with global best practices, is found to be satisfactory. Therefore, the Committee accept Clause 2(86) as proposed and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(101) – "short-term capital asset"

2.6.20 After the consideration of Clause 2(101), the Committee identified a crucial drafting error in sub-clause (c)(A) that could have lead to an incorrect application of holding period rules for a company in liquidation. The provision in sub-clause (c)(A) should be amended to explicitly state that the exclusion of the post-liquidation period from the holding period computation applies specifically to shares. The Ministry acknowledged this as an inadvertent drafting error and confirmed its acceptance of the necessary textual addition to clarify this point. In light of this, the Committee recommend that the Ministry amend the provision as stated, as rectifying such drafting oversights is paramount for creating a robust legislative text and providing clarity on the tax treatment of shares in companies undergoing liquidation.

Sub-Clause 2(103) – "slump sale"

2.6.21 The Committee note that this clause, corresponds to Section 2(42C) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, and it has been textually simplified as part of the Bill's redrafting, while retaining the core principle of a transfer of an undertaking for a lump sum consideration. The Committee accept the Ministry's justification that a specific explanation cross-referencing the definition of 'transfer' was removed as a simplification measure. This is because the comprehensive definition of 'transfer' provided in Clause 2(109) of the Bill applies to all provisions, making the separate explanation redundant. Therefore, the Committee accept the Clause 2(103) as proposed and recommend no change.

Sub-Clause 2(108) – "Total Income"

2.6.22 The Committee have reviewed Clause 2(108), which defines 'Total Income' and corresponds to Section 2(45) of the 1961 Act. The Committee note that the definition is foundational, establishing that total income is computed based on the comprehensive provisions laid out across the Act. The Committee concurs with the Ministry's justification that a broad reference to the Act's overall computation method is essential for its correct application to all classes of taxpayers and income. Accordingly, the Committee recommend no changes in the Clause 2(108).

2.6.23 Recommendation for the rest of Sub-clauses of Clause 2

The Committee have examined in detail Clause 2 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, which lays down the definitional background of the proposed legislation through 112 distinct sub-clauses. Committee note that there are 23 newly added definations in the bill 2(1) "accountant", 2(30) "convertible foreign exchange", 2(31) "co-operative bank", 2(33) "currency", 2(47) "foreign currency", 2(50) "Income Computation and Disclosure Standards", 2(54) "Indian currency", 2(61) "International Financial Services Centre", 2(71) "non-banking financial company", 2(73) "notification", 2(74) "partner", 2(75) "partnership", 2(76) "Permanent Account Number (PAN)", 2(78) "person of Indian origin", 2(87) "public sector bank", 2(92) "recognised stock exchange", 2(95) "Reserve Bank of India", 2(98) "scheduled bank", 2(99) "Securities and Exchange Board of India", 2(100) "senior citizen", 2(104) "Special Economic Zone", 2(105) "stamp duty value", and 2(110) "Valuation Officer".

The definitions in this clause serve as reference points for the provisions across the Bill. The Committee note that this Clause draws substantially from Section 2 of the existing Income-tax Act, 1961, with modifications made largely for purposes of textual simplification, harmonisation with contemporary laws, and introduction of modern terms.Upon scrutiny of the stakeholder engagement process, the Committee observe that substantive views or suggestions from experts, professional bodies, or industry associations were received only on a select number of key definitions on around 22 sub-clauses, mostly involving policy shifts, or sectoral ramifications. These include terms such as "accountant", "charitable purpose", "books of account", etc. among others.

In contrast, for the vast majority of sub-clauses under Clause 2, no stakeholder comments were received. The Committee understand this absence not as a sign of neglect, but rather as an indication of broad-based acceptance of the provisions concerned. Many of these definitions pertain to statutory designations (such as "Additional Commissioner", "Joint Director", "Principal Commissioner"), procedural terms (like "assessment", "advance tax", "firm"), or references to institutions and roles already well-established in the statutory ecosystem. In several such cases, the Bill either replicates the 1961 Act with updated language or aligns with contemporary definitions in the major legislations including the Companies Act (sub-clause 2(29), 2(35), 2(38)) , Banking Regulation Act (sub-clause 2(31)), Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (sub-clause 2(89)); Foreign Exchnage Management Act,1999 ((sub-clause 2(30), 2(33)) the Information Technology Act(sub-clause 2(41)) etc.

After extensive deliberations on all of the subclauses in Clause 2, the Committee find that the sub-clauses not commented on above are legally sound and well-aligned with the proposed legislation. Therefore, the Committee recommend that the remaining sub-clauses under Clause 2 be accepted as proposed in the Income-tax Bill, 2025.

Clause No. 3: Definition of "tax year".

3.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) For the purposes of this Act, "tax year" means the twelve months period of the financial year commencing on the 1st April.

(2) In the case of a business or profession newly set up, or a source of income newly coming into existence in any financial year, the tax year shall be the period beginning with— (a) the date of setting up of such business or profession; or (b) the date on which such source of income newly comes into existence, and, ending with the said financial year.

3.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

"Previous year" defined.

3. For the purposes of this Act, "previous year" means the financial year immediately preceding the assessment year :

Provided that, in the case of a business or profession newly set up, or a source of income newly coming into existence, in the said financial year, the previous year shall be the period beginning with the date of setting up of the business or profession or, as the case may be, the date on which the source of income newly comes into existence and ending with the said financial year.

3.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision

Clause 3 of the Bill provides for definition of “tax year”. The clause corresponds to section 3 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (the Act). A ‘tax year’ is a period of twelve months of the financial year commencing on the 1st April. The concept of ‘tax year’ has been introduced replacing ‘previous year’ and ‘assessment year’. The timelines and computation in the Bill are now with reference to the tax year for which the income is liable to be taxed. It is expected that the use of ‘tax year’ will make the new Bill easier to comprehend. Use of the terms ‘previous year’ and ‘assessment year’ were creating confusion in the minds of the taxpayers as they represented two different financial years. Now the term ‘tax year’ shall be referred in respect of all transactions and income for that period.

3.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

During the Committee’s sitting , representatives explained that the term "tax year" was introduced in the draft Income-tax Bill to simplify existing terminology and reduce confusion between "previous year" and "assessment year," particularly for taxpayers without professional assistance. The unified term is intended to make the law more accessible and easier to understand.

In response to queries on whether the "tax year" should follow the calendar year or the traditional April to March cycle, it was clarified that although many countries use the calendar year, India has long followed the April to March format. To maintain familiarity and continuity, the draft Bill retains the April to March cycle for the "tax year."

3.5 Examination by the Committee

Representatives of the Ministry of Finance during the briefing meeting on the bill submitted to the Committee as under:

> "the concept of assessment year, previous year, that also confuses the people and a single term of Tax year is used throughout the Act. That is also a major change which reduces once whenever you have to pay Tax. You are not aware whether I have to fill in the previous year of the assessment year. Now it is simply the Tax Year which is fundamentally the financial year for which your income is being assessed for which the tax is being paid by you.
> ..there was a mention of tax year and assessment year. This will not create confusion. In fact, it will eliminate a lot of confusion. This is an international best practice. Most of the tax jurisdictions are adopting tax year. Tax year and financial year will be same and assessment has to be done of tax year in whichever way it is happening. Just to distinguish that assessment is happening in which year, we have actually created a big legacy problem, many people do not understand it on the assessment year and the tax year. When I am doing a transaction, I am saying in which financial year it falls. All my financial statements are financial statements."

3.5.1 Representatives from CBDT deposed before the Committee and further stressed on this major change:

> "This is one major change. Tax year has replaced the earlier concepts of previous year and assessment year. This, we believe, is major simplification."

3.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Committee find that Clause 3 of the Bill proposes a significant change by replacing the dual concepts of "previous year" and "assessment year" with a single, unified term: "tax year". The Committee note that this change represents a major simplification, addressing a long-standing point of confusion for countless taxpayers. The adoption of a single, consistent "tax year" streamlines tax period references throughout the legislation, making the law more accessible and easier to understand. Despite many countries using a calendar year, the Bill retains India's traditional April to March cycle.The Committee believe that this definitional clarity is a commendable step towards enhancing the ease of comprehension and compliance, thereby aligning the Bill with its core objective of simplifying the tax framework. Accordingly, the Committee accept the Clause 3 as it stands.

CHAPTER II

BASIS OF CHARGE

Clause No. 4: Charge of income-tax

4.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) Income-tax for any tax year shall be charged as per the provisions of this Act at the rate or rates which are enacted by a Central Act for such tax year.

(2) The charge of income-tax under sub-section (1) shall be on the total income of the tax year of every person as per the provisions of this Act.

(3) Income-tax shall also include any additional income-tax, by whatever name called, levied under this Act.

(4) If this Act provides that income-tax is to be charged in respect of income of a period other than the tax year, it shall be charged accordingly.

(5) For the income chargeable under sub-section (2), income-tax shall be deducted or collected at source or paid in advance as provided under this Act.

4.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

CHAPTER II

Charge of income-tax.

4. (1) Where any Central Act enacts that income-tax shall be charged for any assessment year at any rate or rates, income-tax at that rate or those rates shall be charged for that year in accordance with, and subject to the provisions (including provisions for the levy of additional income-tax) of, this Act in respect of the total income of the previous year of every person :

Provided that where by virtue of any provision of this Act income-tax is to be charged in respect of the income of a period other than the previous year, income-tax shall be charged accordingly.

(2) In respect of income chargeable under sub-section (1), income-tax shall be deducted at the source or paid in advance, where it is so deductible or payable under any provision of this Act.

4.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 4 of the Bill provides for charge of income-tax. The clause corresponds to section 4 of the Act. In the Act, the charge of income-tax is on ‘total income’ of the 'previous year' of a person. Further, income-tax is charged for an 'assessment year' at the rate or rates provided by a Central Act or the Act. In the Income-tax Bill, the concept of 'tax year' has been introduced replacing 'previous year' and 'assessment year'. Now, the total income pertains to a 'tax year' and the rate or rates of income- tax shall be charged for that 'tax year'. Other than aforementioned changes in nomenclature, the provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

4.4. Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of the stakeholder pointed out a drafting error in the clause and submitted that Income Tax for any tax year shall be charged as per the provisions of this Act at the rate or rate which are enacted by a Central Act for such tax year, subject to the provisions of this Act.The Income-Tax Bill contains various special rates of tax for Long term capital gains, short term capital gains, royalties, interest, etc These rates should apply, irrespective of the Finance Act of each year.

Another stakeholder pointed out another drafting error in the clause and suggested that For the income chargeable under sub-sections (2) and (4), income tax shall be deducted or collected at source or paid in advance as provided under this Act. While the Income-Tax Act provides for tax deduction at source even in case of incomes chargeable to tax in a year other than the previous year, the Income-Tax Bill does not provide for such TDS This is on account of the fact that under the Income-Tax Act, the charging of income in a year other than the previous year was by way of a proviso to sub-section (1) which has now been brought in as a separate sub-section.

Another stakeholder on the clause 4(5) suggested that the proposed clause 4(5) of the Bill covers TCS in addition to the TDS and advance tax provisions. The proposed provision in ITB, raises question as to whether TCS provisions can be applied only to transactions which are chargeable to tax and would lead to ambiguity.

4.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry accepted the drafting errors and in a written reply informed the Committee that:

> *"Accepted: It is a drafting error. The charging section should provide for the phrase 'subject to the provisions of this Act'. Appropriate drafting changes shall be carried out.
> …Accepted: It is a drafting error. The reference in cl. 4(5) has to be made to all income chargeable under the clause. Appropriate drafting changes shall be carried out."

4.5.2 The Ministry clarified that The charging section only enables that tax could be deducted or collected or liable to be paid in advance. This means that whatever be the income chargeable to tax, the statute can provide for collection by way of TDS/TCS or advance tax. The credit of TDS, TCS and advance tax is given against income chargeable to tax. Thus the charging section has been rightly provided. The apprehension is not correct.

4.5.3 During the oral evidence Ministry further elaborated on the issue and submitted before the Committee that

> "Sir, here, there are two suggestions. Earlier in the charging section, TCS was not mentioned. It was said that when income is there, income tax will be paid by way of payment or by tax deduction at source. Tax collection at source is also one of the methods of payment of income tax. So, it was included here. Some doubt has been expressed. We will examine it again and we will put up for consideration."

4.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Clause 4(1)

4.6.1 The Committee, after a careful review of Clause 4(1), identified a need to enhance its clarity to avoid legal ambiguity regarding the application of tax rates. The Committee, therefore, propose that in Clause 4(1), the phrase "subject to the provisions of this Act" be incorporated. The Ministry conveyed its acceptance of this change as a necessary drafting correction. Accordingly, the Committee recommend that the Ministry amend the clause accordingly.

Clause 4(5) – "Charge of income-tax"

4.6.2 The Committee, during deliberation on Clause 4(5), identified a drafting omission that could affect the comprehensive application of tax collection mechanisms . Accordingly, the Committee recommend that Clause 4(5) be amended to explicitly clarify that its provisions for tax collection through deduction at source, collection at source, and advance payment apply to all income chargeable under Clause 4, including income mentioned in sub-section (4).The Committee further accept the remaining provisions of Clause 4 as proposed.

Clause No. 5 : Scope of total income

5.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the total income of any tax year of a person, who is a resident, includes all income from whatever source derived, which—

(a) is received or deemed to be received in India in that year by or on behalf of the person; or
(b) accrues or arises, or is deemed to accrue or arise, to the person in India in that year; or
(c) accrues or arises to the person outside India in that year, but when such person is "not ordinarily resident" in India under section 6(13), it shall be included only when it is derived from a business controlled in or a profession set up in India.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the total income of a tax year of a person, who is a non-resident, includes all income from whatever source derived, which—

(a) is received or deemed to be received in India in that year by or on behalf of the person; or
(b) accrues or arises, or is deemed to accrue or arise, to the person in India in that year.
(3) Income accruing or arising outside India shall not be deemed to be received in India under this section by reason only of the fact that it is taken into account in a balance sheet prepared in India.

(4) If an income has been included in a person's total income on the basis that it—

(a) has accrued or arisen; or
(b) is deemed to have accrued or arisen, to the person, it shall not again be included on the basis that it is received or deemed to be received by the person in India.

5.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Scope of total income.

5. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the total income of any previous year of a person who is a resident includes all income from whatever source derived which—

(a) is received or is deemed to be received in India in such year by or on behalf of such person ; or

(b) accrues or arises or is deemed to accrue or arise to him in India during such year

(c) accrues or arises to him outside India during such year :

Provided that, in the case of a person not ordinarily resident in India within the meaning of sub-section (6) of section 6, the income which accrues or arises to him outside India shall not be so included unless it is derived from a business controlled in or a profession set up in India.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the total income of any previous year of a person who is a non-resident includes all income from whatever source derived which—

(a) is received or is deemed to be received in India in such year by or on behalf of such person ; or

(b) accrues or arises or is deemed to accrue or arise to him in India during such year.

Explanation 1.—Income accruing or arising outside India shall not be deemed to be received in India within the meaning of this section by reason only of the fact that it is taken into account in a balance sheet prepared in India.

Explanation 2.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that income which has been included in the total income of a person on the basis that it has accrued or arisen or is deemed to have accrued or arisen to him shall not again be so included on the basis that it is received or deemed to be received by him in India.

5.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 5 of the Bill defines the scope of total income for a person. The clause corresponds to section 5 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section of the Act have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

5.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after a detailed examination of Clause 5 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, which defines the scope of total income, note that the provision corresponds to Section 5 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee observe that the structure and language of the clause have been simplified, while the substantive legal position regarding the taxation of income based on residential status—whether resident, not ordinarily resident, or non-resident—has been retained without alteration.The Committee also take note of the Ministry of Finance's justification that the intent and coverage of the existing provision remain unchanged, and that the revisions are only intended to enhance clarity and readability. The Committee further observe that no material concerns or substantive objections have been raised by stakeholders with respect to this clause.Accordingly, the Committee find the proposed Clause 5 to be in line with the existing legal framework and accept the clause as it stands.

Clause No. 6: Residence in India.

6.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(3) The provisions of sub-section (2)(b) shall not apply in the case of an individual who is a citizen of India and leaves India in any tax year—

(5) Where the person referred to in sub-section (4) has a total income exceeding fifteen lakh rupees during that tax year (other than the income from foreign sources), sub-section (2)(b) shall apply as if the words "sixty days" had been substituted with "one hundred and twenty days" for that year;

(6) For the purposes of sub-section (2), if the individual is—

(10)(a) A company is resident in India in any tax year, if— (i) it is an Indian company; or (ii) its place of effective management is in India in that tax year; and

(b) for the purposes of this sub-section, "place of effective management" means a place where key management and commercial decisions necessary for the conduct of business of the company as a whole are, in substance, made.

(11) Every other person is resident in India in any tax year unless the control and management of its affairs is situated wholly outside India in that year.

(12) If a person is resident in India in a tax year for any source of income, he shall be deemed to be resident in India in that tax year for each of the other sources of income.

(13) A person is not ordinarily resident in India in any tax year, if that person is—

(a) an individual who has been, or a Hindu undivided family, whose manager has been—

(i) a non-resident in India in nine out of the ten tax years preceding that year; or

(ii) has been in India cumulatively for seven hundred and twenty-nine days or less in seven tax years preceding that year; or

(b) a citizen of India or a person of Indian origin,—

(i) whose total income excluding income from foreign sources exceeds fifteen lakh rupees during the tax year, as mentioned in sub-section (5); and

(ii) who has been in India cumulatively for one hundred and twenty days or more but less than one hundred and eighty-two days; or

(c) a citizen of India who is deemed to be resident in India under sub-section (7).

(14) In this section, "income from foreign sources" means the income, which accrues or arises outside India (except income derived from a business controlled in or a profession set up in India) and which is not deemed to accrue or arise in India.

6.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Residence in India.

6. For the purposes of this Act,—

(1) An individual is said to be resident in India in any previous year, if he—

(a) is in India in that year for a period or periods amounting in all to one hundred and eighty-two days or more ; or

(c) having within the four years preceding that year been in India for a period or periods amounting in all to three hundred and sixty-five days or more, is in India for a period or periods amounting in all to sixty days or more in that year.

Explanation 1.—In the case of an individual,—

(a) being a citizen of India, who leaves India in any previous year as a member of the crew of an Indian ship as defined in clause (18) of section 3 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1958 (44 of 1958), or for the purposes of employment outside India, the provisions of sub-clause (c) shall apply in relation to that year as if for the words "sixty days", occurring therein, the words "one hundred and eighty-two days" had been substituted ;

(b) being a citizen of India, or a person of Indian origin within the meaning of Explanation to clause (e) of section 115C, who, being outside India, comes on a visit to India in any previous year, the provisions of sub-clause (c) shall apply in relation to that year as if for the words "sixty days", occurring therein, the words "one hundred and eighty-two days" had been substituted and in case of such person having total income, other than the income from foreign sources, exceeding fifteen lakh rupees during the previous year, for the words "sixty days" occurring therein, the words "one hundred and twenty days" had been substituted.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this clause, in the case of an individual, being a citizen of India and a member of the crew of a foreign bound ship leaving India, the period or periods of stay in India shall, in respect of such voyage, be determined in the manner and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed.

(1A) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), an individual, being a citizen of India, having total income, other than the income from foreign sources, exceeding fifteen lakh rupees during the previous year shall be deemed to be resident in India in that previous year, if he is not liable to tax in any other country or territory by reason of his domicile or residence or any other criteria of similar nature.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that this clause shall not apply in case of an individual who is said to be resident in India in the previous year under clause (1).

(2) A Hindu undivided family, firm or other association of persons is said to be resident in India in any previous year in every case except where during that year the control and management of its affairs is situated wholly outside India.

(3) A company is said to be a resident in India in any previous year, if—

(i) it is an Indian company; or

(ii) its place of effective management, in that year, is in India.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause "place of effective management" means a place where key management and commercial decisions that are necessary for the conduct of business of an entity as a whole are, in substance made.

(4) Every other person is said to be resident in India in any previous year in every case, except where during that year the control and management of his affairs is situated wholly outside India.

(5) If a person is resident in India in a previous year relevant to an assessment year in respect of any source of income, he shall be deemed to be resident in India in the previous year relevant to the assessment year in respect of each of his other sources of income.

(6) A person is said to be "not ordinarily resident" in India in any previous year if such person is—

(a) an individual who has been a non-resident in India in nine out of the ten previous years preceding that year, or has during the seven previous years preceding that year been in India for a period of, or periods amounting in all to, seven hundred and twenty-nine days or less; or

(b) a Hindu undivided family whose manager has been a non-resident in India in nine out of the ten previous years preceding that year, or has during the seven previous years preceding that year been in India for a period of, or periods amounting in all to, seven hundred and twenty-nine days or less; or

(c) a citizen of India, or a person of Indian origin, having total income, other than the income from foreign sources, exceeding fifteen lakh rupees during the previous year, as referred to in clause (b) of Explanation1 to clause (1), who has been in India for a period or periods amounting in all to one hundred and twenty days or more but less than one hundred and eighty-two days; or (d) a citizen of India who is deemed to be resident in India under clause (1A).

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, the expression "income from foreign sources" means income which accrues or arises outside India (except income derived from a business controlled in or a profession set up in India) and which is not deemed to accrue or arise in India.

6.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 6 of the Bill seeks to provide for the conditions for determining the residential status of a person in India. The clause corresponds to section 6 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

6.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of the stakeholder had suggested minor changes in the sub-sections (1) and (2) of the bill and suggested them to be modified as below:

"For the purposes of this Act, residence in India of a person in India shall be determined as per this section.
Sub-section (2) can be modified as below:
An individual shall be resident in India in a tax year, if he—
(a) is in India for a total period of one hundred and eighty-two days or more in that tax year; or
(b) is in India cumulatively for a total period of sixty days or more during that year and has been in India cumulatively for three hundred and sixty-five days or more in the four years preceding such tax year."
(i) "The phrase 'in India' when used after "person" seems to suggest that sub-section (1) is only for determining residential status of a person in India, while the objective is to determine under the Income-tax Act, the residential status in India of every person.

(ii) Sub-section (2) uses the phrase ‘total period’ in clause (a) for number of days of stay in the tax year
In clause (b), the word ‘cumulatively’ is used both for the number of days of stay in the tax year as well as for the number of days in the last four years. The word “total period” can be used for the number of days of stay in the tax"year and “cumulatively” for the number of days of stay in the earlier years.”

6.4.2 Another stakeholder submitted that Kerala HC in the case of CIT v O. Abdul Razak (198 Taxman 1) held as follows: - “In our view, going abroad for the purpose of employment only means that the visit and stay abroad should not be for other purposes such as a tourist, or for medical treatment or for studies or the like. Going abroad for the purpose of employment therefore means going abroad to take up employment or any avocation as referred to in the Circular, which takes in self-employment like business or profession”.The expression “for” is narrower than “for the purpose”. Hence, the said change may result in ambiguity of residential status for an Indian citizen who has left India for self-employment like for carrying on business or profession outside India. Recommended to retain the expression “for the purposes of employment” outside India as used in S. 6 of ITA 1961 to avoid uncertainty.

6.4.3 Another written suggestion by the stakeholders was that the “Circular No 8 of 2017 provides for a turnover limit of Rs 50 crores for applicability of the Place of Effective Management Provisions. This should be made part of Section 6(10) for simplicity sakes Similarly Guidelines issued for determination of POEM vide Circular No 6 of 2017 should be made effective for Income-tax Bill, 2025 by referring to the same under Repeal provisions.The objective of simplicity as per Income-tax Bill, 2025 gets defeated if taxpayer needs to refer to Circular issued which narrows the scope of POEM provisions. Further, without reference to the Circular providing Guidelines for determination of POEM in repeal provisions of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 taxpayers would not be able to follow the accepted parameters as laid down by CBDT. This being an oversight, needs inclusion in the repeal provisions”.

6.4.4 During the Committee’s sitting, a representative from a professional services firm drew attention to the complexity of the existing residency rules for individuals under the Income-tax framework. It was explained that current provisions include multiple overlapping tests—such as 182 days’ physical presence in India during a tax year, or an alternate test requiring 60 days in the current year and 365 days across the preceding four years—with further adjustments for certain categories like NRIs and persons of Indian origin based on income thresholds and days of stay. The introduction of the deemed residency rule under the Finance Act, 2020—where an Indian citizen with over ₹15 lakh income from Indian sources and no tax liability abroad is deemed a resident—was also flagged as contributing to the rule’s complexity.It was further pointed out that the layered classifications between “resident,” “non-resident,” and “resident but not ordinarily resident” (NOR) have created a structure that is confusing even to informed stakeholders, let alone laypersons. In view of this, a simplification was proposed: to define residency solely on the basis of a 182-day presence in India during a tax year, and to determine NOR status based only on a criterion of non-residency in nine out of ten preceding years. The recommendation suggested that such simplification would ease compliance and reduce taxpayer confusion without materially affecting tax revenues, since non-residents and NORs are typically subject to tax only on specified income streams such as interest, dividends, royalties, and technical fees.

6.4.5 During the Committee’s sitting, attention was drawn towards a subtle but potentially significant change in the provisions relating to residential status under the new Income-tax Bill. It was observed that the previous law allowed for a broader interpretation by using the phrase “for the purpose of employment” outside India, thereby encompassing individuals travelling abroad with the intention of seeking employment, regardless of whether employment was ultimately secured. In contrast, the new Bill replaces this with the narrower phrase “for employment” outside India. This revised wording appears to restrict the provision’s applicability only to those with confirmed employment abroad. The Member noted that this change may unintentionally narrow the scope of the exemption and expressed concern that the rationale behind adopting this more restrictive formulation has not been clearly explained.

6.4.6 During the Committee’s sitting, concerns were raised regarding the intricate nature of the existing rules for determining the residential status of individuals, a crucial factor for defining the scope of taxable income. An overview detailed the basic rule (182 days physical presence) and an alternate rule (365 days in four years plus 60 days currently). Attention was drawn to further layers of complexity: the 60-day threshold extends to 182 days in some cases, and for NRIs/PIOs with Indian income over ₹15 lakh, changes to 120 days. Furthermore, a 'deemed residency' rule exists for Indian citizens with Indian income over ₹15 lakh not taxed elsewhere. Coupled with the 'Resident but Not Ordinary Resident' (NOR) classification, the system was described as "fairly complex" and "perplexing," having evolved incrementally. To address these issues, a significant simplification was proposed: adopting a single criterion of 182 days presence for residency. For NOR status, a single criterion of being non-resident for 9 out of 10 years was suggested. The view was expressed that such simplification would not have a significant revenue impact, given the limited scope of specific taxes on Non-Residents or NORs.

6.4.7 Another suggestion on clause 6(13) was received in which it was suggested that:

(i) The word “Manager” has been used in relation to HUF at two places in the Bill, Section 6 and 252 In five places, “Karta” has been used In order to ensure consistency, the word ‘Karta’ can be used at all places, instead of “Manager”."

(ii) In clause (b), in sub- clause (ii), the citizen of India or person of Indian origin is required to be present for 120 days in the current tax year .This is not coming out in the sub-clause .
(iii) Also, cumulatively has to be replaced with “total period” as suggested earlier.

Another suggestion was that there should be only Residential and Non -residential status, Ease in deriving residential status, total income, deemed income, understanding and compliance.

6.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry submitted their written comments on suggestions in sub-sections (1) and (2) of the bill as reproduced below:

> “(i) Accepted: Drafting error. Appropriate drafting corrections shall be carried out.
> (ii) The phrase "for a total period" and the phrase "cumulatively" when used in conjunction with the express use of specified period like "sixty days" or "for seven year", it gives same meaning.”

6.5.2 Ministry explained the Kerala High Court decision context in this regard and explained that the decision held that 'for the purposes of employment' includes self-employment, and the department had changed it to 'for employment' fearing it might be restricted to structured jobs. They are now reverting to 'for the purposes of employment' and deposed before the Committee as under:

> " Sir, the issue before the Kerala High Court was that 'for the purposes of employment' means you are going for some structured job, like you have got some job offer and you are going there. Even if you are going for self-employment purpose, will that amount to employment or not? They said that if you are going for self-employment, it is for employment and you will get the benefit. We changed 'for the purposes of employment' to 'for employment'. Our apprehension was that we may say that it will only be applicable for a structured job in some company. So, we have accepted that and we are again going back to 'for the purposes of employment' so that the settled principle is applied here also."

6.5.3 In a written reply submitted before the Committee Ministry submitted that

> “As the phrase ‘for the purpose of employment’ has been settled judicially, the suggestion may be accepted by substituting the phrase ‘for employment’ with the phrase ‘for the purpose of employment’.In view of the above, the suggestion may be considered.”

6.5.4 Ministry of Finance confirmed acceptance of the suggestion and submitted as under:

> " we had said 'for employment'. The suggestion was to make it 'for the purposes of employment'. We have accepted it."

6.5.5 The Ministry on the suggestion about the stakeholder seeking inclusion of guidelines issued vide Circular in the I T Bill, submitted that it is a matter of rules/ clarification through circulars and guidelines. The suggestion is administrative in nature. Therefore, the proposed amendment is not feasible.

6.5.6 Ministry further explained that Place of Effective Management (POEM) guidelines from 2017 aim to prevent double taxation for companies with active business outside India by presuming POEM is outside India if most board meetings are held abroad. He acknowledged the suggestion to replace "key".

> "Sir, I can just explain a little bit. वर्ष 2015 में यह परिभाषा आई, जिसमें की-मैनेजमेंट डिसिजन लिखा गया कि इफेक्टिव मैनेजमेंट और की-मैनेजमेंट क्या होते हैं? उसकेबादवर्ष 2017 में हम एक डिटेल्ड गाइडलाइन्स पोएम की लाए। उसमें companies doing business outside India को डेफाइन लकया। …The place of effective management in the case of a company engaged in active business outside India shall be presumed to be outside India if majority meetings of the Board of Directors of the company are held outside India.
> …. Sir, here the issue is regarding place of effective management. Some limits have been provided by a circular. So, the suggestion is that you bring those limits in the Income-Tax Act. That was part of the delegated legislation and it has been kept like that. There is no change from old Act to new Act."

6.5.7 Ministry on the suggestion on the clause 6(13) in a written reply submitted before the Committee that > "(i) Stakeholder seeks to substitute the word 'manager' by the word 'karta' in clause 6(13) of the I T Bill, 2025. The suggestion is the nature of policy change, which is beyond the scope of I T Bill, 2025. There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961.In clause 6(13) use of word 'manager' has different contextual relevance. Such as the HUF may not be in India and the business is being managed by a manager. Therefore, for the purposes of residency, in such circumstances, the use of word 'manager' is appropriate.

> (ii) Stakeholder has suggested that requirement of 120 days cumulative presence in India in the current year is not coming from the provisions of Clause 6(13)(b)(ii). Accepted. The reference of year has to be provided in cl. 6(13)(b)(ii).

(iii) Stakeholder has suggested that the word'cumulative' be replaced with the words 'total period'. No reasoning for replacing the word "cumulatively" with the word "total period" has been provided. As the use of word "cumulative" with express mention of specific period is giving same meaning, no added advantage is seen in accepting the suggestion.In view of the above, proposed amendments at (i) & (iii) are not feasible."

6.5.8 Ministry further elaborated on the above during the oral evidence and submitted before the Committee as given below:

" the stakeholder has suggested that the word 'manager' for a HUF should be replaced by the word 'karta' in the clause. So, we are saying that the word 'manager' that we have used here, for example, HUF is in India and it is being managed from outside. So, manager has a contextual relevance."

6.5.9 Ministry on the stakeholder's suggestion seeking the deletion of 'not ordinarily resident status' category of resident from the Bill. The suggestion is the nature of policy change, which is beyond the scope of I T Bill, 2025. There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961. The category is required to grant relief from taxation of global income in deserving cases like a person is non-resident in last 9 out of 10 years. Therefore the proposed amendment is not feasible.

6.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Clause 6(1)

6.6.1 The Committee, during the review of Clause 6(1), identified a textual ambiguity that could inadvertently limit the scope of the provision for determining residential status. The Committee, therefore, recommended that the Clause 6(1), the wording be amended to clarify that the clause applies to determining the residence in India of any person, not just persons who are already physically present in the country. This modification is essential for minimizing potential disputes over jurisdiction.

Clause 6(3)

6.6.2 The Committee, after a review of Clause 6(3), identified that a change in wording from the previous Act could unintentionally narrow the scope of an important exemption for Indian citizens leaving the country for work. The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clause 6(3)(b), the phrase "for employment outside India" be substituted with "for the purposes of employment outside India" to avoid ambiguity and align with settled judicial interpretation .

Clause 6(13)

6.6.3 The Committee, during the delibertaions on Clause 6(13), identified an omission in sub-clause (b)(ii) that could create ambiguity in its application when determining residential status . The Committee, accordingly, recommend that Clause 6(13)(b)(ii) be amended to explicitly state that the presence requirement of "one hundred and twenty days or more" pertains to the current tax year. The Committee further accept the remaining provisions of Clause 6 as proposed.

Clause No.7: Income deemed to be received

7.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) The following incomes shall be deemed to be received in the tax year:-

(a) the annual accretion in that year to the balance at the credit of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent provident in paragraph 6 of Part A of the Schedule XI;
(b) the transferred balance in a recognised provident fund, to the extent provided in paragraph 11(4) and (5) of Part A of the Schedule XI;
(c) the contribution made by the Central Government or any other employer in that year to the account of an employee under a pension scheme mentioned in section 124.

(2) For inclusion in the total income of an assessee,—

(a) any dividend declared by a company or distributed or paid by it within the meaning of section 2(40)(a) or (b) or (c) or (d) or (e) or (f) shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which it is so declared, distributed or paid, as the case may be;
(b) any interim dividend shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which the amount of such dividend is unconditionally made available by the company to the member who is entitled to it.

7.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Income deemed to be received.

7. The following incomes shall be deemed to be received in the previous year :—

(i) the annual accretion in the previous year to the balance at the credit of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent provided in rule 6 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule ;

(ii) the transferred balance in a recognised provident fund, to the extent provided in sub-rule (4) of rule 11 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule ;

(iii) the contribution made, by the Central Government or any other employer in the previous year, to the account of an employee under a pension scheme referred to in section 80CCD.

7.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 7 of the Bill seeks to deal with income deemed to be received. The clause corresponds to sections 7 and 8 of the Act. The two sections 7 and 8 of the Act have been merged. The provisions of the existing sections have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.
These provisions are similar to the provisions of section 7 and section 8 of the I T Act. They have been merged in simplification exercise.

7.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

During the sitting of the Committee, a witness pointed out a potential drafting error in Clause 7 of the Income-Tax Bill. The issue pertains to the clubbing provisions related to a spouse's income, specifically professional income. It was noted that the clause appears to have erroneously included the word "not," which could reverse the intended meaning. As a result, professional income—meant to be excluded from clubbing—might be incorrectly brought within its scope due to this inadvertent wording.

One of the stakeholder suggested that Section 7(2) of the Bill to be moved to a separate section In the Income-tax Act, 1961, these two sections are separate. Merging 'unlike' provisions would make the reading complicated and inelegant. Another suggestion further elaborated on how it can be done and submitted that "Heading of Section 7 is 'Income deemed to be received' Sub-section (2) thereof contains the provisions relating to time of bringing to tax dividend income which is contained in section 8 of the Income- tax Act, 1961 This does not seem to appropriately fit into this section Sub- section (2) does not sync with the section heading of 'Income deemed to be "received' This may either be brought as separate section or heading of section be modified. For inclusion in the total income of an assessee, — (a) any dividend declared by a company or distributed or paid by it within the meaning of section 2(40)(a) or (b) or (c) or (d) or (e) or (f) shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which it is so declared, distributed or paid, as the case may be;"Heading of section for clause 7(2) of the Bill can be "Dividend income"Dividend can be made taxable in the year in which it is distributed, in case of deemed dividend, or paid This would align with the TDS provision in Sl No.10 of the Table under section 393(1)".

7.5 Examination by the Committee:
Ministry accepted the suggestion and in a written reply submitted that > "Accepted: Stakeholder seeks to bifurcate clause 7, being unilke provisions and as they were speparetely placed in the I T Act as sections 7 and 8. These provisions are similar to the provisions of section 7 and section 8 of the I T Act. So, no new provisions have been proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025. Since both the sections were dealing with deemed income, they have been merged in simplification exercise to make the Bill simple and concise.However, to address the stakeholder concern, the marginal heading may be changed to include both categories of income--like 'Income deemed to be received and deeming of dividend income for a year'. Appropriate drafting shall be carried out."

7.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after a careful review of Clause 7, identified a structural issue arising from the merger of two distinct provisions from the previous Act, which were historically in separate sections. The Committee, therefore, recommend that the clause be amended to better distinguish between its two components: general 'income deemed to be received' and the specific 'deeming of dividend income for a year'. This will lead to better readability and will minimize potential misinterpretations regarding the scope of the provision, ensuring absolute clarity in categorization.

Clause No. 8: Income on receipt of capital asset or stock-in-trade by specified person from specified entity.

8.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(i) deemed to be the income of such specified entity of the tax year in which such capital asset or stock-in-trade or both were received by the specified person; and

(ii) chargeable to income-tax as income of such specified entity under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" or under the head "Capital gains", as per this Act.

(7) In this section, -

(a) "specified entity" means a firm or other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or a co-operative society);

(b) "specified person" means a person, who is a partner of a firm or member of other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or a co-operative society) in any tax year;

(i) one or more of its partners or members, of such specified entity ceases to be partners or members; or

(ii) one or more new partners or members are admitted in such specified entity in such circumstances that one or more of the persons who were partners or members, of the specified entity, before the change, continue as partner or partners or member or members after the change; or

(iii) all the partners or members, of such specified entity continue with a change in their respective share or in the shares of some of them.

8.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Income on receipt of capital asset or stock in trade by specified person from specified entity.

9B. (1) Where a specified person receives during the previous year any capital asset or stock in trade or both from a specified entity in connection with the dissolution or reconstitution of such specified entity, then the specified entity shall be deemed to have transferred such capital asset or stock in trade or both, as the case may be, to the specified person in the year in which such capital asset or stock in trade or both are received by the specified person.

(2) Any profits and gains arising from such deemed transfer of capital asset or stock in trade or both, as the case may be, by the specified entity shall be—

(i) deemed to be the income of such specified entity of the previous year in which such capital asset or stock in trade or both were received by the specified person; and

(ii) chargeable to income-tax as income of such specified entity under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" or under the head "Capital gains", in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(3) For the purposes of this section, fair market value of the capital asset or stock in trade or both on the date of its receipt by the specified person shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such deemed transfer of the capital asset or stock in trade or both by the specified entity.

(4) If any difficulty arises in giving effect to the provisions of this section and sub-section (4) of section 45, the Board may, with the approval of the Central Government, issue guidelines for the purposes of removing the difficulty.

(5) Every guideline issued by the Board under sub-section (4) shall, as soon as may be after it is issued, be laid before each House of Parliament, and shall be binding on the income-tax authorities and on the assessee.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

(i) "reconstitution of the specified entity" means, where—

(a) one or more of its partners or members, as the case may be, of such specified entity ceases to be partners or members; or

(b) one or more new partners or members, as the case may be, are admitted in such specified entity in such circumstances that one or more of the persons who were partners or members, as the case may be, of the specified entity, before the change, continue as partner or partners or member or members after the change; or

(c) all the partners or members, as the case may be, of such specified entity continue with a change in their respective share or in the shares of some of them;

(ii) "specified entity" means a firm or other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or a co-operative society);

(iii) "specified person" means a person, who is a partner of a firm or member of other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or a co-operative society) in any previous year.

8.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 8 of the Bill provides for income on receipt of capital asset or stock in trade by specified person from specified entity. The clause corresponds to sections 9B of the Act. The provisions of the existing sections have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

8.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 8 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds to Section 9B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and deals with the tax implications arising from the receipt of capital assets or stock-in-trade by a specified person from a specified entity in the event of its dissolution or reconstitution. The Committee also note that necessary definitions have been retained, and the existing provisions have been textually simplified while retaining their original intent. Since no major concerns were raised by stakeholders and the Ministry has clarified that there is no change in intent or substance, the Committee are of the view that the proposed clause faithfully carries forward the original provision and improves its readability. Accordingly, the Committee recommend acceptance of Clause 8 as proposed in the Bill.

Clause No 9: Income Deemed to Accrue or Arise in India

(c) a person who is a non-resident, where the interest is payable in respect of any debt incurred, or moneys borrowed and used, for the purposes of a business or profession carried on by such person in India.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause,—

(a) it is hereby declared that in the case of a non-resident, being a person engaged in the business of banking, any interest payable by the permanent establishment in India of such non-resident to the head office or any permanent establishment or any other part of such non-resident outside India shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India and shall be chargeable to tax in addition to any income attributable to the permanent establishment in India and the permanent establishment in India shall be deemed to be a person separate and independent of the non-resident person of which it is a permanent establishment and the provisions of the Act relating to computation of total income, determination of tax and collection and recovery shall apply accordingly;

(b) "permanent establishment" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (iiia)of section 92F;

(vi) income by way of royalty payable by—

(a) the Government ; or

(b) a person who is a resident, except where the royalty is payable in respect of any right, property or information used or services utilised for the purposes of a business or profession carried on by such person outside India or for the purposes of making or earning any income from any source outside India ; or

(c) a person who is a non-resident, where the royalty is payable in respect of any right, property or information used or services utilised for the purposes of a business or profession carried on by such person in India or for the purposes of making or earning any income from any source in India :

Provided that nothing contained in this clause shall apply in relation to so much of the income by way of royalty as consists of lump sum consideration for the transfer outside India of, or the imparting of information outside India in respect of, any data, documentation, drawing or specification relating to any patent, invention, model, design, secret formula or process or trade mark or similar property, if such income is payable in pursuance of an agreement made before the 1st day of April, 1976, and the agreement is approved by the Central Government :

Provided further that nothing contained in this clause shall apply in relation to so much of the income by way of royalty as consists of lump sum payment made by a person, who is a resident, for the transfer of all or any rights (including the granting of a licence) in respect of computer software supplied by a non-resident manufacturer along with a computer or computer-based equipment under any scheme approved under the Policy on Computer Software Export, Software Development and Training, 1986 of the Government of India.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of the first proviso, an agreement made on or after the 1st day of April, 1976, shall be deemed to have been made before that date if the agreement is made in accordance with proposals approved by the Central Government before that date; so, however, that, where the recipient of the income by way of royalty is a foreign company, the agreement shall not be deemed to have been made before that date unless, before the expiry of the time allowed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 139 (whether fixed originally or on extension) for furnishing the return of income for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1977, or the assessment year in respect of which such income first becomes chargeable to tax under this Act, whichever assessment year is later, the company exercises an option by furnishing a declaration in writing to the Assessing Officer (such option being final for that assessment year and for every subsequent assessment year) that the agreement may be regarded as an agreement made before the 1st day of April, 1976.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this clause, "royalty" means consideration (including any lump sum consideration but excluding any consideration which would be the income of the recipient chargeable under the head "Capital gains") for—

(i) the transfer of all or any rights (including the granting of a licence) in respect of a patent, invention, model, design, secret formula or process or trade mark or similar property ;

(ii) the imparting of any information concerning the working of, or the use of, a patent, invention, model, design, secret formula or process or trade mark or similar property ;

(iii) the use of any patent, invention, model, design, secret formula or process or trade mark or similar property ;

(iv) the imparting of any information concerning technical, industrial, commercial or scientific knowledge, experience or skill ;

(iva) the use or right to use any industrial, commercial or scientific equipment but not including the amounts referred to in section 44BB;

(v) the transfer of all or any rights (including the granting of a licence) in respect of any copyright, literary, artistic or scientific work including films or video tapes for use in connection with television or tapes for use in connection with radio broadcasting; or

(vi) the rendering of any services in connection with the activities referred to in sub-clauses (i) to (iv), (iva) and(v).

Explanation 3.—For the purposes of this clause, "computer software" means any computer programme recorded on any disc, tape, perforated media or other information storage device and includes any such programme or any customized electronic data.

Explanation 4.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that the transfer of all or any rights in respect of any right, property or information includes and has always included transfer of all or any right for use or right to use a computer software (including granting of a licence) irrespective of the medium through which such right is transferred.

Explanation 5.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that the royalty includes and has always included consideration in respect of any right, property or information, whether or not—

(a) the possession or control of such right, property or information is with the payer;

(b) such right, property or information is used directly by the payer;

(c) the location of such right, property or information is in India.

Explanation 6.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that the expression "process" includes and shall be deemed to have always included transmission by satellite (including up-linking, amplification, conversion for down-linking of any signal), cable, optic fibre or by any other similar technology, whether or not such process is secret;

(vii) income by way of fees for technical services payable by—

(a) the Government ; or

(b) a person who is a resident, except where the fees are payable in respect of services utilised in a business or profession carried on by such person outside India or for the purposes of making or earning any income from any source outside India ; or

(c) a person who is a non-resident, where the fees are payable in respect of services utilised in a business or profession carried on by such person in India or for the purposes of making or earning any income from any source in India :

Provided that nothing contained in this clause shall apply in relation to any income by way of fees for technical services payable in pursuance of an agreement made before the 1st day of April, 1976, and approved by the Central Government.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of the foregoing proviso, an agreement made on or after the 1st day of April, 1976, shall be deemed to have been made before that date if the agreement is made in accordance with proposals approved by the Central Government before that date.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this clause, "fees for technical services" means any consideration (including any lump sum consideration) for the rendering of any managerial, technical or consultancy services (including the provision of services of technical or other personnel) but does not include consideration for any construction, assembly, mining or like project undertaken by the recipient or consideration which would be income of the recipient chargeable under the head "Salaries";

[15][(viii) income arising outside India, being any sum of money referred to in sub-clause (xviia) of clause (24) of section 2, paid by a person resident in India--

(a) on or after the 5th day of July, 2019 to a non-resident, not being a company, or to a foreign company; or

(b) on or after the 1st day of April, 2023 to a person not ordinarily resident in India within the meaning of clause (6) of section 6.]

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), any pension payable outside India to a person residing permanently outside India shall not be deemed to accrue or arise in India, if the pension is payable to a person referred to in article 314 of the Constitution or to a person who, having been appointed before the 15th day of August, 1947, to be a Judge of the Federal Court or of a High Court within the meaning of the Government of India Act, 1935, continues to serve on or after the commencement of the Constitution as a Judge in India.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that for the purposes of this section, income of a non-resident shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India under clause (v) or clause (vi) or clause (vii) of sub-section (1) and shall be included in the total income of the non-resident, whether or not,—

(i) the non-resident has a residence or place of business or business connection in India; or (ii) the non-resident has rendered services in India.

9.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 9 of the Bill provides for income deemed to accrue or arise in India, including those from a business connection and provides the source rule for income from Interest, dividend, royalty, fee for technical services, and transfer of a capital asset situated in India. The clause corresponds to section 9 and section 9A of the Act. Section 9A has been placed as clause 9(12) and the conditions provided therein have been taken in schedule I. The condition for indirect participation or investment by a person resident in India has been removed in line with the change in the Finance Act, 2025. Further, the provisions of the existing sections have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

9.3.2 The proposed provisions are similar to the provisions in Income-tax Act, 1961. However, in Explanation 2 to section 9(1)(vi) of the I T Act (which corresponds to clause 9. 6(b) of the I T Bill) the word 'transfer' in general and the word 'granting' in the context of a licence has been used.

9.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

A drafting inconsistency was highlighted in language governing the taxability of non-residents. It was noted that in a key provision, the phrase “outside India” has been used where “in India” would be more contextually and legally appropriate. As this wording directly affects the scope of income deemed to accrue or arise in India, it was considered likely to cause interpretational issues. Accordingly, it was suggested that the provision be reviewed to ensure consistency with the intended framework for taxing non-resident income.

9.4.2 Further suggestions highlighting the drafting errors in 9(5)(b) and 9(6)(a)(iii)(b) were given by the stakeholders:

> "The conjunction ‘and’ is required between clauses (i) and (ii) of 9(5)(b) -.
> (b) for the purposes of clause (a)(iii),—
> (i) any interest payable by the permanent establishment in India of a non-resident person engaged in the business of banking, to the head office or any other permanent establishment or any other part of such non-resident outside India shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India; and
> (ii) shall be chargeable to tax in addition to any income attributable to the permanent establishment in India;"

(B) to be reworded as follows - (B) making or earning any income from any source outside in India, shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India

Suggestion:

(i) Since the “shall be chargeable to tax” in sub-clause (ii) is in relation to any interest referred to in sub-clause (i), there should be a conjunction “and” between the two sub- clauses.

(ii) In point (B) of sub- clause (iii), the closing portion should be ‘in India’ and not outside India, for the income to be deemed to accrue or arise in India in the hands of the non- resident.”

9.4.3 Clause 9 (5)(b) Royalty: During the Committee’s sitting, a concern was raised regarding the treatment of royalty payments under the provisions of the new Income-tax Bill. It was pointed out that, as currently worded, the Bill appears to bring within the scope of Indian taxation a royalty payment made by one non-resident to another non-resident, even when the transaction has no connection to India. This broad phrasing could inadvertently result in all royalty payments globally being subjected to Indian tax. It was suggested that this issue arises from the drafting of the clause and requires urgent attention to ensure that only royalty payments with a nexus to India are taxed under the new framework. Further during another Committee’s sitting, a concern was raised regarding the proposed change in the sourcing rules for royalty income under Clause 9 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025. Under the existing provisions in Section 9 of the Income-tax Act, royalty is deemed to accrue or arise in India only when the payment is made by a non-resident and the underlying right, property, or information is used for the purpose of earning income from a source in India. The proposed provision in the Bill expands this scope to cover situations where royalty is paid by a non-resident even when it relates to a right, property, or information used for generating income from a source outside India.

9.4.4 Clause 9(6)(a)(iii) A concern was raised regarding the provisions for "income deemed to accrue or arise in India," specifically in relation to royalty transactions. It was pointed out that while the current Income Tax law addresses this under Section 9(1)(vi), the new Income-Tax Bill replaces it with Section 9(6)(a)(iii). The issue highlighted is that the definition within the new Section 9(6)(a)(iii) appears to inadvertently refer to "income from any source outside India" instead of "income from a source within India." It was suggested that this is likely an inadvertent error, as a literal interpretation would contradict established principles of source-based taxation by potentially bringing income sourced outside India under the purview of Indian tax as royalty.

9.4.5 Clause 9(6)(b) One of the stakeholders suggested that the definition of ‘Royalty’ in proposed Bill, includes transfer or ‘grant’ of all or any rights. Use for the word ‘grant’ may be removed.Rationale for inclusion of word ‘grant’ is not comprehensible. Further, this may expand the meaning and lead to interpretational issues. Moreover, any expansion of scope may be beyond the purpose of introduction of the new bill- i.e., for simplification and easy comprehension.

9.4.6 Clause 9(8)(c) Another stakeholder suggested that in clause 9(8)(c)(ii) It appears that the phrase "in case of Non-resident" in the activities referred to in clause 9(8)(c)(ii)(A) and (B) may have been inadvertently omitted, although it is provided under Section 9(1)(i)(b) and (c) of the prevailing Act. In order to avoid any ambiguity in its interpretation or applicability, the Hon'ble Committee is kindly requested to review the said clause.

9.4.7 Clause 9(8)(d) relating to Significant Economic Presence (SEP) : Representatives highlighted concerns regarding the procedural implications of the significant economic presence (SEP) provisions in international taxation. It was noted that while the SEP framework under domestic law does not override treaty protections—specifically where a permanent establishment is absent—taxpayers from treaty jurisdictions are still required to undertake procedural compliances such as obtaining a PAN and filing tax returns in India. This, it was argued, results in unnecessary administrative burdens despite the absence of substantive tax liability under the applicable bilateral treaty. Accordingly, it was recommended by the representatives that taxpayers from treaty jurisdictions who are not subject to SEP due to treaty protection be exempted from such procedural requirements.

Further, concerns were raised about the compliance burden under the SEP framework, particularly for non-resident entities with no real economic nexus to India. It was noted that even treaty-protected entities or importers with no operations or transactions in India are being required to file tax returns under SEP-related provisions, which are then subject to scrutiny despite no tax liability arising. This has led to avoidable litigation and procedural costs. Accordingly, it was suggested that the provision be clarified to exempt non-residents with no economic presence or source-linked transactions in India from return-filing obligations.

9.4.8 Clause 9(8)(f) During the Committee’s sitting, a representative from a professional services firm strongly advised against the removal of the word "reasonably" from the context in which it qualifies the term "attributable" in the draft legislation. While refraining from speculating on the legislative intent, it was firmly stated that the term "reasonably" plays a crucial interpretative role. Its presence ensures that any attribution—particularly of income or liability—is grounded in fairness and proportionality, which is essential for both clarity and just application of the law.

9.4.9 Many other written suggestions on the removal of the word "reasonably" were received which stated that the ITB 2025 consolidates the concept of ‘business connection’ as used in ITA 1961 in clause 9(8)(a) of the Bill to include the following:

(i) any business carried out in India; or
(ii) a significant economic presence in India;
A 'business carried out in India' is then defined to include business activity carried out through an agent etc. In line with this consolidation, all the three attribution principles (i.e., those contained in Explanations 1(a), 3 and 2nd proviso of 2A to section 9(1)(i) of ITA 1961) are consolidated at one place in ITB 2025 in clause 9(8)(f) as follows:
(f) in this sub-section, only the income which is attributable to—
(i) operations carried out in India, when all operations of the business are not carried out in India;
(ii) transactions or activities referred to in sub-section (8)(d), shall be deemed to accrue or arise in India from any business connection;
Thus, the provisions have been consolidated. Also, there is no policy change. It is only with a view to provide clarity that the word 'reasonably' has not been used.

9.4.10 Regarding Clause 9 (10) another drafting error was pointed by the stakeholders that Clause (b) of sub-section (10) may be reworded as follows - (b) to a person not ordinarily resident in India under section 6(13), shall be deemed to accure accrue or arise in India." The word "accrue" has been spelt wrongly in clause (b) of sub-section (10), which needs to be corrected.

9.4.11 A stakeholder suggested to make clause 9(11) more gender neutral and suggested that the language of sub- section (11) may be modified to make it gender neutral. This is one of the examples. This change has to be effected in all the provisions where "his" has been used in the Income-tax Bill, 2025."

9.5 Examination by the Committee:
Ministry accepted the drafting error in the clause 9(5) and submitted in a written reply that

> "Accepted: Drafting error. The reference in cl. 9(5)(b) has to be made to cl. 9(5)(a) and not to 9(5)(a)(iii). Also, 9(5)(b)(i) and 9(5)(b)(ii) are required to be combined to align 9(5)(b)(ii) with the opening portion. This will address the concern of the stakeholder also."

9.5.2 Ministry in another written reply regarding clause 9(6) accepted that it is a case of drafting corrections. The word "in" may be substituted in place of "outside" in clause (6)(a)(iii)(B) of the IT Bill.In case of resident payer, the phrase "in respect of any right, property or information used or services utilised" may be inserted after the phrase "royalty is payable" " in clause (6)(a)(ii) of the IT Bill. In view of the above, the suggestion may be considered.

9.5.3 On the stakeholder's suggestion seeking deletion of the word 'grant' from the definition of 'royalty' in clause 9.(6)(b). Ministry in a written reply submitted to the Committee that:

> "Explanation 2 to section 9(1)(vi) of the I T Act used the word 'transfer' in general and the word 'granting' in the context of a licence. For the purpose of section 9(1) (vi) The 'royalty' inter alia means 'consideration' in respect of a patent, invention, model, design, secret formula or process or trade mark or similar property. Therefore, the the use of words 'grant' along with the word 'transfer' provides more clarity and minimises probable disputes arising on account of interpretational issues. It also minimises possibilities of restricting it to 'transfer' only and removes existing dichotomy in the use of both terms.Therefore, the proposed amendment is not feasible."

9.5.4 Ministry during the oral evidence further clarified their submission as reproduced below:

> "there is a slight drafting change which has been done in the provision – 'by way of transfer or grant of a license'. That is how it has been used. So, it is just making it more clear. No additional power or additional liability towards taxability of royalty has been taken. Earlier, in the first line, it was written only transfer and consequently, when license was there, 'by way of grant of license was also there'. So, now, we just consolidate it to two terms."

9.5.5 Ministry on the suggestion to add "in case of Non-resident" in Clauses 9(8)(c)(ii)(A) and (B) have submitted in a written reply that > "This is in the nature of drafting error. The suggestion is acceptable."

9.5.6 Regarding the suggestions of the stakeholders clause 9(8), Ministry initially submitted that it may be mentioned here that the words 'reasonably attributable' has not been used in Explanation 3 and 2nd proviso to Explanation 2A to s.9(1)(i) of ITA 1961. It has been used only in Explanation 1(a) to section 9(1).Further, under the mandate of s.295 of ITA 1961, rule 10 provides for the ways of making the attribution in case of income through or from a business connection. In this rule, the primary emphasis is on a situation where income deemed to accrue or arise through or from a business connection (among other things) cannot be definitely ascertained. The reasonableness principle is then brought in as clause (i) of the rule. In a case where the income from a business connection can be ascertained in a 'definite' manner, the need for applying the standard of reasonableness would not arise as also would the recourse to Rule 10. As the rule needs to be applied in all other cases, the word 'reasonably' appearing before the word 'attributable' in Explanation 1(a) to s.9(1)(i) does not lend any additional weight.Thus, in the consolidated and simplified text of ITB 2025, only the word ‘attributable has been used.Further, in a treaty case, the attribution is to be made in case of a PE instead of a business connection under the Act. In that scenario also, the attribution is generally made under Rule 10 of the Rules on account of the provisions of the DTAAs entered into by India. It is important to point out that in the DTAAs, the term ‘reasonably’ is not prefixed to the word attributed. This shall bring clarity and uniformity in the interpretation of term ‘attributable’ and minimise disputes arising out of multiple interpretation.The amendment has been made with a view to rationalise the provision so as to provide tax certainty and reduce litigation and to make the language clear and direct. Therefore, no change in the provision may be necessary.

9.5.7 Ministry further explained that "reasonable attribution" is also guided by rules to be made under the Act (similar to rules under Sec 295 of the old Act), and including "reasonably attributed" in the Act and then again in rules was seen as duplication and submitted to the Committee as under:

> “Sir, I can just explain. Once we talk of attribution, we have made rules under 295 of the present Act that how do we attribute income because the plain reading of the subsection says that income has to be attributed, reasonably attributed. It says reasonably attributed. But that reasonable attribution has also to be in accordance with the rules made under 295. Those rules will also correspondingly be made under this Act and those rules include the concept of reasonable attribution. It is a duplication of thing that when I am saying reasonably attributed in the first and then reasonably attributed in accordance with the rules which rules themselves are saying reasonably attributed, it is only for that reason…
> ….All the suggestions regarding the term ‘reasonable’, wherever they are, we will take the same positions and we will answer it accordingly."

9.5.8 Subsequently Ministry in another written reply submitted that:

> “Stakeholder seeks to incorporate the word 'reasonably attributable' in place of 'attributable in clause 9.(8)(f) and 9.(9)(f).In view of the discussions with the Hon'ble Committee, the provision shall be aligned with the IT Act.”

9.5.9 Regarding the Significant Economic Presence (SEP) provisions under Clause 9(8)(d), concerns have been raised that taxpayers from treaty jurisdictions—who are protected from substantive tax liability in India due to the absence of a Permanent Establishment—are nevertheless subject to procedural compliance burdens such as obtaining a PAN and filing tax returns. A recommendation was made to exempt such treaty-protected taxpayers from these procedural requirements in cases where no substantive tax liability arises in India due to treaty protection over SEP provisions, to which the Ministry submitted as under:

“Significant Economic Presence (SEP) of a non-resident constitute 'business connection' in India and income of such non-resident, accruing or arising from such business connection is deemed as income sourced in India. However, the provisions of DTAA (treaty) overrides SEP. For availing benefit of treaty, a non-resident must file a self-declaration in Form 10F along with a tax residency certificate (TRC) of their country of residence. The Form 10F applicability is mandatory for NRIs who do not have all the required details of TRC. Previously, NRIs who did not have a PAN card also had to file Form 10F online. This required all taxpayers to obtain PAN registration as there were no options to log in to the income tax filing portal without a PAN. However, now a non-resident can register on the Income Tax Portal without a PAN. Therefore, a PAN card is no longer required to file Form 10F online. As regards, filing of Return of Income (ROI), in the case of a foreign company or a non-resident (not being a company) filing of Return of Income is not mandatory if his total income comprises of only dividend, interest, royalty or fee for technical services and specified tax has been deducted on such income. However, where such assessees become liable to tax on account of active business activities, the filing of return may be required on case-to- case basis. The intricacies of taxation and its effective administration require basic minimum procedural compliances from the taxpayers, so that a non-intrusive approach may be adopted for ensuring tax compliances. The requirement of obtaining PAN and filing of return falls under such procedural compliances, as identification of a taxpayer, determination of tax liability, issuance of refund, examination of the nature of income reported by the taxpayer and its appropriate taxability hinges on these basic compliances.”

9.5.10 Ministry accepted the recommendation for the clause 9(10) regarding the misspelt word “accure” and submitted in a written reply that “Accepted: It is a drafting error. May be corrected by substituting the word 'accure' with the word 'accrue'.”

9.5.11 Ministry on the suggestion to make clause 9(11) more gender neutral Stakeholder has suggested to use gender neutral terms in the Bill. Gender neutrality has to be seen in Indian context. In Indian laws, 'his' has been used extensively and 'his' is inclusive of 'her'. Even the Constitution mentions 'his' nearly 300 times. In India, even inanimate things are assigned a gender in the usage of language. Moreover gender neutral words may affect the readability or meaning of the provision. This change is a policy matter, which is beyond the purview of the I T Bill.There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961.Therefore, the proposed amendment is not feasible.

9.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Clause 9(5)

9.6.1 The Committee, after a careful review of Clause 9(5), identified drafting issues related to incorrect referencing and structural incoherence that could affect its interpretation. The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clause 9(5)(b), the reference be corrected to point to the broader Clause 9(5)(a), and that sub-clauses 9(5)(b)(i) and (ii) be combined to improve logical flow and textual coherence.

Clause 9(6)

9.6.2 The Committee, upon deliberations on Clause 9(6), identified a critical typographical error in sub-clause (a)(iii)(B) that could significantly alter the scope of taxable royalty income for non-residents . The Committee, therefore, recommend that in the said sub-clause, the phrase "making or earning any income from any source outside India" be corrected to read "making or earning any income from any source in India".

Clause 9(8)(c)

9.6.3 The Committee, after a review of Clause 9(8)(c), identified that a key qualifying phrase appeared to have been inadvertently omitted from sub-clauses (ii)(A) and (B), which could lead to ambiguity in applying these crucial exclusions 1111. The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clauses 9(8)(c)(ii)(A) and (B), the phrase "in case of Non-resident" be added to align the provision with the corresponding sections of the prevailing Income-tax Act, 1961.

Clause 9(10)

9.6.4 The Committee, after reviewing sub-clause 9(10), identified a misspelt word. The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clause 9(10)(b), the word "accure" be corrected to read "accrue". The Committee further accept the remaining provisions of Clause 9 as proposed.

Clause No 10: Apportionmenet of income between spouses governed by Portuguese Civil Code.

10.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

If a husband and wife are governed by the community of property system (known as "COMMUNIAO DOS BENS" under the Portuguese Civil Code of 1860) in the State of Goa and the Union territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu, then—

(a) their income under any head of income shall not be assessed together as that of community of property;

(b) the income mentioned in clause (a) under each head of income other than "Salaries" shall be divided equally between the husband and the wife;

(c) the income so divided shall be included separately in the total income of the husband and the wife, and the remaining provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly; and

(d) where either the husband or the wife, has any income under the head "Salaries", that income shall be included in the total income of the spouse who has actually earned it.

10.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Apportionment of income between spouses governed by Portuguese Civil Code.

5A. (1) Where the husband and wife are governed by the system of community of property (known under the Portuguese Civil Code of 1860 as "COMMUNIAO DOS BENS") in force in the State of Goa and in the Union territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu, the income of the husband and of the wife under any head of income shall not be assessed as that of such community of property (whether treated as an association of persons or a body of individuals), but such income of the husband and of the wife under each head of income (other than under the head "Salaries") shall be apportioned equally between the husband and the wife and the income so apportioned shall be included separately in the total income of the husband and of the wife respectively, and the remaining provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

(2) Where the husband or, as the case may be, the wife governed by the aforesaid system of community of property has any income under the head "Salaries", such income shall be included in the total income of the spouse who has actually earned it.

10.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 10 of the Bill deals with apportionment of income between spouses governed by Portuguese Civil Code. The clause corresponds to section 5A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

10.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of the stakeholders submitted that this clause be deleted. There is no need for separate treatment for Portuguese Civil Code in Goa, Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu After more than 60 years after liberation of Goa, time has come to integrate taxation in Goa, Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu.

10.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry in their written reply submitted that the stakeholder seeks deletion of clause pertaining to persons governed under Portuguese Civil Code of 1860.The suggestion is the nature of policy change, which is beyond the scope of I T Bill, 2025.There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961.The said provision of the IT Bill provide clarity on taxation of Income where a husband and wife are governed by the community of property system (known as “COMMUNIAO DOS BENS” under the Portuguese Civil Code of 1860) in the State of Goa and the Union territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu. Therefore, any amendment in said settled position of law may raise disputes and further litigation.Therefore the proposed amendment is not feasible.

10.5.2 During the oral evidence Ministry further clarified their submission and deposed before the Committee as under:

> “Sir, we have one special provision for persons covered under Portuguese Civil Code of 1860. In Income Tax, we have provided separate method of assessing them in which the income is taxed in hands of both husband and wife. So, they want to do away with this. But this has been always there on the statute and we have been taxing them like this.”

10.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after considering Clause 10 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, which relates to the apportionment of income between spouses governed by the Portuguese Civil Code, note that the provision corresponds to Section 5A of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Clause retains the existing position regarding taxation of income of spouses who are governed by the community of property system in the State of Goa and the Union territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu.

The Committee deliberated on a suggestion regarding deletion of the provision on the grounds that there is no longer a need for a separate tax treatment based on the Portuguese Civil Code, and that a uniform tax regime should now be applicable more than sixty years after Goa's liberation. However, the Committee note the Ministry's response that the provision reflects a long-standing and settled legal treatment, and its deletion would amount to a broader policy change beyond the scope of the present Bill. Accordingly, the Committee are of the view that Clause 10, which simplifies the language of the existing provision without altering its intent, may be accepted as proposed.

and chargeable to equalisation levy under that Chapter:]

[73][Provided *that the provisions of this clause shall not apply to any income of the previous year relevant to the assessment year beginning on or after the 1st day of April, 2026.]

Explanation 1.—For the removal of doubts it is hereby clarified that the income referred to in this clause shall not include and shall be deemed never to have been included any income which is chargeable to tax as royalty or fees for technical services in India under this Act read with the agreement notified by the Central Government under section 90 or section 90A.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this clause,—

(i) "e-commerce supply or services" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (cb) of section 164 of the Finance Act, 2016 (28 of 2016);

(ii) "specified service" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (i) of section 164 of the Finance Act, 2016 (28 of 2016).

11.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 11 of the Bill seeks to provide for incomes not included in total income and, inter alia, provides for details of income enumerated in Schedules II, III, IV, V and VI which are not to be included in computing the total income of any person for a tax year. It also deals with persons enumerated in Schedule VII who are not chargeable to tax under the proposed legislation for a tax year. The clause corresponds to section 10 of the Act. The provisions related to exemptions are contained in section 10 of the present Act. There are around 140 clauses in said section 10, providing exemption to different persons and incomes. Since section 10 of the Act starts with an opening sentence and different exemptions provided therein are in the form of clauses, there are inherent limitations in the drafting. There are provisos within clauses, Explanations to these provisos and again provisos to the Explanations making the provisions difficult to comprehend. All the clauses of section 10 have been placed in 6 schedules and income eligible for exemption, eligible persons and the applicable conditions have been provided in different columns of the Table under each of these Schedules for the ease of understanding.

11.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

During the course of the stakeholder interactions, one of the witnesses highlighted that under the current Income-tax Act, capital gains earned by charitable organizations upon disinvestment—if reinvested into other specified modes—are exempt from tax, recognizing it as a mere realignment of corpus within permitted avenues. It was pointed out that this exemption appears to have been omitted in the new Bill, which could adversely affect not-for-profit entities despite there being no change in the underlying charitable intent or the mode of investment. Accordingly, it was suggested that the exemption be reinstated to preserve parity with the existing regime.
Separately, another witness referred to changes in the treatment of anonymous donations under the Bill. While the exemption appears to have been retained for purely religious trusts, the provision appears to exclude mixed-purpose trusts (those with both religious and charitable objects). It was submitted that this exclusion may have been intentional or inadvertent; nonetheless, considering that mixed-purpose trusts serve dual public interest objectives, the exemption for anonymous donations should also be extended to them. Accordingly, it was suggested that the relevant provision be reconsidered and aligned with existing practice.

11.4.2 During the discussion on tax exemptions for Scheduled Tribes Clause 11, concern was raised over the lack of clarity in the current drafting, particularly the omission of Assam and Meghalaya, which are only indirectly covered under the Sixth Schedule. It was suggested that explicitly naming these States would help avoid confusion for taxpayers and authorities alike. The need to consider ST status as lifelong—irrespective of government service—was highlighted, along with a proposal to extend the exemption to individuals working outside Scheduled Areas, given the absence of generational wealth and the need for financial empowerment. Procedural issues around annual exemption certificates were also flagged, with calls for a self-declaration system similar to Forms 15G and 15H. There was general agreement that income earned outside notified areas is currently taxable, but concerns were expressed over burdensome enforcement and the inconsistent treatment of similar economic conditions across the Northeast.

11.4.3 Suggestions on the schedules pertaining to the clause 11 were received, which stated that “

i. Clarity & Interpretation Define ambiguous terms in Schedules II & III (e.g., “allowances” scope) to prevent misinterpretation and litigation. Explicit cross-referencing with relevant sections of the Income-Tax Act to improve understanding (e.g., HUF exemptions in Schedule III). Illustrative examples within schedules to clarify eligibility (e.g., agricultural income in Schedule II).

ii. Tax Incentives & Deductions Expand Schedule IV deductions for R&D and ESG initiatives to encourage corporate investment in innovation and sustainability.

iii. Introduce temporary tax holidays in Schedule VI for startups and green energy firms, aligning with Viksit Bharat 2047 goals.Compliance & Efficiency Automate return filing and assessments in Schedule V to reduce manual errors and enhance efficiency.

iv. Raise TDS thresholds for professional fees and simplify TCS compliance for e-commerce in Schedules VI & VII, supporting MSMEs.

v. Establish a dedicated dispute resolution mechanism in Schedule V with time-bound appeal disposal to ease corporate litigation burdens."

11.4.4 One of the stake holders pointed out that S.11(4) of ITB 2025 may raise an ambiguity as to whether the exemption for past years should also be withdrawn, if the conditions are not fulfilled for any subsequent year.To avoid ambiguity, it is suggested that s.11(4) may altogether be omitted, as s.11(3) sufficiently ensures that exemption is granted subject to satisfaction of conditions for the tax year under reference. Without prejudice, if Section 11(4) is to be retained, it may be clarified that the denial of exemption is restricted to the tax year for which the conditions referred to in Schedule VII are not satisfied.The non-fulfilment of conditions for a specific tax year should not lead to denial of the exemption for other tax years where those conditions have been fulfilled.

11.4.5 A different suggestion pointed out a drafting error in the Schedule II.Sl. No.2, In case of ULIPs, in Sl 4, Column C may be modified to provide that exemption is available only if "aggregate of premium for all such policies (in each of the tax years during the term of all of such policies) is <=₹ 2,50,000." The same suggestion applies to Sl 5 as well, where the relevant portions are highlighted in bold in the previous column. Under s.10(10D) of ITA 1961, exemption in respect of ULIP is forfeited if the premium for any tax year exceeds Rs 2.50 lacs. Corresponding provision in ITB 2025 seems to suggest that exemption is forfeited if the aggregate premium for all tax years comprising the policy term exceeds Rs 2.50 lacs.

11.4.6 Another stakeholder suggested that Exemption limit for ULIP & Non ULIP policies ie Rs 2.5 Lakh and Rs 5 Lakh respectively may be linked to some Inflation benchmark , allowing higher exemption for section 10(10D) by modifying premium to Sum Assured ratio 7 times (as against 10 times at present) considering age and health realities of policyholders (as per IRDAI regulations) and the general increase in insurance cost to the customers. Alternatively, the proceeds received on life insurance policy may be exempted without the condition on maximum premium amount, similar to benefits available for IFSC Insurance Office.To align with industry regulations, viz., clause 3 of IRDAI (Insurance Products) Regulations 2024 & revision due to inflation This will also facilitate reduction in cases of mis-selling or wrong buying as the tax provisions will be aligned with product provisions stipulated by the regulator.

11.4.7 Another suggestion on the Clause 11 was to Consider incorporating a new sub-paragraph in Schedule III, Sub Para 16(a) as under Clause 11 of draft Income Tax Bill 2A25 to read as: - "Pensions granted as War injury Pension to Armed-Forces Pensioners of Indian Defense Services, ar of the Auxiliary Force, India, or of the Indian Territorial Force, in respect of wounds or injuries received in action ar in the pertarmance of their duties as members of such forces otherwise than in action."

11.4.8 Another stakeholder suggested that the Section 10(4H) is only applicable in the case of aircrafts. But the Para 8 of Schedule VI of the New Income-tax Bill, 2025 is also applicable in case of ships.

11.5 Examination by the Committee:

Representatives of the Ministry during the briefing meeting informed the Committee that:

> "There is one clause in section 10 which has 23 provisos. There are 13 explanations. All these have ended".

11.5.2 Ministry on the suggestion of the stakeholders in a written reply informed to the Committee that the stakeholder seeks changes in the Schedules to clause 11(which corresponds to section 10 of the I T Act). However, the suggestions are not clear and has incorrect references.As regards suggestion at (i) it is stated that in the schedule terms required to be defined have been provided in the note below the schedule. Thus, the purpose of suggestion is not clear. Other suggestions(ii) to (v) have incorrect references.In view of the above, the proposed amendments are not feasible.

11.5.3 Ministry on the suggestion pointing out the drafting error in Schedule II.Sl. No.2, in a written reply submitted that > "Accepted:It is a drafting error. May be corrected by inserting the word"any" for the word "all" in schedule II, column C, in Table corresponding to serial number 2(a), at serial number 4 and 5. [correction at three places]."

11.5.4 Regarding the stakeholder's suggestion seeking exemption on proceeds received from life insurance without the condition on maximum premium amount. The suggestion is the nature of policy change, which is beyond the scope of I T Bill, 2025.There is no change in the IT Bill, 2025 vis-a-vis I T Act, 1961.Further, the proposal is against the stated policy of the Government to phase out exemption and deduction.The legislative intent of providing exemption under clause (10D) of section 10 of the Act has been to further the welfare objective by subsidising the risk premium for an individual's life and providing benefit to small and genuine cases of life insurance coverage.Therefore the proposed amendment is not feasible.

11.5.5 Ministry further submitted on this particular suggestion that > "when we tax the proceeds received from life insurance, then we provide a limit for that exemption. If the premium is up to Rs. 2,50,000 or rupees five lakh, so, for that, we provide exemption under present section 10(10)(D). So, the stakeholder is saying, why do you have this ceiling of Rs. 2.5 lakh and rupees five lakh? You remove the ceiling. So, this exemption is provided to like small tax payers and not for the larger ones. So, that is the thing."

11.5.6 Further, there was an extensive discussion on war injury pension, its historical context of exemption since 1922, the CBDT circular of 2019 restricting it, the Supreme Court's stay, took place between the representatives of CBDT and Committee.The Department in this regard clarified that there has never been any intention to tax war injury pensions, and no circular has created confusion on this point. The exemption dates back to 1922, when pensions granted to members of His Majesty's naval, military, or air forces—invalided due to bodily disability attributable to or aggravated by service—were made tax-exempt under the Indian Income-tax Act. It was explained that the term "war injury pension" may have been informally used by stakeholders, but the legal position has always applied more broadly to service-related disability, not just war-related injuries. The 2019 CBDT circular reaffirmed this position, stating that exemption is only available to armed forces personnel invalided from service due to such service-related disabilities. The department acknowledged awareness of cases flagged by the Defence Ministry, where individuals retiring at senior levels received disability pensions unrelated to active service conditions. However, it was stated that such instances would require formal clarification and should not be treated as part of the record until verified.
The exemption framework, as clarified, does not hinge on whether the disability occurred in war, but rather on whether it was caused by or aggravated during service—including in difficult terrains or operational postings without direct combat. The term "war" does not appear in the exemption language, and disabilities from adverse service conditions are fully covered. The department assured that there has been no change in this policy and reaffirmed its commitment to re-examining any ambiguities, including a formal consultation with the Defence Ministry.

11.5.7 Ministry in a written reply have further elaborated on the above subject and submitted to the Company that > "the tax exemption is available only to armed forces personnel who have been invalided from service on account of bodily disability attributable to or aggravated by such service and not to personnel who have been retired on superannuation or otherwise with some disability. This has been clarified by the CBDT's vide Circular No.13/2019 dated 24.06.2019. Instances have come to notice that the exemption granted has been subject to misuse by personnel who retire from service with some disability which is not attributable to or aggravated by service. Consequently there is litigation which is now before the Supreme Court. Hon'ble Supreme Court has ordered (vide its interim order dated 30.08.2019) to "maintain the status quo." in this regard. This will continue even after the new Bill. Thus the matter is presently sub-judice."

11.5.8 Regarding the stakeholder's suggestion on subclause 11(4) Ministry in their written reply submitted that

> "Accepted: It is a drafting error. May be corrected by inserting the phrase 'for that tax year' in clause 11(4) as it is there is clause 11(2)"

11.5.9 Ministry on the suggestion Para 8 of Schedule VI in a written reply to the Committee submitted that Stakeholder has suggested that Sl. No. 8 of Schedule VI[Corresponding to section 10(4H)] is applicable to only aircrafts and not ship. Section 10(4H) as amended vide Finance Act, 2025 is also applicable in the case of a Ship. The amendment has been carried out in Sl. No. 8 of Schedule VI also. Therefore, the observation/suggestion is incorrect/ not clear.

11.5.10 Regarding tax exemptions for Scheduled Tribes under Clause 11 and relevant Schedules, and Clause 2(5) relating to "agricultural income", concerns were raised about the need for explicit inclusion of Sixth Schedule areas in states like Assam and Meghalaya, lifelong recognition of ST status for exemption purposes regardless of government service, extension of exemptions to ST individuals working outside notified areas, simplification of procedural requirements such as replacing annual exemption certificates with self-declaration, and the interaction of these exemptions with Clause 6 on "Residence in India" so that a temporary change in place of work does not disqualify individuals from exemptions historically linked to their origin and income source if underlying conditions remain met, to which the Ministry submitted as under:

> "Residential Status as such has no linkages with the provisions of exemption granted to a specific person. However, clause 10(26) of the Act [now Schedule III(Table: S. No. 19) of the Bill] provides exemption to a member of a Scheduled Tribe residing is certain specified area and is available on any income accruing or arising from any source in that specified areas and on dividend or interest on securities. In order to entitle a person to the exemption under section 10(26), three conditions must coexist- (i) He should be a member of a scheduled tribe as defined in clause(25) of article 366 of the constitution; (ii)He should be residing in any area specified in Part I or Pat II of the Table appended to paragraph 20 of the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution or residing in the States mentioned in the said provisions; (iii) the income in respect of which exemption is claimed must be an income which accrues or arises to him-

(a) from any source in the areas or states mentioned in the provisions; or
(b) by way of dividend or interest on securities. In respect of provisions relating to exemptions granted to specific categories of individuals, such as Scheduled Tribes from designated areas there is no change in the provisions of Bill vis-a-vis the Act. Therefore, the Bill does not automatically disqualify them from exemptions historically linked to their origin and the source of specific incomes, if those underlying conditions (as specified in the relevant provisions) are still met.

…..The provisions of section 10(26) clearly specify applicability of the said exemption to a member of scheduled tribe residing in certain specified areas mentioned therein and on certain specified income. All three conditions of being a member of specified Scheduled tribes, residing in a specified area and having specified income must co-exist to be considered as eligible for exemption under said section.
There is no ambiguity in the provisions of clause 11 in respect of exemption available to members of scheduled tribes (as available under section 10(26) of the I T Act). The same has been kept in the Bill."

11.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Clause 11(4)

11.6.1 The Committee, after reviewing Clause 11(4), identified a need for greater clarity regarding the period for which a tax exemption denial applies. The Committee, therefore, recommend that Clause 11(4) be amended to explicitly state that the chargeability of tax, in case of non-fulfilment of conditions under Schedule VII, would be "for that tax year" only, aligning it with the language used in Clause 11(2).

Schedule II

11.6.2 The Committee, after a careful review of Schedule II, identified a significant drafting error concerning the tax exemption for Unit Linked Insurance Plans (ULIPs) as outlined in Sl. No. 2, specifically in items 4 and 5, Column C. The Committee, therefore, recommend that in the relevant parts of Schedule II, the word "all" be replaced with the word "any" to ensure parity between the existing Act and the Bill.

The Committee, having examined the clause in its entirety, endorse the remaining provisions of Clause without any modifications.

Clause No.12: Incomes not to be included in total income of political parties and electoral trusts

12.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) In computing the total income of any political party or an electoral trust for a tax year under this Act, any income enumerated in Schedule VIII shall not be included, subject to fulfilment of conditions specified therein.

(2) Wherever the conditions referred to in Schedule VIII are not satisfied in any tax year in respect of any income enumerated in the said Schedule, such income shall be charged to tax under this Act for that tax year.

(3) The Central Government may make rules or issue notifications for the purposes of this section as specified in the Schedule VIII.

12.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provision relating to incomes of political parties.

13A. Any income of a political party which is chargeable under the head "Income from house property" or "Income from other sources" or "Capital gains" or any income by way of voluntary contributions received by a political party from any person shall not be included in the total income of the previous year of such political party :

Provided that—

(a) such political party keeps and maintains such books of account and other documents as would enable the Assessing Officer to properly deduce its income therefrom;

(b) in respect of each such voluntary contribution other than contribution by way of electoral bond in excess of twenty thousand rupees, such political party keeps and maintains a record of such contribution and the name and address of the person who has made such contribution;

(c) the accounts of such political party are audited by an accountant as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288; and

(d) no donation exceeding two thousand rupees is received by such political party otherwise than by an account payee cheque drawn on a bank or an account payee bank draft or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode as may be prescribed or through electoral bond.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this proviso, "electoral bond" means a bond referred to in the Explanation to sub-section (3) of section 31 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (2 of 1934):

Provided further that if the treasurer of such political party or any other person authorised by that political party in this behalf fails to submit a report under sub-section (3) of section 29C of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (43 of 1951) for a financial year, no exemption under this section shall be available for that political party for such financial year:

Provided also that such political party furnishes a return of income for the previous year in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (4B) of section 139 on or before the due date under that section.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "political party" means a political party registered under section 29A of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (43 of 1951).

Special provisions relating to voluntary contributions received by electoral trust.

13B. Any voluntary contributions received by an electoral trust shall not be included in the total income of the previous year of such electoral trust, if—

(a) such electoral trust distributes to any political party, registered under section 29A of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (43 of 1951), during the said previous year, ninety-five per cent of the aggregate donations received by it during the said previous year along with the surplus, if any, brought forward from any earlier previous year; and

(b) such electoral trust functions in accordance with the rules made by the Central Government.

12.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 12 of the Bill provides for income not to be included in total income of political parties and electoral trust enumerated in Schedule VIII which are not to be included in computing their total income for a tax year. The clause corresponds to section 13A and 13B of the Act. The two sections 13A and 13B of the Act have been merged and income eligible for exemption, eligible person and applicable conditions have been placed in tabular form in schedule VIII of the Bill. The provisions of the existing sections have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause and corresponding schedule VIII.

12.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after examining Clause 12 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it relates to the exemption of certain incomes of political parties and electoral trusts from inclusion in total income. The Committee observe that the clause corresponds to Sections 13A and 13B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and retains the substance of those provisions and present them in a simplified and consolidated manner through a newly introduced Schedule VIII. The Committee also note that the structure of Schedule VIII consolidates information in a tabular format, enhancing clarity and ease of compliance.The Committee find that there is no change in the intent or scope of the provision compared to the existing law, and the proposed drafting seeks to improve accessibility and administrative efficiency. No comments have been raised by stakeholders in this regard. Accordingly, the Committee are of the view that Clause 12 may be accepted as proposed.

CHAPTER IV

COMPUTATION OF TOTAL INCOME

A.Heads of Income

Clause No. 13: Heads of income

13.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

Save as otherwise provided in this Act, all incomes shall, for the purposes of charge of income-tax and computation of total income, be classified under the following heads of income:—

(a) Salaries;

(b) Income from house property;

(c) Profits and gains of business or profession;

(d) Capital gains; and

(e) Income from other sources.

13.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

CHAPTER IV

COMPUTATION OF TOTAL INCOME

Heads of income

Heads of income.

14. Save as otherwise provided by this Act, all income shall, for the purposes of charge of income-tax and computation of total income, be classified under the following heads of income :—

A. —Salaries.

B. —[]

C. —Income from house property.

D. —Profits and gains of business or profession.

E. —Capital gains.

F. —Income from other sources.

13.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 13 of the Bill provides for classification under various heads of income for the purposes of charge of income-tax and computation of total income. This clause corresponds to section 14 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 ("the Act"). The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

13.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of the suggestion submitted was that the tax framework of ethical taxation where income streams must evolve from the simplicity of five heads to a more nuanced tapestry of sixteen, so as to honour every form of modern endeavor and uphold the noble aims of our Constitutional Architecture under Part XII and Part XIII. The age-worn five-head model—born of a bygone era—cannot encompass the full spectrum of today's livelihoods: the artisan whose creativity blossoms on digital platforms, the gig worker whose skill is engaged by the hour, the rural innovator who benefits from carbon-credit markets, or the small investor who navigates tokenized assets. By distinguishing Active from Passive Income, we pay tribute to both labor and ownership; by separating Investment Income and Financial Instrument Income, we acknowledge the enduring value of traditional capital alongside the promise of new financial innovations; by carving out Digital and Creator Economy, Gig and Platform, and International and Cross-Border Income, we affirm that creativity, flexibility, and global reach deserve their own voice. Alongside these, Government and Social Transfer, Legal and Settlement, and Institutional or Trust Income ensure that public support, judicial awards, and charitable distributions are transparently recognized. The inclusion of Other Natural Resources, Speculative and Contest, Criminal and Illicit, and Unexplained or Undisclosed Income guards our system against evasion and reinforces the rule of law, while a final category for Other Sources leaves room for future innovations yet to be imagined. Rooted firmly in the interdependent design of our Constitution, and ethical taxation foundation, this expanded classification transforms taxation into a tool of ethics, precision and justice—eradicating poverty by organizing and directing the economic compass where it is most needed, fostering prosperity by recognizing every legitimate enterprise, and nurturing public confidence through clarity, inclusiveness, and unwavering respect for the foundational principles entrusted to Parliament by Parts XII and XIII.

13.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry on the suggestion regarding increasing the heads of income to 16 instead of the present 5 heads submitted that there is no concrete suggestion which can be examined for law purposes. Providing for 16 separate heads of income is a radical suggestion and not implementable. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

13.5.2 Ministry during the oral evidence further submitted as under:

> "they want 16 heads of income. We have already settled heads of income and there is hardly any litigation on that. They want to increase it to 16 heads."

13.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after examining Clause 13 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it relates to the classification of income under specified heads for the purpose of computation, corresponding to Section 14 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The provision maintains the existing five heads of income viz. salaries, income from house property, profits and gains of business or profession, capital gains, and income from other sources and presents them in a simplified and coherent manner.The Committee observe that the clause retains the scope and intent of the existing provision without any substantive alteration, and therefore accept the clause as proposed in the Bill.

Clause No. 14: Income not forming part of total Income and expenditure in relation to such Income

14.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) Irrespective of anything to the contrary contained in this Act, for the purposes of computing the total income under this Chapter, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of expenditure incurred by the assessee in relation to income which does not form part of the total income.

(2) Where the Assessing Officer, having regard to the accounts of the assessee, is not satisfied with—

(a) the correctness of the claim of expenditure incurred by the assessee; or

(b) the claim made by the assessee that no expenditure has been incurred, in relation to income which does not form part of the total income under this Act, he shall determine such amount of expenditure in accordance with any method, as prescribed.

(3) Irrespective of anything to the contrary contained in this Act, the provisions of this section shall apply in a case where any expenditure has been incurred during any tax year in relation to income which does not form part of the total income under this Act, but such income has not accrued or arisen or has not been received during that tax year.

14.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Expenditure incurred in relation to income not includible in total income.

14A. (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Act, for the purposes of computing the total income under this Chapter, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of expenditure incurred by the assessee in relation to income which does not form part of the total income under this Act.

(2) The Assessing Officer shall determine the amount of expenditure incurred in relation to such income which does not form part of the total income under this Act in accordance with such method as may be prescribed, if the AssessingOfficer, having regard to the accounts of the assessee, is not satisfied with the correctness of the claim of the assessee in respect of such expenditure in relation to income which does not form part of the total income under this Act.

(3) The provisions of sub-section (2) shall also apply in relation to a case where an assessee claims that no expenditure has been incurred by him in relation to income which does not form part of the total income under this Act :

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall empower the Assessing Officer either to reassess under section 147 or pass an order enhancing the assessment or reducing a refund already made or otherwise increasing the liability of the assessee under section 154, for any assessment year beginning on or before the 1st day of April, 2001.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby clarified that notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Act, the provisions of this section shall apply and shall be deemed to have always applied in a case where the income, not forming part of the total income under this Act, has not accrued or arisen or has not been received during the previous year relevant to an assessment year and the expenditure has been incurred during the said previous year in relation to such income not forming part of the total income.

14.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 14 of the Bill provides for disallowance of certain expenditure incurred in relation to income which does not form part of the total income. This clause corresponds to section 14A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

14.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders

One of stakeholders suggested that sub-section (2) may be reworded as follows – "The amount of expenditure incurred in relation to such income which does not form part of the total income under this Act to be certified by an accountant, in cases where the assessee is subject to audit under section 63 and self- certified, in other cases." Discretionary power of the Assessing Officer may be removed. The expenditure can be certified by the professional involved in auditing of accounts in cases where the assessee is subject to audit under section 63 and self- certification in other cases. This would reduce litigation.

14.5 Examination by the Committee

Ministry in a written reply submitted that The suggestion seeks to remove the discretionary power of the AO u/s 14A (disallowance of expenditure in relation to the exempt income) and instead rely on the certificate of an accountant. In cases of wrongful claims, the Revenue's right to adjust the claim cannot be circumscribed. This is a settled issue in which the matter has reached the Supreme Court as well. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

14.5.2 Ministry further clarified this during the oral evidence and submitted that:

> "there is Section 14A in the existing Act. Basically, the idea is this. If an assessee is having incomes, some part of which is taxable and some part of which is exempt, but the expenses are common to both of them, then it says that a part of income attributable to whatever is exempt income will be disallowed. And for that, a formula is also there. Rule 8D is existing in the Act. Now they are saying that whatever Auditor certifies that this part of expenditure should be disallowed, that should be accepted and AO should not have any discretionary power. This is one important section. The AO needs to have power to see whether the disallowance made is correct or not or whether any disallowance has been made or not. That is why we have not accepted this."

14.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon review of Clause 14 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it relates to the disallowance of expenditure incurred in relation to income which does not form part of the total income. The clause corresponds to the existing Section 14A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and seeks to maintain the underlying principle that no deduction shall be allowed for expenses incurred to earn exempt income. The Committee observe that the provision has been retained in substance and merely restated with minor editorial simplifications. No concerns or suggestions were raised by stakeholders regarding the clause. In light of the above, the Committee endorse Clause 14 as proposed, without suggesting any modification.

CHAPTER IV

COMPUTATION OF TOTAL INCOME

B. Salaries

Clause No.15: Salaries

15.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) The following income shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Salaries":—

(a) any salary due from an employer to an assessee in the tax year, whether paid or not;

(b) any salary paid or allowed to him in the tax year by or on behalf of an employer though not due or before it became due to him;

(c) any arrears of salary paid or allowed to him in the tax year by or on behalf of an employer, if not charged to income-tax for any earlier tax year.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), employer includes former employer.

(3) If any salary paid in advance is included in the total income of any person for any tax year, it shall not be included again in the total income of such person when the salary becomes due.

(4) Any salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, due to, or received by, a partner of a firm from the firm shall not be regarded as salary for the purposes of this section.

15.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Salaries.

15. The following income shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Salaries"—

(a) any salary due from an employer or a former employer to an assessee in the previous year, whether paid or not;

(b) any salary paid or allowed to him in the previous year by or on behalf of an employer or a former employer though not due or before it became due to him;

(c) any arrears of salary paid or allowed to him in the previous year by or on behalf of an employer or a former employer, if not charged to income-tax for any earlier previous year.

Explanation 1.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that where any salary paid in advance is included in the total income of any person for any previous year it shall not be included again in the total income of the person when the salary becomes due.

Explanation 2.—Any salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, due to, or received by, a partner of a firm from the firm shall not be regarded as "salary" for the purposes of this section.

15.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 15 of the Bill provides for income under the head 'Salaries'. This clause corresponds to section 15 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

15.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

A stakeholder suggested that the sub-section (1) may be reworded as follows - Any salary paid or allowed to an assessee in the tax year by or on behalf of an employer shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Salaries". Consequently, sub-section (3) can be deleted."

Salary to be chargeable to tax on receipt basis. In cases where salaries are not paid by defunct entities, such amount should not be chargeable to tax on accrual basis in the hands of the employee, as it would cause undue hardship. The taxability on receipt basis would also be in line with the provisions of section 392 which requires tax deduction on payment basis in case of salaries.

15.5 Examination by the Committee

Ministry in a written reply submitted that it is suggested that salary should be taxed on a receipt basis instead of accrual basis. The suggestion would have significant negative impact on exchequer. It may be noted that salary has always been taxed (a) on due basis; and (b) on receipt basis. Changing this would lead to abuse where businesses debit expenditure on accrual whereas employees will offer for tax only on receipt. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

15.5.2 Ministry further clarified this during the oral evidence and submitted that

> "Sir, coming to Sl. No. 77, the suggestion by the stakeholders is that salary should be taxed on receipt basis instead of accrual basis. So, we have said this will have a significant impact on the exchequer and then whatever salary is due, the salary is taxed on due basis or receipt basis, whichever is earlier. So, whenever it becomes due, it is taxed like that.

…Sir, on salary, anyway, the TDS has to be made. So, if a salary has been credited but not paid, they must have paid the TDS on that. So that way, I do not think the assessee will suffer any issues."

15.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after examining Clause 15 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it pertains to the chargeability of income under the head "Salaries" and corresponds to Section 15 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The provision continues to follow the principle that salary income is taxable either on due basis or on receipt, whichever is earlier, and covers various categories of payments including advances, arrears, and dues from past employment. Accordingly, the Committee are of the view that Clause 15 may be accepted in its current form without any amendment.

Clause No.16:Income from Salary

16.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

For the purposes of this Part, "salary" includes—

(a) wages;

(b) any annuity or pension;

(c) any gratuity;

(d) any fees or commission;

(e) perquisites;

(f) profits in lieu of, or in addition to, any salary or wages;

(g) any advance of salary;

(h) any payment received by an employee in respect of any period of leave not availed of by him;

(i) the annual accretion to the balance at the credit of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent to which it is chargeable to tax as per paragraph 6 of Part A of Schedule XI;

(j) the aggregate of all sums that are comprised in the transferred balance as referred to in paragraph 11(2) of Part A of Schedule XI of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent to which it is chargeable to tax under sub-paragraphs (4) and (5) thereof;

(k) the contribution made by the Central Government or any other employer in any tax year, to the account of an employee under a pension scheme referred to in section 124; and

(l) the contribution made by the Central Government in any tax year, to the Agniveer Corpus Fund account of an individual enrolled in the Agnipath Scheme referred to in section 125.

16.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

"Salary", "perquisite" and "profits in lieu of salary" defined.

17(1) For the purposes of sections 15 and 16 and of this section,—

(1) "salary" includes—

(i) wages;

(ii) any annuity or pension;

(iii) any gratuity;

(iv) any fees, commissions, perquisites or profits in lieu of or in addition to any salary or wages;

(v) any advance of salary;

(va) any payment received by an employee in respect of any period of leave not availed of by him;

(vi) the annual accretion to the balance at the credit of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent to which it is chargeable to tax under rule 6 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule;

(vii) the aggregate of all sums that are comprised in the transferred balance as referred to in sub-rule (2) of rule 11 of Part A of the Fourth Schedule of an employee participating in a recognised provident fund, to the extent to which it is chargeable to tax under sub-rule (4) thereof; and

(viii) the contribution made by the Central Government or any other employer in the previous year, to the account of an employee under a pension scheme referred to in section 80CCD;

[7][(ix) the contribution made by the Central Government in the previous year, to the Agniveer Corpus Fund account of an individual enrolled in the Agnipath Scheme referred to in section 80CCH;]

16.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 16 of the Bill provides for different payments made by an employer to an employee which may be taxed under the head 'income from salary'. This includes wages, annuity or pension, gratuity, fees or commission, perquisites, profits in lieu of or in addition to salary or wages, leave encashment, any advance of salary, employer contribution to pension scheme as referred to in clause 124 of the Bill, contribution made by central government to Agniveer corpus fund account of an individual who is enrolled in Agnipath scheme as referred to in clause 125, taxable part of annual accretion in the account of an employee participating in a recognized provident fund and the taxable part of the aggregate of all sums that are comprised in the transferred balance of the employee participating in a recognised provident fund. This clause corresponds to section 17(1) of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

16.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee

The Committee, after examining Clause 16 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it defines the scope of income to be taxed under the head "Income from Salary." The Committee further note that this clause corresponds to Section 17(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. It retains the essential components of 'salary'—such as wages, pension, gratuity, and leave encashment—while simplifying the text without making any substantive changes. Accordingly, the Committee recommend that Clause 16 may be accepted as proposed.

Explanation.—For the purposes of clause (2),—

(i) "hospital" includes a dispensary or a clinic or a nursing home;

(ii) "family", in relation to an individual, shall have the same meaning as in clause (5) of section 10; and

(iii) "gross total income" shall have the same meaning as in clause (5) of section 80B;

17.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 17 of the Bill provides for an inclusive definition of perquisites. This clause lays out the types of sums which form part of perquisites and sums which are not to be considered as perquisites in the hands of the assessee. This clause corresponds to section 17(2) of the Act. However, the exemption provided for any sum paid by the employer in respect of expenditure incurred by the assessee for his or his family's medical treatment in respect of any illness related to COVID-19 has not been included on account of it being redundant.

17.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of stakeholders submitted to the Committee that “in the present Act, in explanation value of accommodation as computed in the prescribed manner is being compared with the rent recoverable from or payable by the assessee to make it provision of accommodation at concessional rate. However, in the proposed clause, the ‘concessional rate’ is being compared with the rent recoverable from or payable by, the assessee.Hence, it is suggested that the proposed clause be modified as under:
17(1)(b) the value of any accommodation provided to the assessee by his employer at a concessional rate computed in such manner, as prescribed which is in excess of rent recoverable from, or payable by, the assessee. computed in such manner, as prescribed;”

17.4.2 Another stakeholder suggested that the "(a) and (b) can be combined (a) the value of rent-free accommodation or any accommodation provided at a concessional rate to the assessee by his employer computed in such manner, as prescribed;
For the purposes of (a), any accommodation is deemed to be provided at a concessional rate if its value is in excess of rent recoverable from, or payable by, the assessee."In (g), sum payable can be replaced with sum paid.
The conditions for similar payments for medical expenditure, whether in India or abroad, should be allowed as deduction. There should be no distinction between expenditure incurred in Government hospital, Government approved hospital and private hospital. The check should be by way of prescribed limit which would apply in all cases. This will make the provisions simple to understand and ensure compliance with."

17.5 Examination by the Committee

Ministry in their written replies on the aforementioned suggestions submitted that:

> “ACCEPTED: This is a drafting Correction. The phrase " computed in the prescribed manner" may be inserted. This is the provision in the old act, so the wording may be retained. This is acceptable.”
> (i) The suggestion is regarding merging of two separate clauses which provide for separate items viz. rent free accommodation & concessional accommodation. It is not clear what benefit it will entail.
> (ii) It is suggested that any payment made by the employer for the medical expenditure of an employee, in any hospital, either in India or abroad should be exempted from treatment as a perquisite. Presently payments to govt./approved hospitals are not treated as perquisite. The provisions are in nature of guardrails so that only such hospital which fulfil specified conditions are allowed benefit. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

17.5.2 Ministry on the suggestion regarding merging of the two clauses submitted during the meeting that:

> "there are two separate clauses for perquisite for rent, that are, free accommodation and concessional accommodation. They want it to be clubbed. We do not see any benefit in that. They have been clearly defined separately. And, secondly, they say that medical expenditure paid to employees anywhere in the world, in any hospital, should be allowed, and not be treated as perquisite. So far as medical expenditure is concerned, in approved hospitals and Government hospitals, it is allowed, and some guardrails have been made. There are certain rules which specify that under what circumstances, that will be allowed. To make it without any guardrail or rule will not be beneficial for the purposes of the Act."

17.5.3 During their deliberations, the Committee took note of the provisions related to the taxation of perquisites in the form of Employee Stock Option Plans (ESOPs), and discussed the fairness of taxing ESOPs at the time of exercise rather than only at the time of sale as covered under Clause 17(1)(d). To this Ministry submitted the following detailed written Note on ESOP taxation in India and alignment with global best practices:

> "There are two transactions in ESOP. One is when the option is exercised. The second is when the security is sold. The employee benefits at the time of both the transactions. For the first time the ESOP has been granted to the employee as part of his employment. It is not taxed when the option is granted but it is taxed as a perquisite only at the time of exercising the option. This is because it has been given to him for the services provided by him to the employer. Further, the amount of the ESOP on which tax is paid is allowed as Cost in the computation of Capital Gains when the Shares are sold. Taxation at exercise of option is common in jurisdictions like India, France, Mauritius, and Singapore. The gain (FMV – exercise price) is taxed as salary. This is considered fair since the employee acquires a valuable asset at a discount. A detailed note on the same is given below:
> 1. Indian Framework for ESOP Taxation
> In India, the taxation of Employee Stock Option Plans (ESOPs) is structured around two tax events and provides deferral benefits for eligible start-ups:
> A. At the time of Exercise:

- Tax Nature: Perquisite, taxed as salary income under Section 17(2)(vi).
- Taxable Amount: Fair Market Value (FMV) on exercise date - Exercise price paid by employee.
- TDS Obligation: Employer must deduct TDS on this perquisite.

B. At the time of Sale of Shares:

- Tax Nature: Capital Gains.
- Computation: Sale price - FMV at the time of exercise.
- Tax Rate:
  - Listed shares:
    - LTCG (>12 months): 10%
    - STCG (≤12 months): 15%.
  - Unlisted shares:
    - LTCG (>24 months): 20% with indexation, 12.5% without indexation.
    - STCG (≤24 months): Slab rate.

C. Start-up Tax Deferral Benefit (Section 191(2), Section 192(1C) and Section 156(2)):

Recognizing cash-flow issues at the time of exercise, eligible start-ups can defer tax deduction on ESOPs to the earlier of:

- 5 years from exercise,
- Date of sale of shares, or
- Date of employee resignation.

2. Alignment with Global Best Practices

India's ESOP taxation framework reflects international trends in the following ways:

Global Principle	India's Alignment
Tax on Exercise, Not Grant	Like France, Germany, Singapore - tax arises on exercise, not at grant or vesting.
Capital Gains Tax on Sale	As in UK, France, and Germany - India applies CGT upon sale of shares.
Lower CGT for Long-Term Holding	Long-term capital gains receive concessional rates, promoting long-term investment.
Start-up Focused Reliefs	India defers TDS on ESOPs for DPIIT-recognized start-ups - similar to Germany's deferment.
Clear Employer TDS Rules	Indian employers have a statutory TDS obligation at exercise, aligning with Singapore.
No Tax on Vesting Alone	Like most jurisdictions (Mauritius, France, Singapore),

Global Principle	India's Alignment
	India does not tax on vesting.
FMV Based Valuation	India requires FMV certified by merchant bankers - similar to valuation norms globally.
Separation of Income and Capital Components	India bifurcates salary (exercise) and capital gain (sale) taxation, per global norms.

1. Tax Timing: No Tax on Grant

   Globally, including in France, Germany, Singapore, and Mauritius, there is no tax at the time of grant of stock options. India also follows this norm, aligning well with the international approach that taxation should arise only when economic benefit is realized.

2. Tax at Exercise: Salary Income

   Taxation at exercise is common in jurisdictions like India, France, Mauritius, and Singapore. The gain (FMV - exercise price) is taxed as employment income. This is considered fair since the employee acquires a valuable asset at a discount.

3. Capital Gains at Sale

   Most countries levy capital gains tax on the difference between the sale price and the acquisition price (FMV at exercise), and India is no exception. Importantly, India offers preferential CGT rates (10-20%) for long-term holdings, consistent with regimes in the UK and Germany.

4. Start-up Relief Mechanisms

   India's startup-specific tax deferral under Section 192(1C) is akin to Germany's 2021 reforms (Fondsstandortgesetz*), which defer taxation for startup employees until a liquidity event. This is a major step toward fostering innovation and entrepreneurship.

5. No CGT: Exceptions and Tax Havens

   Countries like UAE and Mauritius do not levy personal income tax or capital gains tax. However, these are unique cases and do not represent the norm. India's practice of taxing both perquisites and capital gains is globally standard.

*Fondsstandortgesetz: Germany introduced a startup friendly tax regime in 2021 under the (Fund Location Act). Under this law, employees of qualifying startups—

- Less than 12 years old
- Fewer than 250 employees,
- Revenue below 50 Million euros.

Can defer taxation on the benefit they received from receiving shares (i.e., exercise of option) until the earlier of three events:

- They sell the shares
- They leave the company, or
- 12 years have passed.

3. Comparison Table: ESOP Taxation Across Jurisdictions:

Country	Tax at Exercise	Tax on Sale	Special Reliefs / Notes
India	Perquisite Tax (FMV - Exercise Price)	CGT on FMV - Sale Price	Deferral for start-ups; concessional CGT
Germany	Salary tax on discount	CGT @ 25% + surcharges	Start-up deferral (2021 reform) up to 12 years or sale/exit
UK (EMI)	None (if EMI conditions met)	CGT (10% with BADR)	EMI schemes highly tax-efficient
France (OSA)	Income Tax + Social Charges (~70%)	CGT (PFU 30% or progressive with rebates)	AGA & BSPCE offer social/tax breaks
Singapore	Employment income based on FMV	CGT exempt (no CGT regime)	Tax deferral via QEEBR or deemed exercise rule
Mauritius	Income tax on (FMV - Exercise Price)	No CGT	TDS deducted under PAYE
UAE	No personal income tax	No capital gains tax	Tax-free jurisdiction
Cyprus	Benefit-in-kind taxed on FMV	CGT possible (as per income tax rates)	Based on residency status

4. Policy Strengths of India's ESOP Tax Framework

- Global Compatibility: Mirrors most OECD and APAC practices.
- Two-Stage Taxation: Clear separation of income vs capital gain taxation.
- Start-up Support: Section 191(2) and 192(1C) promotes liquidity-aligned taxation.

- Administrative Clarity: Employers have well-defined TDS roles and FMV requirements.
- Capital Market Integration: Listed share ESOPs align with capital market investor policies.

Conclusion

India's ESOP taxation framework substantially aligns with global best practices. It follows a well-defined, dual-tax regime with specific support for start-ups, tax deferral, and capital gain incentivization comparable to mature regimes in the UK, France, Germany, and Singapore."

17.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that while Clause 17(1)(a) includes the phrase "computed in such manner, as prescribed," the corresponding provision in Clause 17(1)(b) lacks this reference, potentially leading to ambiguity in interpreting the valuation method for concessional accommodation.The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clause 17(1)(b), the phrase "computed in such manner, as prescribed" be explicitly inserted, mirroring the language used in Clause 17(1)(a). Accordingly, the Committee recommend that the Ministry amend the clause as proposed. The Committee further accept the remaining provisions of the Clause 17 as proposed.

Clause No. 18: Profits in lieu of Salary

18.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) For the purposes of this Part, "profits in lieu of salary" includes,—

(a) any amount of any compensation due to or received by an assessee from his employer or former employer at or in connection with the—

(i) termination of his employment; or

(ii) modification of the terms and conditions relating thereto;

(ii) from a provident or other fund, to the extent to which it does not consist of contributions by the assessee or interest on such contributions; or

(b) any amount due to or received, whether in lump-sum or otherwise, by any assessee from any person—

(i) before his joining any employment with that person; or

(ii) after cessation of his employment with that person;

(c) any payment due to or received by an assessee—

(i) from an employer or a former employer; or

(ii) from a provident or other fund, to the extent to which it does not consist of contributions by the assessee or interest on such contributions; or

(iii) any sum received under a Keyman insurance policy as defined in Schedule II (Note 1), including the sum allocated by way of bonus on such policy.

(2) The payment referred in sub-section (1)(c) shall not include any payment referred to in—

(a) Schedule II (Table: Sl. No. 3);

(b) Schedule II (Table: Sl. No. 4);

(c) Schedule II (Table: Sl. No. 8); and

(d) Schedule III (Table: Sl. No. 11).

18.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

17."Salary", "perquisite" and "profits in lieu of salary" defined.

17(3)"profits in lieu of salary" includes—

(i) the amount of any compensation due to or received by an assessee from his employer or former employer at or in connection with the termination of his employment or the modification of the terms and conditions relating thereto;

(ii) any payment (other than any payment referred to in clause (10), clause (10A), clause (10B), clause (11), clause (12), clause (13) or clause (13A) of section 10), due to or received by an assessee from an employer or a former employer or from a provident or other fund, to the extent to which it does not consist of contributions by the assessee or interest on such contributions or any sum received under a Keyman insurance policy including the sum allocated by way of bonus on such policy.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-clause, the expression "Keyman insurance policy" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (10D) of section 10;

(iii) any amount due to or received, whether in lump sum or otherwise, by any assessee from any person—

(A) before his joining any employment with that person; or (B) after cessation of his employment with that person.

18.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 18 of the Bill defines different payments in the nature of “profits in lieu of salary” This clause corresponds to section 17(3) of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified making it easy to read and understand. It has done away with the complicated language and has been retained with the same intent.

18.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after examining Clause 18 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, note that it relates to the definition and scope of "profits in lieu of salary," and corresponds to section 17(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee observe that the clause seeks to enumerate various payments such as compensation on termination or modification of employment terms, amounts received before joining or after cessation of employment, payments from funds not comprising employee contributions, etc. that are to be treated as profits in lieu of salary for taxation purposes.The Committee note that the provision retains the substance of the existing law but improves readability. Accordingly, the Committee are of the view that Clause 18 may be accepted as proposed.

(viii) such institute of management as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf, on his voluntary retirement or termination of his service, in accordance with any scheme or schemes of voluntary retirement or in the case of a public sector company referred to in sub-clause (i), a scheme of voluntary separation, to the extent such amount does not exceed five lakh rupees :

Provided that the schemes of the said companies or authorities or societies or Universities or the Institutes referred to in sub-clauses (vii) and (viii), as the case may be, governing the payment of such amount are framed in accordance with such guidelines (including inter alia criteria of economic viability) as may be prescribed :

Provided further that where exemption has been allowed to an employee under this clause for any assessment year, no exemption thereunder shall be allowed to him in relation to any other assessment year :

Provided also that where any relief has been allowed to an assessee under section 89 for any assessment year in respect of any amount received or receivable on his voluntary retirement or termination of service or voluntary separation, no exemption under this clause shall be allowed to him in relation to such, or any other, assessment year;

Deductions from salaries.

16. The income chargeable under the head "Salaries" shall be computed after making the following deductions, namely :—

(i) []

(ia) a deduction of fifty thousand rupees or the amount of the salary, whichever is less:

[6][Provided *that in a case where income-tax is computed under clause (ii) of sub-section (1A) of section 115BAC, the provisions of this clause shall have effect as if for the words "fifty thousand rupees", the words "seventy-five thousand rupees" had been substituted;*]

(ii) a deduction in respect of any allowance in the nature of an entertainment allowance specifically granted by an employer to the assessee who is in receipt of a salary from the Government, a sum equal to one-fifth of his salary (exclusive of any allowance, benefit or other perquisite) or five thousand rupees, whichever is less;

(iii) a deduction of any sum paid by the assessee on account of a tax on employment within the meaning of clause (2) of article 276 of the Constitution, leviable by or under any law.

(iv) []

(v) []

19.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 19 of the Bill provides for deductions available against income from salary. This clause is a combination of Section 16 of the Act; which pertains to standard deduction from salaries; and sections 10(10) [gratuity], 10(10A)[commutation of pension], 10(10AA)[leave encashment], 10(10B)[compensation], 10(10C)[amount received on voluntary retirement] of the Act; which were earlier part of "Chapter III: Incomes which do not form part of Total Income". This clause has combined the aforesaid sections and has been restructured in a tabular format for comprehensive understanding and ease of computation of Income under the head "Salaries". However, there is no change in intent of the law and this clause only brings together under one clause the provisions of similar nature which were earlier placed in different sections.

19.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

During the Committee's deliberations, a submission was made regarding the treatment of payments made by employees to their previous employers in the form of Notice Period Pay. It was pointed out that while the Income-tax Bill, 2025 allows for a standard deduction under salary income, no provision currently exists for permitting deductions in cases where employees are required to pay out of pocket to buy out their notice period. This, it was argued, creates an inequitable tax outcome where an employee's net salary income is effectively lower, yet the tax is computed without regard to this compulsory expense. The witness proposed that such payments should be expressly recognized as allowable deductions under Clause 19 of the Bill, so as to reflect the true income of the employee and ensure parity in treatment with other employment-related deductions.

19.4.2 One of the stakeholder suggested that the deduction provided in sr. No 9 of Table at clause 19 of ITB 25 should be replicated under the head 'Income from Other Sources'.

It may be clarified that capital portion of pension amount (to the extent of contribution made earlier for which no deduction was claimed in the past years) would not be subject to tax.

Proposed change would:

1. Eliminate potential tax litigation.
2. Make tax laws simple and lucid for taxpayers and tax administration.

A taxpayer may contribute to pension funds either in his capacity as an employee or otherwise. Any pension / commutation of pension which is not taxed under the head 'Income from Salaries' would be taxed under the head 'Income from other sources'.

19.4.3 Another stakeholder suggested that The employees are required to serve notice period for a stipulated time before leaving the organization. The notice period varies from organization to organization. It is proposed to allow the deduction of the amount of 'notice period pay' actually paid by the employees to an employer while computing income under the head salary.

19.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry on the suggestion sr. No 9 of Table at clause 19 pertaining to written reply submitted that

> "ACCEPTED: It is suggested that in cases where a non-employee receives commuted pension from a fund (made by insurer), a deduction may be allowed under Income from other sources as it is allowed in Clause 19 against Salaries for the commuted pension amount. This is a drafting correction and the suggestion is acceptable."

19.5.2 Regarding the suggestion on the Notice Period Pay Ministry in their written replies have submitted that :

> "The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

19.5.3 Ministry during the oral evidence further corroborated their stance with the following oral submission:

> "The suggestion is, 'that a deduction for notice period pay'. So, that should be allowed from the salary. But what we are saying is that exemption from taxation on severance pay is already available for employees who are under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Then, for compensation, during the retrenchment period, that is also exempt under Section 10(10)(B) of the Act and severance pay under VRS Scheme or termination of employment, that is also exempted under Section 10(10)(C). So, a general deduction from salary for notice period pay is also there.
> ….Sir, here, nowadays, if we are working in a company, now, they have this notice period that if you want to leave the company, then give notice of 2 or 3 months. Now, somebody is in a hurry. He wants to leave the job immediately. In that case, company may ask him that you pay me back the salary of two months. Now, they are saying that at the time of leaving the job, if I am paying back this salary of two months, then I should be given deduction for that.
> He has earned the salary. Now, this is in the nature of penalty which is being levied by the employer for leaving the job too early without fulfilling the terms and conditions of that employment contract....
> ...कंपनी के केस में एक बार उसने डिडक्शन क्लेम किया, उसके अंगेस्ट में इनकम हो गई तो नेट इफैक्ट जीरो हो जाता है। उसमें कोई एक्स्ट्रा टैक्स नहीं आता है। वह खर्चा था, उसे आपने वापस ले लिया तो वह जीरो हो गया। यहां पर केवल एंप्लॉई का प्रश्न है।..

19.5.4 Regarding "Deductions from salaries" under Clause 19, a suggestion was made on the fairness and feasibility of allowing a deduction for amounts recovered from an employee as "notice period pay" by a former employer, and whether such recovery could be considered for tax deduction by the employee; to this, the Ministry clariefied their stance as under:

"The issue here is that whether the payment of notice pay is application of income or it is reduction of salary income earned /accrued? This is a recovery and an expense made from the income received by the assessee. The employee is fully aware of the contract w.r.t notice period and yet chooses to leave/ quit early. The amount paid in lieu of contract i.e. employment conditions cannot be treated as reduction in salary received. It should be seen as expense made from income and hence no deduction should be allowed."

19.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after a careful review of Clause 19, identified a gap in the equitable tax treatment of commuted pension for different types of recipients. The Committee, therefore, recommend that a deduction for commuted pension, similar to that available to employees under Clause 19, be explicitly allowed under the head "Income from other sources" for non-employees who receive such pension from a fund. Accordingly, the Committee finds no further modifications are necessary for Clause 19 and recommend the acceptance of its remaining provisions as drafted.

C. Income from house property

Clause No. 20: Income from house property

20.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) The annual value of property consisting of any buildings or lands appurtenant thereto, owned by the assessee shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head “Income from house property”.

(2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply to such portions of the property, as occupied by the assessee for his business or profession, the profits of which are chargeable to income-tax.

20.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

C.—Income from house property

Income from house property.

22. The annual value of property consisting of any buildings or lands appurtenant thereto of which the assessee is the owner, other than such portions of such property as he may occupy for the purposes of any business or profession carried on by him the profits of which are chargeable to income-tax, shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Income from house property".

20.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 20 of the Bill provides for income from house property. This clause corresponds to section 22 of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

20.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

For clause 20(2) stakeholder suggested to Retain the language i.e ‘as he may occupy’ instead of ‘as occupied’. Rationale for the suggestion:
(1) Improve ‘nyaya’ or fairness in the provisions of the ITB 25.
(2) Reduce tax litigation thereby providing certainty.
Under ITA 61, provisions relating to ‘Income from house property’ exclude from its scope any property (residential or commercial) that an owner ‘may occupy’ for his business / profession These would be dealt with under the head ‘Profits and gains of business or profession’. The language in ITB 25, ‘as occupied’ suggests that only such properties which have already been occupied by the owner will be out of ‘House Property’ scheme ITB 25 replaces the term “may occupy” with “occupied”, which could lead to the taxability of properties that are 'ready to use' for business use but not actively occupied. Extending the benefit to properties which taxpayers are in the process of occupying / intend to shortly occupy would only further 'nyaya' or 'fairness' in the tax law.

20.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry on the suggestions of the stakeholders, in a written reply to the Committee submitted that:

> "Accepted. The suggestion seeks to retain 'as he may occupy' instead of 'as occupied' in clause 20 income from house property so that portion meant for business is not covered under the head. For better clarity, the phrase 'as he may occupy' will be retained instead of 'as occupied'."

20.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon reviewing of Clause 20, identified a change in wording in 20(2) from the previous Act that could lead to an incorrect tax treatment for certain business properties . The Committee, therefore, recommend that in Clause 20(2), the word “occupied” be replaced with the phrase “as he may occupy” to ensure that temporarily unutilized or ready-to-use business properties are clearly excluded from taxation under the house property head. Accordingly, the Committee, recommend that the Ministry amend the clause as proposed to accurately delineate the scope of "Income from house property". The Committee further accept the remaining provision of the Clause 20 as proposed.

Clause No.21: Determination of annual value.

21.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) For the purposes of section 20, the annual value of any property shall be deemed to be the higher of the following:—

(a) the sum for which it might reasonably be expected to let from year to year; or

(b) the actual rent received or receivable by the owner, if the property or any part of it is let.

(2) In case the property or any part of it is let in normal course and was vacant for the whole or any part of the tax year, the annual value of such property shall be computed as per sub-section (1)(b).

(3) The annual value of the property shall be reduced by the taxes (including service taxes) levied by a local authority in respect of such property, actually paid during the tax year by the owner, irrespective of when such taxes became payable.

(4) The rent which cannot be realised by the owner shall not be included in computing the actual rent received or receivable, subject to the rules as may be made in this behalf.

(5) In respect of a property or its part held as stock-in-trade and not let wholly or partly at any time during the tax year, the annual value shall be nil for two years from the end of the financial year in which completion certificate is obtained from the competent authority.

(6) The annual value of the property consisting of a house or any part thereof shall be taken as nil, if the owner occupies it for his own residence or cannot actually occupy it due to any reason.

(7) The provisions of sub-section (6)—

(a) shall apply only in respect of two of such houses as specified by the assessee in this behalf;

(b) shall not apply, if the house or any part thereof is actually let during any time of the tax year, or if the owner derives any other benefit from it.

21.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Annual value how determined.

23. (1) For the purposes of section 22, the annual value of any property shall be deemed to be—

(a) the sum for which the property might reasonably be expected to let from year to year; or

(b) where the property or any part of the property is let and the actual rent received or receivable by the owner in respect thereof is in excess of the sum referred to in clause (a), the amount so received or receivable; or

(c) where the property or any part of the property is let and was vacant during the whole or any part of the previous year and owing to such vacancy the actual rent received or receivable by the owner in respect thereof is less than the sum referred to in clause (a), the amount so received or receivable :

Provided that the taxes levied by any local authority in respect of the property shall be deducted (irrespective of the previous year in which the liability to pay such taxes was incurred by the owner according to the method of accounting regularly employed by him) in determining the annual value of the property of that previous year in which such taxes are actually paid by him.

Explanation.—For the purposes of clause (b) or clause (c) of this sub-section, the amount of actual rent received or receivable by the owner shall not include, subject to such rules as may be made in this behalf, the amount of rent which the owner cannot realise.

[12][(2) The annual value of the property consisting of a house or any part thereof shall be taken as* nil*, if the owner occupies it for his own residence or cannot actually occupy it due to any reason.]

(3) The provisions of sub-section (2) shall not apply if—

(a) the house or part of the house is actually let during the whole or any part of the previous year; or (b) any other benefit therefrom is derived by the owner.

(4) Where the property referred to in sub-section (2) consists of more than two houses—

(a) the provisions of that sub-section shall apply only in respect of two of such houses, which the assessee may, at his option, specify in this behalf;

(b) the annual value of the house or houses, other than the house or houses in respect of which the assessee has exercised an option under clause (a), shall be determined under sub-section (1) as if such house or houses had been let.

(5) Where the property consisting of any building or land appurtenant thereto is held as stock-in-trade and the property or any part of the property is not let during the whole or any part of the previous year, the annual value of such property or part of the property, for the period up to two years from the end of the financial year in which the certificate of completion of construction of the property is obtained from the competent authority, shall be taken to be nil.

21.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 21 of the Bill provides for determination of annual value. This clause corresponds to section 23 of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

21(2) The proposed provision was drafted for not allowing misuse of vacancy allowance in income from house property.

21.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

For Clause 21(1) a suggestion was received that annual Value should be on actual rent received or receivable and it should be within the range of rent fetching capacity as derived by the Municipal corporation or other government agencies. To avoid litigation on the fetching capacity of rent of house.

21.4.2 Stakeholder suggested to consider use of the earlier language ie ‘property is let’ as against use of the phrase ‘in normal course’ Rationale for the suggestion: 1 Simplify and rationalize scenarios when the benefit is available. 2 Eliminate subjective analysis on what is ‘normal course’ and what is not 3 Further, to achieve the avowed objective of ITB 25 (i) making it easy to read and understand (ii) reducing dispute and litigation (iii) provide certainty.Under ITB 25, vacancy allowance benefit may sought to be denied, where there is no track record of ‘letting’ and therefore may not meet the requirement of ‘normal course’, causing difficulty where the property is sought to be let-out for the first time / there is ‘irregular letting’ of property With words ‘it is let in normal course’, failure to ‘let it out’ may lead to taxing the fair rental value in the hands of taxpayer, even where the intent is to let out the property.

21.4.3 Another stakeholder submitted that Delete "in normal course" to avoid litigation. Various Courts [Illustratively, Sachin R Tendulkar v DCIT [2018] 172 ITD 266 (Mum)(Trib), ITO vs. Metaoxide (P.) Ltd (2018) (170 ITD 235) (Mum.)] have extended vacancy allowance benefit to properties where taxpayer demonstrated efforts put in by them to let out the property but could not succeed. The insertion of phrase "in normal course" for vacancy allowance is unclear and can lead to litigation.

21.4.4 Further suggestion on the clasue 21(2) were received in which it was suggested that the provisions of proposed section 21(2) may be modified as below: “(2) In case the property or any part of it is let and was vacant for the whole or any part of the tax year, if the actual amount received or receivable from such property is less than the sum referred in section 21(1)(a) owing to such vacancy, the annual value shall be the actual amount received or receivable."

21.4.5 Proposed section 21(2) is substitute for old section 23(1)(c) but the proposed section conveys different meaning and is prone to misuse The present law provides that 'where the property or any part of the property is let and was vacant during the whole or any part of the previous year and owing to such vacancy, the actual rent received or receivable is less than the annual letting value, the sum so received or receivable shall be the annual value In case the actual rent received or receivable during the year is less than the annual letting value, but not because of vacancy, it is the annual letting value which will be taken to be the annual value The proposed section 21(1)(c) straight away says that if the property was vacant for the whole or any part of the tax year, the annual value of such property shall be computed as per sub-section (1)(b) i.e.Page No 2 of 20 the actual rent received or receivable There will be no comparison with the expected letting value The use of the word "normal course' will also open floodgate of litigation and so may be removed .

21.5 Examination by the Committee:

On the Suggestion pertaining to clause 21(1) Ministry submitted that The suggestion seeks to determine annual value on basis of actual rent receivable or rent fetching capacity. The present provision is also built on the same lines. The sum for which the property might reasonably be expected to let is the rent fetching capacity. The suggestion is already provided for in the Bill.

21.5.2 Ministry during the oral evidence further submitted in detail that :

> "is about determining the value of a house property. How is the annual value of a house property determined? So, the suggestion is that it should be determined on the basis of actual rent receivable or the rent fetching capacity of the property. That is how it has been built in the law.
> Some litigations do takes place. But for property tax, local authorities also determine the value of the what rent should come. That becomes one of the yardsticks. Sometimes we do get the information about other properties in the same complex. Like, how much others are paying in the same complex. That becomes a source to know about it. The Rent Control Act is there, and that becomes the final.
> Sir, if you look at column 'b' of the Section, it says that the annual value of any property shall be deemed to be higher of the following: One is, the sum of which it may reasonably be expected to be let, and two, the actual rent which is received or receivable. The point which is being raised by the stakeholder is that this sum which it might be reasonably expected to let, restrict it saying only 'as per the rent fetching capacity derived by the municipal corporation'.

सर, मैं उसी पर आ रहा ह । वे यह कह रहे हैं डक और कोई चॉइस मत दीडजए। आप इस रीजनेबल शब्द को डिफाइन कर दीडजए डक डसफि म्युडनडसपाडलटी का रेंट कैपेडसटी है। यह पूरे देश में यूडनफॉमिली यह नहीं हो पाएगा।"

21.5.3 Committee deliberated upon whether there exists comprehensive and reliable information to accurately establish instances where the deemed annual value of a property particularly in cases where the property is not let out is being underreported. The Committee also deliberated on whether reliance on the Rent Control Act continues to serve as an effective benchmark for determining the base rental value in such cases, especially in urban markets where prevailing market rents may significantly exceed standard controlled rents. In response to this the Ministry submitted as under:

> "Section 23 of the Act provides that annual value of the any property shall be deemed to be higher of the following:
> - The actual rent received or receivable, or
> - The reasonable expected rent (may be based on valuation, fair rent, or rent as per Rent Control Act).
> If the actual rent declared is significantly lower than this expected rent, such cases indicate underreporting. However, determining underreporting depends on:
> - Municipal valuation records,
> - Comparable market rents in the locality,
> - Standard rent under Rent Control Act (if applicable), considering the fact that property is in city where the Rent Control Act is in force.
> - Actual letting history of similar properties.
> Thus, it is very difficult to accurately determine the under-reporting of the deemed annual value of the property.
> Further, the Rent Control Act is one of the benchmarks, for determining the deemed annual value of the property. But there are several places, where Rent Control Act is not in force. Thus, Rent Control Act cannot be the only effective measure to determine the deemed annual value of the property."

21.5.4 Ministry on the suggestions pertaining to clause 21(2) submitted in a written reply that:

> "Accepted. Vacancy allowance is allowed in the bill for such property which is let in normal course and was vacant for part of a year. The suggestion seeks to retain original Act language and delete 'normal course' in clause 21 determination of annual value.For better clarity, "in normal course" in clause 21(2) of the Bill will be omitted.

Accepted. The suggestion seeks to amend clause 21(2) to provide the comparison of actual rent (owing to vacancy) received with deeming rent as available in existing Act.In order to align the provision of the Bill vis-a-vis Act, clause 21(2) of the Bill will be amended to provide the comparison of actual rent (owing to vacancy) received with deeming rent."

21.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after a careful review of Clause 21, identified drafting issues in 21(2) that could lead to ambiguity in determining the annual value for properties experiencing vacancy. The Committee, therefore, recommend two key changes: first, that the phrase "in normal course" be deleted, and second, that the clause be amended to explicitly provide for a comparison of the actual rent received with the "deeming rent," as was available in the existing Act. Committee believe these adjustments are vital for enhancing fairness, reducing ambiguity in the valuation of vacant properties, and leading to a more equitable tax treatment for property owners. The Committee, further, recommend that rest of the Clasues may be accepted in their current form.

Clause No.22: Deductions from income from house property.

22.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) The income under the head "Income from house property" shall be computed after allowing the following deductions:—

(a) 30% of the annual value;

(b) where the property has been acquired, constructed, repaired, renewed or reconstructed with borrowed capital, the amount of any interest payable on such capital.

(2) In case of property or properties referred to in section 21(6), the aggregate amount of deduction under sub-section (1)(b) shall not exceed—

(a) two lakh rupees, subject to the following conditions:—

(i) the property has been acquired or constructed with borrowed capital and such acquisition or construction is completed within five years from the end of tax year in which capital was borrowed;

(ii) if capital is borrowed during any period prior to the tax year in which the property has been acquired or constructed, any interest payable for the said prior period shall be allowed as a deduction in five equal instalments for the said tax year and for each of the four immediately succeeding tax years;

(iii) the assessee furnishes a certificate from the person to whom interest is payable on such capital; and

(b) thirty thousand rupees in any other case.

(3) The deduction under sub-section (2)(a)(ii) shall be computed after reducing any amount already allowed as a deduction under any other provisions of this Act.

(4) The certificate referred to in sub-section (2) shall specify—

(a) the amount of interest payable on capital borrowed; and

(b) the interest payable on any new loan, where subsequent to the capital borrowed, the assessee has taken any such loan for repayment of whole or any part of such capital.

(5) The aggregate of the amounts of deduction under sub-section (2) in respect of properties of the nature referred to in section 21(6) shall not exceed two lakh rupees.

(6) Any interest chargeable under this Act which is payable outside India shall not be allowed as a deduction under this section, if—

(a) tax has not been paid or deducted on such interest under Chapter XIX-B; and (b) in respect of such interest, there is no agent in India as per section 306.

22.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Deductions from income from house property.

24. Income chargeable under the head "Income from house property" shall be computed after making the following deductions, namely:—

(a) a sum equal to thirty per cent of the annual value;

(b) where the property has been acquired, constructed, repaired, renewed or reconstructed with borrowed capital, the amount of any interest payable on such capital:

Provided that in respect of property referred to in sub-section (2) of section 23, the amount of deduction or, as the case may be, the aggregate of the amount of deduction shall not exceed thirty thousand rupees :

Provided further that where the property referred to in the first proviso is acquired or constructed with capital borrowed on or after the 1st day of April, 1999 and such acquisition or construction is completed within five years from the end of the financial year in which capital was borrowed, the amount of deduction or, as the case may be, the aggregate of the amounts of deduction under this clause shall not exceed two lakh rupees.

Explanation.—Where the property has been acquired or constructed with borrowed capital, the interest, if any, payable on such capital borrowed for the period prior to the previous year in which the property has been acquired or constructed, as reduced by any part thereof allowed as deduction under any other provision of this Act, shall be deducted under this clause in equal instalments for the said previous year and for each of the four immediately succeeding previous years:

Provided also that no deduction shall be made under the second proviso unless the assessee furnishes a certificate, from the person to whom any interest is payable on the capital borrowed, specifying the amount of interest payable by the assessee for the purpose of such acquisition or construction of the property, or, conversion of the whole or any part of the capital borrowed which remains to be repaid as a new loan.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this proviso, the expression "new loan" means the whole or any part of a loan taken by the assessee subsequent to the capital borrowed, for the purpose of repayment of such capital:

Provided also that the aggregate of the amounts of deduction under the first and second provisos shall not exceed two lakh rupees.

22.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 22 of the Bill provides for deductions from income from house property. This clause corresponds to section 24 and 25 of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and rationalised. Rs 2 lakh deduction was allowed for loans taken on or after 1.4.1999 for self-occupied property. This date has been removed. Vacancy allowance is proposed to be allowed where a property is let in 'normal course' and has not been let for a part of the year.

22.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

A submission was made, during a meeting, recommending a revision to Clause 22 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 to ensure that interest on housing loans is allowable as a deduction even under the default tax regime. It was pointed out that the current structure of the default regime restricts several deductions, including those relating to housing loan interest, thereby limiting relief for taxpayers who have significant financial commitments towards home ownership. The suggestion emphasized that the benefit of interest deduction on self-occupied property serves an important socio-economic objective by incentivizing investment in housing. Denying this deduction under the default regime, it was argued, disproportionately impacts middle-class taxpayers and discourages long-term asset creation. Accordingly, it was proposed that Clause 22 be amended to permit deduction of housing loan interest irrespective of the tax regime chosen by the assessee.

22.4.2 Suggestions were received from thye stakeholders that after end of clause 22(1)(a), the following may be added: "as adjusted by amounts mentioned in sub-cl (3) of clause 21" Rationale for the suggestion: 1 Make tax law lucid and clear. 2 Reduce tax litigation and providing certainty.ITA 61 allows taxpayer to claim deduction of 'property taxes' (or any tax levied by municipal authorities) while determining the Annual Value ('AV') of the property The AV after giving the effect of deduction of taxes is then to be considered while computing standard deduction, which is 30% of the AV Clause 21(1) of ITB 25 provides the AV of the property is deemed to be higher of (i) reasonable letting value; or (ii) actual rent received or receivable Clause 22(1) of ITB 25 proposes deduction of 30% of AV One plausible reading suggests that such AV is the one referred to in Clause 21(1), before deduction of property taxes In other words, the standard deduction is available on a higher basis vis-à-vis the ITA 61 Whether the change is conscious and intended to provide additional benefit to taxpayers? If not, suitable amendment may eliminate possible interpretation on a higher claim (which is not consistent with the policy intent), thereby further the objective of the ITB 25 viz, provide certainty and reduce litigation.

22.4.3 Another stakeholder gave the following suggestion on this particular subclause:
(i)Limit of Rs 2,00,000 be increased to Rs 500,000 for metro and Rs 300,000 for non metro; (ii) The pre-construction interest amortized deduction over 5 years be made available for all house properties and not restricted to self-occupied house property. Considering the rise in cost of residential units limit of interest be increased Further limit of Rs 200,000 more than decade old Under ITA 1961, the pre- construction interest amortized deduction over 5 years is available for all house properties and not restricted to self-occupied house property (Refer Explanation to s.24) Under ITB 2025, it is restricted to self-occupied house property. (Refer clause 22(2)(a)(ii)) This restricts the scope of deduction contrary to avowed intent of no change in policy Hence, it is recommended to reinstate the position as per ITA 1961.

22.4.4 Further suggestion on clause 22 stated that in deductions from income from house property, proposed section 22(2)(a)(ii) is being put as a condition for claiming deduction of higher amount of interest while the said provision is for allowing the deduction of interest incurred during construction phase It applies for both let out and self-occupied property Hence, the said clause be made a separate sub-section (2) as under:
“(2) If capital has been borrowed during any period prior to tax year in which the property has been acquired or constructed, any interest payable for the said prior period shall be allowed as deduction in section 22(1)(b) in five equal instalments for the said tax year and for each of the four immediately succeeding tax year.
22.4.5 Another stakeholder suggested that suggested that lease rent paid by the lessee to the lessor be allowed as a deduction while computing “Income from House Property” in cases where the lessee, being the deemed owner as per section 25, sub- leases the property This may be included as (c) in sub-section (1) of section 22."The opening para in sub-section (2) may be modified as follows - (2) In case of any property or two properties referred to in section 21(5), the aggregate amount of deduction under sub-section (1)(b) shall not exceed—"; A lessee is deemed to be the owner of the premises leased for a term of not less than 12 years When such a lessee sub-leases the property, the income derived from the sub-lease is taxed under the head "Income from House Property, since the lessee is the deemed owner as per section 25 However, the lease rent paid by the lessee to the lessor is not allowed as a deduction while computing income from house property. The language of sub- section (2) is modified to restrict deduction of interest on self-occupied property to two houses here This restriction is required in this sub-section (1), since we have suggested that the annual value of all houses which are self-occupied or not let out would be Nil.

22.5 Examination by the Committee:

On the suggestion seeking to increase the limit of deduction of interest on capital borrowed for house property from existing Rs. 2 lakhs to Rs. 5 lakhs in metro/3 lakhs in non-metro.It is in the nature of Policy Change which is outside the scope of the Bill.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis-a-vis Act.The present limit of Rs. 2 lakhs is only applicable to self-occupied properties. Already, vide Finance Act, 2025, annual value of two self-occupied properties have been made NIL irrespective of any reason. This limit is sufficient as there is no limit for the rented properties Thus, the suggestion is not feasible.

22.5.2 Ministry on the suggestion pertaining to 22(1)(a) submitted in a written reply that:

> "Accepted.The suggestion seeks to amend clause 22(1)(a) to deduct the municipal taxes from the annual value of the property before computing 30% deduction.In order to align the provision of the Bill vis-a-vis Act, the clause 22(1)(a) shall be amended to deduct the municipal taxes from the annual value of the property before computing 30% deduction."

22.5.3 Ministry on the suggestion pertaining to 22(2)(a)(ii) submitted in a written reply that:

> "Accepted. The suggestion seeks to amend clause 22(2) to provide for deduction of pre-construction interest on capital borrowed to let out property as available in existing Act.In order to align the provision of the Bill vis-a-vis Act, clause 22(2) of the Bill will be amended to provide for deduction of pre-construction interest on capital borrowed to let out property also."

22.5.4 Ministry on the suggestion of stakeholders seeking to increase the scope of clause 22 deductions from income from house property by allowing lease rent paid by the lessee to the lessor as a deduction while computing income from house property.It is in the nature of Policy Change which is outside the scope of the Bill.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis-a-vis Act.In such case of lessee being treated as deemed owner, 30% of the Annual Value is already allowed as standard deduction, along with interest on borrowed capital. Since primary condition for computing Income from house property is ownership of the property, no other deduction including that of lease rent paid, can be allowable as deduction. Thus, the suggestion is not feasible.

22.5.5 Ministry during the oral further elaborated on the issue as under > "The suggestion is that you increase the scope of deductions and allow lease rent paid by the lessee to the lesser, that is, lease rent paid by the lessee to the lesser as a deduction while computing. The provisions of house property are like this. Whatever annual value is there, against that, 30 per cent is allowed as a deduction for rent, repair, and other things. And then interest is also allowed as a deduction, whatever interest is there on a loan which has been taken. After that, the sum is charged to tax. So, we have additional deductions.

The Act provides certain conditions when the person who is not the actual owner, but he is deemed to be owner. For example, if I have transferred my property to my wife without any consideration, then I will be deemed to be an owner, not my wife. Here, if there is a lease of more than 12 years, then the lessee is deemed to be the owner of the property. And if he is again renting it out, then whatever he is receiving is taxed as income from house property in its hand. And accordingly, all the deductions are allowed to him, 30 per cent of the annual value, etc. Now they are saying that you also allow the lease rent paid. So, now they will be getting double deductions. They will be getting 30 per cent of the entire rent and this lease rent also. This provision has been like this for many years, and it is almost settled issue."

22.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after deliberations on Clause 22, identified the need to clarify the computation of deductions to enhance fairness and transparency for property owners. The Committee, recommend two key amendments: firstly, in Clause 22(1)(a), to explicitly state that the standard 30% deduction is computed on the annual value after deducting municipal taxes; and secondly, in Clause 22(2), to ensure the deduction for pre-construction interest is available for let-out properties in addition to self-occupied ones, aligning it with the existing Act. Further, the Committee accept the remaining provisions of Clause 22 as proposed in the Bill.

Clause No. 23: Arrears of rent and unrealised rent received subsequently.

23.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) The amount of arrears of rent received from a tenant or the unrealised rent realised subsequently from a tenant shall deemed to be the income from house property in respect of the tax year in which such rent is received or realised.

(2) The amount deemed to be income from house property under sub-section (1) shall be included in the total income of the assessee under the head “Income from house property”, whether the assessee is the owner of the property or not in that tax year.

(3) A sum equal to 30% of the arrears of rent or the unrealised rent referred to in sub-section (1) shall be allowed as deduction.

23.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provision for arrears of rent and unrealised rent received subsequently.

25A. (1) The amount of arrears of rent received from a tenant or the unrealised rent realised subsequently from a tenant, as the case may be, by an assessee shall be deemed to be the income from house property in respect of the financial year in which such rent is received or realised, and shall be included in the total income of the assessee under the head "Income from house property", whether the assessee is the owner of the property or not in that financial year.

(2) A sum equal to thirty per cent of the arrears of rent or the unrealised rent referred to in sub-section (1) shall be allowed as deduction.

23.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 23 of the Bill provides for arrears of rent and unrealised rent received subsequently. This clause corresponds to section 25A of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

23.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

After thorough deliberation on Clause 23, the Committee observe that its provisions for taxing subsequently received arrears of rent and unrealised rent correspond to Section 25A of the 1961 Act. Finding that the clause is a textual simplification which retains the original substance, the Committee recommend its acceptance as it stands.

Clause No.24: Property owned by co-owners

24.1Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) For property co-owned with definite and ascertainable share, the co-owners shall not be assessed as an association of persons and their income computed separately as per their respective share under this Chapter shall be included in their total income.

(2) The relief available under section 21(6) shall be provided as if each co-owner is individually entitled to the said relief.

24.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Property owned by co-owners.

26. Where property consisting of buildings or buildings and lands appurtenant thereto is owned by two or more persons and their respective shares are definite and ascertainable, such persons shall not in respect of such property be assessed as an association of persons, but the share of each such person in the income from the property as computed in accordance with sections 22 to 25 shall be included in his total income.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, in applying the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 23 for computing the share of each such person as is referred to in this section, such share shall be computed, as if each such person is individually entitled to the relief provided in that sub-section.

24.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 24 of the Bill provides for property owned by co-owners. This clause corresponds to section 26 of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

24.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

One of the stakeholders suggested to change the heading of the clause and submitted that the House property owned by co- owners.Heading can be changed to “House property owned by co-owners” in line with the heading for other sections in this Part of the chapter.

24.5 Examination by the Committee:

Ministry on the suggestion submitted that The suggestion seeks to replace heading of clause 24 i.e. from “Property owned by co-owners." to “House property owned by co-owners” in line with the heading for other sections in this Part of the chapter.The language is presently aligned with provisions of the Act. Annual value of any building or land appurtenant thereto is taxed under the head 'income from house property'. But to say that only 'house property' is covered under the head is not a reasonable interpretation. The suggestion may not be feasible.

24.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee observe that Clause 24, corresponding to Section 26 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, sets out the provisions for taxing income from properties that are co-owned with definite and ascertainable shares.The Committee observe that the proposed clause is a textual simplification of the existing law, preserving its core intent and application without any substantive deviation. Therefore, the Committee accept Clause 24 as proposed by the Ministry and recommend no modification.

Clause No.25 : Interpretation.

25.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

For the purposes of sections 20 to 24, the “owner” in relation to a property shall include—

(a) an individual who transfers without adequate consideration, any property to the spouse (except under an agreement to live apart), or to a minor child (other than a married daughter);

(b) the holder of an impartible estate;

(c) a member of a co-operative society, company or other association of persons to whom a building or part thereof is allotted or leased under a house building scheme of the society, company or association;

(d) a person who is allowed to take or retain possession of any building or part thereof in part performance of a contract of the nature referred to in section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882;

(e) a person who acquires any rights (excluding any rights by way of a lease from month to month or for a period not exceeding one year) in or with respect to any building or its part—

(i) by virtue of transfer of such property by way of sale or exchange or original or extendible lease for a term of not less than twelve years; or

(ii) accruing or arising from any transaction (whether by way of becoming a member of, or acquiring shares in, a co-operative society, company or other association of persons or by way of any agreement or any arrangement of whatever nature), not being a transaction by way of sale, exchange or lease which has the effect of enabling the enjoyment of such property.

25.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

"Owner of house property", "annual charge", etc., defined.

27. For the purposes of sections 22 to 26—

(i) an individual who transfers otherwise than for adequate consideration any house property to his or her spouse, not being a transfer in connection with an agreement to live apart, or to a minor child not being a married daughter, shall be deemed to be the owner of the house property so transferred;

(ii) the holder of an impartible estate shall be deemed to be the individual owner of all the properties comprised in the estate;

(iii) a member of a co-operative society, company or other association of persons to whom a building or part thereof is allotted or leased under a house building scheme of the society, company or association, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be the owner of that building or part thereof;

(iiia) a person who is allowed to take or retain possession of any building or part thereof in part performance of a contract of the nature referred to in section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882), shall be deemed to be the owner of that building or part thereof;

(iiib) a person who acquires any rights (excluding any rights by way of a lease from month to month or for a period not exceeding one year) in or with respect to any building or part thereof, by virtue of any such transaction as is referred to in clause (f) of section 269UA, shall be deemed to be the owner of that building or part thereof;

(iv) []

(v) []

(vi) taxes levied by a local authority in respect of any property shall be deemed to include service taxes levied by the local authority in respect of the property.

25.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 25 of the Bill provides for interpretation in respect of “owner” in relation to a property. This clause corresponds to section 27 of the Act. There is no policy change. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

25.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Stakeholders suggested that the opening portion and section 25 may be reworded as follows - For the purposes of sections 20 to 24, the “owner” in relation to a house property shall include— (a) an individual who transfers without adequate consideration, any property to the spouse (except under an agreement to live apart), or to a minor child (other than a married daughter);""In the opening portion, “house property” may be used instead of “property” for consistency and greater clarity. (ii) It was further suggested that granting property ownership rights to women is a significant step toward making them self-reliant and enhancing their economic standing Several State Governments have incentivized registration of property in the name of women, by offering reduced stamp duty rates However, the provisions under section 25 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and section 27 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 act as a deterrent by deeming the transferor-spouse as the owner The provision discourages gifts or transfers of property to a spouse.

25.5 Examination by the Committee:

The ministry in response to the suggestions submitted in a written reply that (i)The suggestion seeks to use "In the opening portion of clause 25 Interpretation, the phrase “house property” instead of “property” for consistency and greater clarity. The language is presently aligned with provisions of the Act. Annual value of any building or land appurtenant thereto is taxed under the head 'income from house property'. But to say that only 'house property' is covered under the head is not a reasonable interpretation. The suggestion may not be feasible.

(ii) On the suggestion seeking to amend the definition of the deemed ownership when a property is transferred to spouse without adequate consideration.It is in the nature of Policy Change which is outside the scope of the Bill.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis-a-vis Act. It is an anti-abuse provision. The deeming ownership will come into effect only when one person transfers such house property to its spouse without adequate consideration. Further, it will defeat the purpose of clubbing of income. Properties will be transferred to spouse without adequate consideration for separately claiming the minimum threshold for taxable income. Thus, the suggestion is not feasible.

25.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee deliberated upon Clause 25, which provides the interpretative definition of 'owner' for the purposes of computing income from house property. This clause, corresponding to Section 27 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, consolidates the various scenarios of deemed ownership into a single, cohesive provision. The Committee observe that the clause retains the established legal principles and preserves necessary anti-abuse provisions while simplifying the language. Therefore, the Committee accept Clause 25 as proposed and recommend no change.

"Profits and gains of business or profession" and shall be chargeable under the head "Income from house property".]

26.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 26 of the Bill seeks to provide charging of income-tax on income under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”. The clause corresponds to section 28 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (the Act). It provide for inclusive definition of income under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”. Section 28(iiia) to (iiie) of Income-Tax Act, 1961 deals with taxing of specific export incentives. There were disputes on taxation of some export incentives not specifically mentioned in the Income-Tax Act, 1961. Correspondingly Section 26(1)(e) of the Income-Tax bill, 2025 has been rationalised with a view to reduce litigation and now it provides for the taxation of the amount of any cash assistance against export, duty drawback or duty remission or any other export incentive, received or receivable as business income. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

26.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- With regard to 26(2)(f) Ministry of Corporate Affairs recommended that any waiver of loans pursuant to the resolution plans approved under the Code may not be subject to tax under the Income-Tax Bill. In case of companies undergoing insolvency resolution process under the IBC, as a part of the resolution plan, the lenders/creditors agree to waive-off the outstanding dues comprising loans, interest and other payables partly, or as a whole and any such waiver should not be subject to Income-Tax.

- Neither S. 26(2)(k) not S. 536(2)(h) envisage claw back for sale of capital assets post 1 April 2026, whose expenditure was allowed under Section 35AD of ITA 1961. Gains on disposal of such assets would be taxed as capital gains, not business income, leading to potential controversy on offsetting past losses of specified business. It is suggested to modify Section 26(2)(k) of ITB 2025 to apply claw back to expenditure allowed under both Section 46 of ITB 2025 and Section 35AD of ITA 1961 which will ensure smooth transition and avoid ambiguity on taxing gains from sale of capital assets as business income or capital gains.

- While the profits earned by a Real estate developer on residential houses sold, are chargeable to tax as Business income, however the rental income earned on letting out such residential house are proposed to be taxed under the head 'Income from House property'. This creates anomaly in chargeability of income specially in case of the assessee who are in the real estate business or renting business. It is suggested that the head of taxability must be determined in accordance with the nature of business of the assessee Where the assessee is in the business of renting/sale/purchase of immove-ableproperty, the rental income must be taxed as Business income.

- With respect to 26(2)(e), it is recommended to give a clear definition of the term 'Input License' or replace it with 'Import License' if it is a typographical error. Also, it is recommended to add the words 'Any amount received from Government under any scheme, etc' to keep the scope of new section in line with the existing section of ITA, 1961.

26.5 Examination by the Committee:

26.5.1 On the issue of usage of word 'input' in 26(2)(e), the Ministry admitted that it is an inadvertent drafting error and instead of "input" license the word shall be "import" license.

26.5.2 Secretary MCA during the sitting held on 17.04.2025 stated the following with regard to waiver of loan to not be considered as an income subject to Income-Tax:

> "Then we come to the suggestion with respect to the IBC. This is an important aspect because the objective of the IBC is to essentially provide for resolution of a concern as a going concern. And we know these concerns are already reeling under losses and they handle financial stress. Prior to 2023, a loan waiver was not treated as a cash receipt and therefore was not subject to the income which is chargeable for tax. There was a Supreme Court judgment in Mahindra and Mahindra in 2018 where the waiver of loan was treated as a cash receipt. Subsequently, the amendment was brought in and it is now being proposed as a part of the Income-Tax Bill also. But our earnest request is that the waiver of loan should not be considered as an income subject to Income-Tax because that actually will really impact negatively the purpose behind the IBC. If that can be considered, it will be good."

26.5.3 The Ministry in their comments on the suggestion with regard to waiver of loan to not be considered as an income subject to Income-Tax stated that, 'the suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

The Committee further probed the Ministry to clarify the rationale for continuing to treat waivers of loans pursuant to resolution plans approved under the IBC as taxable income and the Ministry in this regard submitted that, 'Government has already incentivized the companies undergoing Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) by amending the section 79 of Income-Tax Act' 1961 which now allows to carry forward and set off the accumulated losses, even if there is a change in shareholding. Thus, a company which has undergone CIRP due to serious financial crunches should be having substantial amount of accumulated losses which can be set-off against the income arising under sections 28(iv) and 41(1) of the Income-Tax Act'1961. On the other hand, situations, where the company was not having accumulated losses at the beginning of CIRP indicate that the company was not in serious financial trouble and in such cases exemption u/s 28(iv)/41 of Income-Tax Act' 1961 shall be unjust enrichment. It may also be pointed out that Indian Accounting Standard (Ind AS) 109, para 3.3.3 also provides that upon waiver of loan, the difference between the carrying amount of loan and the consideration actually paid towards such waiver would be routed through profit and loss account. Thus, as per Ind AS also, waived amount is required to be shown as profit in the P&L account. Moreover, the Government has already foregone a major portion of statutory dues which were outstanding at the beginning of CIRP due to lower priority in waterfall mechanism. There are various judgements wherein the Courts have held that loan waived off as one time settlement will be taxable as income of the assessee. 26.5.4 On the issue of claw back for sale of capital assets, the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'to address cases where deduction is claimed earlier under section 35AD of ITA, 1961 and to provide taxability of the same after 1.4.2026 (i.e. after the commencement of the Income-Tax bill, 2025), necessary amendments shall be carried out in the Bill. The suggestion of the stakeholder is acceptable' and the drafting is to be corrected.

26.5.5 On the suggestion pertaining to taxability of income from letting out of residential house property, the Ministry in their response stated that, 'The suggestion seeks to amend clause 26(1) by allowing assessee in the business of renting/sale/ purchase of immoveable property to offer the rental income from letting of residential house or part of house under the head 'Income from Business. It is in the nature of Policy Change which is outside the scope of the Bill. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis-a-vis Act. The amendment that income from letting of residential house or part of house shall not be taxed under business head and will be taxed under the house property head was made by the Finance (No.2) Act, 2024 to bring clarity and eliminate litigation. Thus, the suggestion is not feasible'.

26.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note some drafting errors i.e. the usage of words 'named' and 'input' in Clause 26(2)(b) and in Clause 26(2)(e) respectively. The Committee thus, recommend that in Clause 26(2)(b), the word 'named' be replaced with 'name', and in Clause 26(2)(e), the word 'input' be substituted with 'import'.

Furthermore, the Committee recommend that necessary amendments be carried out in the Bill to ensure consistent application and smooth transition of Section 35AD into the new Income-Tax Bill (ITB), 2025. Specifically, Clause 26(2)(k) should incorporate a provision stating that any amount received from the sale of a capital asset acquired and used for the purpose of a specified business for which 100% deduction was claimed under Section 35AD of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 shall be taxed as business income if such asset is sold on or after the date on which the new Income-Tax Bill comes into effect.

Clause No.& Title:

27.Manner of computing profits and gains of business or profession.

27.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

27.The income referred to in section 26 shall be computed as per the provisions of sections 28 to 60, except section 58.

27.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Income from profits and gains of business or profession, how computed.

29. The income referred to in section 28 shall be computed in accordance with the provisions contained in sections 30 to 43D.

27.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 27 of the Bill provides for the manner of computing income under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”. The clause corresponds to section 29 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

27.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands.

Clause No.& Title:

28.Rent, rates, taxes, repairs and insurance.

28.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

28. (1) The following amounts shall be allowed as deduction in respect of premises, machinery, plant or furniture, wholly and exclusively, used for the purposes of the business or profession:—

(a) any premium paid in respect of insurance against risk of damage or destruction thereof;

(b) land revenue, local rates or municipal taxes paid;

(c) rent paid, when the premises are occupied by the assessee as a tenant;

(d) amount paid on account of current repairs, not being capital expenditure, when the premises are occupied by the assessee otherwise than as a tenant; and

(e) cost of repairs, not being capital expenditure, when the premises occupied by the premises occupied by the assessee as a tenant.

(2) In case where the premises, building, machinery, plant or furniture is partly used or not wholly and exclusively used for the purposes of the business or profession, the deduction allowable under sub-section (1) shall be restricted to the fair proportionate part thereof as determined by the Assessing Officer, having regard to the usage for the purposes of the business or profession.

28.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Rent, rates, taxes, repairs and insurance for buildings.

30. In respect of rent, rates, taxes, repairs and insurance for premises, used for the purposes of the business or profession, the following deductions shall be allowed—

(a) where the premises are occupied by the assessee—

(i) as a tenant, the rent paid for such premises ; and further if he has undertaken to bear the cost of repairs to the premises, the amount paid on account of such repairs ;

(ii) otherwise than as a tenant, the amount paid by him on account of current repairs to the premises ;

(b) any sums paid on account of land revenue, local rates or municipal taxes ;

(c) the amount of any premium paid in respect of insurance against risk of damage or destruction of the premises.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that the amount paid on account of the cost of repairs referred to in sub-clause (i), and the amount paid on account of current repairs referred to in sub-clause (ii), of clause (a), shall not include any expenditure in the nature of capital expenditure.

28.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 28 of the Bill provides for deduction for expenses on account of rent, repairs, insurance premium, local taxes, etc. The clause corresponds to section 30, 31 and 38(2) of the Act. The corresponding sections 30 and 31 of the Act have been merged. Further, the provision of Section 38(2) of the Act wherein Assessing Officer have the power to restrict the allowance under section 30 and 31 of the Act to the fair proportionate value of the assets (premises, machinery, plant or furniture) in case these assets have not been used wholly and exclusively for the purpose of business is also incorporated in clause 28 of the Bill. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (The phrase “wholly and exclusively” from clause 28(1) is to be omitted)

28.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Under the new Bill, it is sought to be added that such use must be wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business. Consequently, a provision is sought to be added to provide for partial disallowance in the event of partial use for business purposes. The Assessing Officer would determine the part of eligible deduction in such case. This could lead to uncertainty in the determination of amount of claim and will result into litigations.
  It is recommended the word “wholly and exclusively” be omitted from the section 28 of the ITB. This will simplify implementation of the tax provisions and reduce potential litigation.

- Correction of language of 28(1)(e) to convey the correct meaning- ‘cost of repairs, not being capital expenditure, when the premises is occupied ~~by the premises occupied~~ by the assessee as a tenant.’

- The clauses (a) to (e) of section 28(1) of the IT Bill, 2025 do not cover deduction for current repairs to machinery, plant or furniture. Thus, new clause (f) is proposed.
  (f) the amount paid on account of current repairs to machinery, plant or furniture.

28.5 Examination by the Committee:

28.5.1 The Ministry in their comments accepted the suggestion with regard to unnecessary insertion of phrase “wholly and exclusively” in clause 28(1) and stated that, ‘The insertion of phrase “wholly and exclusively” in clause 28(1) of the Bill is not required and the same is to be deleted. More so, as if the premises etc. are used for the business partly only, then provision for making disallowance has been provided in clause 28(2). Hence the suggestion is acceptable.’

28.5.2 With regard to correction of language of 28(1)(e) to convey the correct meaning, the Ministry stated that, it is an inadvertent drafting error and the phrase " by the premises occupied" is wrongly written in clause 28(1)(e).

28.5.3 And on the issue of deduction for current repairs to machinery, plant or furniture not being covered under the clauses (a) to (e) of section 28(1) of the IT Bill, 2025, the Ministry accepted that it is an inadvertent drafting error and deduction provided u/s 31(i) of the Act on the amount of current repairs in respect of machinery, plant and furniture is inadvertently missed to be provided in the Bill.

28.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that in Clause 28(1), the words "wholly and exclusively" are not necessary as if the premises, etc., are used only partly for business purposes, then provision for making disallowance has already been made under Clause 28(2). The Committee, thus recommend that in Clause 28(1), the words "wholly and exclusively" be omitted.

The Committee further recommend that in Clause 28(1)(e), the phrase "by the premises occupied" be omitted to convey the correct meaning. Clause 28(1)(e) may accordingly be revised to read as follows:

"(e) cost of repairs, not being capital expenditure, when the premises are occupied by the assessee as a tenant."

The Committee also recommend that a new clause (f) be inserted after Clause 28(1)(e), since the current clause does not cover deductions for current repairs to machinery, plant or furniture. The proposed clause may read as follows:

"(f) the amount paid on account of current repairs to machinery, plant or furniture."

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

29.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 29 of the Bill seeks to provide for deduction related to employee welfare including contribution to various funds, etc., that need to be allowed while computing the income under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”. The clause corresponds to provisions related to employee welfare covered in section 36 and section 40A of the Act. In the Income-Tax Act, 1961, provisions related to expenses for contributions to Provident Fund, Gratuity Fund, Superannuation Fund and Pension scheme, were spread across various sections, such as 40A(7), (9) and 36(1)(iv), (iva), (v), (va). To determine the allowability of these expenses, one had to refer to multiple provisions in addition to the charging sections. In the new tax bill, these provisions have been consolidated under a single clause, making them easier to understand and comply with. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

29.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- It is recommended to omit section Clause 29(1)(c) of the new Bill to remove the duplication; or a clarification may be provided in respect of interplay of the two sections. Deductibility for contribution to approved gratuity fund is governed by two separate provisions, wherein one provision limits deductibility to 8.33% of salary, whereas other provision provides deductibility if the sum is paid/ payable during the year. The above has lead to an ambiguity amongst taxpayers as to which provisions will be applicable on payment towards approved fund.

- It is suggested that the clause 29(1)(e) may be amended so as to provide that the disallowance is not made in a case where the payment of Employees’ Contribution to PF / ESIC etc. is made within a reasonable period of time. The recommended time of 90 days as is a reasonable period of time for this purpose. Alternatively, it may be provided that the disallowance will not be made in cases of delay being caused due to reasonable cause. The Board may consider coming out with some Rules in this regard.
  Although the provisions of Income-tax Act, 1961 and Income-tax Bill 2025 are same, there is a good case for amending the provisions while enacting the new code as explained hereunder : The provisions of the section are such that it results in permanent disallowance of the expenses even for a small delay in payment. At times the delay in payment is purely unintentional and are due to various factors beyond the control of the assessee. For Example, there are cases where the payment could not be made due to the website of the respective welfare fund being not working or supportive for few days. Also it is possible that the payment could not be made where the bank account of the assessee is attached by various government agencies for any reason. It is absolute unfair to make a permanent disallowance in relation to such unintentional delay in making payment of the welfare funds.

29.5 Examination by the Committee:

29.5.1 On the issue of omitting section Clause 29(1)(c) of the new Bill to remove the duplication, or providing clarification, the Ministry has responded stating that, 'The stakeholder seeks to omit clause 29(1)(c) relating to business deduction to employer for contribution to approved gratuity fund [36(1)(v) of the Act]. The rationale for the request has not been given. In the alternative, clarification has been sought on interplay of cl 29(1)(c) with cl. 29(1)(d) [40A(7) relating to non-allowance of deduction for provision for gratuity fund]. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The two clauses are for different purposes. One provision is related to amount of deduction which can be claimed and the other is related to non-deductibility where a provision is created without any actual payment. There is no ambiguity in the provisions. The suggestion is not feasible.

29.5.2 Further, elaborating on the issue during the sitting held on 05.06.2025, the representatives from the Ministry on the issue deposed as below:

'…employer makes contribution to a gratuity fund that is allowed as a deduction. So, if the employer makes only a provision for gratuity and does not actually pay the gratuity, that is not allowed as a deduction. So, there is one clause, one section that for this thing, if you make contribution to gratuity fund, it will be allowed. If you make a provision, that will not be allowed. So, basically the stakeholder is saying to omit clause 29(1)(c) or in alternative, they are requesting for a clarification. So, we think, it is very clear where contribution is made for gratuity, that is allowed as a deduction to the employer. Where he is making only a provision, not actual contribution, that is not allowed as a deduction'.

29.5.3 And on the suggestion to amend clause 29(1)(e) so as to provide that the disallowance is not made in a case where the payment of Employees' Contribution to PF / ESIC etc. is made within a reasonable period of time, the Ministry responded stating that, 'The stakeholder seeks to amend clause 29(1)(e) to provide that disallowance shall not be made in a case where the payment of Employees' Contribution to PF / ESIC etc is made within a reasonable period of time. The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The above issue has already been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the favour of the employees. Further the corresponding provisions of the Act are to protect the employee's interest and to ensure that the employer makes the payment to PF/ESIC within the due date prescribed under the respective Acts'.

(ii) if the amount ultimately recovered on any such debt or part of debt is less than the difference between the debt or part and the amount so deducted, the deficiency shall be deductible in the previous year in which the ultimate recovery is made;

(iii) any such debt or part of debt may be deducted if it has already been written off as irrecoverable in the accounts of an earlier previous year (being a previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, or any earlier assessment year), but the Assessing Officer had not allowed it to be deducted on the ground that it had not been established to have become a bad debt in that year;

(iv) where any such debt or part of debt is written off as irrecoverable in the accounts of the previous year (being a previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, or any earlier assessment year) and the Assessing Officer is satisfied that such debt or part became a bad debt in any earlier previous year not falling beyond a period of four previous years immediately preceding the previous year in which such debt or part is written off, the provisions of sub-section (6) of section 155 shall apply;

(v) where such debt or part of debt relates to advances made by an assessee to which clause (viia) of sub-section (1) applies, no such deduction shall be allowed unless the assessee has debited the amount of such debt or part of debt in that previous year to the provision for bad and doubtful debts account made under that clause.

30.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 30 of the Bill deals with deductions allowed on certain premiums. The clause corresponds to provisions of section 36 of the Act. Provisions of deductions related to the premiums paid by the assessee (in respect of insurance of stocks, insurance on the health of employees, insurance of the cattle) have been carved out and made a separate section. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

30.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause in entirety.

31.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 31 of the Bill deals with provisions related to Deduction for bad debt and provision for bad and doubtful debt. The clause corresponds to provisions of section 36 of the Act. In the Income-Tax Act, 1961, provisions related to the deduction for bad debts are contained in Section 36(1)(vii), (viia), and 36(2), which include 10 clauses/subsections, 6 provisos and 4 explanations. These provisions have now been consolidated into a separate section. Additionally, for banks and financial institutions, the allowance for bad debt provisions has been presented in a tabular format. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

31.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- In the third and eighth lines of Clause 31(3)(b), it is submitted that the word "irrecoverable" may be more appropriate than "irrevocable" in the context of bad debts.
  31(3)(b): "...amount of bad debt or part of it becomes irrecoverable… …..shall be deemed to be written off as irrecoverable..."
- In view of rising NPAs and related provisioning requirement, it is recommended that the deduction for provision for NPA at 8.5% of gross total income as per section 36(1)(viia) of the Act be increased to 12%-15% in the new section 31(1)(a) of the ITB, 2025.

31.5 Examination by the Committee:

31.5.1 On the issue of use of the word "irrecoverable" being more appropriate than "irrevocable", the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. Instead of the word "irrevocable", words "irrecoverable" should be used as provided in the corresponding provision in the IT Act.’

31.5.2 With regard to the suggestion seeking to increase the deduction for provision for Non Performing Assets (NPA) from 8.5% of total income to 12-15%. [s. 36(1)(viia) -- cl. 31(1)(a)], the Ministry furnished that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy. For banks, in addition to deduction of 8.5% of GTI on account of provision for NPAs, deduction of 10% of aggregate average advances made by rural branches is also provided. This is a significant deduction. The limit of 8.5.% was increased in 2017 from earlier 7.5% (In 2002 it was raised from 5 to 7.5). The suggestion is not feasible’.

31.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that the word "irrevocable" has been used in the third and eighth lines of Clause 31(3)(b). The Committee feel that the word "irrecoverable" is more appropriate in the context of bad debts. The Committee, thus, recommend that in the third and eighth lines of Clause 31(3)(b), the word "irrevocable" may be substituted with "irrecoverable".

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

32.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 32 of the Bill deals with other deductions allowed to the assessees. The clause corresponds to section 36 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (Cl. 32(1)(h) is to be amended to provide for disallowance of MTM losses not computed as per ICDS)

32.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Drafting suggestion w.r.t. use of word “financial corporation”. Section 2(72) of the CA-13 defines the term “public financial institution” and the term “financial corporation” has not been used/defined therein.

- Absence of a specific provision like Section 40A(13) in ITB 2025 may reignite past controversies regarding the applicability of ICDS I and whether it is binding on taxpayers.
  Insert a specific provision similar to Section 40A(13) of ITA 1961 to deny deduction of any MTM or expected loss not in accordance with ICDS, ensuring clarity and avoiding litigation.

- It is suggested to include Provision for claims incurred but not reported (IBNR) in clause (d) of Part B of Schedule XIV of New Income-Tax Bill, 2025 as under:
  “such amount carried over to reserve for unexpired risk and Provision for claims IBNR shall be allowed as deduction.”
  Separate adjustment in clause (e) in part B of Schedule XIV for amount carried over to catastrophe reserve. Similar amendment in section 32(1) (e) of New Tax Bill,2025 is also required for allowing deduction.
  As per Clause 32(1)(e) of New Income-Tax Bill,2025, a specified entity carrying on eligible business gets deduction for amount transfer to special reserve created and maintained by it which shall be least of the following:
  (a)Amount transfer to special reserve;
  (b) 20% of profits derived from eligible business (before this deduction);
  (c) when the aggregate of such amounts carried to such reserve account from time to time exceeds twice the amount of paid-up share capital and of general reserves of the specified entity, no deduction shall be allowable on such excess.
  We would therefore suggest amendments under the provisions of New Tax Bill, for claiming deduction of Provision for Catastrophe Reserve under clause

32(1)(e) as under:

(a) Reinsurance Company to be covered as “specified entity” under Explanation (A) to clause 32 (1)(e) ,

(b) Company carrying on reinsurance business to be covered as “eligible business” under Explanation (B) to clause 32 (1)(e) ;

(c) Corresponding amendment under Schedule XIV of having separate clause (e) for amount carried over to catastrophe reserve as per clause 32 (1)(e) to be allowed as deduction.

- The definition of Infrastructure facility consists of three limbs both in the new bill as well as in the existing Act. Sub point 1 and 2 in both the definitions are the same i.e.,the new bill is in line with the provisions of the existing ITA, 1961 as the said sub points in the new bill directly refer to the existing provisions of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. Sub point 3 in both the definitions refer to two different sections. In the existing Act, it refers to Section 80-IB(10) of the existing Act whereas the new bill refers to Section 141(5) of the new bill. There is no Section 141(5) in the whole new Income-Tax Bill, 2025 and it has only two sub clauses (a) and (b) and accordingly a part of definition is missing in the new law.

  Thus, it is recommended to include the same item (III) from the existing law i.e., “an undertaking referred to in sub-section (10) of section 80-IBof the Income-tax Act, 1961” in place of the words “an undertaking referred to in section 141(5)”.

- "Infrastructure Facility" and "Undertaking" definitions should be reproduced in this section. There should be no requirement to refer to the provisions of the Income-Tax Act 1961 after it is repealed, otherwise the very purpose of simplification gets defeated if one has to refer to the provisions of a repealed Act even many decades after its repeal.

32.5 Examination by the Committee:

32.5.1 With regard to the suggestion of replacing the words " financial corporation" with words "public financial institution", the Ministry stated that the suggestion made by the stakeholder is acceptable. The words" financial corporation" may be replaced with words "public financial institution" as provided in section 2(72) of the Companies Act 2013.

32.5.2 With regard to the suggestion seeking deduction for Provision for claims incurred but not reported (IBNR) for insurance business, the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act.It has been firther stated that, ‘IBNR claims is the amount owed by an insurer to all valid claimants who have had a covered loss but have not yet reported it. Since the insurer knows neither how many of these losses have occurred, nor the severity of each loss, IBNR is necessarily an estimate. Since the IBNR is not an ascertained liability, its deduction would result in undue deferment of taxes’.

32.5.3 With regard to the suggestion seeking to provide definition of "infrastructure facility" and "undertaking" in clause 32(1)(C) itself instead of making reference to the provisions of sec 80IA of Income-Tax Act, 1961, the Ministry responded that ‘The definition of 'infrastructure facility' shall be examined to be included in the Bill’.
And the following has been furnished on the issue by the Ministry, ‘The draft shall be incorporated in consultation with the Ministry of Law’.

32.5.4 On the issue of including the same item (III) from the existing law i.e., “an undertaking referred to in sub-section (10) of section 80-IBof the Income-tax Act, 1961” in place of the words “an undertaking referred to in section 141(5)” the Ministry stated that ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. The referencing in 32(1)(c) is incorrect which is to be corrected’.

32.5.5 On the issue of provision for disallowance of MTM losses not computed as per ICDS, the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘There is an inadvertent error in cl. 32(1)(h) as there is no provision for disallowance of MTM losses not computed as per ICDS. The same has to be provided in cl. 32(1)(h) of the Bill. The suggestion is acceptable.’

32.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that the term "financial corporation" has been used in Clause 32(1)(e)(ii)(A)(I) which is not defined under Section 2(72) of the Companies Act, 2013 (CA-13). The Committee, thus recommend that in Clause 32(1)(e)(ii)(A)(I), the term "financial corporation" be replaced with "public financial institution", as the latter is the term defined under Section 2(72) of the Companies Act, 2013 (CA-13), whereas the term "financial corporation" is not defined therein.

Further, with respect to Clause 32(1)(e)(ii)(C)(III), the Committee recommend that the expression "an undertaking referred to in sub-section (10) of Section 80-IB of the Income-tax Act, 1961" be used instead of "an undertaking referred to in section 141(5)", as no such Section 141(5) exists in the draft Income-Tax Bill, 2025. The Committee on similar lines of reproducing definition of 'infrastructure facility' in the Bill from the Income-Tax Act, 1961, also urge for reproducing the definition of 'undertaking' instead of the expression "an undertaking referred to in sub-section (10) of Section 80-IB of the Income-tax Act, 1961". The same may be appropriately done by clubbing in the savings clause 536.

With regard to provision 32(1)(h) for disallowance of Marked to Market (MTM) losses not computed as per Income Computation and Disclosure Standards (ICDS), the Committee recommend that the same be provided for in Clause 32(1)(h) of the Bill.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(c) such deficiency is actually written off in the books of account of the assessee.

(11) (a) Where the profits and gains chargeable for the tax year before allowing the deduction under sub-section (1) is less than the allowable deduction under that sub-section, then—

Provided also that where an asset referred to in clause (iia)or the first proviso to clause (iia), as the case may be, is acquired by the assessee during the previous year and is put to use for the purposes of business for a period of less than one hundred and eighty days in that previous year, and the deduction under this sub-section in respect of such asset is restricted to fifty per cent of the amount calculated at the percentage prescribed for an asset under clause (iia)for that previous year, then, the deduction for the balance fifty per cent of the amount calculated at the percentage prescribed for such asset under clause (iia)shall be allowed under this sub-section in the immediately succeeding previous year in respect of such asset:

Provided also that where an asset being commercial vehicle is acquired by the assessee on or after the 1st day of October, 1998 but before the 1st day of April, 1999 and is put to use before the 1st day of April, 1999 for the purposes of business or profession, the deduction in respect of such asset shall be allowed on such percentage on the written down value thereof as may be prescribed.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this proviso,—

(a) the expression "commercial vehicle" means "heavy goods vehicle", "heavy passenger motor vehicle", "light motor vehicle", "medium goods vehicle" and "medium passenger motor vehicle" but does not include "maxi-cab", "motor-cab", "tractor" and "road-roller";

(b) the expressions "heavy goods vehicle", "heavy passenger motor vehicle", "light motor vehicle", "medium goods vehicle", "medium passenger motor vehicle", "maxi-cab", "motor-cab", "tractor" and "road roller" shall have the meanings respectively as assigned to them in section 2 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (59 of 1988):

Explanation 1.—Where the business or profession of the assessee is carried on in a building not owned by him but in respect of which the assessee holds a lease or other right of occupancy and any capital expenditure is incurred by the assessee for the purposes of the business or profession on the construction of any structure or doing of any work in or in relation to, and by way of renovation or extension of, or improvement to, the building, then, the provisions of this clause shall apply as if the said structure or work is a building owned by the assessee.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this sub-section "written down value of the block of assets" shall have the same meaning as in clause (c) of sub-section (6) of section 43.

Explanation 3.—For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression "assets" shall mean—

(a) tangible assets, being buildings, machinery, plant or furniture;

(b) intangible assets, being know-how, patents, copyrights, trade marks, licences, franchises or any other business or commercial rights of similar nature, not being goodwill of a business or profession.

Explanation 4.—For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression "know-how" means any industrial information or technique likely to assist in the manufacture or processing of goods or in the working of a mine, oil-well or other sources of mineral deposits (including searching for discovery or testing of deposits for the winning of access thereto).

Explanation 5.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that the provisions of this sub-section shall apply whether or not the assessee has claimed the deduction in respect of depreciation in computing his total income;

(iia) in the case of any new machinery or plant (other than ships and aircraft), which has been acquired and installed after the 31st day of March, 2005, by an assessee engaged in the business of manufacture or production of any article or thing or in the business of generation, transmission or distribution of power, a further sum equal to twenty per cent of the actual cost of such machinery or plant shall be allowed as deduction under clause (ii) :

Provided that where an assessee, sets up an undertaking or enterprise for manufacture or production of any article or thing, on or after the 1st day of April, 2015 in any backward area notified by the Central Government in this behalf, in the State of Andhra Pradesh or in the State of Bihar or in the State of Telangana or in the State of West Bengal, and acquires and installs any new machinery or plant (other than ships and aircraft) for the purposes of the said undertaking or enterprise during the period beginning on the 1st day of April, 2015 and ending before the 1st day of April, 2020 in the said backward area, then, the provisions of clause (iia)shall have effect, as if for the words "twenty per cent", the words "thirty-five per cent" had been substituted :

Provided further that no deduction shall be allowed in respect of—

(A) any machinery or plant which, before its installation by the assessee, was used either within or outside India by any other person; or

(iii) in the case of any building, machinery, plant or furniture in respect of which depreciation is claimed and allowed under clause (i) and which is sold, discarded, demolished or destroyed in the previous year (other than the previous year in which it is first brought into use), the amount by which the moneys payable in respect of such building, machinery, plant or furniture, together with the amount of scrap value, if any, fall short of the written down value thereof :

Provided that such deficiency is actually written off in the books of the assessee.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause,—

(1) "moneys payable" in respect of any building, machinery, plant or furniture includes—

(a) any insurance, salvage or compensation moneys payable in respect thereof;

(b) where the building, machinery, plant or furniture is sold, the price for which it is sold,

so, however, that where the actual cost of a motor car is, in accordance with the proviso to clause (1) of section 43, taken to be twenty-five thousand rupees, the moneys payable in respect of such motor car shall be taken to be a sum which bears to the amount for which the motor car is sold or, as the case may be, the amount of any insurance, salvage or compensation moneys payable in respect thereof (including the amount of scrap value, if any) the same proportion as the amount of twenty-five thousand rupees bears to the actual cost of the motor car to the assessee as it would have been computed before applying the said proviso;

(2) "sold" includes a transfer by way of exchange or a compulsory acquisition under any law for the time being in force but does not include a transfer, in a scheme of amalgamation, of any asset by the amalgamating company to the amalgamated company where the amalgamated company is an Indian company or in a scheme of amalgamation of a banking company, as referred to in clause (c) of section 5 of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 (10 of 1949) with a banking institution as referred to in sub-section (15) of section 45 of the said Act, sanctioned and brought into force by the Central Government under sub-section (7) of section 45 of that Act, of any asset by the banking company to the banking institution.

(2) Where, in the assessment of the assessee, full effect cannot be given to any allowance under sub-section (1) in any previous year, owing to there being no profits or gains chargeable for that previous year, or owing to the profits or gains chargeable being less than the allowance, then, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 72 and sub-section (3) of section 73, the allowance or the part of the allowance to which effect has not been given, as the case may be, shall be added to the amount of the allowance for depreciation for the following previous year and deemed to be part of that allowance, or if there is no such allowance for that previous year, be deemed to be the allowance for that previous year, and so on for the succeeding previous years.

33.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 33 of the Bill provides for deduction of depreciation in respect of assets owned and used for the purposes of business. The clause corresponds to section 32 of the Act. Section 32 included 6 clauses/subsections, 8 provisos, and 6 explanations. In the new bill, all provisos and explanations have been converted into subsections/clauses. These changes make the provision easier to understand and comply with. There has been no change in the rate of depreciation, eligibility, or method of allowance. Some of the provisions have been removed which have become redundant as they were applicable for very old years and not relevant now (For example 1st Proviso to Section 32(1), 4th Proviso to Section 32(1) and 5th Proviso to Section 32(1)). The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

33.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- In the existing provisions, the word intangible asset is specifically attached to a period i.e., any intangible asset acquired on or after the 1stday of April, 1998. Whereas, under the new bill only the word acquired is used and it is not supported by any period. As per the existing law, the provisions are very clear in stating that depreciation would be applicable only on those assets which are acquired after a particular date and not on all assets. The provisions of the new bill now leaves an open question of whether any intangible asset which is acquired prior to 01-04-1998 and on which no depreciation was allowed under the existing law, would also be eligible to claim depreciation as per the new law. Thus, it is proposed to add the words 'acquired on or after the 1st day of April, 1998' in the provisions of the new bill as well to avoid any other possible interpretation.

- Section 38 restricts depreciation to the fair proportionate part as determined by the Assessing Officer in case of tangible assets partly, or not wholly and exclusively, used for business purposes. Clause 33 refers to block of assets in case of utilization of assets partly, or not wholly and exclusively, used for business purposes. Therefore, also includes intangible assets. Use of the term "block of assets" suggests that intangible assets are also covered for purpose of computing proportionate part, used for business purposes in addition to tangible assets. We suggest to retain the term "tangible assets" instead of "block of assets".

To align it with the benefit provided under the current at as the intent of the bill is only to bring clarity and not to make amendments to the existing Income-Tax provisions.

- Reference to sub-section (8) can be removed in sub-section (4). Sub-section (4) may be re-drafted as under -
  (4) The deduction under this section shall be restricted to 50% of the prescribed rate, if such asset, being asset referred to in subsections
  (1) and (2) and (8) is—
  (a) acquired by the assessee during the tax year; and
  (b) put to use for the purposes of business or profession for less than one hundred and eighty days in that tax year.
  Reference to sub-section (8) can be removed in subsection (4), since subsection (9) contains the specific provision for restricting additional depreciation to 50%, where the asset is acquired and put to use for less than 180 days.

- The provision 33(4) restricts rate of depreciation to 50% in case of asset being put to use for less than 180 days. The provisions as proposed do not make reference to section 33(3) which provides rate of depreciation in case of block of assets. Thus, changes are proposed as below:
  The deduction under this section shall be restricted to 50% of the prescribed rate, if such asset, being asset referred to in subsections (1), (2), (3) and (8) is (a) acquired by the assessee during the tax year; and (b) put to use for the purposes of business or profession for less than one hundred and eighty days in that tax year.

- Sub-section (9) can be redrafted by bringing the condition before the rate in (a) and (b) for greater clarity i.e. Sub-section (9) can be redrafted as follows -
  (9) The additional deduction referred to in sub-section (8) shall be—
  (a) If the new plant and machinery is acquired and put to use for 180 days or more in the relevant tax year, 20% of the actual cost of the new machinery or plant in the tax year when it is acquired and put to use; or
  (b) In other cases, 10% of the actual cost, and the remaining 10% shall be allowed in the immediately succeeding tax year.

- With respect to 33 (11) (a) changes as below proposed to convey the right meaning. (11) (a) Where the profits and gains chargeable for the tax year before allowing the deduction under sub-section (1) is less than the allowable deduction under that subsection, then— (i) in case of ~~if such~~ profits and gains ~~is not a loss~~, the deduction under sub-section (1) shall be allowed to the extent of the available profits and gains; (ii) ~~if such profits and gains is a loss~~ in case of loss, no deduction under sub-section (1) shall be allowed;

- 33(12)(c) “sold” includes a transfer by way of exchange or a compulsory acquisition under any law for the time being in force but does not include a transfer, in a scheme of amalgamation, of any asset by the amalgamating company to the amalgamated company where the amalgamated company is an Indian company or in a scheme of amalgamation of co-operative bank, of any asset by the amalgamating co-operative bank to the amalgamated co-operative bank or in a scheme of amalgamation of a banking company, as referred to in section 5(c) of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 with a banking institution as referred to in section 45(15) of the said Act, sanctioned and brought into force by the Central Government under section 45(7) of that Act, of any asset by the banking company to the banking institution; “Sale” to also exclude transfer in a scheme of amalgamation of cooperative bank, of any asset by the amalgamating cooperative bank to the amalgamated co-operative bank.

- With a view to avoid litigation with respect to nature of expenditure (i.e., capital or revenue) in case of purchase of small items of assets, provisions should be introduced to treat cost of such assets as depreciation allowance. The limit of cost of small items of asset Rs. 25,000 can be fix-up to treat the cost of such assets as depreciation allowance. Such a provision will provide accounting simplification and avoid possible litigations.

- Recognition of Goodwill as a deductible item. The Government should unshackle itself from narrow construct of whether goodwill could actually depreciate or not and allow the benefit as an amortization over a 5-10 years period. To avoid any misuse, this benefit can be restricted to transactions where the transferor is taxable.

- Energy Storage Systems as an infrastructure sector was included in the Harmonized list of infrastructure sub-sectors in 2022 to promote foreign investment. Currently, the rate of depreciation on such energy storage systems is 15%. In order to further promote investment in this sector, higher rate of depreciation i.e. 40% should be allowed on Energy Storage Systems and related assets. To amend depreciation schedule to provide 40% depreciation rate on Energy Storage Systems.

- The rate of depreciation for EVs is 40%. However, EV batteries are not specifically eligible for 40% depreciation. Thus, replacement batteries or purchasing of spare batteries for commercial EV companies are eligible only for 15% depreciation. In order to further promote investment in this sector, higher rate of depreciation i.e 40% should be allowed on EV batteries as well. To amend depreciation schedule to provide 40% depreciation rate on EV batteries.

- Depreciation rates be brought in line with the rates prescribed in the Companies Act. If the rates of depreciation in the Income-tax Act are aligned with the Companies Act, it would reduce the difference between the income as per the Income-Tax Act and the book profit.

33.5 Examination by the Committee:

33.5.1. On the suggestion to add the words 'acquired on or after the 1st day of April, 1998' for intangible assets in Clause 33(1)(b), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The words" acquired on or after the 1st day of April, 1998" is to be added for intangible assets in clause 33(1)(b) of the Bill'.

33.5.2 On the suggestion to retain the term "tangible assets" instead of "block of assets" in clause 33(2)(b), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The current provision of sec 38 of the Act provide for restriction on allowance of depreciation on tangible assets which are not fully used for the purposes of business. The corresponding provision of the Bill i.e. clause 33(2)(b) inadvertently covers intangible assets also. The provision shall be aligned with the Act.

33.5.3 With respect to reference to sub-section (8) being removed in sub-section (4), the Ministry accepted that it is an inadvertent drafting error and restriction of additional depreciation to 50% of prescribed rate where asset is used for less than 180 days has been mentioned twice. The same needs to be corrected.

33.5.4 And with regard to the provision 33(4) not making reference to section 33(3) which provides rate of depreciation in case of block of assets, the Ministry stated that 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The reference of clause 33(3)(a) has been inadvertently missed in clause 33(4)'.

33.5.5 On the issue of Sub-section (9) being redrafted by bringing the condition before the rate in (a) and (b) for greater clarity, the Ministry furnished that 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 33(9) which provides for rate of additional depreciation is to be redrafted to align it with the present provisions of the Act to remove any ambiguity'.

33.5.6 Regarding the suggestion to redraft provision of clause 33(11)(a), the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is a drafting improvement without indicating whether the present drafting has any ambiguity. A provision could be drafted in hundreds of ways. The suggestion is not feasible'.

33.5.7 On the issue of recognition of 'Goodwill' as a deductible item, the Ministry in their written response furnished that 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.' And in a detailed reply on the issue, the Ministry furnished that,

(i) 'Goodwill was specifically excluded from intangible assets in 2021 as there was no specific mechanism to compute goodwill.
(ii) Goodwill can appreciate also. Therefore, it would be incorrect to contend that goodwill is only a depreciable asset and therefore should be provided depreciation benefit.
(iii) A loss-making entity can assign astronomical value to goodwill and sell it to a profit-making entity. The profit-making company will set-off its profits by depreciation and the loss-making entity will not pay any tax on receipts from goodwill.
(iv) This will encourage tax avoidance and tax arbitrage.'

33.5.8 Furthermore, during the sitting of the Committee held on 26.05.25 the Members deliberated on the issue of depreciation of goodwill and agreed with the Ministry officials who stated that: '…depreciation on goodwill…It is liable to misuse'.

And during the sitting held on 17.06.2025, representatives from the Department of Revenue stated:

> "…So, regarding goodwill, in 2021, it was specifically excluded from the definition of intangible assets because of two, three reasons. One was that there was no specific mechanism to compute goodwill. Secondly, with respect to goodwill, they are asking for depreciation. Our position is that goodwill is not a depreciable asset. We cannot say that goodwill is a depreciable asset only because it can appreciate also. It is because of its very nature; it can be assigned astronomical value. Sir, and a loss-making company can transfer goodwill to a profit-making company. A profit-making company reduces its tax liability and then the loss-making company does not pay anything because it is loss-making".

33.5.9 On the suggestion seeking to change the definition of "sold" so as to exclude transfers by way of amalgamation of co-operative banks in clause 33(12)(c) of the Bill, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The amalgamation of co-operative bank is not monitored by courts. Therefore, it may not be possible to extend the exclusion to the amalgamation of co-operative bank'.

33.5.10 The Ministry in their comments on the suggestion with regard to limit of cost of small items of asset Rs. 25,000 be fixed-up to treat the cost of such assets as depreciation allowance stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

33.5.11 With regard to the suggestion to change the depreciation rate for Energy storage system and EVs, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Depreciation rate is linked to the period for useful life of an asset. It has not been shown as to what is the useful life of an energy storage system. The suggestion is not feasible'.

33.5.12 On the suggestion to align the depreciation rate with that of Companies Act the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Under the Income-Tax Act, 1961, depreciation is calculated on Written down Value (WDV) method. In the Companies Act, depreciation is allowed on straight line method. WDV is closer to the actual business practices. Also, the change will have significant revenue impact. The suggestion is not feasible'.

33.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination of Clause 33 of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, observe that the phrase "intangible assets acquired" under Clause 33(1)(b) does not specify a cut-off date. Under the provisions of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, depreciation on intangible assets is allowed only for those acquired on or after 1st April, 1998. The Committee thus, recommend that in Clause 33(1)(b), the words "acquired on or after the 1st day of April, 1998" be inserted after the phrase "intangible assets acquired", to ensure that depreciation is allowed only on those intangible assets acquired after the specified date, in line with the provisions of the 1961 Act, and not on all such assets.

Further, with regard to the Clause, the Committee recommend that the term "tangible assets" be used in place of "block of assets". This is because the term "block of assets" implies the inclusion of intangible assets as well for the purpose of computing the proportionate part used for business. However, under the 1961 Act, depreciation in such cases is restricted to a fair proportion as determined by the Assessing Officer and is applicable only to tangible assets that are either partly or not wholly and exclusively used for business purposes.

In addition, the Committee recommend that the reference to sub-section (8) be deleted from sub-section (4), since sub-section (9) already contains a specific provision that restricts additional depreciation to 50% where the asset is acquired and put to use for less than 180 days.

The Committee also recommend that a reference to Clause 33(3) be added in Clause 33(4), as Section (3) deals with the rate of depreciation applicable in the case of a block of assets.

To enhance clarity in Clause 33(9), the Committee recommend that the condition precede the rate in sub-clauses (a) and (b), and that the sub-section be redrafted as follows:

(9) The additional deduction referred to in sub-section (8) shall be—–

(a) If the new plant and machinery is acquired and put to use for 180 days or more in the relevant tax year, 20% of the actual cost of the new machinery or plant in the tax year when it is acquired and put to use; or

(b) In other cases, 10% of the actual cost, and the remaining 10% shall be allowed in the immediately succeeding tax year.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

34.General conditions for allowable deductions.

34.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

34.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 34 of the Bill provides for general conditions for allowing expenditure (other than capital and personal expenditure) incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business or profession being carried on by assessee. The clause corresponds to section 37 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

34.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- The absence of a clear provision for the deduction of prior period expenses in the proposed ITB continues to perpetuate confusion and litigation, making it imperative to address this issue to provide certainty to taxpayers.
  A suitable provision should be inserted in section 37(1) of the Act (corresponding section 34 of ITB) that allows for the deduction of prior period expenses in the current year if they have not been claimed in earlier years. A limit (e.g., not exceeding 1% of turnover) may be established for such expenditures to facilitate administrative ease and avoid complications in claiming deductions for previous years. This clarification should not result in revenue loss for the Government, as corporate tax rates have remained relatively stable over the years, ensuring that the interests of both taxpayers and the Government are balanced.

- Clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 34 be removed.
  (b) an expenditure incurred on the activities relating to corporate social responsibility referred to in section 135 of the Companies Act, 2013; or CSR expenses are connected to social and charitable causes. It is, therefore, rational to allow the same as deduction under section 34. There is no bar on allowability of CSR expenditure falling under the specific deductions allowable in this chapter. Therefore, there is a need to revisit this provision and allow deduction to companies of CSR expenditure incurred by them under section 34 also.

34.5 Examination by the Committee:

34.5.1 On the suggestion seeking deduction related to prior period expenses, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Clause 44 of the Bill already provides for amortisation of certain preliminary expenses for five successive years beginning with the year in which business commenses. The suggestion is already taken care of.

34.5.2 On the suggestion of Clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 34 being removed, the Ministry furnished that, 'The stakeholder seeks deductibility of the expenditure made towards Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR). The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. CSR expenses are a below the line item. They can not be made above the line item of expense. Moreover, allowing deduction of CSR would mean that part of CSR liability has been refunded to the companies by way of tax subsidy. That is not the intention of the Statute, whether it be income-tax or the companies law. It may also be stated that the CSR expenses is a responsibility cast upon the corporate which cannot be said to be incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of business'.

34.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee after thorough deliberation upon the provisions of the Clause and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance find the provisions of the proposed Clause 34 to be acceptable as it is without any modifications.

(ii) interest paid by the association or body to such individual or by such individual to the association or body as member in a representative capacity and interest paid by the association or body to the person so represented or by the person so represented to the association or body, shall be taken into account for the purposes of this clause.

Explanation 3.—Where an individual is a member of an association or body otherwise than as member in a representative capacity, interest paid by the association or body to such individual shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this clause, if such interest is received by him on behalf, or for the benefit, of any other person.

(c) [Omitted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, w.e.f. 1-4-1989. Earlier, it was amended by the Finance Act, 1963, w.e.f. 1-4-1963, Finance Act, 1964, w.e.f. 1-4-1964, Finance Act, 1965, w.e.f. 1-4-1965, Finance Act, 1968, w.e.f. 1-4-1969, Finance (No. 2) Act, 1971, w.e.f. 1-4-1972, Finance Act, 1984, w.e.f. 1-4-1985 and Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, w.e.f. 1-4-1988.]

(d) [Omitted by the Finance Act, 1988, w.e.f. 1-4-1989.]

35.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clauses 35 of the Bill provides for amounts not to be allowed while computing the income under the head “Profit and gains of business or profession”. The clause corresponds to section 40 of the Act. Section 40(a)(ic) of the Act has been removed as it has become redundant as it was applicable for old year and not relevant now. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (It is proposed to redraft clause 35(b)(i) and (ii) of the Bill to provide better clarity)

35.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- With respect to Clause 35(a)(ii) reference is made to Schedule III (Table, S.No.10). Item (c) of S.No.10 in the Table which makes a reference to section 200 of Companies Act, 1956, but the referenced provision pertains to the erstwhile Companies Act, 1956, for which no corresponding provision exists under the currently applicable Companies Act, 2013. It is requested to kindly review the applicability of the said provision.

- Section 40(a)(i)/(ia) of the 1961 Act provides for disallowance of 100%/30% of sum payable to nonresident/resident in case of default in TDS compliance. Scenario A: TDS is not deducted during the tax year in which expense is incurred. Expense deduction is granted in the subsequent tax year when TDS is deducted and paid. Scenario B: TDS is deducted during the tax year in which expense is incurred but not paid before the due date of filing the tax return. Expense deduction is granted in the subsequent tax year when TDS is paid.

- An amendment to section 40(a)(ii) of the Act by Finance Bill 2006 (which corresp onds to Section 35(a)(iii) of the Bill) clarified that the claim relating to deduction of eligible FTC is prohibited, and conversely, ineligible FTC should be deductible, but multiple disputes have arisen related to this issue.
  Specific provision to be inserted in section 35(a)(iii) of the Bill to allow ineligible Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) as a business loss, as this represents actual loss su ffered by the taxpayer (due to lower realization of export turnover).

- Section 35(b)(ii) (I) can be redrafted as given below -
  (I) tax is deducted during the tax year and paid after the due date specified in section 263(1), or where tax is deducted in any subsequent tax year, such sum shall be allowed as a deduction in computing the income of such subsequent tax year in which such tax has been paid;
  The current provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961 are clear that deduction would not be allowed if –
  (i) Deduction is during the subsequent year
  (ii) Deduction is during the relevant previous year but deposit is after the due date.
  The Bill mentions that where tax is deducted and paid during any subsequent year, deduction will be allowed in the year when the tax is paid. The Phrase in section 35(b)(ii)(I) can be redrafted for clarity to cover the situation where tax is deducted during the subsequent year also.

- Section 35(c) may be omitted. Clause (c) may be removed since it is already covered in (b)(ii) with the benefit of availability of deduction in the tax year in which the tax has been deducted, if the same is paid on or before the due date. Thereafter, the benefit would be available in the year of payment.

- Section 35(d) may be omitted. This needs to be omitted consequent to the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2025 removing equalization levy on specified service.

- Section 35(f) (iv) and (v) to read as follows -

(iv) on interest to any partner as authorised by the partnership deed, exceeding 12% simple interest per annum, ~~and where an individual isa partner in a firm, on behalf of orfor the benefit of any other person,such partner and any other personshall be referred as a~~
~~"representative partner" and the "person so represented", respectively, then the provisions of sub-clause (ii) and this sub-clause –~~
~~shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to such individual not as a representative partner;~~
~~shall be applicable in respect of interest paid to an individual as a representative partner and the person so represented;~~
~~shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to a partner, otherwise than as a representative partner, on behalf of or for the benefit of any other person; or~~

(v) In this clause—

(A)"book profit" means the net profit, as shown in the profit and loss account for the relevant tax year, computed as per Chapter IVD as increased by the aggregate amount of the remuneration to all the partners of the firm, if such amount has been deducted while computing the net profit;

(B)"working partner" means an individual who is actively engaged in conducting the affairs of the business or profession of the firm of which he is a partner;

(C) where an individual is a partner in a firm, on behalf of or for the benefit of any other person, such partner and any other person shall be referred as a "representative partner" and the "person so represented", respectively, then the provisions of sub-clause (ii) and (iv)—
shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to such individual not as a representative partner;
shall be applicable in respect of interest paid to an individual as a representative partner and the person so represented;
shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to a partner, otherwise than as a representative partner, on behalf of or for the benefit of any other person.

The portion in bold in Section 35(f)(iv) can be removed and placed as (C) in section 35(f)(v) for better presentation and clarity.

Since Section 35(f)(iv) relates to disallowance and Section 35(f)(v) contains clarification on meaning of certain terms. The bold portion gives a clarification and hence can be included as (C) in Section 35(f)(v).
For the words sub-clause (ii) and this sub-clause, the words “sub-clause (ii) and (iv)” shall be substituted when placed as (C) in (f)(v).

- Business incurs certain expenses to earn income outside income, out of which taxes deducted in foreign countries are one of those expenditures.
  However, at times, either due to lower tax rate in India or no taxable profit during the year or whatsoever reason, business are unable to claim entire credit of taxes paid in foreign country. Other countries such as UK, USA, etc., provides FTC as a tax deductible expenditure. It is therefore recommended to:
  - An exception to Clause 35 of the existing Bill may be inserted to exclude taxes paid in foreign country from the term ‘tax on income’.
  - Alternatively, in Clause 34 a clarificatory provision may be added to include unclaimed FTC as a business expenditure.
  - This could bring certainty to the issue thereby reducing litigation. It will also help in reducing tax losses for businesses and encourage Indian businesses to bring in foreign income leading to a boost in foreign currency inflow.

- Due to separate demands being raised with respect to the same issue there is duplication of demand, which creates cash flow and work capital difficulties for the genuine taxpayers, even if appeal is filed before the appellate authorities. Alternate options:

  - Disallowance under Clause 35 of the Bill may be deleted as clause 398 is adequate to compensate for the loss of tax revenue on non-compliance of withholding of tax; or
  - Demand may be stayed without any payment, if another demand is already raised for same transaction under separate proceedings and appeal is pending.

- With respect to 35(e), the phrase “a State Government undertaking or by the State Government” applies to both the clauses. To bring the provision under the IT Bill 2025 in line with IT Act, 1961, it is suggested that:
  (e) any amount— (i) paid by way of royalty, licence fee, service fee, privilege fee, service charge or any other fee or charge, by whatever name called, which is levied exclusively on by; or (ii) which is appropriated, directly or indirectly, from a State Government undertaking or by the State Government;

35.5 Examination by the Committee:

35.5.1 The Ministry in their comments on the suggestion with regard to non-existence of provisions corresponding to section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956 in the Companies Act, 2013 stated that, 'The suggestion is correct as far as non-existence of provisions corresponding to section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956 in the Companies Act, 2013. It may be mentioned that Section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956 prohibits tax free payments to any officer or employee. However, as regards exemption on perquisite, it is mentioned that the relevant provisions of the Bill [Schedule III, Table: Sl.No.10(c)] specifies that such exemption on perquisite is available even if such perquisite is paid irrespective of section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956.Therefore, said provisions in Schedule III, in the Table, at S.No.10(c) may be omitted. Therefore, suggestion is acceptable. No reference to the Companies Act, 1956 or 2013 is required.'

35.5.2 Further, with regard to Scenario B i.e. where tax has been deducted in one year and paid after the due date of filing of return in the subsequent year not being captured presently in clause 35(b)(i)(A) and also clause in 35(b)(ii)(A), the Ministry in their comments stated that, 'Scenario B i.e. where tax has been deducted in one year and paid after the due date of filing of return in the subsequent year is not being captured presently in clause 35(b)(i)(A) and also clause 35(b)(ii)(A) and has to be provided for. The suggestion for amendment is acceptable.'

35.5.3 Further, on the issue of specific provision to be inserted in section 35(a)(iii) of the Bill to allow ineligible Foreign Tax Credit (FTC) as a business loss, the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

35.5.4 On the suggestion to omit Section 35(c), the Ministry furnished that 'The stakeholder seeks for omission of clause 35(c) which provide for non-allowability of salary paid to non-resident on which tax has not been deducted/ paid on ground that same payment is covered in clause 35(b)(ii). There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Clause 35(c) and cl. 35(b)(ii) provide for different treatment of payment. While cl. 35(b)(ii) provides for disallowance if tax is not deducted or if deducted but not paid by due date of filing of return of income, cl. 35(c) provides for disallowance if tax is not deducted / paid as per due date of payment. Thus, there is differential treatment for two types of payment. Hence clause 35(c) cannot be deleted'.

35.5.5 On the suggestion to omit Section 35(d), the Ministry furnished that 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Government amendments to Finance Act, 2025 has removed the Equalization Levy on specified services and thus clause 35(d) of the Bill needs to be omitted'.

35.5.6 With respect to redrafting of 35(e), the Ministry furnished that it is an inadvertent drafting error. The phrase “a State Government undertaking or by the State Government” applies to both the sub-clauses of clause 35(e) of the Bill.

35.5.7 On the suggestion to redraft clause 35(f)(iv) and (v), the Ministry furnished that, ‘The stakeholder has proposed redrafted clause 35(f)(iv)and (v). There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. However, the suggestion has been noted and will be examined further for consideration’.

35.5.8 With regard to the suggestion seeking allowance of expenditure on which witholding tax has not been deducted, the Ministry furnished that ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Current provisions act as a tool to discourage taxpayers' non-compliance with the withholding provisions. These are required to maintain TDS discipline. The suggestion is not feasible.

35.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that the reference to Section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956, in Schedule III, Table, at S. No. 10(c), as cited in Clause 35(a)(ii), is erroneous. The corresponding provisions under Section 200 of the 1956 Act do not exist in the Companies Act, 2013. Additionally, Schedule III, Table at S. No. 10(c) already provides that the exemption on perquisites is available even if such perquisite is paid, regardless of Section 200 of the Companies Act, 1956, thereby rendering the reference redundant, the Committee thus recommend that the provisions in Schedule III, Table, at S. No. 10(c), as referred to in Clause 35(a)(ii), be omitted.

Further, with respect to situations where tax is deducted in one year but paid after the due date for filing the return in the subsequent year which is not currently addressed in Clause 35(b)(i) and (ii), the Committee recommend that explicit provisions be incorporated in the respective clauses to address such cases.

The Committee further recommend that Clause 35(d) be omitted, as the Government's amendments to the Finance Act, 2025, have removed the Equalization Levy on specified services, rendering this clause redundant.

Regarding Clause 35(e), the Committee recommend that it be redrafted to ensure that the phrase "a State Government undertaking or by the State Government" clearly applies to both sub-clauses of Clause 35(e) of the Bill.

The Committee would also like to recommend redrafting of Clause 35(f)(iv) and (v) for providing better clarity as below:

(iv) on interest to any partner as authorised by the partnership deed, exceeding 12% simple interest per annum,

(v) In this clause—

(A)"book profit" means the net profit, as shown in the profit and loss account for the relevant tax year, computed as per Chapter IVD as increased by the aggregate amount of the remuneration to all the partners of the firm, if such amount has been deducted while computing the net profit;

(B)"working partner" means an individual who is actively engaged in conducting the affairs of the business or profession of the firm of which he is a partner;

(C) where an individual is a partner in a firm, on behalf of or for the benefit of any other person, such partner and any other person shall be referred as a "representative partner" and the "person so represented", respectively, then the provisions of sub-clause (ii) and (iv)—

shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to such individual not as a representative partner;

shall be applicable in respect of interest paid to an individual as a representative partner and the person so represented;

shall not be applicable in respect of interest paid to a partner, otherwise than as a representative partner, on behalf of or for the benefit of any other person.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(a) in a case where the business or profession is carried on by a company, such person is, at any time during the previous year, the beneficial owner of shares (not being shares entitled to a fixed rate of dividend whether with or without a right to participate in profits) carrying not less than twenty per cent of the voting power; and

(5) [Omitted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, w.e.f. 1-4-1989. Original sub-section (5) was inserted by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1971, w.e.f. 1-4-1972.]

(6) [Omitted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, w.e.f. 1-4-1989. Original sub-section (6) was inserted by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1971, w.e.f. 1-4-1972.]

(7) (a) Subject to the provisions of clause (b), no deduction shall be allowed in respect of any provision (whether called as such or by any other name) made by the assessee for the payment of gratuity to his employees on their retirement or on termination of their employment for any reason.

(b) Nothing in clause (a) shall apply in relation to any provision made by the assessee for the purpose of payment of a sum by way of any contribution towards an approved gratuity fund, or for the purpose of payment of any gratuity, that has become payable during the previous year.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that where any provision made by the assessee for the payment of gratuity to his employees on their retirement or termination of their employment for any reason has been allowed as a deduction in computing the income of the assessee for any assessment year, any sum paid out of such provision by way of contribution towards an approved gratuity fund or by way of gratuity to any employee shall not be allowed as a deduction in computing the income of the assessee of the previous year in which the sum is so paid.

(8) []

(9) No deduction shall be allowed in respect of any sum paid by the assessee as an employer towards the setting up or formation of, or as contribution to, any fund, trust, company, association of persons, body of individuals, society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (21 of 1860), or other institution for any purpose, except where such sum is so paid, for the purposes and to the extent provided by or under clause (iv) or clause (iva) or clause (v) of sub-section (1) of section 36, or as required by or under any other law for the time being in force.

(10) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (9), where the Assessing Officer is satisfied that the fund, trust, company, association of persons, body of individuals, society or other institution referred to in that sub-section has, before the 1st day of March, 1984, bona fide laid out or expended any expenditure (not being in the nature of capital expenditure) wholly and exclusively for the welfare of the employees of the assessee referred to in sub-section (9) out of the sum referred to in that sub-section, the amount of such expenditure shall, in case no deduction has been allowed to the assessee in respect of such sum and subject to the other provisions of this Act, be deducted in computing the income referred to in section 28 of the assessee of the previous year in which such expenditure is so laid out or expended, as if such expenditure had been laid out or expended by the assessee.

(11) Where the assessee has, before the 1st day of March, 1984, paid any sum to any fund, trust, company, association of persons, body of individuals, society or other institution referred to in sub-section (9), then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law or in any instrument, he shall be entitled—

(i) to claim that so much of the amount paid by him as has not been laid out or expended by such fund, trust, company, association of persons, body of individuals, society or other institution (such amount being hereinafter referred to as the unutilised amount) be repaid to him, and where any claim is so made, the unutilised amount shall be repaid, as soon as may be, to him;

(ii) to claim that any asset, being land, building, machinery, plant or furniture acquired or constructed by the fund, trust, company, association of persons, body of individuals, society or other institution out of the sum paid by the assessee, be transferred to him, and where any claim is so made, such asset shall be transferred, as soon as may be, to him.

(12) [Omitted by the Finance Act, 1992, w.e.f. 1-4-1993.]

(13) No deduction or allowance shall be allowed in respect of any marked to market loss or other expected loss, except as allowable under clause (xviii) of sub-section (1) of section 36.

36.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clauses 36 of the Bill provides for amounts not to be allowed while computing the income under the head “Profit and gains of business or profession” under certain circumstances. The clause corresponds to provisions of section 40A of the Act. Some of the provisions have been removed which have become redundant as they were applicable for very old years and not relevant now (Section 40A(10) and 40A(11) of the Act). The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

36.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Correction of spelling at side of the page detailing the matter of the clause ‘Expenses or payments not deductible in certain circumstances’

36.5 Examination by the Committee:

The Ministry accepted stating that, ‘It is an inadvertent spelling error’.

36.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee recommend that the page margin accompanying Clause 36 be corrected to read "Expenses or payments not deductible in certain circumstances" instead of "Expenses or payments not deductible in certain circmstances", in order to ensure grammatical accuracy and correct spelling.

Apart from the above recommendation, the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to above proposed modification.

Clause No.& Title:

37.Certain deductions allowed on actual payment basis only.

37.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

37. (1) The following sums payable, as specified in sub-section (2), shall be allowed as deduction while computing the income chargeable under section 26 only in the tax year in which such sums are actually paid irrespective of—

(a) any provision to the contrary in this Act; or

(b) method of accounting regularly followed; or

37.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 37 of the Bill provides for certain deductions allowed on certain expenditures which is to be made only on actual payment basis. The clause corresponds to section 43B of the Act. Some of the provisions have been removed which have become redundant as they were applicable for very old years and not relevant now (Explanation 1 to Section 43B, Explanation 3 to Section 43B, Explanation 3A to Section 43B and Explanation 3B to Section 43B). The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (The phrase “otherwise allowable” is to be added in the clause and Explanation 2 to section 43B is to be added in the clause)

37.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Considering deletion of phrase "otherwise allowable", ambiguity can arise whether those expenses which are specifically disallowed under other provisions of ITB 2025 can be claimed under s.37 of ITB 2025 on actual payment. Further, there could be potential controversy over the applicability of actual payment condition for sums payable beyond the tax year. Thus, it is proposed to insert the phrase "otherwise allowable" in Section 37 and include a provision similar to Explanation 2 in Section 37.

- Sub-section (4A) be inserted after sub-section (4) - (4A) Where any payment is made towards such loan or advance or debenture or other instrument referred to in (4), the amount so paid shall be deemed to have been actually paid towards interest on loans and advances specified in sub-section (2)(e).
  Sub-section (4A) may be inserted to clarify that whenever payment is made toward such loan or advance or debenture or any other instrument referred to in sub-section (4), the same would be deemed as payment towards interest and be allowed as deduction in the year of payment.

- Section 43B covers scope of deductions allowed on payment basis. The term ‘any sum payable’ was defined to provide a sum for which assessee incurred liability in the previous year even though such sum might not have been payable within that year under the relevant law. Clause 37 specifically includes surcharge, whereas the definition of ‘sum payable’ has now been removed. The definition of “any sum payable” seems removed in the new bill which may revive the controversy previously settled in the existing provisions. Hence, it is suggested to add back definition of “any sum payable”.

- Clause 37(2) of the Bill lists the sums specified for deduction in the tax year they are paid. Sub-clause (e) thereof refers to interest on loans or borrowings from specified financial institutions but later in that sub- clause it refers to "advances" instead of "borrowing". The word "advances" occurring at the end of sub-clause (e) may be replaced with "borrowing". This modification is required to bring the new provision in line with the existing provision and to avoid issues in interpretation of the word "advances".

- It is suggested that the clause (g) of clause 37(2) shall be omitted. If at all, the above suggestion is not found acceptable, we suggest the following alternate provisions : (a) The disallowance shall not be made in a case where the payer is also a micro or small enterprise. This is with a view to avoid a situation where one of the micro or small enterprise is protected but the other micro and small enterprise is negatively impacted. (b) It is suggested that the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 37, which is akin to proviso to section 43B of the ITA 1961, may be made applicable to clause (g) of the section on similar lines with the other clauses. As a last alternative, we suggest that the clause (g) may be suitably amended to provide that the disallowance will be made in case of failure to make the payment to micro or small enterprise beyond the time limit as agreed between the supplier and the buyer.
  Though the provisions of clause 37(2)(g) of the Income-tax Bill 2025 is similar to Section 43B(h) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, we respectfully submit that there is a genuine need to amend the situation while enacting the Income-tax Bill 2025 as explained hereunder: The object of section 15 of the MSMED Act is laudable i.e to protect the interests of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises. However, insertion of clause (h) in section 43B of ITA 1961 which is intended to be continued in clause 37(2)(b) of the ITB 2025, has resulted in some challenges and is counter-productive to an extent. Due to this clause, many buyers have stopped doing business with the Micro and Small Enterprises due to the fact that the delay in payment is likely to result in disallowance in their case which will ultimately result in higher tax liability. Many of the Micro and Small enterprises are also feeling it worth to cancel their registration under the MSMED Act with the purpose of not losing the business. The Micro and Small Enterprises are happy to get delayed payment as compared to loss of business which might be fatal for their survival. Further in so far as the protection of the interests of Micro and Small Enterprises is concerned, the same is partially taken care of by the fact that in a case where the payment to such enterprises are delayed beyond the time specified, section 16 of the MSMED Act makes it mandatory for the buyer to pay compound interest with monthly rest to the supplier at the rate which is three times the Bank rate as notified by the RBI. The payment of such interest is not an allowable expense in accordance with the provisions of section 23 of the MSMED Act. These provisions act as sufficient deterrent against the buyer who delays the payment to the Micro and Small Enterprises. Accordingly, it is felt that insertion of section 43B(h) in ITA 1961 and clause 37(2)(g) of the ITB 2025 results in more difficulties rather than solving the difficulties of the Micro and Small Enterprises.'

37.5 Examination by the Committee:

37.5.1. On the issue of defining "any sum payable", the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'The provisions of Explanation 2 to Sec 43B of the Act defining "any sum payable" has been inadvertently not included in clause 37 of the Bill. Therefore, the suggestion to include similar provision is acceptable'.

37.5.2 In addition with regard to the phrase "otherwise allowable", the Ministry has furnished that, 'Sec 43B of the Act provides that expenditure which are "otherwise allowable" as deduction or allowance will be allowed only on actual payment of such expenditure. The phrase "otherwise allowable" was omitted as part of simplification exercise. However, to provide better clarity, suggestions made by the stakeholder is accepted. Further, the provisions of Explanation 2 to Sec 43B have been inadvertently not included in clause 37 of the Bill. Therefore, the suggestion to include similar provision is acceptable.'

37.5.3 With regard to replacing the word "advances" occurring at the end of sub-clause (e) with "borrowing", the Ministry furnished that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The clause 37(2) is to be redrafted so as to remove any ambiguity'.

37.5.4 With respect to the suggestion seeking omission of Clause 37(2)(g), the Ministry stated that 37(2)(g) of the Bill relates to payment to MSMEs. The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Sec 43B(h) of the Act (corresponding to clause 37(2)(g) of the Bill) was introduced to ensure timely payment to MSMEs. The provisions of section are in alignment of MSME Act, 2006.

37.5.5 Further, when the Committee sought a detailed note on the payment to MSMEs and the position prior to Finance Act 2023 and whether it will be feasible to restore back to it, the Ministry in the post evidence replies stated that, 'Clause (h) to Section 43B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was brought as a benevolent provision for micro or small enterprises in Finance Act 2023 so that those assessees who do not pay them their payment on time shall get penalized as their expenses shall only be allowed on actual payment basis within the time specified in MSMED Act, 2006 The clause has been introduced after detailed and wide deliberation with all the stakeholders including the Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises. The intent behind introducing this provision was to resolve the problem of cash flow to micro and small enterprises so that their problem of working capital is resolved and their additional cost of arranging funds is avoided. Moreover, the provision refers to the time limit as given in the MSMED Act, 2006 which was already there and has penal provision if payment is made beyond the prescribed timeline. The provisions of Income-tax Act, 1961 are in line with the MSMED Act, 2006. Thus, rolling back of clause (h) of Section 43B may be counter productive to the genuine problem of the micro or small enterprises'.

37.5.6 On the proposal to insert a sub section (4A) to clarify that whenever payment is made toward such loan or advance or debenture or any other instrument referred to in sub-section (4), the same would be deemed as payment towards interest and be allowed as deduction in the year of payment, the Ministry responded stating that, 'There is no ambiguity on this account. The suggestion stands already addressed'.

37.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee observe that Clause 37(1) does not clearly specify whether expenses that are specifically disallowed under other provisions of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, can still be claimed under this clause on the basis of actual payment. The Committee recommend that to provide clarity and ensure that no ambiguity arises regarding whether expenses specifically disallowed under other provisions of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, can be claimed under Section 37 on the basis of actual payment; the phrase "otherwise allowable" be inserted in Clause 37(1).

The Committee also recommend that provisions similar to Explanation 2 to Section 43B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 defining the expression "any sum payable" which have presently been omitted, be incorporated into the Bill to enhance clarity and eliminate interpretational uncertainty.

Further, the Committee recommend that the word "advances" at the end of Clause 37(2)(e) be replaced with the word "borrowing", in order to align the new provision with the existing one and to avoid potential issues in interpretation.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

Explanation.—Where any amount is withdrawn from the special reserve in a previous year in which the business is no longer in existence, the provisions of this sub-section shall apply as if the business is in existence in that previous year.

(5) Where the business or profession referred to in this section is no longer in existence and there is income chargeable to tax under sub-section (1), sub-section (3) , sub-section (4) or sub-section (4A) in respect of that business or profession, any loss, not being a loss sustained in speculation business, which arose in that business or profession during the previous year in which it ceased to exist and which could not be set off against any other income of that previous year shall, so far as may be, be set off against the income chargeable to tax under the sub-sections aforesaid.

(6) References in sub-section (3) to any other provision of this Act which has been amended or omitted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987 shall, notwithstanding such amendment or omission, be construed, for the purposes of that sub-section, as if such amendment or omission had not been made.

38.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 38 of the Bill provides for certain sums that are liable to be deemed as profit and gains of business or profession where the sums have been earlier allowed as expenditure or deduction for the purpose of computation of income. The clause corresponds to section 41 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

38.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Clause 38 of the Bill contains provisions dealt with in section 41 of the Act. Clause 38(1)(a) (i) provides for amount as deemed profits and gains of business if any benefit accruing or amounts obtained by an assessee in respect of any allowance or deduction that has been allowed in respect of any loss, expenditure or trading liability incurred by the assessee during any tax year. The condition contained in clause 38(2)(a) for clause 38(1) to apply viz. that "only when an allowance or deduction has been made in assessment for any earlier tax year towards the trading liability, loss or expenditure incurred" is repetitive and needs to be omitted. It also has possibility of misinterpretation that if deduction or allowance is allowed in current tax year, then its remission will not be taxable since 38(2)(a) puts condition of allowance in “earlier” tax year only.

- Section 38(2)(b) should refer to section 33(2), being depreciation for power undertaking in line with the provisions in section 41(2) of the IT Act, 1961. These provisions are not applicable for depreciation on WDV basis for block of assets.

Proposed provision: (2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply subject to fulfilment of the following conditions (a) …. (b) in respect of subsection (1)(b), only when the asset owned by the assessee, has been used for the purpose of business, and depreciation has been claimed and allowed thereon under section 33(2).

- Rectification in Clause 38(5) to rule out any possibile misinterpretation as follows: The provisions of sub-section (1) clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e) of sub-section (1) shall apply in a tax year even if the business is no longer in existence.

38.5 Examination by the Committee:

38.5.1 On the issue of omitting the word 'earlier' in Clause 38(2)(a), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The word "earlier" in clause 38(2)(a) of the Bill needs to be omitted as the current provisions says "any year" and not "any earlier year".

38.5.2 With regard to reference to section 33(2) instead of 33 in Clause 38(2)(b), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The correct reference shall be 33(2) and not (33) in clause 38(2) of the Bill'.

38.5.3 With regard to changing the referencing of clauses in the Bill as it is in the Act, the Ministry furnished that, 'The referencing has been done in consultation with the law ministry for ease of reference. The suggestion is not feasible'.

38.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note the use of the word "earlier" in Clause 38(2)(a) and also observe that the condition in Clause 38(2)(a) is for clause 38(1) to apply viz. that "only when an allowance or deduction has been made in assessment for any earlier tax year towards the trading liability, loss or expenditure incurred". The Committee feel that this wording is repetitive and should be omitted to avoid confusion. Moreover, retaining "earlier" could lead to misinterpretation that if the deduction or allowance is granted in the current tax year, its remission would not be taxable, as Clause 38(2)(a) restricts the condition to allowance in an "earlier" tax year only. The Committee thus, recommend that in Clause 38(2)(a) the word "earlier" be removed.

The Committee further recommend that Clause 38(2)(b) should refer to section 33(2) and not section 33, being depreciation for power undertaking in line with the provisions in section 41(2) of the IT Act, 1961 and these provisions are not applicable for depreciation on WDV basis for block of assets.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(1) "actual cost" means the actual cost of the assets to the assessee, reduced by that portion of the cost thereof, if any, as has been met directly or indirectly by any other person or authority:

Provided that where the actual cost of an asset, being a motor car which is acquired by the assessee after the 31st day of March, 1967, but before the 1st day of March, 1975, and is used otherwise than in a business of running it on hire for tourists, exceeds twenty-five thousand rupees, the excess of the actual cost over such amount shall be ignored, and the actual cost thereof shall be taken to be twenty-five thousand rupees:

Provided further that where the assessee incurs any expenditure for acquisition of any asset or part thereof in respect of which a payment or aggregate of payments made to a person in a day, otherwise than by an account payee cheque drawn on a bank or an account payee bank draft or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode as may be prescribed, exceeds ten thousand rupees, such expenditure shall be ignored for the purposes of determination of actual cost.

Explanation 1.—Where an asset is used in the business after it ceases to be used for scientific research related to that business and a deduction has to be made under clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of section 32 in respect of that asset, the actual cost of the asset to the assessee shall be the actual cost to the assessee as reduced by the amount of any deduction allowed under clause (iv) of sub-section (1) of section 35 or under any corresponding provision of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922).

Explanation 1A.—Where a capital asset referred to in clause (via) of section 28 is used for the purposes of business or profession, the actual cost of such asset to the assessee shall be the fair market value which has been taken into account for the purposes of the said clause.

Explanation 2.—Where an asset is acquired by the assessee by way of gift or inheritance, the actual cost of the asset to the assessee shall be the actual cost to the previous owner, as reduced by—

(b) the amount of depreciation that would have been allowable to the assessee for any assessment year commencing on or after the 1st day of April, 1988, as if the asset was the only asset in the relevant block of assets.

Explanation 3.—Where, before the date of acquisition by the assessee, the assets were at any time used by any other person for the purposes of his business or profession and the Assessing Officer is satisfied that the main purpose of the transfer of such assets, directly or indirectly to the assessee, was the reduction of a liability to income-tax (by claiming depreciation with reference to an enhanced cost), the actual cost to the assessee shall be such an amount as the Assessing Officer may, with the previous approval of the Joint Commissioner, determine having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

Explanation 4.—Where any asset which had once belonged to the assessee and had been used by him for the purposes of his business or profession and thereafter ceased to be his property by reason of transfer or otherwise, is re-acquired by him, the actual cost to the assessee shall be—

(i) the actual cost to him when he first acquired the asset as reduced by—

(a) the amount of depreciation actually allowed to him under this Act or under the corresponding provisions of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922), in respect of any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing before the 1st day of April, 1988; and

(ii) the actual price for which the asset is re-acquired by him, whichever is less.

Explanation 4A.—Where before the date of acquisition by the assessee (hereinafter referred to as the first mentioned person), the assets were at any time used by any other person (hereinafter referred to as the second mentioned person) for the purposes of his business or profession and depreciation allowance has been claimed in respect of such assets in the case of the second mentioned person and such person acquires on lease, hire or otherwise assets from the first mentioned person, then, notwithstanding anything contained in Explanation 3, the actual cost of the transferred assets, in the case of first mentioned person, shall be the same as the written down value of the said assets at the time of transfer thereof by the second mentioned person.

Explanation 5.—Where a building previously the property of the assessee is brought into use for the purpose of the business or profession after the 28th day of February, 1946, the actual cost to the assessee shall be the actual cost of the building to the assessee, as reduced by an amount equal to the depreciation calculated at the rate in force on that date that would have been allowable had the building been used for the aforesaid purposes since the date of its acquisition by the assessee.

Explanation 6.—When any capital asset is transferred by a holding company to its subsidiary company or by a subsidiary company to its holding company, then, if the conditions of clause (iv) or, as the case may be, of clause (v) of section 47 are satisfied, the actual cost of the transferred capital asset to the transferee-company shall be taken to be the same as it would have been if the transferor-company had continued to hold the capital asset for the purposes of its business.

Explanation 7A.—Where, in a demerger, any capital asset is transferred by the demerged company to the resulting company and the resulting company is an Indian company, the actual cost of the transferred capital asset to the resulting company shall be taken to be the same as it would have been if the demerged company had continued to hold the capital asset for the purpose of its own business :

Provided that such actual cost shall not exceed the written down value of such capital asset in the hands of the demerged company.

Explanation 8.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that where any amount is paid or is payable as interest in connection with the acquisition of an asset, so much of such amount as is relatable to any period after such asset is first put to use shall not be included, and shall be deemed never to have been included, in the actual cost of such asset.

Explanation 9.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that where an asset is or has been acquired on or after the 1st day of March, 1994 by an assessee, the actual cost of asset shall be reduced by the amount of duty of excise or the additional duty leviable under section 3 of the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 (51 of 1975) in respect of which a claim of credit has been made and allowed under the Central Excise Rules, 1944.

Explanation 10.—Where a portion of the cost of an asset acquired by the assessee has been met directly or indirectly by the Central Government or a State Government or any authority established under any law or by any other person, in the form of a subsidy or grant or reimbursement (by whatever name called), then, so much of the cost as is relatable to such subsidy or grant or reimbursement shall not be included in the actual cost of the asset to the assessee :

Provided that where such subsidy or grant or reimbursement is of such nature that it cannot be directly relatable to the asset acquired, so much of the amount which bears to the total subsidy or reimbursement or grant the same proportion as such asset bears to all the assets in respect of or with reference to which the subsidy or grant or reimbursement is so received, shall not be included in the actual cost of the asset to the assessee.

Explanation 11.—Where an asset which was acquired outside India by an assessee, being a non-resident, is brought by him to India and used for the purposes of his business or profession, the actual cost of the asset to the assessee shall be the actual cost to the assessee, as reduced by an amount equal to the amount of depreciation calculated at the rate in force that would have been allowable had the asset been used in India for the said purposes since the date of its acquisition by the assessee.

Explanation 12.—Where any capital asset is acquired by the assessee under a scheme for corporatisation of a recognised stock exchange in India, approved by the Securities and Exchange Board of India established under section 3 of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (15 of 1992), the actual cost of the asset shall be deemed to be the amount which would have been regarded as actual cost had there been no such corporatisation.

Explanation 13.—The actual cost of any capital asset on which deduction has been allowed or is allowable to the assessee under section 35AD, shall be treated as 'nil',—

(a) in the case of such assessee; and

(b) in any other case if the capital asset is acquired or received,—

(i) by way of gift or will or an irrevocable trust;

(ii) on any distribution on liquidation of the company; and

(iii) by such mode of transfer as is referred to in clauses (i), (iv), (v), (vi), (vib), (xiii), (xiiib) and (xiv) of section 47:

Provided that where any capital asset in respect of which deduction or part of deduction allowed under section 35AD is deemed to be the income of the assessee in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (7B) of the said section, the actual cost of the asset to the assessee shall be the actual cost to the assessee, as reduced by an amount equal to the amount of depreciation calculated at the rate in force that would have been allowable had the asset been used for the purpose of business since the date of its acquisition;

39.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 39 provides for the computation of actual cost. The clause corresponds to section 43(1) of the Act. The definition of Actual Cost has been simplified by converting various explanations, provisos, and provisions into a tabular format. The current definitions of 'actual cost' is sought to be kept the same. Only redundant provision has been removed (First proviso to Section 43(1)). The tabular format simplifies the understanding of how Actual Cost is determined in different situations. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

39.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 43 provides definitions of certain terms relevant to income from profits and gains of business or profession. Explanation 3 and 10 use the term 'directly or indirectly'. However, the said term is removed in the new bill. The words "directly and indirectly" covered under Explanation 3 are missing in the new bill and may be added back for better clarity. These words are also retained in the new bill under section 42 which provides for computation for variation in liability due to change in rate of exchange.

39.5 Examination by the Committee:

With regard to the phrase "directly or indirectly" to be added, the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The phrase "directly or indirectly" is inadvertently missed in clause 39(1)(d) and 39(5)(b) of the Bill'.

39.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that the phrase "directly or indirectly" has been used in Section 43 of the 1961 Act which provides definitions of certain terms relevant to income from profits and gains of business or profession, but has been omitted in the Bill. The Committee thus recommend that the phrase "directly or indirectly" be added in clause 39(1)(d) and 39(5)(b) of the Bill for better clarity. Including it would help preserve the original intent while simplifying the text.

The Committee also recommend that reference made to Income-Tax Act 1961, made in Column C, Sr No. 9 of the Table in Clause 39 be removed and incorporated in Clause 536 which pertains to Repeals and Savings.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

40.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

(b) the total amount of depreciation on such asset provided in the books of account of the assessee in respect of such tax year or tax years preceding the tax year under consideration shall be deemed to be the depreciation actually allowed under this Act for the purposes of this clause; and

(c) the depreciation actually allowed under clause (b) shall be adjusted by the amount of depreciation attributable to such revaluation of the asset.

(4) For the purposes of this section, where the income of an assessee is derived, in part from agriculture and in part from business chargeable to income-tax under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”, for computing the written down value of assets acquired before the tax year, the total amount of depreciation shall be computed as if the entire income is derived from the business of the assessee under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession” and the depreciation so computed shall be deemed to be the depreciation actually allowed under this Act or under the Income-tax Act, 1961.

(5) In this section, “sold” shall have the meaning assigned to it in section 38(6)(a).

41.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

43(6) "written down value" means—

(a) in the case of assets acquired in the previous year, the actual cost to the assessee;

(b) in the case of assets acquired before the previous year, the actual cost to the assessee less all depreciation actually allowed to him under this Act, or under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922), or any Act repealed by that Act, or under any executive orders issued when the Indian Income-tax Act, 1886 (2 of 1886), was in force:

Provided that in determining the written down value in respect of buildings, machinery or plant for the purposes of clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of section 32, "depreciation actually allowed" shall not include depreciation allowed under sub-clauses (a), (b) and (c) of clause (vi) of sub-section (2) of section 10 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922), where such depreciation was not deductible in determining the written down value for the purposes of the said clause (vi);

(c) in the case of any block of assets,—

(i) in respect of any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, the aggregate of the written down values of all the assets falling within that block of assets at the beginning of the previous year and adjusted,—

(A) by the increase by the actual cost of any asset falling within that block, acquired during the previous year;

(B) by the reduction of the moneys payable in respect of any asset falling within that block, which is sold or discarded or demolished or destroyed during that previous year together with the amount of the scrap value, if any, so, however, that the amount of such reduction does not exceed the written down value as so increased; and

(C) in the case of a slump sale, decrease by the actual cost of the asset falling within that block as reduced—

(a) by the amount of depreciation actually allowed to him under this Act or under the corresponding provisions of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922) in respect of any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing before the 1st day of April, 1988; and

(b) by the amount of depreciation that would have been allowable to the assessee for any assessment year commencing on or after the 1st day of April, 1988 as if the asset was the only asset in the relevant block of assets, so, however, that the amount of such decrease does not exceed the written down value;

(ii) in respect of any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on or after the 1st day of April, 1989, the written down value of that block of assets in the immediately preceding previous year as reduced by the depreciation actually allowed in respect of that block of assets in relation to the said preceding previous year and as further adjusted by,—

(A) the increase or the reduction referred to in item (i), not being increase on account of acquisition of goodwill of a business or profession;

(B) the reduction by an amount which is equal to the actual cost of the goodwill falling within that block as decreased by—

(a) the amount of depreciation actually allowed to the assessee under this Act or under the corresponding provisions of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922) for such goodwill in respect of any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing before the 1st day of April, 1988; and

(b) the amount of depreciation that would have been allowable to the assessee for such goodwill for any assessment year commencing on or after the 1st day of April, 1988 as if the goodwill was the only asset in the relevant block of assets, in respect of the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 2021, in a case where the goodwill of a business or profession was part of the block of assets on which depreciation was obtained by the assessee for the immediate preceding previous year, so, however, that the amount of such reduction does not exceed the written down value.

Explanation 1.—When in a case of succession in business or profession, an assessment is made on the successor under sub-section (2) of section 170 the written down value of any asset or any block of assets shall be the amount which would have been taken as its written down value if the assessment had been made directly on the person succeeded to.

Explanation 2.—Where in any previous year, any block of assets is transferred,—

(a) by a holding company to its subsidiary company or by a subsidiary company to its holding company and the conditions of clause (iv) or, as the case may be, of clause (v) of section 47 are satisfied; or

(b) by the amalgamating company to the amalgamated company in a scheme of amalgamation, and the amalgamated company is an Indian company, then, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), the actual cost of the block of assets in the case of the transferee-company or the amalgamated company, as the case may be, shall be the written down value of the block of assets as in the case of the transferor-company or the amalgamating company for the immediately preceding previous year as reduced by the amount of depreciation actually allowed in relation to the said preceding previous year.

Explanation 2A.—Where in any previous year, any asset forming part of a block of assets is transferred by a demerged company to the resulting company, then, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), the written down value of the block of assets of the demerged company for the immediately preceding previous year shall be reduced by the written down value of the assets transferred to the resulting company pursuant to the demerger.

Explanation 2B.—Where in a previous year, any asset forming part of a block of assets is transferred by a demerged company to the resulting company, then, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), the written down value of the block of assets in the case of the resulting company shall be the written down value of the transferred assets of the demerged company immediately before the demerger.

Explanation 2C.—Where in any previous year, any block of assets is transferred by a private company or unlisted public company to a limited liability partnership and the conditions specified in the proviso to clause (xiiib) of section 47 are satisfied, then, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), the actual cost of the block of assets in the case of the limited liability partnership shall be the written down value of the block of assets as in the case of the said company on the date of conversion of the company into the limited liability partnership.

Explanation 3.—Any allowance in respect of any depreciation carried forward under sub-section (2) of section 32 shall be deemed to be depreciation "actually allowed".

Explanation 4.—For the purposes of this clause, the expressions "moneys payable" and "sold" shall have the same meanings as in the Explanation below sub-section (4) of section 41.

Explanation 5.—Where in a previous year, any asset forming part of a block of assets is transferred by a recognised stock exchange in India to a company under a scheme for corporatisation approved by the Securities and Exchange Board of India established under section 3 of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (15 of 1992), the written down value of the block of assets in the case of such company shall be the written down value of the transferred assets immediately before such transfer.

Explanation 6.—Where an assessee was not required to compute his total income for the purposes of this Act for any previous year or years preceding the previous year relevant to the assessment year under consideration,—

(a) the actual cost of an asset shall be adjusted by the amount attributable to the revaluation of such asset, if any, in the books of account;

(b) the total amount of depreciation on such asset, provided in the books of account of the assessee in respect of such previous year or years preceding the previous year relevant to the assessment year under consideration shall be deemed to be the depreciation actually allowed under this Act for the purposes of this clause; and

(c) the depreciation actually allowed under clause (b) shall be adjusted by the amount of depreciation attributable to such revaluation of the asset.

Explanation 7.—For the purposes of this clause, where the income of an assessee is derived, in part from agriculture and in part from business chargeable to income-tax under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession", for computing the written down value of assets acquired before the previous year, the total amount of depreciation shall be computed as if the entire income is derived from the business of the assessee under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and the depreciation so computed shall be deemed to be the depreciation actually allowed under this Act.

41.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 41 provides for the computation of written down value. The clause corresponds to section 43(6) of the Act. The definition of Written-Down Value has been simplified by converting various explanations, provisos, and provisions into a tabular format. The definitions of Written-Down Value have been sought to be kept the same. Only redundant provision (First proviso to Section 43(6)) and those that are no longer available (e.g., Goodwill adjustment for determining Written-Down Value) have been removed. The tabular format simplifies the understanding of how Written-Down Value is determined in different situations. Additionally, a formula based determination of Written-Down Value has been added to the table for further clarity. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

41.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- The content in column C may be worded as given below - Written down value in the hands of the transferee company or amalgamated company is the same as written down value in the hands of transferor company or amalgamating company, as the case may be, ~~at the beginning of the tax year in which such transfer tookplace~~ in the immediately preceding tax year as reduced by the depreciation actually allowed in relation to the said preceding tax year. There is no "WDV at the beginning of the tax year". In order to ensure consistency, "at the beginning of the tax year in which such transfer took place" in column (C) may be worded as follows -"in the immediately preceding tax year as reduced by the depreciation actually allowed in relation to the said preceding tax year"

- With regard to 41(1), Table 4, Column B it is highlighted that when the long clause is broken up into 2 clauses, inadvertently section referring to conditions as got merged with only (ii). Without reference to conditions specified under section 70(1)(c), all transfers from holding to subsidiary company will get covered under this provisions.
  Proposed provision: Where any block of asset is transferred by— (a)(i) a holding company to its subsidiary company and the conditions of section 70(1)(c) are satisfied; or (ii) a subsidiary company to its holding company and the conditions of section 70(1)~~(c) and~~ (d) are satisfied; or (b) amalgamating company to the amalgamated company being an Indian company.

- As per Sl No.5, in the last column, in (a), it is mentioned that the WDV of block of assets for the demerged company shall be the WDV in the immediately preceding tax year as reduced by the WDV of the assets transferred to the resulting company pursuant to such demerger. However, for resulting company, it shall be the written down value of the assets transferred from the demerged company immediately before such demerger.
  This is mentioned in (b). Since the demerger is during the current tax year, the WDV of the immediately preceding tax year has to be reduced by the depreciation for that year. Moreover, for the resulting company WDV immediately before such demerger has to be considered, which implies that depreciation of the previous year has to be reduced from such WDV.
  Thus, it is suggested that the bracketed portion may be removed since we are determining WDV of block of assets for the demerged company for the tax year. Further, for the demerged company, depreciation of the immediately preceding tax year has to be reduced from the written down value in the immediately preceding tax year in (a).

- With regard to 41(1), Table Sl No.6, it is highlighted that the provisions under IT Act, 1961 or under IT Bill, 2025 only cover conversion of company to LLP. Other forms of conversion like firm to company and sole proprietorship concern to a company are not covered. Thus, there is no provision to compute WDV in such cases and may lead to revenue leakage. Thus, it is proposed to rephrase Sl No. 6, Column B as- Where any block of assets is transferred by a firm or sole proprietorship concern to a company and the conditions of section 70(1)(zd) or section 70(1)(zf) are satisfied, as the case may be. And corresponding Column C as- Written down value in the hands of company shall be written down value in the hands of said firm or sole proprietorship concern, as the case may be, as on the date of conversion into company.

41.5 Examination by the Committee:

41.5.1 With respect to redrafting of 41(1). Table 4, Column B to provide referring to conditions specified under 70(1)(c) to both (i) and (ii), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The referencing has been inadvertently wrongly done in col B of sr. no. 4 of table below section 41(1)'.

41.5.2 With respect to redrafting of 41(1). Table 4, Column C, the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Sec 43(6)(c)(ii) of the Act has used the expression "written down value of block of asset in the immediately preceding previous year as reduced by the depreciation actually allowed in respect of that block of asset in relation to the said previous tax year." The Bill has used the expression written down value as at the beginning of the year in which transfer takes place. [refer cl. 41(1) Table Sl. No. 4]. To remove any ambiguity, the provision shall be aligned with the Act'.

41.5.3 On the issue of providing Written Down Value (WDV) for situations where a firm or a sole proprietorship concern is converted to a company, the Ministry stated, 'There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The suggestion of stakeholder is already provided for in the Bill in Table Sl. No. 8 in cl. 41(1)'.

41.5.4 With regard to removal of bracketed portion "(for the immediately preceding tax year)" in col C of sr. no. 5 of table below clause 41(1) while determining WDV of block of assets for the demerged company for the tax year, the Ministry stated that, 'The same shall be examined to remove any ambiguity'.

41.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that in Sr. No. 4 of Column B of Clause 41(1), the current drafting structure where the provision is split into sub-parts (a)(i) and (ii) results in the conditions specified under section 70(1)(c) appearing to apply only to sub-clause (ii). This creates an unintended implication that all transfers from a holding company to its subsidiary fall within the scope of the provision, even if the specific conditions under section 70(1)(c) are not fulfilled. The Committee thus, recommend that Sr. No. 4 in Column B of clause 41(1) be redrafted to avoid misinterpretation and overextension of the intended relief.

The Committee further recommend that sr. no. 4 in column C of 41(1) also be redrafted to align the Bill with current 1961 Act wherein the expression "written down value of block of asset in the immediately preceding previous year as reduced by the depreciation actually allowed in respect of that block of asset in relation to the said previous tax year" has been used, while the Bill uses the expression “at the beginning of the tax year in which such transfer took place”.

The Committee also recommend the removal of bracketed portion "(for the immediately preceding tax year)" in column C of sr. no. 5 of table below clause 41(1) while determining WDV of block of assets for the demerged company for the tax year to remove any ambiguity.

The Committee also recommend that reference made to Income-Tax Act 1961, made in Column C, Sr No. 2 of the Table in Clause 41 and in 41(4) be removed and incorporated in Clause 536 which pertains to Repeals and Savings.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the clause to be adequate and aligned with the corresponding provisions of the 1961 Act, and therefore accept the clause as it stands, subject to the proposed modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

42.Capitalising the impact of foreign exchange fluctuation.

42.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

42. (1) Irrespective of anything contained in any other provision of this Act, where at the time of making payment during the tax year, there is a variation in liability of an assessee as expressed in Indian currency due to change in rate of exchange in relation to an asset acquired for the purpose of business or profession in foreign currency from a country outside India, it shall be dealt with in the manner specified in sub-sections (2) and (3).

(2) For this section, "variation in liability" shall be computed as—

where,—

A = variation in the liability;

B = amount paid in Indian currency(excluding any part met, directly or indirectly, by any other person or authority)during the tax year for acquisition of the asset for—

(a) the whole or part of the cost of asset; or

(b) repayment of money borrowed along with interest in foreign currency, specifically for acquiring such asset;

C = liability, corresponding to the amount referred in B, in Indian currency at the time of acquisition of such asset.

(3) The variation in liability shall be added or reduced from the—

(a) actual cost of the asset as referred in section 39; or

(b) expenditure of capital nature referred to in section 45(1)(a)or (c) or 32(i); or

(c) cost of acquisition of a capital asset (not being capital asset referred to in section 74) for the purpose of section 72, and the amount arrived at after such addition or deduction shall be taken to be the actual cost of the asset or the amount of expenditure of a capital nature or, as the case may be, the cost of acquisition of the capital asset.

(4) Where the assessee has entered into a contract with an authorised dealer as defined in section 2 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999, for providing him with a specified sum in a foreign currency on or after a stipulated future date at the rate of exchange specified in the contract to enable him to meet the whole or any part of the said liability, the amount, if any, to be added to, or deducted from, the actual cost of the asset or the amount of expenditure of a capital nature or, as the case may be, the cost of acquisition of the capital asset under this section shall, in respect of so much of the sum specified in the contract as is available for discharging the said liability, be computed with reference to the rate of exchange specified therein.

42.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provisions consequential to changes in rate of exchange of currency.

43A. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Act, where an assessee has acquired any asset in any previous year from a country outside India for the purposes of his business or profession and, in consequence of a change in the rate of exchange during any previous year after the acquisition of such asset, there is an increase or reduction in the liability of the assessee as expressed in Indian currency (as compared to the liability existing at the time of acquisition of the asset) at the time of making payment—

(a) towards the whole or a part of the cost of the asset; or

(b) towards repayment of the whole or a part of the moneys borrowed by him from any person, directly or indirectly, in any foreign currency specifically for the purpose of acquiring the asset along with interest, if any,

the amount by which the liability as aforesaid is so increased or reduced during such previous year and which is taken into account at the time of making the payment, irrespective of the method of accounting adopted by the assessee, shall be added to, or, as the case may be, deducted from—

(i) the actual cost of the asset as defined in clause (1) of section 43; or

(ii) the amount of expenditure of a capital nature referred to in clause (iv) of sub-section (1) of section 35; or

(iii) the amount of expenditure of a capital nature referred to in section 35A; or

(iv) the amount of expenditure of a capital nature referred to in clause (ix) of sub-section (1) of section 36; or

(v) the cost of acquisition of a capital asset (not being a capital asset referred to in section 50) for the purposes of section 48, and the amount arrived at after such addition or deduction shall be taken to be the actual cost of the asset or the amount of expenditure of a capital nature or, as the case may be, the cost of acquisition of the capital asset as aforesaid:

Provided that where an addition to or deduction from the actual cost or expenditure or cost of acquisition has been made under this section, as it stood immediately before its substitution by the Finance Act, 2002, on account of an increase or reduction in the liability as aforesaid, the amount to be added to, or, as the case may be, deducted under this section from, the actual cost or expenditure or cost of acquisition at the time of making the payment shall be so adjusted that the total amount added to, or, as the case may be, deducted from, the actual cost or expenditure or cost of acquisition, is equal to the increase or reduction in the aforesaid liability taken into account at the time of making payment.

Explanation 1.—In this section, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(a) "rate of exchange" means the rate of exchange determined or recognised by the Central Government for the conversion of Indian currency into foreign currency or foreign currency into Indian currency;

(b) "foreign currency" and "Indian currency" have the meanings respectively assigned to them in section 2 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (42 of 1999).

Explanation 2.—Where the whole or any part of the liability aforesaid is met, not by the assessee, but, directly or indirectly, by any other person or authority, the liability so met shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this section.

Explanation 3.—Where the assessee has entered into a contract with an authorised dealer as defined in section 2 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (42 of 1999), for providing him with a specified sum in a foreign currency on or after a stipulated future date at the rate of exchange specified in the contract to enable him to meet the whole or any part of the liability aforesaid, the amount, if any, to be added to, or deducted from, the actual cost of the asset or the amount of expenditure of a capital nature or, as the case may be, the cost of acquisition of the capital asset under this section shall, in respect of so much of the sum specified in the contract as is available for discharging the liability aforesaid, be computed with reference to the rate of exchange specified therein.

42.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 42 of the Bill provide for capitalising the impact of foreign exchange fluctuation at the time of payment in foreign currency by appropriately adding or reducing the quantum of variation in such liability. The said clauses further provide for treating profits or loss on account of fluctuation in exchange rate. The clause corresponds to section 43A of the Act. The existing text of the Act is lengthy, complex, and contains repetition and redundancy. In the bill, while preserving the meaning of the section, it has been divided into four subsections, which are drafted in a more coordinated manner. The complexity has been reduced by introducing a formula for "Variation in liability". First Proviso to Section 43A which has become redundant has been removed. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

42.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- With respect to 42(2), it is highlighted that since the asset is acquired in foreign currency, the payment is also in foreign currency. Thus, the phrase 'amount paid in Indian currency' is not appropriate. Furthermore, 42(1) of IT Bill, 2025 and 43A of IT Act, 1961 uses the phrase 'as expressed in Indian currency'.

Thus, the Proposed provision: B = amount paid as expressed in Indian currency (excluding any part met, directly or indirectly, by any other person or authority) during the tax year for acquisition of the asset for—

42.5 Examination by the Committee:

On the issue of replacing the phrase 'amount paid in Indian currency' with the better suited 'as expressed in Indian currency', the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. It was suggested to change the drafting of clause 42(2) of the Bill which is related to the capitalising of foreign exchange fluctuation. The drafting of the clause is to be improved'.

42.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that the phrase 'amount paid in Indian currency' has been used against 'B' and feel that the same is not appropriate and should be replaced with the phrase 'as expressed in Indian currency' since the asset is acquired in foreign currency, the payment is also in foreign currency. The Committee believe that this will ensure that the Bill is in line with the 1961 Act.

Apart from the above recommendation, the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modification.

(iii) forward exchange contracts;

(iv) foreign currency translation reserves.

43.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

43.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it is.

(3) In relation to expenditure specified in sub-section (2)(a), the assessee shall furnish a statement containing the particulars of the expenditure in such form and manner, as prescribed.

(4) The total expenditure referred to in sub-section (2) shall be restricted to 5%—

(a) of the cost of the project; or

(b) of the capital employed in the business of the company, where the assessee is an Indian company, at its option.

(5) In this section,—

(a) “cost of the project” means the actual cost of the fixed assets, being land, buildings, leaseholds, plant, machinery, furniture, fittings and railway sidings (including expenditure on development of land and buildings) and—

(i) for cases under sub-section (1)(a), the cost is calculated as of the last day of the tax year when the business commences;

(ii) for cases under sub-section (1)(b), the cost is calculated as of the last day of the tax year when either the extension of the undertaking is completed, or the new unit commences production or operations, which only includes fixed assets acquired or developed in connection with the extension of the undertaking or setting up of new unit;

(6) If the assessee is a person, other than a company or a co-operative society, no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) unless,—

(b) the assessee furnishes for the first year in which the deduction under this section is claimed, the report of such audit by such date in such form duly signed and verified by such accountant and setting forth such particulars, as prescribed.

(7) If an undertaking of Indian company entitled for deduction undersub-section (1) is transferred before expiry of five years specified in the said sub-section, in a scheme of amalgamation, to another Indian company, then—

(a) no deduction under sub-section (1) shall be allowed to the amalgamating company for the tax year in which amalgamation takes place; and

(b) all provisions of this section shall continue to apply to the amalgamated company as they would have applied to the amalgamating company, as if the amalgamation has not taken place.

(8) If an undertaking of Indian company entitled for deduction under sub-section (1) is transferred before five years specified in the said sub-section, in a scheme of demerger to another company, then—

(a) no deduction under sub-section (1) shall be allowed to the demerged company for the tax year in which demerger takes place; and

(b) all provisions of this section shall continue to apply to the resulting company as they would have applied to the demerged company, as if the demerger has not taken place.

(9) If a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any tax year in respect of any expenditure referred to in sub-section (2), deduction shall not be allowed for such expenditure under any other provision of this Act for the same or any other tax year.

(d) such other items of expenditure (not being expenditure eligible for any

Provided that where the aggregate amount of expenditure referred to in sub-section (2) is incurred after the 31st day of March, 1998, the provisions of this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "two and one-half per cent", the words "five per cent" had been substituted.

Explanation.—In this sub-section—

(a) "cost of the project" means—

(i) in a case referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (1), the actual cost of the fixed assets, being land, buildings, leaseholds, plant, machinery, furniture, fittings and railway sidings (including expenditure on development of land and buildings), which are shown in the books of the assessee as on the last day of the previous year in which the business of the asses see commences;

(ii) any moneys borrowed or debt incurred by it in a foreign country in respect of the purchase outside India of capital plant and machinery, where the terms under which such moneys are borrowed or the debt is incurred provide for the repayment thereof during a period of not less than seven years.

(4) Where the assessee is a person other than a company or a co-operative society, no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) unless the accounts of the assessee for the year or years in which the expenditure specified in sub-section (2) is incurred have been audited by an accountant as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288, before the specified date referred to in section 44AB and the assessee furnishes for the first year in which the deduction under this section is claimed, the report of such audit by that date in the prescribed form duly signed and verified by such accountant and setting forth such particulars as may be prescribed.

(i) no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) in the case of the demerged company for the previous year in which the demerger takes place; and

(ii) the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the resulting company, as they would have applied to the demerged company, if the demerger had not taken place.

(6) Where a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any assessment year in respect of any expenditure specified in sub-section (2), the expenditure in respect of which deduction is so allowed shall not qualify for deduction under any other provision of this Act for the same or any other assessment year.

44.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 44 of the Bill provides for amortisation of certain preliminary expenses insured by specified businesses before commencement of such businesses. The clause corresponds to section 35D of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

44.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- (a)the accounts of the assessee for the year or years in which the expenditure specified in subsection (2) is incurred have been audited by a chartered accountant in practice or a cost accountant in practice before the specified date referred to in section 63. And
  (b) the assessee furnishes for the first year in which the deduction under this section is claimed, the report of such audit by such date in such form duly signed and verified by a chartered accountant in practice or a cost accountant in practice and setting forth such particulars, as prescribed.
  The preliminary expenses are the expenses or cost incurred after incorporation of the entity or before commencement of business. Hence, preliminary expenses are a consolidated statement of cost. A Cost Accountant may be allowed to certify certain preliminary expenses for amortisation.

- This section may no longer be needed.
  Accounting Standards presently followed by the entities adequately address the accounting aspects for the types of expenses proposed to be addressed under Clause 44 Preliminary Expenses. E.g. 1) Ind AS 32, Financial Instruments: Presentation, prescribes accounting for costs incurred for issue of shares. These costs are to be deducted from share capital & Reserves Called as 'Equity & Reserves. Similarly Ind AS 109 prescribes accounting transaction cost of issue of Debentures/Bonds, which are required to be deducted from the carrying amount of Debentures/Bonds. 2) Ind AS 16, Property, Plant & Equipment and Ind AS 23, Borrowing Costs prescribe accounting for costs incurred during construction period. Ind AS 16 prescribes criteria for capitalisation of certain costs (e.g., costs of site preparation, installation and assembly costs) as addition to cost of PPE and which will be depreciated over useful life of PPE. Ind AS 16 also prescribes certain costs (e.g., staff training costs, administration and general overhead costs) not eligible for capitalisation but to be expensed out as and when incurred. 3) Ind AS 23, Borrowing Costs prescribes criteria for capitalisation of borrowing costs as part of cost of certain qualifying assets. 4) Ind AS 38, Intangible Assets, prescribes accounting for costs incurred for creation of intangible assets and how to account for costs during different phases of creation of intangible assets such as research, development, etc. This standard prescribes type of costs incurred in these phases and requires costs incurred during research phase to be expensed out and costs incurred during development phase to be capitalised as Intangible Asset and amortised over its useful life. In view of the specific and comprehensive accounting practices prescribed in various Ind ASs, as illustrated above, which are in line with contemporary global best practices, different accounting for tax computation purposes of certain expenses called as Preliminary Expense' may not be required. Provisions of S.35D in the old Act have been incorporated in new Bill as S.44 in relation to Companies and other person. Old bill contained these provisions when the accounting standards such Ind AS 32, Ind AS 38 and Ind AS 16 did not exist and the accounting practices were not uniform. Hence, currently, there is an opportunity to review the need for this clause. Omission of this clause may not have any substantial impact on tax revenue. With robust and comprehensive Ind ASs converged with global standards in place, companies following the Ind ASs may be allowed to recognize expenses as per the applicable accounting standards. This is being proposed as a simplification measure for compliance by companies.

- Clause 44(2)(c) of the New Bill is currently phrased in a manner that might be interpreted as restricting deductions for a company solely to the items specified within sub-clause (c), potentially excluding other expenses previously permitted under the Current Law and listed in the remaining sub-clauses of clause (2).

To avoid ambiguity and ensure clarity, it is recommended to incorporate the word "also" in Clause 44(2)(c) to affirm that deductions include other expenses listed in the remaining sub-clauses, as previously permitted.

- To amend section 35D of the Act to extend the claim of deduction of issue related expenses to BTs. As per the provisions of Section 35D of the Act, an assessee being a resident in India, is eligible to claim pre commencement expenditure or expenditure in relation to extension of undertaking or setting up of a new unit over a period of five years. Clause (2) of Section 35D provides details of the expenditures that can be claimed. Section 35D(2)(c) specifically deals with expenditure that can be claimed only by a Company. These expenses inter-alia include issue related expenses on listing of shares or debentures of the Company such as underwriting, commission, brokerage and charges for drafting, typing, printing and advertisement of the prospectus.

  With regard to 44(5)(c)(i) it is highlighted that ICICI Ltd does not exist and is merged with ICICI Bank Ltd in 2002. 2. Even otherwise, the phrase 'other financial institution' covers these entities. 3. Further, abbreviations may be avoided in the IT Act, unless specifically defined.
  Thus, proposed wording: (i) any moneys borrowed by the company from Government or IFCI Ltd., ~~or ICICI Ltd.,~~ or any other financial institution which is eligible for deduction under section 32(e) or any banking institution (not being a financial institution referred to above); or

44.5 Examination by the Committee:

44.5.1 On the issue of 'Cost Accountant' being allowed to certify certain preliminary expenses for amortisation, the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

44.5.2 Further, in response to variance between the provisions of the Act and the accounting standards and simplification measure for compliance by companies, the Ministry in their response stated that, 'Where there is any variance between the provisions of the Act and the accounting standards, the provisions of the Act shall take precedence for computation of total income under the Act. Therefore, the clause has significance and has been rightly included in the Bill. The suggestion has no merits.'

44.5.3 With regard to the issue of incorporating the word "also" in Clause 44(2)(c) to affirm that deductions include other expenses listed in the remaining sub-clauses, as previously permitted, the Ministry responded as, ‘To provide better clarity, suggestion made by the stakeholder is acceptable’.

44.5.4 With regard to omitting the reference to "ICICI Ltd" , the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘Clause 44(5)(c)(i) has used the phrase "ICICI Ltd" which is not in existence as it was merged with ICICI Bank Ltd. in 2002. Since ICICI Ltd. is not in existence and has been merged with a private entity, reference of ICICI Ltd. is to be omitted from Clause 44(5)(c)(i) of the Bill’. And with respect to the phrase ‘other financial institution’ it was stated that, ‘ it is a qualified phrase. Only such institution which is eligible for deduction under section 32(e) will be covered under cl 44(5)(c)(i)’. Furthermore, with regard to the suggestion regarding avoiding use of abbreviations, the Ministry stated that, ‘the same is noted’.

44.5.5 With regard to amending clause 44 of the Bill to extend the claim of expenses related to listing of debenture or shares of a company to the business trust, the Ministry furnished that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change and beyond the scope of IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The suggestion has been noted and will be examined further for consideration’.

44.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note the need for the word "also" to be incorporated in Clause 44(2)(c) to affirm that deductions include other expenses listed in the remaining sub-clauses, as previously permitted in the Income-Tax Act, 1961, thereby avoiding any potential misinterpretations and thus recommend that the same be added in Clause 44(2)(c).

The Committee further recommend that the phrase "or ICICI Ltd." be omitted from Clause 44(5)(c)(i), as ICICI Ltd no longer exists, having merged with ICICI Bank Ltd in 2002. Furthermore, the Committee also recommend that use of abbreviations should be avoided in the Bill.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(v) where the asset mentioned in clause (ii) is used in the business after it ceases to be used for scientific research related to that business, depreciation shall be admissible under clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of section 32.

(2A) Where, before the 1st day of March, 1984, the assessee pays any sum (being any sum paid with a specific direction that the sum shall not be used for the acquisition of any land or building or construction of any building) to a scientific research association or university or college or other institution referred to in clause (ii) of sub-section (1) or to a public sector company to be used for scientific research undertaken under a programme approved in this behalf by the prescribed authority having regard to the social, economic and industrial needs of India, then,—

(a) there shall be allowed a deduction of a sum equal to one and one-third times the sum so paid ; and

(b) no deduction in respect of such sum shall be allowed under clause (ii) of sub-section (1) for the same or any other assessment year.

(2AA) Where the assessee pays any sum to a National Laboratory or a University or an Indian Institute of Technology or a specified person with a specific direction that the said sum shall be used for scientific research undertaken under a programme approved in this behalf by the prescribed authority, then—

(a) there shall be allowed a deduction of a sum equal to one and one-half times the sum so paid ; and

(b) no deduction in respect of such sum shall be allowed under any other provision of this Act :

Provided that the prescribed authority shall, before granting approval, satisfy itself about the feasibility of carrying out the scientific research and shall submit its report to the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or Director General in such form as may be prescribed:

Provided further that where any sum is paid to such National Laboratory or university or Indian Institute of Technology or specified person in a previous year relevant to the assessment year beginning on or after the 1st day of April, 2021, the deduction under this sub-section shall be equal to the sum so paid.

Explanation 1.—The deduction, to which the assessee is entitled in respect of any sum paid to a National Laboratory, University, Indian Institute of Technology or a specified person for the approved programme referred to in this sub-section, shall not be denied merely on the ground that, subsequent to the payment of such sum by the assessee, the approval granted to,—

(a) such Laboratory, or specified person has been withdrawn; or

(b) the programme, undertaken by the National Laboratory, University, Indian Institute of Technology or specified person, has been withdrawn.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this section,—

(2AB)(1) Where a company engaged in the business of bio-technology or in any business of manufacture or production of any article or thing, not being an article or thing specified in the list of the Eleventh Schedule incurs any expenditure on scientific research (not being expenditure in the nature of cost of any land or building) on in-house research and development facility as approved by the prescribed authority, then, there shall be allowed a deduction of a sum equal to one and one-half times of the expenditure so incurred:

Provided that where such expenditure on scientific research (not being expenditure in the nature of cost of any land or building) on in-house research and development facility is incurred in a previous year relevant to the assessment year beginning on or after the 1st day of April, 2021, the deduction under this clause shall be equal to the expenditure so incurred.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause, "expenditure on scientific research", in relation to drugs and pharmaceuticals, shall include expenditure incurred on clinical drug trial, obtaining approval from any regulatory authority under any Central, State or Provincial Act and filing an application for a patent under the Patents Act, 1970 (39 of 1970).

(2) No deduction shall be allowed in respect of the expenditure mentioned in clause (1) under any other provision of this Act.

(3) No company shall be entitled for deduction under clause (1) unless it enters into an agreement with the prescribed authority for co-operation in such research and development facility and fulfils such conditions with regard to maintenance of accounts and audit thereof and furnishing of reports in such manner as may be prescribed.

(4) The prescribed authority shall submit its report in relation to the approval of the said facility to the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or Director General in such form and within such time as may be prescribed.

(5) []

(6) No deduction shall be allowed to a company approved under sub-clause (C) of clause (iia) of sub-section (1) in respect of the expenditure referred to in clause (1) which is incurred after the 31st day of March, 2008.

(b) Where a deduction has been allowed under clause (a) for any previous year in respect of any expenditure, no deduction in respect of such expenditure shall be allowed under clause (i) of sub-section (1) or clause (ia) of sub-section (2) for the same or any other previous year.

(c) Where a deduction is allowed for any previous year under this sub-section in respect of expenditure represented wholly or partly by an asset, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of that asset under clause (ii) of sub-section (1) of section 32 for the same or any subsequent previous year.

(d) Any deduction made under this sub-section in respect of any expenditure on scientific research in excess of the expenditure actually incurred shall be deemed to have been wrongly made for the purposes of this Act if the assessee fails to furnish within one year of the period allowed by the prescribed authority for completion of the programme, a certificate of its completion obtained from that authority, and the provisions of sub-section (5B) of section 155 shall apply accordingly.

(3) If any question arises under this section as to whether, and if so, to what extent, any activity constitutes or constituted, or any asset is or was being used for, scientific research, the Board shall refer the question to—

(4) The provisions of sub-section (2) of section 32 shall apply in relation to deductions allowable under clause (iv) of sub-section (1) as they apply in relation to deductions allowable in respect of depreciation.

(5) Where, in a scheme of amalgamation, the amalgamating company sells or otherwise transfers to the amalgamated company (being an Indian company) any asset representing expenditure of a capital nature on scientific research,—

(i) the amalgamating company shall not be allowed the deduction under clause (ii) or clause (iii) of sub-section (2); and

(ii) the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the amalgamated company as they would have applied to the amalgamating company if the latter had not sosold or otherwise transferred the asset.

45.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 45 of the Bill provides for deduction of certain capital expenditure (other than cost of land) or revenue expenditure incurred for scientific research. The provisos have been placed in separate subsections, and some have been combined to enhance readability. Redundant provisions have been removed, and common conditions have been consolidated in one place, reducing the text length. Some procedural provisions are proposed to be moved to the rules. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

45.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Certification by an accountant including both Chartered Accountant and Cost Accountant as defined under section 2(1) (b) of chartered accountant Act 1949 and under section 2(1)(b) of Cost Accountant Act 1959 respectively".

These types of capital expenditures should require certification from a professional. The Cost Accountants are adequately skilled to give such type of certification. Hence, Cost Accountants may be allowed to issue such certifications.

- Section 45(2)(c) is redundant as no weighted deduction is available, and it may create ambiguity regarding the applicability of Section 45(1). Delete Section 45(2)(c) of ITB 2025 to avoid potential ambiguities and ensure clarity in claiming deductions for R&D expenditure.

- With regard to Clause 45(11), it is proposed that Clause (d) may be inserted after clause (c) since land and building has been used in the same sense in this section, a similar definition may be given in respect of "Building".-
  (d) "building" includes any interest in building.

- Section 35 requires approval of scientific research conducted under a programme for claiming deduction of expenditure paid to National Laboratory, University, Indian Institute of Technology, or specified person with a direction. Clause 45(3) requires approval of scientific research under a programme for claiming deduction of expenditure even if paid to any specified research associations, company with main object of scientific research, and National Laboratory, University, Indian Institute of Technology, or specified person with a direction. Reading of the section 45(3) creates an impression that "Approval of scientific research" is to be obtained from specified authority in case of all scientific research programmes covered under clauses (a), (b) and (c) to be eligible to claim deduction. This may not be the intention and accordingly this condition may be added under 45(3)(c) only.

- Some of the specified deductions under the old Act viz weighted deductions was withdrawn with effect from FY 2020-21 and deductions on scientific research are not allowed for companies opting for lower tax rate under section 115BAA.
  Furthermore, innovation and R&D are key drivers of economy. Hence, deduction on R&D for companies opting for lower tax rate would discourage investing in R&D.

    - Keeping in mind the 'make in India' vision, weighted deduction for scientific research expenditure (such as on in house research) should be restored

- Deduction for expenditure on scientific research should be allowed for Companies opting for lower tax rate under section 115BAA.

45.5 Examination by the Committee:

45.5.1 On the issue of Cost Accountants being allowed to issue certifications, the Ministry responded as follows, 'Section 35 of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 does not provide for any requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

45.5.2 With regard to deletion of Section 45(2)(c) on account of being redundant the Ministry in their initial comment furnished that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

45.5.3 Further, during the sitting of the Committee held on 26.05.2025, Ministry officials stated that consequent upon questionnaire sent in this regard which pointed to the fact that to ensure that the Clause accurately reflects the distinct purposes of Clauses 45(1) and 45(2)(c) as is the intention of the Ministry, is there any merit in reassessing and rephrasing the current wording of the Clause to mitigate the risk of future litigation, stated as follows:

"… went through it. Now, we found that some ambiguity is there."

Consequently, in the written reply, the Ministry has furnished that "Clause 45(2)(c) of the Bill provides for additional deduction for in-house R&D expenditure which is over and above the deduction allowed under cl. 45(1). However, the present wording of the cl. 45(2)(c) may leave some doubt about the aforesaid intention. The suggestion is acceptable. Drafting corrections in cl. 45(2)(c) shall be carried out to remove any ambiguity."

45.5.4 With regard to correction of the impression that "Approval of scientific research" is to be obtained from specified authority in case of all scientific research programmes covered under clauses (a), (b) and (c) to be eligible to claim deduction, the Ministry clarified in their response that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The approval of prescribed authority is required only for clause 45(3)(c) and not for 45(3)(a)/(b)'.

45.5.5 With respect to the suggestion seeking to provide weighted deduction for scientific research expenditure, the Ministry stated, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change and beyond the scope of IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. It is the stated policy of the government to phase out exemption/deduction and provide a simpler tax regime to the taxpayers. Also weighted deductions work in a twisted manner as they decrease the actual amount available for the activity. For example a taxpayer wanting to avail 100 Rs. deduction has to actually spend only Rs. 50 (where weighted deduction is 200%)'.

45.5.6 With regard to the issue of inserting a Clause (d) in 45(11) after clause (c) – (c) "land" includes any interest in land and (d) "building" includes any interest in building to which the Ministry furnished the response that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Appropriate drafting corrections shall be carried out. The term land has wrongly been defined for whole section instead of only for the purpose of clause 45(1). Once this mistake is corrected there will be no need to define "building" separately'.

45.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 45(2)(c) of the Bill, which provides for an additional deduction for in-house R&D expenditure over and above the deduction allowed under Clause 45(1), currently creates doubt regarding this specific intention and thus recommend that Clause 45(2)(c) of the Bill, be redrafted to align it with the desired intent.

Further, with respect to Clause 45(3), the Committee recommend that the same be redrafted so as to clearly specify that "approval of scientific research" is required from the specified authority only in the case of Clause 45(3)(c), and not for Clauses 45(3)(a) or (b), consistent with the intent of the draft Bill and in line with the Income-Tax Act, 1961.

Regarding Clause 45(11), the Committee recommend that appropriate drafting corrections be made so that the term "land" is defined solely for the purpose of Clause 45(1), rather than for the entire section. This will remove the necessity to separately define "building", which is currently required because both "land" and "building" have been used interchangeably in this section, while the definition of "building" has not been provided.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(7A) Any asset in respect of which a deduction is claimed and allowed under this section shall be used only for the specified business, for a period of eight years beginning with the previous year in which such asset is acquired or constructed.

(7B) Where any asset, in respect of which a deduction is claimed and allowed under this section, is used for a purpose other than the specified business during the period specified in sub-section (7A), otherwise than by way of a mode referred to in clause (vii) of section 28, the total amount of deduction so claimed and allowed in one or more previous years, as reduced by the amount of depreciation allowable in accordance with the provisions of section 32, as if no deduction under this section was allowed, shall be deemed to be the income of the assessee chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" of the previous year in which the asset is so used.

(7C) Nothing contained in sub-section (7B) shall apply to a company which has become a sick industrial company under sub-section (1) of section 17 of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 (1 of 1986), during the period specified in sub-section (7A).

(iii) no deduction on account of depreciation in respect of such machinery or plant has been allowed or is allowable under the provisions of this Act in computing the total income of any person for any period prior to the date of installation of the machinery or plant by the assessee;

46.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 46 of the Bill provides for deduction of certain capital expenditure of specified business incurred subject to fulfilment of certain conditions. The clause corresponds to section 35AD of the Act. Section 35AD(6) being a redundant provision has been removed. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

46.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Certification by an accountant including both Chartered Accountant and Cost accountant as defined under section 2(1)(b) of chartered accountant Act 1949 and under section2(1)(b) of Cost Accountant Act 1959 respectively".
  These types of capital expenditures should require certification from a professional. The Cost Accountants are adequately skilled to give such type of certification. Hence, Cost Accountants may be allowed to issue such certifications.

- The words "138(18) and (23)" in the clause 46(8) may be replaced by the words "140(8) and (13)". It is a typographical error with respect to cross referencing.

- Section 35AD provides deduction of capital expenditure in case of a new infrastructure facility (which includes development, operation and maintenance of roads). The term 'new infrastructure facility' is not defined.
  CBDT circular (Circular No. 4/2010, F.No.178/14/2010 -ITAI) provides guidance that widening of an existing road by constructing additional lanes constitutes a 'new infrastructure facility'. This circular was issued with respect to the provisions of section 80-IA (corresponding section 138 of the Bill). To clarify that Circular No. 4 /2010, F.No.178/14/2010-ITAI will also be applicable while interpreting the term 'new infrastructure facility' in and to extend the benefit of section 35AD (corresponding section 46 of the Bill).

- The benefit of section 35AD should specifically be extended to the HAM projects considering substantial amount of expenditure is incurred for constructing the asset which should be eligible for the deduction.
  To extend the benefit of section 35AD to the HAM projects.

- With respect to 46(9)(b), it is submitted that Sub-section (9) may be reworded as given below - (9) Any asset for which a deduction is claimed and allowed under this section— (a) shall be used only for the specified business for a period of eight years beginning with the tax year in which such asset is acquired or constructed; ~~(b) is used for the purpose and period other than that referred to in clause (a)~~is used for a purpose other than the specified business during the period specified in clause (a), and is not chargeable to tax under section 26(2)(k), then the total amount of deduction so claimed and allowed in one or more tax years, as reduced by the amount of depreciation allowable under section 33, as if no deduction under this section was allowed, shall be the income chargeable under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession” of the tax year in which the asset is so used. Sub-section (9) suggests that if the specified asset is used for the period exceeding 8 years then there is a non compliance, which is not the intention. 9(b) should be redrafted as under: “is used for a purpose other than the specified business during the period specified in clause (a)”

- Clause 46(10) may be deleted since SICA was repealed in 2003 and thus, this subsection may have lost its relevance.

- With respect to 46(11)(c) it is suggested that reference to provisions of sections of IT Act, 1961 may be avoided. This does not simplify the IT Act but instead makes it difficult for readers as they will have to refer to 2 IT Acts.
  Proposed provision: (c) “infrastructure facility” shall ~~have the meaning assigned to it in the Explanation to section 80-IA(4) of the Income-tax Act, 1961~~ means— (i) a road including toll road, a bridge or a rail system; (ii) a highway project including housing or other activities being an integral part of the highway project; (iii) a water supply project, water treatment system, irrigation project, sanitation and sewerage system or solid waste management system; (iv) a port, airport, inland waterway, inland port or navigational channel in the sea;

46.5 Examination by the Committee:

46.5.1 On the issue of Cost Accountants being allowed to issue certifications, the Ministry responded as follows, 'Section 35AD of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 does not provide for any requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

46.5.2 With regard to cross-referencing in Section 46(8) of ITB 2025, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is acceptable. The cross referencing has to be corrected.'

46.5.3 With regard to removal of clause 46(10) of the Bill on the ground that Sick Industrial Companies (Special provisions) Act,1985 (SICA) has been repealed in the year 2003, the Ministry stated that, 'There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. SICA may have been repealed but a company which may have been recognised as sick industrial company under SICA may still be operating'.

46.5.4 Further, during the sitting held on 05.06.2025, the Committee enquired about the rationale for still continuing with an Act repealed long ago, the Secretary, Department of Revenue stated as follows:

> "…In the eco-system, there may be any company which is still getting the benefit because it was declared as sick company under SICA and this is something we are not sure of for deleting it…
> …Here, the only issue was that it has been there for such a long time. So, if we delete it without knowing if anybody is getting impacted as was the point, that is not proper…"

And, in their submission related to post evidence replies, the Ministry furnished that, 'In 2003, Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 (SICA) was repealed by the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Repeal Act, 2003, but the repeal was not immediately enforced. The Repeal Act came into force in 2016 vide notification No. S.O. 3568(E) dated 25th November, 2016. From 2016 onwards, all the remaining cases were transferred to the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016). Thus, the reference has been retained in the Income-tax Bill as was in the Income-tax Act, 1961 in Section 35AD(7C) of the 1961 Act or clause 46(10) of the 2025 Bill because the said section says that any company getting the benefit of capital expenditure u/s 35AD need to use the said capital asset for the specified business for eight years. If in case, in any of the eight year post it's acquisition, the said asset is used for a purpose other than the specified business, then the capital expenditure allowed to the company shall be clawed back and treated as it's income. An exception to this claw back provision has been given to the SICA companies. Now as mentioned above that SICA was in force till 2016, therefore there are chances that there may be companies who was a sick industrial company under SICA and it's re-assessment may be ongoing or assessment may get re-opened in time to come. Thus, the reference has been rightly made'.

46.5.5 The Committee during its siting held on 05.06.2025 enquired about the rationale for not giving relief to NCLT companies while doing so for SICA companies as both SICA & NCLT are primarily for revamping and restructuring of companies, to which the Ministry in their post evidence replies furnished that, 'Clause 46 (sec 35AD) of the Bill provides that any company getting the benefit of capital expenditure cl. 46 need to use the said capital asset for the specified business for eight years. If in case, in any of the eight year post it's acquisition, the said asset is used for a purpose other than the specified business, then the capital expenditure allowed to the company shall be clawed back and treated as it's income. An exception to this claw back provision has been given to the SICA companies. This is the only benefit that has been given to SICA companies in the Bill. In respect of a company where resolution plan has been approved under Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016, Government has incentivized such company by amending the section 79 of Income-Tax Act' 1961 which now allows to carry forward and set off the accumulated losses, even if there is a change in shareholding. So, wherever required benefit/relief has been given to SICA and NCLT companies'.

46.5.6 With regard to providing definition of 'infrastructure facility' within the Bill, the Ministry stated that the same would be be examined to be included in the Bill. Further, during the sitting held on 05.06.2025, representatives from Ministry of Finance stated that:

> "…here, the issue is that there were some Sections in the old Act which are now no longer here for any new assessee to get those deductions. Whoever has already got it, he has only been continuing and continuing for next few years. Like, they have mentioned here 80 IBA and 80 IB something like this. So, when we were drafting this Act, the two possible approaches were there. One, to again bring those Sections in the new Act which were applicable only for a few assessees right now and no new assessee is going to get those deductions in future or to provide a small section here so that the taxability and exemptions are provided here and substantial part refer to the old Act. So, here, the demand is that those Sections should be brought. For others, they are saying that they should have come to new Act.

46.5.7 And in the post evidence replies, the Ministry on including definition of 'infrastructure facility' stated that, 'The draft shall be incorporated in consultation with the Ministry of Law'.

46.5.8 With regard to rewording of clause 46(9)(b), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. The clause 46(9)(b) of the Bill is to be aligned with the provisions of the Act'.

46.5.9 With regard to the suggestion seeking clarification that Circular No 4 /2010, F.No.178/14/2010-ITAI will also be applicable while interpreting the term 'new infrastructure facility' in and to extend the benefit of section 35AD, the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'Clause 536(2)(j) of the Bill has already provided that any notification, instruction issued under the repealed Act will continue in force. The suggestion already stands addressed'.

46.5.10 And on the suggestion seeking for extending benefit of 35AD to Hybrid annuity model (HAM) projects, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The suggestion has serious revenue implications. After reduction of corporate tax rate, there is no justification for any new tax incentives. Inclusion of any new infrastructure project under sec 35AD is to be evaluated after detailed examination and consideration'.

46.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that there is a typographical error in cross-referencing in Clause 46(8) and thus recommend that the same be rectified i.e. "138(18) and (23)" may be replaced with "140(8) and (13)."

Further, with regard to 46(9)(b), the Committee recommend that the Clause be redrafted to align it with the provisions of the 1961 Act as the current wordings in the Bill of Sub-section (9) suggest that if the specified asset is used for the period exceeding 8 years then there is a non compliance, which is not the intention and hence 9(b) should be redrafted as follows: "is used for a purpose other than the specified business during the period specified in clause (a)" and is not chargeable to tax under section 26(2)(k), then the total amount of deduction so claimed and allowed in one or more tax years, as reduced by the amount of depreciation allowable under section 33, as if no deduction under this section was allowed, shall be the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" of the tax year in which the asset is so used.

The Committee would also like to suggest that the word "Th" may be replaced with the word "The" to remove typographical error in Clause 46(6), Column 'C', Sr No. 13.

The Committee also recommend that reference made to Income-Tax Act 1961, made in 46(11)(c) be removed and incorporated in Clause 536 which pertains to Repeals and Savings.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the clause to be adequate and aligned with the corresponding provisions of the 1961 Act, and therefore accept the clause as it stands, subject to the proposed modifications.

Clause No.& Title:
47.Expenditure on agricultural extension project and skill development project

47.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

47. (1) Any expenditure (excluding cost of any land or building) incurred, on—

(a) agricultural extension project by any assessee; or

(b) any skill development project by a company, shall be allowed as a deduction, in the tax year in which such expenditure is incurred provided such project is notified as per the guidelines issued by the Board.

(2) If a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any tax year in respect of any expenditure referred to in sub-section (1), deduction shall not be allowed for such expenditure under any other provision of this Act for the same or any other tax year.

47.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Expenditure on agricultural extension project.

35CCC. (1) Where an assessee incurs any expenditure on agricultural extension project notified by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed, then, there shall be allowed a deduction of a sum equal to one and one-half times of such expenditure :

Provided that for the assessment year beginning on or after the 1st day of April, 2021, the provisions of this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "a sum equal to one and one-half times of", the words "a sum equal to" had been substituted.

(2) Where a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any assessment year in respect of any expenditure referred to in sub-section (1), deduction shall not be allowed in respect of such expenditure under any other provisions of this Act for the same or any other assessment year.

Expenditure on skill development project.

35CCD. (1) Where a company incurs any expenditure (not being expenditure in the nature of cost of any land or building) on any skill development project notified by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed, then, there shall be allowed a deduction of a sum equal to one and one-half times of such expenditure :

Provided that for the assessment year beginning on or after the 1st day of April, 2021, the provisions of this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "an amount equal to one and one-half times of", the words "a sum equal to" had been substituted.

(2) Where a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any assessment year in respect of any expenditure referred to in sub-section (1), deduction shall not be allowed in respect of such expenditure under any other provisions of this Act for the same or any other assessment year.

47.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 47 of the Bill provides for deduction of expenses incurred for agricultural extension projects and skill development projects. The clause corresponds to section 35CCC and 35CCD of the Act. Provisions of Section 35CCC (Expenditure on agricultural extension project) and 35CCD (Expenditure on skill development project) are combined in the new clause as they are of the same nature. Income-Tax bill, 2025 allows for allowance of any expenditure (excluding cost of any land or building) incurred on agricultural extension project. Income-Tax Act, 1961 did not exclude expenditure incurred as cost of any land or building for agricultural extension project. The same have been excluded in the Bill keeping in view the relevant CBDT circulars/Notifications. Other provisions have been kept intact as was there in the Income-Tax Act, 1961. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

47.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Certification by an accountant including both Chartered Accountant and Cost accountant as defined under section 2(1)(b) of chartered accountant Act 1949 and under section2(1)(b) of Cost Accountant Act 1959 respectively”
  These types of claims should require certification from a professional. The Cost Accountants are adequately skilled to give such type of certifications. So, Cost Accountants may be allowed to issue such certifications.

- Previously, Section 35CCD of the Act (Clause 47(1)(b) of Bill) provided a 150% deduction for expenses on notified skill development projects, but this was reduc ed to 100% in recent years. Reinstate 150% weighted deduction u/s 35CCD (cla use 47(1)(b) of the Bill) for corporate-sponsored skill development programs, esp ecially those aligned with NSDC.

- Sub-section (1) may be re-worded as follows - (1) Any expenditure (excluding cost of any land or building) incurred, on- (a) agricultural extension project by any assessee; or (b) any skill development project by a company, shall be allowed as a deduction, in the tax year in which such expenditure is incurred provided such project is notified ~~as per the guidelines issued by the Board~~ by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed".
  The phrase "notified as per the guidelines issued by the Board" is prone to different interpretations. It may be replaced with "notified by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed".

47.5 Examination by the Committee:

47.5.1 The Ministry in their comments on the suggestion with regard to issue of certification by Cost Accountants stated that, 'Section 35CCC and section 35CCD of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 do not provide for any requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

47.5.2 And with regard to reinstating 150% weighted deduction u/s 35CCD (clause 47(1)(b) of the Bill) for corporate-sponsored skill development programs, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

47.5.3 With regard to replacing the phrase "notified as per the guidelines issued by the Board" with "notified by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed" in Sub Section (1), the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 47(1) of the Bill is to be aligned with the existing provisions of the Act'.

47.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

To align Clause 47(1) of the Bill with the existing provisions of the Act, the Committee recommend that the phrase "notified as per the guidelines issued by the Board" be replaced with the phrase "notified by the Board in this behalf in accordance with the guidelines as may be prescribed" in Clause 47(1)(b) as the former is prone to different interpretations.

Apart from the above recommendation, the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modification.

Clause No.& Title:

48.Tea development account, coffee development account and rubber development account.

(7) Where any amount, standing to the credit of the assessee in the special account or in the Deposit Account, which is released during any previous year by the National Bank or which is withdrawn by the assessee from the Deposit Account for being utilised by the assessee for the purposes of such business in accordance with the scheme or the deposit scheme is not so utilised, either wholly or in part, within that previous year, the whole of such amount or, as the case may be, part thereof which is not so utilised shall be deemed to be profits and gains of business and accordingly chargeable to income-tax as the income of that previous year :

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply in a case where such amount is released during any previous year at the closure of the account in circumstances specified in clauses (b), (c) and (e) of sub-section (3).

(8) Where any asset acquired in accordance with the scheme or the deposit scheme is sold or otherwise transferred in any previous year by the assessee to any person at any time before the expiry of eight years from the end of the previous year in which it was acquired, such part of the cost of such asset as is relatable to the deduction allowed under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of business or profession of the previous year in which the asset is sold or otherwise transferred and shall accordingly be chargeable to income-tax as the income of that previous year :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply—

(i) where the asset is sold or otherwise transferred by the assessee to Government, a local authority, a corporation established by or under a Central, State or Provincial Act or a Government company as defined in section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956) ; or

(ii) where the sale or transfer of the asset is made in connection with the succession of a firm by a company in the business or profession carried on by the firm as a result of which the firm sells or otherwise transfers to the company any asset and the scheme or the deposit scheme continues to apply to the company in the manner applicable to the firm.

Explanation.—The provisions of clause (ii) of the proviso shall apply only where—

(i) all the properties of the firm relating to the business or profession immediately before the succession become the properties of the company ;

(ii) all the liabilities of the firm relating to the business or profession immediately before the succession become the liabilities of the company ; and

(iii) all the shareholders of the company were partners of the firm immediately before the succession.

(9) The Central Government, if it considers necessary or expedient so to do, may, by notification in the Official Gazette, direct that the deduction allowable under this section shall not be allowed after such date as may be specified therein.

Explanation.—In this section,—

(a) "Coffee Board" means the Coffee Board constituted under section 4 of the Coffee Act, 1942 (7 of 1942);

(aa) "National Bank" means the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development established under section 3 of the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development Act, 1981 (61 of 1981);

(ab) "Rubber Board" means the Rubber Board constituted under sub-section (1) of section 4 of the Rubber Act, 1947 (24 of 1947);

(b) "Tea Board" means the Tea Board established under section 4 of the Tea Act, 1953 (29 of 1953).

48.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 48 of the Bill provide for tea development account, coffee development account and rubber development account which, inter alia, seek to deal with deduction of deposits in tea, coffee or rubber development accounts by the assessee. The clause corresponds to section 33AB of the Act. Provisions related to the Tea Development Account, Coffee Development Account, and Rubber Development Account, which apply only to specific trades and a small number of taxpayers, have been moved to the Schedule (Schedule IX) as these provisions are procedural in nature. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

48.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 515(3) (b) “accountant” means a chartered accountant as defined in Section 2(1)(b) of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, or a cost accountant as defined in section 2(1)(b) of the Cost Accountants Act, 1959, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, but does not include [except for representing the assessee under subsection (1)].
  Cost accountants are adequately qualified to do such type of audits. Hence, the cost accountants may be included in the definition of ‘accountant’ to conduct such audits.

- Sub-section (2) be redrafted as under: Taxability of any amount withdrawn or utilised or released at the time of closure or otherwise shall be as per the provisions of the Schedule IX. Sub-section (3) may be reworded as follows - (3) Where any asset acquired as per the scheme or the deposit scheme is sold or otherwise transferred in any tax year by the assessee to any person at any time before the expiry of eight years from the end of the tax year in which it was acquired, such part of the cost of such asset as is relatable to the deduction allowed under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of business or profession of the tax year in which the asset is sold or otherwise transferred and shall accordingly be chargeable to income-tax as the income of that tax year, except in cases referred to in para 5(2) of Schedule IX.

Sub-section (2) is not in line with Para 3(2) of Schedule IX, which provides for taxability only in the case of closure of business and dissolution of firm and not in case of amount withdrawn in case of death of an assessee, partition of HUF and liquidation of company. Sub-section (3) is not in line with Para 5(2) of Schedule IX, which provides for certain exemptions from the deeming provisions. Therefore, the phrase "except in cases referred to in para 5(2) of Schedule IX" may be added at the end of this sub-section.

- In Schedule IX para 1 sub para (3) be inserted as under: "(3) any interest credited in the specified account shall be deemed to be a deposit". There is a provision in Schedule X para 1(3) which provides that any interest credited in the specified account shall be deemed to be a deposit. A similar provision may also be incorporated in Schedule IX para 1.

48.5 Examination by the Committee:

48.5.1 In their comments with respect to including cost accountants in the definition of 'accountant' to conduct audits the Ministry has stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

48.5.2 With regard to the suggestion seeking that interest credited in the specified account in case of tea, coffee and rubber development shall be deemed to be a deposit as is provided in case of site restoration fund, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. In Schedule IX of the Bill (corresponding to tea, coffee and rubber development), deduction of 40% profit of business is allowed whereas in Schedule X of the Bill (corresponding to site restoration fund) deduction of 20% is profit of business is allowed. Schedule IX of the Bill already provide higher benefit in terms of allowable deduction hence it may not be possible to accept the suggestion'.

48.5.3 With regard to redrafting of Sub-section (2), the Ministry replied that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 48(3) taxes cost of certain assets for which deduction was claimed earlier, if asset is sold before a specified period. Rule 5(1) of Schedule IX also provides the same condition as in cl. 48(3). Rule 5(2) provides exception to rule 5(1). The Rule 5(2) of schedule IX is to be moved to clause 48(3) as the Rule 5(2) provides for exception to provisions of clause 48(3).

48.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Sub-section (2) is not in line with Para 3(2) of Schedule IX, which provides for taxability only in the case of closure of business and dissolution of firm and not in case of amount withdrawn in case of death of an assessee, partition of HUF and liquidation of company and thus recommend redrafting of the same. The Committee understand that Clause 48(3) taxes cost of certain assets for which deduction was claimed earlier, if asset is sold before a specified period and Rule 5(1) of Schedule IX also provides the same condition as in 48(3). Further, Rule 5(2) provides exception to rule 5(1). The Rule 5(2) of Schedule IX is to be moved to clause 48(3) as the Rule 5(2) provides for exception to provisions of clause 48(3) to bring the Bill in line with the provisions of the Income-Tax Act, 1961.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

Explanation.—Where any amount is withdrawn on closure of the account in a previous year in which the business carried on by the assessee is no longer in existence, the provisions of this sub-section shall apply as if the business is in existence in that previous year.

(6) Where any amount standing to the credit of the assessee in the special account or in the Site Restoration Account is utilised by the assessee for the purposes of any expenditure in connection with such business in accordance with the scheme or the deposit scheme, such expenditure shall not be allowed in computing the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

(7) Where any amount, standing to the credit of the assessee in the special account or in the Site Restoration Account, which is released during any previous year by the State Bank of India or which is withdrawn by the assessee from the Site Restoration Account for being utilised by the assessee for the purposes of such business in accordance with the scheme or the deposit scheme is not so utilised, either wholly or in part, within that previous year, the whole of such amount or, as the case may be, part thereof which is not so utilised shall be deemed to be profits and gains of business and accordingly chargeable to income-tax as the income of that previous year.

(8) Where any asset acquired in accordance with the scheme or the deposit scheme is sold or otherwise transferred in any previous year by the assessee to any person at any time before the expiry of eight years from the end of the previous year in which it was acquired, such part of the cost of such asset as is relatable to the deduction allowed under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of business or profession of the previous year in which the asset is sold or otherwise transferred and shall accordingly be chargeable to income-tax as the income of that previous year :

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply—

(i) where the asset is sold or otherwise transferred by the assessee to Government, a local authority, a corporation established by or under a Central, State or Provincial Act or a Government company as defined in section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956); or

(ii) where the sale or transfer of the asset is made in connection with the succession of a firm by a company in the business or profession carried on by the firm as a result of which the firm sells or otherwise transfers to the company any asset and the scheme or the deposit scheme continues to apply to the company in the manner applicable to the firm.

(b) the expression "amount standing to the credit of the assessee in the special account or the Site Restoration Account" includes interest accrued to such accounts.]

49.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clauses 49 of the Bill provide for Site Restoration Fund which, inter alia, seek to deal with deduction of deposits in site restoration account engaged in prospecting or extracting or producing petroleum or natural gas or both. The clause corresponds to section 33ABA of the Act. Provisions related to the Site Restoration Account, which apply only to specific trade and a small number of taxpayers, have been moved to the Schedule (Schedule X) as these provisions are procedural in nature. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

49.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 515(3) (b) “accountant” means a chartered accountant as defined in section 2(1)(b) of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, or a cost accountant as defined in section 2(1)(b) of the Cost Accountants Act, 1959, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, but does not include [except for representing the assessee under sub-section(1)].
  Cost accountants are adequately qualified to do such type of audits. Hence, the cost accountants may be included in the definition of ‘accountant’ to conduct such audits.

- Sub-section (2) may be redrafted as under: Taxability of any amount withdrawn or utilised or released at the time of closure or otherwise shall be as per the provisions of the Schedule X. Sub-section (3) may be reworded as follows - (3) Where any asset acquired as per the scheme or the deposit scheme is sold or otherwise transferred in any tax year by the assessee to any person at any time before the expiry of eight years from the end of the tax year in which it was acquired, such part of the cost of such asset as is relatable to the deduction allowed under sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of business or profession of the tax year in which the asset is sold or otherwise transferred and shall accordingly be chargeable to income-tax as the income of that tax year, except in cases referred to in para 5(2) of Schedule X.
  This clause is not in line with Para 3(2) of Schedule X and therefore redrafting has been proposed. Sub-section (3) is not in line with Para 5(2) of Schedule X, which provides for certain exemptions from the deeming provisions. Therefore, the phrase “except in cases referred to in para 5(2) of Schedule X” may be added at the end of this sub-clause.

- Section 33ABA stated that no deduction shall be allowed in respect of any amount utilised for the purchase of any new machinery or plant to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purposes of business of construction, manufacture or production of any article or thing. New bill provides no deduction shall be allowed in respect of any amount utilized for the purchase of any new machinery or plant for constructing, manufacturing or producing any items. Words ‘to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purposes of business’ is missing. However, these words are appearing in similar provisions of tea fund in Schedule IX. Hence, these words may be added back in sec on 49.

49.5 Examination by the Committee:

49.5.1 In their comments with respect to including cost accountants in the definition of 'accountant' to conduct audits the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.'

49.5.2 With regard to redrafting of Sub-section (2), the Ministry replied that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 49(3) taxes cost of certain assets for which deduction was claimed earlier, if asset is sold before a specified period. Rule 5(1) of Schedule X also provides the same condition as in cl. 49(3). Rule 5(2) provides exception to rule 5(1). The subrule 5(2) of schedule X is to be moved to clause 49(3) as the sub rule 5(2) provides for exception to provisions of clause 49(3)'.

49.5.3 With respect to usage of the words " to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purpose of business of construction, manufacture or production of any article or thing specified in the list" in Rule 3(2) of Schedule X in place of " for constructing, or manufacturing or producing any items listed ", the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. In Rule 3(2) of Schedule X, the words " to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purpose of business of construction, manufacture or production of any article or thing specified in the list" is to be used in place of " for constructing, or manufacturing or producing any items listed."

49.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Upon examination, the Committee note that there is a need for redrafting of Sub-section (2) as Clause 49(3) taxes cost of certain assets for which deduction was claimed earlier, if asset is sold before a specified period and Rule 5(1) of Schedule X also provides the same condition as in cl. 49(3) and Rule 5(2) provides exception to Rule 5(1). The Committee thus recommend that the sub-rule 5(2) of Schedule X is to be moved to clause 49(3) as the sub-rule 5(2) provides for exception to provisions of clause 49(3).

The Committee further recommend that the words "to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purpose of business of construction, manufacture or production of any article or thing specified in the list" be used in Rule 3(2) of Schedule X in place of " for constructing, or manufacturing or producing any items listed" to bring the Bill in line with the 1961 Act. The Bill provides that no deduction shall be allowed in respect of any amount utilized for the purchase of any new machinery or plant for constructing, manufacturing or producing any items i.e. the words 'to be installed in an industrial undertaking for the purposes of business of construction, manufacture or production of any article or thing specified in the list' is missing and the same needs to be rectified to align the Bill with the Income-Tax Act, 1961.

Clause No.& Title:

50.Special provision in the case of trade, profession or similar association.

50.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

50. (1) Irrespective of anything to the contrary contained in this Act, if, during the tax year, the amount received by a specified association from its members falls short of the expenditure incurred by such association solely for the protection or advancement of common interest of its members, then the amount so falling short shall be allowed as deduction from the income of such association under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and the remaining amount, if any, from its income under any other head.

(2)For the purposes of sub-section (1),—

(a) "specified association" means any trade, professional or similar association, not covered in Schedule III (Table: Sl. No. 24), whose income or its part is not distributed to its members (other than as grants to any associations or institutions affiliated to it);

(b) the amount received by the specified association from its members shall include amount by way of subscription or otherwise, and shall not include any remuneration received by the association for rendering any specific services to such members;

(c) expenditure incurred by specified association shall not include—

(i) expenditure deductible under any other provision of this Act; and

(ii) any capital expenditure.

(3) The effect of other provisions of this Act relating to carry forward and set off of brought forward losses or allowances shall be given before allowing deduction under sub-section (1).

(4) The maximum allowable deduction under this section shall not exceed 50% of the total income as computed before allowing deduction under this section.

50.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provision for deduction in the case of trade, professional or similar association.

44A. (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Act, where the amount received during a previous year by any trade, professional or similar association (other than an association or institution referred to in clause (23A) of section 10) from its members, whether by way of subscription or otherwise (not being remuneration received for rendering any specific services to such members) falls short of the expenditure incurred by such association during that previous year (not being expenditure deductible in computing the income under any other provision of this Act and not being in the nature of capital expenditure) solely for the purposes of protection or advancement of the common interests of its members, the amount so fallen short (hereinafter referred to as deficiency) shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed as a deduction in computing the income of the association assessable for the relevant assessment year under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and if there is no income assessable under that head or the deficiency allowable exceeds such income, the whole or the balance of the deficiency, as the case may be, shall be allowed as a deduction in computing the income of the association assessable for the relevant assessment year under any other head.

(2) In computing the income of the association for the relevant assessment year under sub-section (1), effect shall first be given to any other provision of this Act under which any allowance or loss in respect of any earlier assessment year is carried forward and set off against the income for the relevant assessment year.

(3) The amount of deficiency to be allowed as a deduction under this section shall in no case exceed one-half of the total income of the association as computed before making any allowance under this section.

(4) This section applies only to that trade, professional or similar association the income of which or any part thereof is not distributed to its members except as grants to any association or institution affiliated to it.

50.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 50 of the Bill provides for deduction in the case of specified associations for the interest and welfare of members of such association when the amount received from members by the association falls short of the expenditure incurred for the welfare of its members. The clause corresponds to section 44A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

50.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it is.

Clause No.& Title:

(a) no deduction shall be allowed to the amalgamating or demerged company for the year in which such amalgamation or demerger takes place; and

(b) all the provisions of this section shall continue to apply to the amalgamated or resulting company as it would have applied to the amalgamating or demerged company, as if the amalgamation or demerger has not taken place.

(2) The expenditure referred to in sub-section (1) is that incurred by the assessee after the date specified in that sub-section at any time during the year of commercial production and any one or more of the four years immediately preceding that year, wholly and exclusively on any operations relating to prospecting for any mineral or group of associated minerals specified in Part A or Part B, respectively, of the Seventh Schedule or on the development of a mine or other natural deposit of any such mineral or group of associated minerals :

Provided that there shall be excluded from such expenditure any portion thereof which is met directly or indirectly by any other person or authority and any sale, salvage, compensation or insurance moneys realised by the assessee in respect of any property or rights brought into existence as a result of the expenditure.

(3) Any expenditure—

(i) on the acquisition of the site of the source of any mineral or group of associated minerals referred to in sub-section (2) or of any rights in or over such site;

(ii) on the acquisition of the deposits of such mineral or group of associated minerals or of any rights in or over such deposits; or

(iii) of a capital nature in respect of any building, machinery, plant or furniture for which allowance by way of depreciation is admissible under section 32, shall not be deemed to be expenditure incurred by the assessee for any of the purposes specified in sub-section (2).

(4) The deduction to be allowed under sub-section (1) for any relevant previous year shall be—

(a) an amount equal to one-tenth of the expenditure specified in sub-section (2) (such one-tenth being hereafter in this sub-section referred to as the instalment); or

(b) such amount as is sufficient to reduce to nil the income (as computed before making the deduction under this section) of that previous year arising from the commercial exploitation [whether or not such commercial exploitation is as a result of the operations or development referred to in sub-section (2)] of any mine or other natural deposit of the mineral or any one or more of the minerals in a group of associated minerals as aforesaid in respect of which the expenditure was incurred, whichever amount is less :

Provided that the amount of the instalment relating to any relevant previous year, to the extent to which it remains unallowed, shall be carried forward and added to the instalment relating to the previous year next following and deemed to be part of that instalment, and so on, for succeeding previous years, so, however, that no part of any instalment shall be carried forward beyond the tenth previous year as reckoned from the year of commercial production.

(5) For the purposes of this section,—

(a) "operation relating to prospecting" means any operation undertaken for the purposes of exploring, locating or proving deposits of any mineral, and includes any such operation which proves to be infructuous or abortive;

(b) "year of commercial production" means the previous year in which as a result of any operation relating to prospecting, commercial production of any mineral or any one or more of the minerals in a group of associated minerals specified in Part A or Part B, respectively, of the Seventh Schedule, commences;

(c) "relevant previous years" means the ten previous years beginning with the year of commercial production.

(6) Where the assessee is a person other than a company or a co-operative society, no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) unless the accounts of the assessee for the year or years in which the expenditure specified in sub-section (2) is incurred have been audited by an accountant as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288, before the specified date referred to in section 44AB and the assessee furnishes for the first year in which the deduction under this section is claimed, the report of such audit by that date in the prescribed form duly signed and verified by such accountant and setting forth such particulars as may be prescribed.

(7) Where the undertaking of an Indian company which is entitled to the deduction under sub-section (1) is transferred, before the expiry of the period of ten years specified in sub-section (1), to another Indian company in a scheme of amalgamation—

(i) no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) in the case of the amalgamating company for the previous year in which the amalgamation takes place; and

(ii) the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the amalgamated company as they would have applied to the amalga-mating company if the amalgamation had not taken place.

(7A) Where the undertaking of an Indian company which is entitled to the deduction under sub-section (1) is transferred, before the expiry of the period of ten years specified in sub-section (1), to another Indian company in a scheme of demerger,—

(i) no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) in the case of the demerged company for the previous year in which the demerger takes place; and

(ii) the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the resulting company as they would have applied to the demerged company, if the demerger had not taken place.

(8) Where a deduction under this section is claimed and allowed for any assessment year in respect of any expenditure specified in sub-section (2), the expenditure in respect of which deduction is so allowed shall not qualify for deduction under any other provision of this Act for the same or any other assessment year.

51.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 51 of the Bill provides for amortisation of expenditure for prospecting certain minerals. The clause corresponds to section 35E of the Act. Schedule XII may be read along with this Clause as it specifies the minerals and groups of associated minerals on which this clause is applicable. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

51.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- (7) Where the assessee is a person other than a company or a co-operative society, no deduction shall be admissible under sub-section (1) unless,– (a) the accounts of the assessee for the year or years in which the expenditure specified in sub-sections (2) and (3) are incurred have been audited by a chartered accountant in practice or cost accountant in practice, before the specified date referred to in section 63; and (b) the assessee furnishes for the first year in which the deduction under this section is claimed, the report of such audit, by such date, in such form and duly signed and verified by chartered accountant in practice or cost accountant in practice, as prescribed.

  Amortisation is directly related to cost statements, hence the cost accountants may be allowed for amortisation of expenditure for prospecting certain minerals. In addition to the above, for determination of the amortisation, it is necessary to calculate the cost of the project which is an area of cost accountant, so this is another reason to include cost accountants for certification of such expenditures.

51.5 Examination by the Committee:

With respect to the need for getting capital expenditure certified from a professional, the Ministry in their comments furnished, ‘Section 35E of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 do not provide for any requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.’

51.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough deliberation and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance find the provisions of the proposed Clause 51 to be acceptable as it is without any modifications.

(5)In case any deduction has been claimed and granted in respect of an expenditure referred in sub-section (1) (Table: Sl. No. 3)and there is subsequent failure on part of the assessee to comply with any of the provisions of this section, then,—

(c) the provisions of section 287 shall, so far as may be, apply; and

(d) the period of four years specified in section 287(8) shall be counted from the end of the tax year in which such failure takes place.

(6) Where a specified business reorganisation takes place before the expiry of the period specified in sub-section (1)(Table: Sl. No. 2.D), in case of an expenditure referred against serial number 2 thereof, then,—

(b) no deduction shall be allowed to the predecessor entity under this section for the tax year in which such reorganisation takes place.

(2) The provisions contained in sub-sections (2) to (8) of section 35ABB, shall apply as if for the word "licence", the word "spectrum" had been substituted.

(3) Where, in a previous year, any deduction has been claimed and granted to the assessee under sub-section (1), and, subsequently, there is failure to comply with any of the provisions of this section, then,—

Explanation.—Where the licence is transferred in a previous year in which the business is no longer in existence, the provisions of this sub-section shall apply as if the business is in existence in that previous year.

(4) Where the whole or any part of the licence is transferred and the proceeds of the transfer (so far as they consist of capital sums) are not less than the amount of expenditure incurred remaining unallowed, no deduction for such expenditure shall be allowed under sub-section (1) in respect of the previous year in which the licence is transferred or in respect of any subsequent previous year or years.

(5) Where a part of the licence is transferred in a previous year and sub-section (3) does not apply, the deduction to be allowed under sub-section (1) for expenditure incurred remaining unallowed shall be arrived at by—

(a) subtracting the proceeds of transfer (so far as they consist of capital sums) from the expenditure remaining unallowed; and

(8) Where a deduction for any previous year under sub-section (1) is claimed and allowed in respect of any expenditure referred to in that sub-section, no deduction shall be allowed under sub-section (1) of section 32 for the same previous year or any subsequent previous year.

Amortisation of expenditure in case of amalgamation or demerger.

35DD. (1) Where an assessee, being an Indian company, incurs any expenditure, on or after the 1st day of April, 1999, wholly and exclusively for the purposes of amalgamation or demerger of an undertaking, the assessee shall be allowed a deduction of an amount equal to one-fifth of such expenditure for each of the five successive previous years beginning with the previous year in which the amalgamation or demerger takes place.

(2) No deduction shall be allowed in respect of the expenditure mentioned in sub-section (1) under any other provision of this Act.

Amortisation of expenditure incurred under voluntary retirement scheme.

35DDA. (1) Where an assessee incurs any expenditure in any previous year by way of payment of any sum to an employee in connection with his voluntary retirement, in accordance with any scheme or schemes of voluntary retirement, one-fifth of the amount so paid shall be deducted in computing the profits and gains of the business for that previous year, and the balance shall be deducted in equal instalments for each of the four immediately succeeding previous years.

(2) Where the assessee, being an Indian company, is entitled to the deduction under sub-section (1) and the undertaking of such Indian company entitled to the deduction under sub-section (1) is transferred, before the expiry of the period specified in that sub-section, to another Indian company in a scheme of amalgamation, the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the amalgamated company as they would have applied to the amalgamating company if the amalgamation had not taken place.

(3) Where the undertaking of an Indian company entitled to the deduction under sub-section (1) is transferred, before the expiry of the period specified in that sub-section, to another company in a scheme of demerger, the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the resulting company, as they would have applied to the demerged company, if the demerger had not taken place.

(4) Where there has been reorganisation of business, whereby a firm is succeeded by a company fulfilling the conditions laid down in clause (xiii) of section 47 or a proprietary concern is succeeded by a company fulfilling the conditions laid down in clause (xiv) of section 47, the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the successor company, as they would have applied to the firm or the proprietary concern, if reorganisation of business had not taken place.

(4A) Where there has been reorganisation of business, whereby a private company or unlisted public company is succeeded by a limited liability partnership fulfilling the conditions laid down in the proviso to clause (xiiib) of section 47, the provisions of this section shall, as far as may be, apply to the successor limited liability partnership, as they would have applied to the said company, if reorganisation of business had not taken place.

(6) No deduction shall be allowed in respect of the expenditure mentioned in sub-section (1) under any other provision of this Act.

52.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 52 of the Bill provides for amortisation of expenditure for telecommunications services, amalgamation, demerger, scheme of voluntary retirement, etc., and deductions for spectrum or license fee paid in the telecommunication business. The clause corresponds to section 35ABA, 35ABB, 35DD and 35DDA of the Act. Provisions have been presented in a tabular form which enhances readability and reduces ambiguity. Common provisions and exceptions are listed as sub-sections below the table, providing a clearer understanding of the deferred expenditure allowance. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

52.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 515(3) (b) “accountant” means a chartered accountant as defined in section 2(1)(b) of the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, or a cost accountant as defined in section 2(1)(b) of the Cost Accountants Act, 1959, who holds a valid certificate of practice under section 6(1) of that Act, but does not include [except for representing the assessee under sub-section(1)].
  These types of claims should require certification from a professional. The Cost Accountants are adequately skilled to issue such type of certifications. So, Cost Accountants may be allowed to issue such certifications.

- Section 52 of the New Income-Tax Bill 2025 contains provisions relating to deduction of capital expenditure being right to operate telecommunication services (license fee) and right to use spectrum for telecommunication services.

Section 52(2) covers provisions when both these rights are transferred. However, in clause (b) therein while word 'license' is appearing but word spectrum' is not appearing. Similarly, in repeal and savings clause under Section 536 (2)(s) of the New Income-Tax Bill there is no reference of following A. Section 35ABA of the Income-Tax act 1961 (right to use spectrum) B. Pre construction interest u/s 24(b) of ITA 2025 C. Unutilised interest deduction carried forward – S. 94B(4).
The government should correct these omissions by making suitable insertions in sections 52(2) and 536(2)(s) of New Income-Tax Bill 2025.

- Proposed addition in the end: And the balance excess which exceeds the expenditure incurred to obtain the license shall be taxed as capital gains in accordance with the provisions of the Act.
  The taxability of proceeds of transfer in excess of the original expenditure has not been considered, which has been suggested here.

- Section 35ABA provides deduction for each of the relevant previous years equal to the appropriate fraction of the amount of expenditure incurred for obtaining right to use spectrum for telecommunication services. Clause 52 provides deduction in the initial tax year and for the number of tax years over which deduction of amount of expenditure incurred for obtaining right to use spectrum for telecommunication services in equal instalments as per Column C and D of the indicated table. Section 35ABA appears to be inadvertently missed under "Repeals and Saving" section which may be added suitably.

- Unrelated sections have been merged. Only section 35ABA and 35ABB have similar conditions and applicable to telecommunication services. Section 35DD deals with Amortisation of expenditure in relation to amalgamation & demerger. Similarly, section 35DDA relates to Amortisation of expenditure incurred under VRS. Merging unrelated sections is leading to cumbersome reading and it is difficult to tag the conditions to relevant deduction. Only section 35ABA and 35ABB should be merged and sections 35DD and 35DDA should be retained as independent sections.

- With regard to 52(6) it is stated that -Where a specified business reorganisation takes place before the expiry of the period specified in sub-section (1) (Table: Sl. No. 2 Column D), in case of an expenditure referred against serial number 2 thereof, then,— Table: Sl. No. 2.D is being used to refer to Sl. No 2 and Column D of the Table. Using Column will avoid confusion in the minds of readers.

52.5 Examination by the Committee:

52.5.1 The Ministry in their response to requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional stated that, ‘Section 35ABA, 35ABB, 35DD, 35DDA of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 do not provide for any requirement to get the capital expenditure certified from a professional. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.’

52.5.2 With respect to the word ‘license’ appearing but word spectrum’ missing in clause (b) the Ministry commented that, ‘The suggestion made by the stakeholder is acceptable on account of no reference of Section 35 ABA of the Income-Tax Act, 1961 in repeal and savings clause under Section 536(2)(s) of the new Income-Tax Bill, 2025.’

52.5.3 With regard to using the prefix ‘Column” in providing referencing to the table, the Ministry in their reply accepted that, ‘The word "col" is to be provided in the references of the table wherever required’.

52.5.4 With respect to the suggestion seeking for taxability of proceeds when license (for which expenditure has been claimed under clause 52 of the Bill) is transferred under the head capital gains rather than under business head, the Ministry in their reply furnished, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The assessee is allowed deduction under clause 52(1) of the Bill for expenditure incurred to obtain license. The asset on which deduction has been claimed under the head of business and profession is to be taxed under the same head on its transfer to maintain equity in taxation’.

52.5.5 On the issue of separation of certain sections which have been clubbed the Ministry stated that, ‘There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Provisions of sec 35ABA, 35ABB, 35DD and 35DDA are related to amortisation of expenditure. Hence these are clubbed together. No ambiguity arising as a result of clubbing has been pointed out. The suggestion is not feasible’.

52.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that in Clause 52(b) containing provisions relating to deduction of capital expenditure being right to operate telecommunication services (license fee) and right to use spectrum for telecommunication services, the word 'license' is appearing but word 'spectrum' is not appearing and thus recommend that the same be added at the appropriate place.

The Committee further recommend that the word "col" is to be provided in the references of the table wherever required to provide clarity to readers as to which Column is being referred to in the table.

Clause No.& Title:

53. Full value of consideration for transfer of assets other than capital assets in certain cases.

53.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

53. (1) In case of transfer of an asset (other than a capital asset), being land or building or both, if the consideration received or accrued from such transfer is less than the stamp duty, then such stamp duty value for computing profits and gains from transfer of such asset shall be deemed to be the full value of consideration.

(2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply if the stamp duty value does not exceed 110% of the consideration received or accrued and in such a case, the consideration received or accrued shall be deemed to be the full value of consideration.

(3) If the date of agreement fixing the value of consideration for transfer of asset and date of registration for transfer of such asset are different, then the stamp duty value as on date of agreement may be taken to be the full value of consideration under sub-section (1).

(4) The provisions of sub-section (3) shall apply only in a case where the amount of consideration or a part thereof has been received by specified banking or online mode on or before the date of agreement for transfer of such asset.

(5) For the determination of the value adopted or assessed or assessable under sub-section (1), the provisions of section 78(2) and (4) shall apply.

53.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provision for full value of consideration for transfer of assets other than capital assets in certain cases.

43CA. (1) Where the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer by an assessee of an asset (other than a capital asset), being land or building or both, is less than the value adopted or assessed or assessable by any authority of a State Government for the purpose of payment of stamp duty in respect of such transfer, the value so adopted or assessed or assessable shall, for the purposes of computing profits and gains from transfer of such asset, be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer:

Provided that where the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the authority for the purpose of payment of stamp duty does not exceed one hundred and ten per cent of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer, the consideration so received or accruing as a result of the transfer shall, for the purposes of computing profits and gains from transfer of such asset, be deemed to be the full value of the consideration:

Provided further that in case of transfer of an asset, being a residential unit, the provisions of this proviso shall have the effect as if for the words "one hundred and ten per cent", the words "one hundred and twenty per cent" had been substituted, if the following conditions are satisfied, namely:—

(i) the transfer of such residential unit takes place during the period beginning from the 12th day of November, 2020 and ending on the 30th day of June, 2021;

(ii) such transfer is by way of first time allotment of the residential unit to any person; and

(iii) the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer does not exceed two crore rupees.

(2) The provisions of sub-section (2) and sub-section (3) of section 50C shall, so far as may be, apply in relation to determination of the value adopted or assessed or assessable under sub-section (1).

(3) Where the date of agreement fixing the value of consideration for transfer of the asset and the date of registration of such transfer of asset are not the same, the value referred to in sub-section (1) may be taken as the value assessable by any authority of a State Government for the purpose of payment of stamp duty in respect of such transfer on the date of the agreement.

(4) The provisions of sub-section (3) shall apply only in a case where the amount of consideration or a part thereof has been received by way of an account payee cheque or an account payee bank draft or by use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode as may be prescribed on or before the date of agreement for transfer of the asset.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "residential unit" means an independent housing unit with separate facilities for living, cooking and sanitary requirement, distinctly separated from other residential units within the building, which is directly accessible from an outer door or through an interior door in a shared hallway and not by walking through the living space of another household.

53.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 53 of the Bill provides for full value of consideration for transfer of assets other than capital assets in certain cases and for adoption of stamp duty value as full value of consideration at the time of transfer of assets (other than capital assets) in specific cases. The clause corresponds to section 43CA of the Act. The provisions mentioned in second proviso to Section 43CA(1) of the Act have been removed as it was applicable only for the transactions took place between 12.11.2020 and 30.6.2021. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

53.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Unlike S. 43CA of ITA 1961 which required the received consideration for transfer to be less than the value adopted for stamp duty purposes, S. 53 of ITB requires the received consideration for transfer to be less than the stamp duty itself which is a small fraction of the stamp duty value adopted. This might defeat the very purpose with which the anti-abuse provisions were inserted.
  Include the word “value” after the phrase “is less than the stamp duty” to ensure that the anti-abuse purpose of S. 53 of ITB 2025 is not diluted.

53.5 Examination by the Committee:

On the issue of omission of the word “value”, the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘Due to inadvertent error, in the above sub-section "value" is missing along with stamp duty. The correct phrase shall be stamp duty value. The suggestion is acceptable’.

53.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Upon examination, the Committee note that after the phrase "stamp duty" the word "value" is missing and feel that the same is required to be added to ensure that the Bill is in alignment with the Income-Tax Act, 1961 whose objective was consideration for transfer to be less than the value adopted for stamp duty purposes, while the current wording of the Bill points towards the received consideration for transfer to be less than the stamp duty itself which is a small fraction of the stamp duty value adopted. Hence, the Committee recommend that the word "value" be added after the phrase "stamp duty" to rectify the same.

Apart from the above recommendation, the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to the corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modification.

Clause No.& Title:

54. Business of prospecting for mineral oils.

54.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(a) not apply to the amalgamating or demerged company; and

(b) continue to apply to the amalgamated or resulting company as it would have applied to the amalgamating or demerged company as if the transfer has not taken place.

(8) In this section, "mineral oil" includes petroleum and natural gas.

54.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Special provision for deductions in the case of business for prospecting, etc., for mineral oil.

42. (1) For the purpose of computing the profits or gains of any business consisting of the prospecting for or extraction or production of mineral oils in relation to which the Central Government has entered into an agreement with any person for the association or participation of the Central Government or any person authorised by it in such business (which agreement has been laid on the Table of each House of Parliament), there shall be made in lieu of, or in addition to, the allowances admissible under this Act, such allowances as are specified in the agreement in relation—

(a) to expenditure by way of infructuous or abortive exploration expenses in respect of any area surrendered prior to the beginning of commercial production by the assessee ;

(b) after the beginning of commercial production, to expenditure incurred by the assessee, whether before or after such commercial production, in respect of drilling or exploration activities or services or in respect of physical assets used in that connection, except assets on which allowance for depreciation is admissible under section 32 :

Provided that in relation to any agreement entered into after the 31st day of March, 1981, this clause shall have effect subject to the modification that the words and figures "except assets on which allowance for depreciation is admissible under section 32" had been omitted; and

(c) to the depletion of mineral oil in the mining area in respect of the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which commercial production is begun and for such succeeding year or years as may be specified in the agreement; and such allowances shall be computed and made in the manner specified in the agreement, the other provisions of this Act being deemed for this purpose to have been modified to the extent necessary to give effect to the terms of the agreement.

(2) Where the business of the assessee consisting of the prospecting for or extraction or production of petroleum and natural gas is transferred wholly or partly or any interest in such business is transferred in accordance with the agreement referred to in sub-section (1), subject to the provisions of the said agreement and where the proceeds of the transfer (so far as they consist of capital sums)—

(a) are less than the expenditure incurred remaining unallowed, a deduction equal to such expenditure remaining unallowed, as reduced by the proceeds of transfer, shall be allowed in respect of the previous year in which such business or interest, as the case may be, is transferred;

(b) exceed the amount of the expenditure incurred remaining unallowed, so much of the excess as does not exceed the difference between the expenditure incurred in connection with the business or to obtain interest therein and the amount of such expenditure remaining unallowed, shall be chargeable to income-tax as profits and gains of the business in the previous year in which the business or interest therein, whether wholly or partly, had been transferred

Provided that in a case where the provisions of this clause do not apply, the deduction to be allowed for expenditure incurred remaining unallowed shall be arrived at by subtracting the proceeds of transfer (so far as they consist of capital sums) from the expenditure remaining unallowed.

Explanation.—Where the business or interest in such business is transferred in a previous year in which such business carried on by the assessee is no longer in existence, the provisions of this clause shall apply as if the business is in existence in that previous year;

(c) are not less than the amount of the expenditure incurred remaining unallowed, no deduction for such expenditure shall be allowed in respect of the previous year in which the business or interest in such business is transferred or in respect of any subsequent year or years:

Provided that where in a scheme of amalgamation or demerger, the amalgamating or the demerged company sells or otherwise transfers the business to the amalgamated or the resulting company (being an Indian company), the provisions of this sub-section—

(i) shall not apply in the case of the amalgamating or the demerged company; and

(ii) shall, as far as may be, apply to the amalgamated or the resulting company as they would have applied to the amalgamating or the demerged company if the latter had not transferred the business or interest in the business.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "mineral oil" includes petroleum and natural gas.

54.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 54 of the Bill provides for deduction of certain capital expenditure expenses incurred in business of prospecting for mineral oils. The clause corresponds to section 42 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

54.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Clause 54(8) may be deleted as the term ‘mineral oil’ is already defined in section 66(13). The definition in section 66(13) is same.

54.5 Examination by the Committee:

On the issue of deletion of Clause 54(8), the Ministry in their reply has stated that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. The term "mineral oil" has been defined in clause 54(8) as well as in clause 66(13). It may be deleted from one of the clauses’.

54.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

Upon examination, the Committee note that the term 'mineral oil' is already defined in section 66(13) and is an unnecessary repetition in Clause 54 and hence recommend that Clause 54(8) may be deleted.

Apart from the above recommendation, the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modification.

Clause No.& Title:

55. Insurance business.

55.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

55. Irrespective of anything to the contrary contained in the provisions of this Act for computing income under the head “Income from house property”, “Capital gains” or “Income from other sources”, or in section 390(5) and (6), or in sections 26 to 54, the profits and gains of any business of insurance, including any such business carried on by a mutual insurance company or by a co-operative society, shall be computed as per the provisions of Schedule XIV.

55.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Insurance business.

44. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of income chargeable under the head "Interest on securities", "Income from house property", "Capital gains" or "Income from other sources", or in section 199 or in sections 28 to 43B, the profits and gains of any business of insurance, including any such business carried on by a mutual insurance company or by a co-operative society, shall be computed in accordance with the rules contained in the First Schedule.

55.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 55 of the Bill provides for the manner of computation of profits or gains in cases of insurance business. The clause corresponds to section 44 of the Act. The provisions related to the computation of profits or gains in insurance business are mentioned in Schedule XIV of the Bill which is a corresponding schedule for Schedule XIV of the Act. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

55.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- We would suggest amendments under the provisions of New Tax Bill, for claiming deduction of IBNR (incurred but not reported (IBNR) claims Reserve) which are certified by Appointed Actuary by introducing separate adjustment under schedule XIV. It is suggested to include Provision for claims incurred but not reported (IBNR) in clause (d) of Part B of Schedule XIV of New Income-Tax Bill, 2025 as under:

"such amount carried over to reserve for unexpired risk and Provision for claims IBNR shall be allowed as deduction."

The incurred but not reported (IBNR) claims reserve shall be determined using appropriate actuarial principles and methods and shall be certified by the Appointed Actuary. The Appointed Actuary shall estimate IBNR on both net of reinsurance and gross of reinsurance basis. The Appointed Actuary shall estimate the provision for IBNR for each year of occurrence and the figures shall be aggregated to arrive at the total amount to be provided The methodology to determine the liability is also certified by the Actuary in accordance with guidelines and norms issued by the Institute of Actuaries of India and Insurance Regulatory And Development Authority of India.

- Necessary modification to the Bill may be considered towards either dropping of the said provision or make only Section 34 (2) (a) of Income-Tax Bill 2025 (which reads as below), applicable to life insurance industry: "an expenditure incurred for any purpose which is an offence or which is prohibited by law."

  Making the section effective on life insurance industry, may create confusion and avoidable interpretations with scope for discretionary interpretations by the Assessing Officer to question different items of expenditure and the presumptive rate of tax for life insurance business may dilute its relevance. This may also give rise to unnecessary & avoidable litigations. Further, Expenses of Management of life insurance companies are governed by the IRDAI Regulations, issued from time to time, which is considered for calculation of actuarial surplus. In view of this, any adjustment in actuarial surplus, during assessment, will impact bonus already paid to the policyholders. In view of the detailed provisions of IRDAI dealing with expense of management the scope of this provision is requested to be limited to as suggested.

55.5 Examination by the Committee:

55.5.1 With regard to the suggestion seeking to modify the Rule 2(2) of schedule XIV whereby certain disallowed expenses were regarded as income of insurance companies, the Ministry in their response furnished, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Life insurance companies were debiting huge amount of bogus expenses under the garb of advertising/Marketing/Brand Promotion expenses etc. to entitites being Middle Layer Business Entities (MLBEs) which were searched by the Income-tax Directorate of Investigation. Despite this, the life insurance companies have escaped Income-Tax scrutiny of its income by taking shelter of the provisions of the Section 44 of the Act, which prohibits disallowances under section 28 to 43B of the Act. The juidicial pronouncements are mostly in favor of life insurance companies due to restriction imposed by the provisions of Section 44 of the Act. Accordingly, Rule 2 of the first schedule of the Act (corresponding to Rule 2(2) of Schedule XIV of the Bill) was amended vide Finance Act 2024 to provide that any expenditure not admissible under the provisions of section 37 for computing the profits and gains of a business shall be added back to the profits and gains of life insurance business'.

55.5.2 And on the issue pertaining to IBNR, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion seeks deduction for Provision for claims incurred but not reported (IBNR) for insurance business. The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. IBNR claims is the amount owed by an insurer to all valid claimants who have had a covered loss but have not yet reported it. Since the insurer knows neither how many of these losses have occurred, nor the severity of each loss, IBNR is necessarily an estimate. Since the IBNR is not an ascertained liability, its deduction would result in undue deferment of taxes'.

55.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough deliberation and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance find the provisions of the proposed Clause 55 to be acceptable as it is without any modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

56. Special provision in case of interest income of specified financial institutions.

56.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

Special provision in case of income of public financial institutions, [23][] etc.

43D. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other provision of this Act,—

(a) in the case of a public financial institution or a scheduled bank or a cooperative bank other than a primary agricultural credit society or a primary co-operative agricultural and rural development bank or a State financial corporation or a State industrial investment corporation or [24][such class of non-banking financial companies as may be notified by the Central Government in the Official Gazette in this behalf], the income by way of interest in relation to such categories of bad or doubtful debts as may be prescribed having regard to the guidelines issued by the Reserve Bank of India in relation to such debts; shall be chargeable to tax in the previous year in which it is credited by the public financial institution or the scheduled bank or a co-operative bank other than a primary agricultural credit society or a primary co-operative agricultural and rural development bank or the State financial corporation or the State industrial investment corporation or [24][such class of non-banking financial companies as may be notified by the Central Government in the Official Gazette in this behalf,] [26][] to its profit and loss account for that year or, as the case may be, in which it is actually received by that institution or bank or corporation or company, whichever is earlier.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

(b) [25][]

(c) "public financial institution" shall have the meaning assigned to it in section 4A of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956);

(d) "scheduled bank" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (ii) of the Explanation to clause (viia) of sub-section (1) of section 36;

(e) "State financial corporation" means a financial corporation established under section 3 or section 3A or an institution notified under section 46 of the State Financial Corporations Act, 1951 (63 of 1951);

(f) "State industrial investment corporation" means a Government company within the meaning of section 617 of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956), engaged in the business of providing long-term finance for industrial projects;

(g) "co-operative bank", "primary agricultural credit society" and "primary co-operative agricultural and rural development bank" shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in the Explanation to sub-section (4) of section 80P;

[27][(h) the expression "non-banking financial company" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (vii) of the Explanation to clause (viia) of sub-section (1) of section 36.]

56.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 56 of the Bill provides for computation of interest income of specified financial institutions. The clause corresponds to section 43D of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

56.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 56 is the new section in the ITB, 2025 corresponding to the provisions of section 43D in the existing Act. It is recommended that the term 'bad and doubtful debts' in section 56(2)(b) should be reworded as under: Existing definition in section 56(2)(b) of ITB, 2025(b) "bad or doubtful debts" shall be such categories of debts, as prescribed, having regard to the guidelines issued in relation to such debts by the Reserve Bank of India. Proposed definition in section 56(2)(b) of ITB, 2025(b) "bad or doubtful debts" shall be such categories of debts, as prescribed, by the Reserve Bank of India, from time to time. Alternatively, in the new Income-tax Rules to be prescribed, suitable amendment should be made to provide that the category for deciding NPA should be aligned with that of RBI regulations/guidelines so that interest on NPA beyond 90 days is taxed only on receipt basis as per RBI guidelines. Thus, income recognition norm on NPA in the new Income-tax Rules should be aligned with the guidelines of the RBI.

56.5 Examination by the Committee:

56.5.1 With regard to the suggestion seeking to provide that the category of bad and doubtful debts under clause 56 [s.43D of Act] of the Bill may be redefined as "such categories of debts, as prescribed by the Reserve Bank of India from time to time" instead of "such categories of debts as may be prescribed having regard to the guidelines issued by the Reserve Bank of India in relation of such debts", the Ministry in their response furnished that,

'The suggestion is in the nature of policy. Clause 56 of the Bill provides that the Revenue can prescribe the categories of debts for income recognition on NPA having regard to the guidelines issued by the RBI. Rule 6EA of Income-Tax Rules has prescribed such categories of debts after considering the guidelines issued by the RBI in this regard. The items having significant impact on income recognition and taxes have to be provided in the Income-Tax law. The IT law cannot make a direct reference to RBI guidelines. The suggestion is not feasible. Regarding aligning with the requirement of 90 days in RBI guidelines for NPA (i.e. if interest is not received for 90 days, the debt becomes NPA; Under IT law - it becomes bad & doubtful in 180 days), 90 days is too short a time to recognise a debt as bad and doubtful. The suggestion is not feasible'.

56.5.2 The Committee during its sitting held on 16.06.2025 enquired about the practical benefit of maintaining a different duration i.e. 180 days for Income-Tax in place of the 90 days with respect to NPAs as prescribed by RBI i.e. the rationale for not aligning the Acts was sought to which the Secretary, Department of Revenue stated:

> "Sir, I can understand what the Committee is saying. The difference is that this is RBI's guideline, which may also undergo a change. So, RBI has categories of loans which are going bad, that is, Special Mention Accounts - 1, 2, 3, and then finally, above 90 days, they call it as a non performing asset. The Special Mention Accounts start from 30 days. SMA-1 is 30 days, SMA-2 is 60 days, SMA-3 is 90 days, and above 90, it becomes NPA. This is the guideline of RBI. Our Act does not say that we necessarily will differ. All that it is keeping is a freedom. For us, we say: 'Bad or doubtful debts shall be such categories of debt as prescribed, having regard to guidelines issued in this regard by Reserve Bank of India.' What they are saying is, bad and doubtful debts will be whatever RBI decides".

56.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough deliberation and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance find the provisions of the proposed Clause 56 to be acceptable as it is without any modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

57. Revenue recognition for construction and service contracts

57.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

57. (1) The profits and gains arising from a construction contract or a contract for providing services shall be determined on the basis of percentage of completion method, as per the income computation and disclosure standards notified under section 276(2).

(2) The profits and gains arising from a contract for providing services under sub-section (1) shall be determined—

(a) on the basis of project completion method, if the duration of such contract is not more than ninety days;

(b) on the basis ofstraight line method, if the contract involves indeterminate number of acts over a specified period of time.

(3) For the purposes of percentage of completion method, project completion method or straight line method under this section,—

(a) the contract revenue shall include retention money;

(b) the contract costs shall not be reduced by any incidental income in the nature of interest, dividends or capital gains.

57.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Computation of income from construction and service contracts.

43CB. (1) The profits and gains arising from a construction contract or a contract for providing services shall be determined on the basis of percentage of completion method in accordance with the income computation and disclosure standards notified under sub-section (2) of section 145:

Provided that profits and gains arising from a contract for providing services,—

(i) with duration of not more than ninety days shall be determined on the basis of project completion method;

(ii) involving indeterminate number of acts over a specific period of time shall be determined on the basis ofstraight line method.

(2) For the purposes of percentage of completion method, project completion method or straight line method referred to in sub-section (1)—

(i) the contract revenue shall include retention money;

(ii) the contract costs shall not be reduced by any incidental income in the nature of interest, dividends or capital gains.

57.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 57 of the Bill provides for revenue recognition for construction and service contracts. The clause corresponds to section 43CB of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

57.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Sub-clause 2 of clause 57, is providing for certain exceptions with respect to Sub-clause 1 of clause 57. However, both clauses are appearing as independent clauses. Language can be suitably modified to avoid any potential ambiguity.

57.5 Examination by the Committee:

Consequent to suggestion received to modify language of Clause 57 to avoid any potential ambiguity, the Ministry stated that, 'For better clarity and to avoid possible litigation, the suggestion is acceptable. The wordings of clause 57 is required to be modified.'

Chairperson, National Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA) during the sitting held on 17.04.2025 deposed the following with regard to the revenue recognition for construction contracts which is proposed in Clause 57 (1) to (4) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 stated : "The second one is with regard to the revenue recognition for construction contracts which is proposed in Clause 57 (1) to (4) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025. Again, in this, sub-clause (1) is providing for the construction contracts, how the income is to be recognised. However, Clause 57 (2) is providing for some exemptions. So, in case both of them can be put together, then it will do away with any ambiguity or any problems in terms of interpretation."

57.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

With the objective of enhancing clarity and avoiding potential litigation, the Committee recommend that the language of the Clause be suitably modified. Sub-clause (2) of Clause 57 provides certain exceptions to Sub-clause (1) of the same Clause; however, both sub-clauses currently appear as independent provisions, which may give rise to ambiguity.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

58.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 58 of the Bill provides for special provision for computing profits and gains of business of profession on presumptive basis in case of certain residents. The clause corresponds to section 44AD, 44ADA and 44AE of the Act. Under the current provisions of the Act, residents earning income from business (Section 44AD), profession (Section 44ADA), and the business of plying, hiring, or leasing goods carriages (Section 44AE) are allowed a simplified taxation regime. In the proposed Income-Tax Bill 2025, an effort has been made to consolidate all these identical presumptive taxation schemes into one section (Section 58), while adopting simplified language without suggesting any policy changes. The provisions are presented in a tabular format to improve readability and reduce ambiguity. Common eligibility conditions are listed as sub-sections below the table. Further, the redundant provision of Section 44AE(6) of the Act have been removed. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

58.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- If the turnover of an Assessee does not exceed an amount of Rs. 5 crores (Rs. 10 crores in special cases) then the assessee can opt for this section showing the profit as certain percentage of turnover without maintaining books of accounts. As per the revised definition of Micro enterprises, the turnover is enhanced up to Rs.10 crore. Hence, enhancing limit of turnover under this clause will help a large segment of Micro Enterprises. This will ensure ease of doing business for this segment which grapples with financial challenges and manages with a very thin margin. This will encourage Digital Transactions in the long run.

- With respect to 58(2)(1)-Total turnover or gross receipts of business or profession during tax year
  (a) increase it to 4 Crores
  (b) increase it to 5 Crores
  Considering the Factor of Escalation, it may kindly be enhanced.

- With respect to 58(2)
  Mentioning of Turnover (for Business, Profession, Commission Agent) be clearly defined. Currently it lacks clarity to determine the turnover. More clarity and precision in these definitions is requested.

- With respect to 58(2), Table Sl No. 1 Column E- 'Realised' is not used in the IT Act, 1961. Further, using 'Realised' would give the impression that percentage should be computed only on amount realised and outstanding amount should not be considered.
  Hence, Proposed wording: (A) (i) 6% of total turnover or gross receipts realised in specified banking or online mode; and (ii) 8% of total turnover or gross receipts realised in any mode other than specified banking or online mode; or (B) profit claimed to have been actually earned, whichever is higher.

- With respect to 58(2), Table Sl No. 2 Column E-The current provision in IT Bill, 2025 does not specify Rs. 1,000 is for what period. Hence, Proposed wording to convey the correct meaning:
  (a) The aggregate of income from goods carriage:— (i) being a heavy goods vehicle, calculated at the rate of ₹1,000 per ton of gross vehicle weight or unladen weight for each vehicle, for every month or part of a month during which the heavy goods vehicle is owned by the assessee; or

- Proposed wording with respect to 58(4): (4) Any loss, allowance or deduction allowable under ~~the~~ provisions of sections 28 to 52 of this Act, shall not be allowed against the income computed in the manner specified in sub-section (1).
  The proposed changes brings the provisions in line with the provisions of IT Act, 1961. Since 8%/6% were deemed as profits, the objective of this provision was to ensure that double deduction is not granted for expenses covered under section 30 to 38 of the IT Act, 1961. However, proposed provision in the IT Bill, 2025 goes beyond that and restricts allowability of all loss, allowance or deduction. Thereby, even set-off of brought forward loss or current year loss would get restricted.

- First Proviso to section 44AD provides for concessional rate of 6% of total turnover or gross receipts received by account payee cheques or demand drafts, etc during the previous year or before the due date for filing of the return under section 139(1) in respect of that year. Similar extension for payments in specified modes after the tax year but before the due date for filing of return requires to be introduced in Clause 58 of the IT Bill. This modification is required to bring the new provision in line with the existing provisions.

- With respect to 58(7), it is suggested to reduce restriction period to 2 years. This allows businesses to switch back based on economic conditions, making taxation more flexible.

- Total turnover of Gross receipts in PY does not exceed ₹50.00 lakhs. Where the amount or aggregate amounts received during the PY in cash does not exceed 5% of the total turnover or gross receipt limit shall be ₹1.00 Crore. Service-oriented businesses are growing, and many professionals exceed the ₹50.00 lakh limit. This change will encourage tax compliance.

- Introduce new sub-clause if entire (100%) of the receipts are digital transactions then presumptive income at 5% This will further promote digital payments and reduce tax burdens for compliant businesses.

- Allow presumptive taxation for each qualifying business separately. This ensures fair treatment and prevents unnecessary disputes with tax authorities.

- The phrase 'during the previous year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 139 in respect of that previous year' is missing. Hence it is suggested that the taxpayer should receive the consideration on or before 31 March which may not be possible. The provisions of new Bill may be modified accordingly to align it with the provisions of old Act to avoid any litigation.

- Section 44DA of the Act provides that income by way of royalty or fees for technical services received by a non-resident carrying on business in India through a permanent establishment or performing services from a fixed place of profession situated therein shall be "computed" under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" in accordance with the provisions of this Act. Clause 59(1) of the Bill which contains similar provisions states that the income in the nature of royalty or fees for technical services received by a non-resident during a tax year, shall be "charged" to income-tax under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession". The wordings of Clause 58(1) needs to be changed to reflect the said clause provides for computing profits and is not a charging provision.

58.5 Examination by the Committee:

58.5.1 Officials of M/o MSME during the sitting held on 25.04.2025 stated the following with regard to Section 58-

“Section 58 is about the presumptive taxation scheme and here, again, the amount that has been mentioned is not exceeding Rs. 2 crore. Our request is this. If we mention Rs. 5 crore, and in special cases where the turnover is mentioned as Rs. 3 crore in the Income-Tax Bill, and if that can be enhanced to Rs. 10 crore, then, we will be aligning both the Act and the Bill. The Income-Tax Bill can be aligned completely with the MSMED Act, and in that way, we will be completely covering all the micro enterprises because their turnover is up to Rs. 10 crore”.

58.5.2 On the above issue, the Ministry in their replies furnished that , ‘The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025’.

58.5.3 On the issue with respect to 58(2) mentioning of Turnover (for Business, Profession, Commission Agent) be clearly defined, the Ministry in their reply has stated, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. The clauses 58(2) and 62(2) are to be aligned with existing provisions of the Act to remove any ambiguity’.

58.5.4 With respect to rewording of 58(2) Table Sl No 1 Column E, the Ministry stated that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. To avoid any misinterpretation the word "realised" is to be replaced in Col E of Sr. No. 1 of table below clause 58(2) of the Bill’.

58.5.5 With respect to rewording of 58(2) Table Sl No 2 Column E, the Ministry furnished that, ‘It is an inadvertent error. The period "for every month or part of a month during which the vehicle is owned by the assessee during the tax year" is to be added in Col E of Sr. No. 2 of table below clause 58(2) of the Bill’.

58.5.6 With regard to introduction of extension for payments in specified modes after the tax year but before the due date for filing of return, the Ministry furnished that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. The phrase " during the tax year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 263 in respect of that tax year" is to be added in column E of sr. no. 1 of table below clause 58’.

58.5.7 With regard to the suggestion seeking allowance of losses and deductions against presumptive income, the Ministry stated that, ‘The presumptive income is only a small fraction of the total receipts. For retail business, it is only 8% or 6% of the receipts. There are certain presumptive sections where losses are not allowed. With presumptive, there is no requirement of maintaining books of accounts. Therefore, claiming losses which can only be derived from books is an anamoly. Also, for consolidation and rationalisation, the losses and deductions are not allowed in the Bill. The amendments have been rightly made. Therefore, the suggestion is not feasible'.

Further, the Committee deliberated on the issue of presumptive tax having a disruptive effect on the businesses during the siting held on 05.06.2025, to which Secretary, Department of Revenue stated that:

> "…we will do one thing, because there might be a tax implication, because we have taken a stand that policy changes we are not proposing here, so, we will just review this formulation that while doing simplification have we ended up creating a situation where tax policy itself is getting revisited. We will examine and when I said we will send revised comments…"

58.5.8 And in the post evidence replies, the Ministry furnished that, 'The provisions related to the Presumptive taxation scheme for both residents and non-residents have been rationalized from the Act to the Bill. The tax rates and threshold levels have been kept the same in the Bill as was in the Act. The provisions related to set off and deductions allowed to such eligible businesses in the Bill and the in the Act have been compared as below:

Existing provisions of the Act (for residents)

Section	Deduction on Depreciation	Other deductions	Carry forward and set off of losses	Claim of Profit lower than the presumptive rate	Applicability of provisions of sec 44AB	Applicability of provisions of sec 44AA
44AD	Deemed to have been actually allowed	Deductions u/s 30 to 38 is deemed to have been allowed	No such provision	Allowed on maintenance and audit of books	Do not apply where profit declared is as per presumptive scheme	Apply where provisions of 44AD(4) are applicable
44ADA	Deemed to have been actually allowed	Deductions u/s 30 to 38 is deemed to have been allowed	No such provision	Allowed on maintenance and audit of books	Do not apply where profit declared is as per presumptive scheme	No such provision

44AE	Deemed to have been actually allowed	Deductions u/s 30 to 38 is deemed to have been allowed	No such provision	Allowed on maintenance and audit of books	No such provision	Apply where income is lower than presumptive scheme

Proposed provision in the Bill

- Any loss, allowance or deduction allowable under the provisions of this Act, shall not be allowed against income computed in the manner specified in sub-section (2).
- The provisions of the Bill, do not allow any deduction or losses to the assessee for the income computed as per presumptive scheme. As per the provisions of the Bill, assessee can not claim deduction under Chapter-VIA of the Act, as no deduction is allowed against the income computed under presumptive scheme.
- The new provisions do not allow set off of losses from any other head of income or from any other business with its presumptive income.

Rationale:

For non-allowance of deduction: The presumptive income is only a small fraction of the total receipts. For retail business, it is only 8% or 6% of the receipts. Income of 8%/6% will translate into effective tax rate of 2.4%/1.8% (when taxed at maximum rate of 30%). So, a person having turnover of say Rs. 10 lakhs, will only pay taxes of Rs. 24,000/18,000. Thus, a substantial relief has already been provided to the assessee by way of presumptive scheme wherein a small proportion of total turnover is deemed as income. In the new tax regime there will be no tax on the income upto Rs. 12 lakhs on account of rebate. So, the assessee may not even avail any deduction under Chapter VI-A. Also, it has been found that many times the assessee are claiming deductions wrongly without making actual investment/expenditure. Removal of deductions is also in line with the intent of the Government to provide a simple tax regime without any specific deductions/exemptions.

For non-allowance of set off of losses: If assessee is claiming that it has loss from any other business, then computation of such loss will only be possible if assessee is maintaining books of accounts and getting these audited. If assessee is maintaining books of accounts for one of the business carried on by it, it can also maintain books of accounts for the business for which income is offered under the presumptive scheme.

Proposed provision in the Bill

- Any loss, allowance or deduction allowable under the provisions of this Act, shall not be allowed against income computed in the manner specified in sub-section (2).

- All the assessee, except for 44BBD, can claim lower profit on maintenance and audit of books of accounts.
- Except for 44BBD, where profit declared is as per presumptive scheme, the requirement of audit will not be there for such companies.
- Except for 44BBD, maintenance of books of accounts is applicable where income is lower than deemed profit under presumptive scheme.

The provisions related to set off and deductions have been made uniform throughout the presumptive taxation scheme so as to rationalise and uniformise them'.

58.5.9 On the suggestion seeking for reduction in the years (from 5 years to 2 years) for which assessee can't take benefit of presumptive scheme under certain conditions, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The period of five years was introduced as anti abuse measure to discourage the taxpayers to switch between presumptive scheme and regular scheme in order to reduce its tax liability'. The Committee during the sitting deliberated upon its disruptive effect on account of a volatile economy to which the Ministry agreed to send a note which further states that, 'The fundamental premise behind keeping a lock-in period of 5 years for presumptive taxation scheme is that it is a special scheme for small traders/businessman so as to reduce their compliance burden. The lock-in period of 5 years has been kept to encourage participation in this scheme for a reasonable period of time and not to misuse it. This provision has been kept to prevent the misuse of presumptive scheme and to reduce the revenue leakage which is possible if taxpayers could flip between presumptive and regular schemes strategically to reduce tax liability (e.g., going out of presumptive scheme when there is loss and availing presumptive scheme when there is income as per books much beyond the presumptive rate)'.

58.5.10 On the suggestion seeking for increase in turnover limit for eligibility of presumptive taxation scheme for business (presently 2Cr./ 3 Cr) the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The turnover limit has already been increased from two crore rupees to three crore rupees where cash receipts are less than 5%. The provision is meant for small taxpayers so that they do not have to go through the rigors of maintaining books of accounts. As the volume of business increases, the taxpayer should maintain books of accounts and show real profits'.

58.5.11 On the suggestion seeking for increase in turnover limit for eligibility of presumptive taxation scheme for profession (presently 50 lakh/ 75 lakh), the Ministry stated that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The limit of gross receipts has been increased to Rs. 75 lakhs where the amount received during the year in cash is not more than five percent of gross receipts. The provision is meant for small taxpayers so that they do not have to go through the rigors of maintaining books of accounts. As the volume of business increases, the taxpayer should maintain books of accounts and show real profits’.

58.5.12 Subsequent to the suggestion seeking for decrease in the taxation rate under presumptive taxation scheme, the Ministry furnished, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The rate of 8% is already low. Further to promote digital transactions, the presumptive rate of 6% has already been provided where the amount received during the year in cash is not more than five percent of total turnover or gross receipts. Further tax rates and slabs have also been considerably liberalised by the Finance Act 2025. The suggestion is not feasible’.

58.5.13 On the subject to allow presumptive taxation for each qualifying business separately, the Ministry furnished, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. Allowing presumptive taxation for each business separately will create further problems in terms of classification of business, rate of profit which will also make administration complex. The present provision allows a single scheme for all the business (except commission income etc.) which is easier in terms of compliance for taxpayers.

58.5.14 On the issue of the phrase ‘during the previous year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 139 in respect of that previous year’ being missing, the Ministry stated that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. The phrase " during the tax year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 263 in respect of that tax year" is to be added in column E of sr. no. 1 of table below clause 58’.

58.5.15 With regard to changing wordings of Clause 58(1) to reflect that the clause provides for computing profits and is not a charging provision, the Ministry stated the following in their response, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion is accepted as the current provision of the Clause has become a charging section due to use of the word "charged" which shall be "computed" as the current section determines the computation of the income’.

58.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that there is a need for Clause 58(2) to be aligned with existing provisions of the Act to remove any ambiguity with respect to clearly defining the turnover (for Business, Profession, Commission Agent) in the Clause and hence, recommend the same. Subsequently, a similar alignment needs to be accordingly done in Clause 62(2) as well.

The Committee further recommend that to avoid any misinterpretation the word "realised" should not be used in column E of Sr. No. 1 of table below clause 58(2) of the Bill as the word 'realised' has not been used in the IT Act, 1961. Further, the Committee believe that using the word 'realised' would give the impression that percentage should be computed only on amount realised and outstanding amount should not be considered.

The Committee also recommend that the phrase "for every month or part of a month during which the vehicle is owned by the assessee during the tax year" be added in column E of Sr. No. 2 of table below clause 58(2) of the Bill as the current provision in IT Bill, 2025 does not specify Rs. 1,000 is for what period. Hence, the Committee recommend the below wording to convey the correct meaning:

(a) The aggregate of income from goods carriage: — (i) being a heavy goods vehicle, calculated at the rate of ₹1,000 per ton of gross vehicle weight or unladen weight for each vehicle, for every month or part of a month during which the heavy goods vehicle is owned by the assessee; or

And with regard to introduction of extension for payments in specified modes after the tax year but before the due date for filing of return, the Committee recommend that the phrase "during the tax year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 263 in respect of that tax year" be added in column E of sr. no. 1 of table below clause 58 to align the Bill with the provisions of 1961 Act to avoid any litigation.

The Committee also recommend changing wordings of Clause 58(1) to reflect that the clause provides for computing profits and is not a charging provision as the Committee feel that current provision of the Clause has become a charging section due to use of the word 'charged' and not 'computed' as the current section determines the computation of the income.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

59.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 59 of the Bill provides for chargeability of royalty and fee for technical services in hands of non-residents. The clause corresponds to section 44D of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause

59.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

61.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 61 of the Bill provides for special provision for computation of income on presumptive basis in respect of certain business activities of certain non-residents. The clause corresponds to section 44B, 44BBA, 44BB, 44BBB, 44BBC and 44BBD of the Act. Under the current provisions of the Act, non-residents earning income from certain business activities, such as operating ships or aircraft, exploring mineral oil, civil construction or power projects on a turnkey basis, and providing services related to the manufacturing of electronic goods, are allowed a simplified taxation regime. In the proposed Income-Tax Bill 2025, an effort has been made to consolidate these identical presumptive taxation schemes into one section (Section 61) in tabular format. The common eligibility conditions are listed as sub-sections below the table. Earlier the specified assessee u/s 44BB and u/s 44BBB had the option to declare profits and gains lower than the presumptive rates if they keep and maintain books of account and also get them audited. In order to rationalize and consolidate similar provisions, now it has been made applicable for all the specified assessees as was covered in Section 44B, 44BBA, and 44BBC as well. Earlier, no set off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation and brought forward losses was allowed for specified assessee u/s 44BB and u/s 44BBB. However, there are controversies regarding set off of brought forward unabsorbed depreciation and brought forward losses for assessee covered in Section 44B, 44BBA, and 44BBC. In order to rationalize the existing provisions and to reduce litigation, the Bill has provided in clause 61(4) that any loss, allowance or deduction allowable under this Act shall not be allowed against the income computed in the manner specified in sec 61(2). The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

61.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- To ensure effective implementation of provision on presumptive taxation and alignment with India’s electronics manufacturing policy framework, MeitY proposes that eligibility for benefits under this provision be provided to non-resident assesses providing services or technology or both in India, for the purposes of setting up an electronics manufacturing facility or in connection with manufacturing or producing electronic goods, article or thing in India. In essence, the aforesaid provision is a strategic enabler that complements MeitY's industrial policy by removing friction for global expertise to support domestic electronics manufacturing.

- Under the Bill, clause 61 deals with non-resident related presumptive provisions. It contains a similar set of provisions as compared to Section 44BBD proposed in the Bill. Clause 61 of the Bill does not provide an option to claim lower profit or gains to nonresidents providing services or technology in India, for the purpose of setting up an electronics manufacturing facility or in connection with manufacturing or producing electronic goods, article or thing in India. Option to claim lower profits to non-residents falling under other similar presumptive provisions such as providing service for prospecting, extraction, or production of mineral oils (earlier 44BB) and engaged in the business of civil construction or erection or testing or commissioning, of plant or machinery in connection with a turnkey power project (earlier 44BBB) is available.
  It is recommended to allow the non-residents providing services or technology in India, for the purpose of setting up an electronics manufacturing facility or in connection with manufacturing or producing electronic goods, article or thing in India, to claim lower profit or gains in order to align with the other presumptive provisions applicable to nonresidents. The PGBP computation currently includes both the amount paid or payable to the NR taxpayer and the amount received or receivable by the NR taxpayer, leading to double counting of income. To address this issue, it is recommended that the provision be amended to ensure that the amount is included only once, thereby preventing duplication.

- Sections 44B and 44BBA of the Act do not prohibit set off of any loss, allowance or deduction allowable under the provisions of the Act against the profits and gains from the concerned business computed on presumptive basis in the manner specified in those sections. However, section 61(4) of the Bill provides for disallowing such loss, allowance or deduction from the presumptive income under section 61(2). The restriction requires to be removed. It may be misinterpreted to deny setoff of loss from another business or income assessable under other heads of income. This modification is required to bring the new provision in line with the existing provisions. Clause 58 of the Bill deems profits and gains of eligible business on a presumptive basis and there is no justification for denying a set off of loss, allowance or deduction otherwise available under other provisions.
- -44BBD(1) requires non-resident taxpayers to provide services or technology "in India" for electronics manufacturing, raising questions about the inclusion of offshore services. Section 44BBD(1) and (2)(a) and (b) refer to provision of 'services or technology' by the non-resident to claim benefit. The absence of 'or both' may lead to an interpretation that S 44BBD excludes scenarios where composite services and technology are provided.

-Unlike various other presumptive tax provisions applicable to an NR (such as S 44B, 44BB, etc.), a taxpayer earning only income covered under S 44BBD is not excluded from applicability of minimum alternate tax (MAT) provisions u/s 115JB. To align with S 44BBD's objective of effective tax rate < 10% , it is recommended to amend S 115JB to exclude NRs covered by S 44BBD from MAT provisions.
- 44BBB of ITA 1961 (Sl No 4 of table in S 61 of ITB 2025) provide for presumptive taxation regime for NR taxpayers who are engaged in the business of civil construction or the business of erection of plant or machinery or testing or commissioning thereof, in connection with a turnkey power project approved by the Central Government. • The presumptive taxation regimes to NR taxpayers are introduced for the purpose of providing tax certainty, reducing litigation, enhancing ease of doing business and thereby to attract new investments in India. • Restricting the presumptive taxation to only EPC contracts in relation to power sector restricts the advantages associated with such regime to single sector : It is recommended to introduce presumptive taxation provisions to the NRs executing EPC contracts in all sectors, to provide tax certainty, reduce litigation and attract investments in India.

- A separate provision in clause or sub clause for Brokerage, commission, and E-commerce operator business may be added in this Bill / Act.

61.5 Examination by the Committee:

61.5.1 With respect to the issue to allow the non-residents providing services or technology in India, for the purpose of setting up an electronics manufacturing facility or in connection with manufacturing or producing electronic goods, article or thing in India, to claim lower profit or gains in order to align with the other presumptive provisions applicable to nonresidents the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.

61.5.2 On the proposal of MeITY that eligibility for benefits under this provision be provided to non resident assesses providing services or technology or both in India i.e. with respect to the addition of the words 'or both', the Committee sought clarification on the implication of addition of the words 'or both' to which it was replied by the representatives of Ministry of Law and Justice that 'there is no conflict'.

61.5.3 Furthermore, the Ministry in their submissions related to oral deposition held on 26.05.2025 on the issue of 'Presumptive taxation for Non-Residents' furnished that, 'The presumptive scheme allowed to non-residents in s. 44BBD is available on services and technology provided by the non-residents. In absence of the presumptive scheme, the receipts would have become taxable as royalty/FTS u/s 44DA or 115A. The rate of taxation for royalty & FTS u/s 115A would be 20%. In comparison, the rate of taxation u/s 44BBD comes to little less than 10% (25% of receipts are taken as profits and taxed @35%) Therefore, significant benefit has been allowed to non-residents by way of certainty and ease of compliance with a very reasonable rate of taxation. The provision has been inserted after detailed discussion with stakeholders including MeitY, the concerned Ministry. Therefore, there is no justification for allowing non-residents to make a claim for profits less than presumptive amount. Allowing to claim lower profit by keeping books of account may lead to abuse of the provision and defeat the very purpose of providing tax certainty, litigation minimisation and less compliance burden.

61.5.4 With regard to the suggestion for removal of restriction in section 61(4) of the Bill which provides for disallowing loss, allowance or deduction from the presumptive income under section 61(2), the Ministry in their reply furnished that, 'The suggestion seeks allowance of losses and deductions against presumptive income. The presumptive income is only a small fraction of the total receipts. For retail business, it is only 8% or 6% of the receipts. There are certain presumptive sections where losses are not allowed. With presumptive, there is no requirement of maintaining books of accounts. Therefore, claiming losses which can only be derived from books is an anomaly. Also, for consolidation and rationalisation, the losses and deductions are not allowed in the Bill. The amendments have been rightly made. Therefore, the suggestion is not feasible'.

61.5.5 With regard to the suggestion seeking inclusion of both services and technology in the provision of clause 61(2) [Table Si.No.6], the Ministry stated that, 'Generally 'or' is used so that both limbs shall qualify. On the contrary if 'and' is used provisions of either services or technology may be treated as disqualification for presumptive taxation. Therefore, there is no ambiguity'. Further on the suggestion seeking exclusion from MAT for presumptive incomes on ground that certain other presumptive incomes have been so excluded, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is noted for examination'. And with regard to the suggestion seeking expansion of presumptive tax provisions for contracts other than turnkey power project, the Ministry stated that, 'These suggestions are examined in detail at the time of budget exercise after detailed discussions with stakeholders. The suggestion is noted'.

61.5.6 Further, with regard to a separate provision for Brokerage, commission, and E-commerce operator business, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion calls for presumptive taxation to be provided for brokerage and commission agents. This suggestion is in the nature of policy. Provisions of presumptive scheme under cl 58 (sec 44AD /44ADA/44AE of the Act) cannot be extended to commission or brokerage income as no substantial expenses are incurred by assessee in earning such income. If presumptive scheme is extended to brokerage income, it will lead to a situation where tax of Rs. 2.4 is paid on brokerage income of Rs. 100 (30% of (8% of 100)). In reality brokerage income should be fully subjected to tax as there is hardly any expenditure in relation thereof. This will be an abuse of the provisions of presumptive taxation'.

61.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough deliberation upon the proposals and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance find the provisions of the proposed Clause 61 to be acceptable as it is without any modifications.

Clause No.& Title:

62. Maintenance of books of account

62.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

62. (1) (a) Any person carrying on specified profession; or

(b) any person carrying on, business; or any profession [not being a profession referred to in clause (a)] and satisfying the conditions referred to in sub-section (2); or

(c) any other person carrying on profession notified by the Board in this behalf, shall keep and maintain such books of account and other documents to enable the Assessing Officer to compute his total income under this Act.

(2) The conditions in respect of persons referred to in sub-section (1)(b) shall be the following:—

(a) where the income from business or profession exceeds one lakh and twenty thousand rupees or its total sales, turnover or gross receipts from such business or profession exceeds ten lakh rupees in any one of the three years immediately preceding the tax year; or

(b) where business or profession is newly set up in the tax year, the income from business or profession is likely to exceed one lakh and twenty thousand rupees or its total sales, turnover or gross receipts from such business or profession is likely to exceed ten lakh rupees during such tax year; or

(c) where during the tax year, the assessee, other than the assessee referred to in section 61(2)(Table: Sl. No. 6), has claimed income from business or profession to be lower than the deemed profits as referred to in section 58(2) or section 61(2); or

(d) in case of an individual or Hindu undivided family, clauses (a) and (b) shall be modified to the extent of income from such business or profession exceeding two lakh and fifty thousand rupees and its total sales, turnover or gross receipts from such business or profession exceeding two lakh and fifty thousand rupees.

(3) For the purposes of this section, the Board may prescribe—

(a) the books of account and other documents (including inventories, wherever necessary) to be kept and maintained;

(b) particulars to be contained therein;

(c) the form, manner and place at which they shall be kept and maintained; and

(d) the period for which such books of account and other documents are to be retained.

(4) In this section, “specified profession” means—

(a) legal, medical, engineering, architectural, accountancy, technical consultancy, interior decoration, information technology or company secretary; or

(b) any other profession, as notified by the Board.

62.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

44AA. (1) Every person carrying on legal, medical, engineering or architectural profession or the profession of accountancy or technical consultancy or interior decoration or any other profession as is notified by the Board in the Official Gazette shall keep and maintain such books of account and other documents as may enable the Assessing Officer to compute his total income in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(2) Every person carrying on business or profession [not being a profession referred to in sub-section (1)] shall,—

(i) if his income from business or profession exceeds one lakh twenty thousand rupees or his total sales, turnover or gross receipts, as the case may be, in business or profession exceed or exceeds ten lakh rupees in any one of the three years immediately preceding the previous year; or

(ii) where the business or profession is newly set up in any previous year, if his income from business or profession is likely to exceed one lakh twenty thousand rupees or his total sales, turnover or gross receipts, as the case may be, in business or profession are or is likely to exceed ten lakh rupees, during such previous year; or

(iii) where the profits and gains from the business are deemed to be the profits and gains of the assessee under section 44AE or section 44BB or section 44BBB, as the case may be, and the assessee has claimed his income to be lower than the profits or gains so deemed to be the profits and gains of his business, as the case may be, during such previous year; or

(iv) where the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 44AD are applicable in his case and his income exceeds the maximum amount which is not chargeable to income-tax in any previous year, keep and maintain such books of account and other documents as may enable the Assessing Officer to compute his total income in accordance with the provisions of this Act:

Provided that in the case of a person being an individual or a Hindu undivided family, the provisions of clause (i) and clause (ii) shall have effect, as if for the words "one lakh twenty thousand rupees", the words "two lakh fifty thousand rupees" had been substituted :

Provided further that in the case of a person being an individual or a Hindu undivided family, the provisions of clause (i) and clause (ii) shall have effect, as if for the words "ten lakh rupees", the words "twenty-five lakh rupees" had been substituted.

(3) The Board may, having regard to the nature of the business or profession carried on by any class of persons, prescribe, by rules, the books of account and other documents (including inventories, wherever necessary) to be kept and maintained under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), the particulars to be contained therein and the form and the manner in which and the place at which they shall be kept and maintained.

(4) Without prejudice to the provisions of sub-section (3), the Board may prescribe, by rules, the period for which the books of account and other documents to be kept and maintained under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall be retained.

62.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 62 of the Bill provides for maintenance of books of accounts. The clause corresponds to section 44AA of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (It is proposed to substitute two lakh and fifty thousand rupees (appearing second time in clause 62(2)(d))with twenty five lakh rupees in the clause)

62.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 44AA set a threshold of 'twenty-five lakh rupees' for the total sales, turnover, or gross receipts in the business or profession of individuals and Hindu Undivided Families (HUFs). However, clause 62(2)(d) lists the threshold as 'two lakh and fifty thousand rupees'. This seems to be an inadvertent error and should be corrected to align with the original threshold.

- Maintenance of accounts should be the basis of turnover irrespective of profits or gains. It will help during the assessment and easy of understanding the mandatory of maintenance of books of account.

- The word “One lakh and twenty thousand rupees” should be increase by “Two lakh and fifty thousand rupees” as well as the word “in any of the three years immediately preceding the tax year” should be deleted.

- Proposed sub-section 62(1)(c) provides ‘any other person carrying on profession notified by the Board in this section’. In sub-section (4), definition of ‘specified profession’ also it is stated “any other person, as notified by the Board”. Hence, section 62(1)(a) viz. “Any person carrying on specified profession” will include notified professions. Hence, it is suggested that 62(1)(c) be omitted. Alternatively, from subsection (4), clause (b) may be omitted.

62.5 Examination by the Committee:

62.5.1 With respect to listing the threshold as 'two lakh and fifty thousand rupees in clause 62(2)(d), the Ministry has accepted that, ‘The threshold limit for total sales, turnover or gross receipts u/s 44AA(2) is twenty five lakh rupees. However, inadvertently, the same has been changed to two lakh fifty thousand rupees. It is an inadvertent error. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is acceptable’.

62.5.2 With regard the suggestion to make the turnover as the criteria for maintenance of books of account, the Ministry has furnished that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The suggestion given is already taken care of in the present provision as it allows the assessees to determine it's eligibility for maintenance of books of account either based on turnover or on the profits or gains’.

62.5.3 With regard to the suggestion for omitting 62(1)(c), the Ministry has stated that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion given is acceptable as clause 62(1)(c) repeats the provision already mentioned in 62(4)(b)’.

62.5.4 On the suggestion seeking to increase limit of profit and decrease the applicable time for eligibility for maintenance of books of account, the Ministry stated that, ‘The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The threshold limit of Rs. 1.25 lakhs in general and Rs. 2.5 lakhs for individuals and HUF to reduce compliance for such small taxpayers. It cannot be extended all category of taxpayers. The word "in any of the three years immediately preceding the previous year" cannot be deleted as it provides sufficient time period to evaluate actual business condition’.

62.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that Clause 62(1)(c) just repeats the provision already mentioned in 62(4)(b) and thus, recommend that Clause 62(1)(c) be omitted.

The Committee further recommend that in Clause 62(2)(d), the threshold stated as "two lakh and fifty thousand rupees" be replaced with "twenty-five lakh rupees", since the threshold limit for total sales, turnover, or gross receipts under Section 44AA(2) of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, is twenty-five lakh rupees. Making this correction will align the Bill with the 1961 Act.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

Clause No.& Title:
63. Tax audit

63.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(5) In this section, “specified date” in relation to the accounts of the assessee of the tax year, means the date one month prior to the due date for furnishing the return of income under section 263(1).

63.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

44AB. Every person,—

(a) carrying on business shall, if his total sales, turnover or gross receipts, as the case may be, in business exceed or exceeds one crore rupees in any previous year :

(c) carrying on the business shall, if the profits and gains from the business are deemed to be the profits and gains of such person under section 44AE or section 44BB or section 44BBB, as the case may be, and he has

(d) carrying on the profession shall, if the profits and gains from the profession are deemed to be the profits and gains of such person under section 44ADA and he has claimed such income to be lower than the profits and gains so deemed to be the profits and gains of his profession and his income exceeds the maximum amount which is not chargeable to income-tax in any previous year; or

(e) carrying on the business shall, if the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 44AD are applicable in his case and his income exceeds the maximum amount which is not chargeable to income-tax in any previous year, get his accounts of such previous year audited by an accountant before the specified date and furnish by that date the report of such audit in the prescribed form duly signed and verified by such accountant and setting forth such particulars as may be prescribed :

[28-32][Provided that this section shall not apply to a person, who declares profits and gains for the previous year in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 44AD or sub-section (1) of section 44ADA:]

Provided further that this section shall not apply to the person, who derives income of the nature referred to in section 44B or section 44BBA, on and from the 1st day of April, 1985 or, as the case may be, the date on which the relevant section came into force, whichever is later :

Provided also that in a case where such person is required by or under any other law to get his accounts audited, it shall be sufficient compliance with the provisions of this section if such person gets the accounts of such business or profession audited under such law before the specified date and furnishes by that date the report of the audit as required under such other law and a further report by an accountant in the form prescribed under this section.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

(i) "accountant" shall have the same meaning as in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288;

(ii) "specified date", in relation to the accounts of the assessee of the previous year relevant to an assessment year, means date one month prior to the due date for furnishing the return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139.

63.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 63 of the Bill provides for tax audit and also provides for auditing of books account by specified accountant under certain conditions. The clause corresponds to section 44AB of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. Earlier the specified assessee u/s 44BB and u/s 44BBB had the option to declare profits and gains lower than the presumptive rates if they keep and maintain books of account and also get them audited. In order to rationalize and consolidate similar provisions, now it has been made applicable for all the specified assessees as was covered in Section 44B, 44BBA, and 44BBC as well. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. (Provisions of clause 63 are inadvertently made applicable to existing section 44BBD of the Act and the same needs to be corrected)

63.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Every person, carrying on the business or profession fulfilling the conditions specified in column B of the Table below, shall get his accounts of the tax year audited by a chartered accountant in practice or a cost accountant in practice, before the specified date. Cost accountants are adequately qualified to conduct the tax audit hence the cost accountants may be allowed for the same.

- 1)The term ‘Accounts’ can be replaced with the commonly used term ‘Financial Statements’. 2)Financial Statements can be defined as follows. a) Balance Sheet b) Statement of Profit and Loss c) Statement of Changes in equity (where required by the applicable Ind ASs or Accounting Standards) d) Statement of Cash Flows e) Notes comprising material accounting policy information or significant accounting policies and other explanatory information. 3) It may be considered to explicitly include mandatory provision for the Accountant performing the function of Auditor to comply with Standards on Auditing, Quality Control/Management, Ethical Standards including Independence Standards. 4) Prescriptions in Clause 515(3)(b) relates to eligibility and restrictions for an Accountant to be appointed as Auditor. Therefore, this part of the section can be considered to be relocated to clause 63 of the IT Bill 2025 which relates to the Audit of accounts of an Assessee.

1) The word ‘Accounts’ has not been defined in old Act and new bill. Hence, there is a possibility of it being subject to different interpretation. Some professionals may interpret it as audit of information furnished in the Form 3CD only.

2) There appears to be a need to explicitly clarify what are the statements and reports to be audited.
3) Audit of Financial Statements of the Assessee is a critical part of the Tax Audit under IT Bill 2025 and there are comprehensive set of Audit, Quality Management, Ethical and Independence Standards to be followed by the Auditors for audit of financial statements, in general.

- As per the revised definition of MSMEs, the turnover of Micro Enterprises increased to Rs.10 crore. In view of this, threshold limit of turnover under this provision of Rs. 1 crore may be revised to Rs. 5 crore. The change under Income-Tax bill will help a large segment of Micro Enterprises. This will ensure ease of doing business for this segment which grapples with financial challenges and manages with a very thin margin.

- With respect to 63(2)(b) following suggestions are proposed:

  (i) Exclude non-residents under presumptive scheme from maintaining books and tax audit compliance.
  (ii) Provide an option for nonresidents to declare lower income than presumptive amount, subject to maintenance of books and tax audit.
  (iii) The double counting error in ITB 2025 may be rectified by changing the formula to “25% of A or B, whichever is higher”.

- With respect to 63(1)-
  1. Either it should be applicable for the turnover above Rs. 10 crore or should be abolished.
  2. There should be single tax audit report and form should be designed in such a way that data and other information are useful in the assessment of Income-Tax return and GST return.
  3. Under the definition of Accountant, Cost Accountant should be included.
- Most clauses of Form 3CD are not applicable to life insurance companies due to overriding effect of Section 55 of Income-Tax Bill 2025, which governs how profits & gains of life insurance business is computed. Further, taxation aspect is already covered under the statutory audit of the life insurance companies. Hence, Life Insurance Companies may be exempted from Tax Audit.

- With respect to 63(1)(a) and considering the Factor of Escalation, it may kindly be increased to 15 Crores.

- With respect to 63(1)(b) and considering the Factor of Escalation, it may kindly be increased to 3 Crores.

- With regard to 63(1) Table Sl No 1:
  As per section 44AB of the IT Act, 1961, person whose turnover is less than 10 crores and cash receipts are less than 5%, are not liable to audit. The provisions as proposed do not exclude such persons from tax audit ambit. For example, person having turnover of Rs. 7.5 crores and 100% online is not covered by 1(a). Since turnover is more than Rs. 1 crores, such person will be liable to get the audit done as per provisions of (b). Words sales, turnover and gross receipts added to maintain consistency with IT Act, 1961 with the proposed provision as follows:
  1.Where the total sales, turnover or gross receipts from business or profession during the tax year of any person who– – (a) is carrying on business and at least 95% of aggregate of sales, turnover, gross all the receipts and payments from the business during the tax year are through specified banking or online mode, is more than ₹10,00,00,000; (b) is carrying on business and not covered under serial number 1, amount received for aggregate of sales, turnover, gross receipts or payments during the previous year, in cash, exceeds five per cent of the said amount, is more than ₹1,00,00,000; (c) is carrying on profession, is more than ₹50,00,000.

63.5 Examination by the Committee:

63.5.1 With regard to Cost accountants being adequately qualified to conduct the tax audit, the Ministry commented that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.

63.5.2 With respect to suggestions which have been given relating to definition of accounts and accountant regulations, the Ministry in their reply stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.

63.5.3 In their comments with respect to threshold limit of turnover under this provision of Rs. 1 crore being revised to Rs. 5 crore, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.
Officials of M/o MSME during the sitting held on 25.04.2025 deposed the following with regard to Section 63-
"Section 63 is actually talking about audit ceiling. Our request is that instead of Rs. 1 crore, which is mentioned in the Income-Tax Bill, it can be enhanced to Rs. 5 crore.

There are a couple of reasons for that. If we enhance it to Rs. 5 crore, then, most of the micro enterprises get covered. They will actually be covering 95 per cent of the micro enterprises. They have a very low turnover. This will also help in boosting the ease of doing business. So, this is one request from the Ministry of MSME".

63.5.4 With regard to excluding non-residents under presumptive scheme from maintaining books and tax audit compliance, the Ministry furnished that, 'Such non-residents are not allowed to claim lower profits than provided in Cl. 61(2) (Table:Sl. No. 6) corresponding to s. 44BBD in IT Act. Consequently, there is no requirement of maintaining books of account or getting them audited. Thus, the provision in Cl. 63(2)(b) which mandates audit for such non-residents is an inadvertent error which is to be corrected. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is acceptable on this account'.

63.5.5 On the issue of providing an option for non-residents to declare lower income than presumptive amount, subject to maintenance of books and tax audit, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.

63.5.6 With respect to the double counting error in ITB 2025 may be rectified by changing the formula to "25% of A or B, whichever is higher, the Ministry clarified in their comments that, 'The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025'.

63.5.7 On the suggestion seeking to increase or abolish audit limit of books of account, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The limit of turnover for tax audit has already been increased from one crore rupees to ten crore rupees where the amount received in cash or paid in cash does not exceed five percent of total turnover or total expenses respectively'.

63.5.8 With respect to suggestion seeking a single tax audit report, the Ministry stated that, 'There is already a single tax audit report.'

63.5.9 With regard to redrafting of 63(1) Table Sl No 1, the Ministry stated that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Clause 63 of the Bill is to be redrafted to align it with the provisions of the Act and to remove any ambiguity'.

63.5.10 On the suggestion seeking to increase audit limit of books of account, the Ministry furnished that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The limit of turnover for tax audit has already been increased from one crore rupees to ten crore rupees where the aggregate of amounts received in cash or paid in cash does not exceed five percent of total turnover or total expenses respectively'.

63.5.11 With respect to suggestion seeking to exempt life insurance companies from requirement of tax audit on the ground that statutory audit is already done and form 3CD is not largely relevant for such companies, the Ministry stated that, 'The suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. There is no change in the provisions of the Bill vis a vis Act. The tax audit is required to ensure that provisions of Income-Tax Act, 1961 have been followed by the taxpayers while computing its income. Statutory audit cannot be compared with tax audit as tax audit has its own specific requirements as against statutory audit which has more to do with the compliances with regard to Companies Act 2013'.

63.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, note that there is a need for redrafting of Clause 63(1) Table Sl. No. 1 as Section 44AB of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, exempts a person whose turnover is less than Rs. 10 crores and whose cash receipts are less than 5% from the requirement of tax audit. However, the provisions proposed in the Bill do not exclude such persons from the ambit of tax audit. Therefore, the Committee feel that redrafting is necessary to align the Bill with the 1961 Act and to remove any ambiguity.

The Committee further recommend modification in Clause 63(2)(b) as non-residents under presumptive scheme are excluded from maintaining books and tax audit compliance as such non-residents are not allowed to claim lower profits than provided in Cl. 61(2) (Table:Sl. No. 6) corresponding to s. 44BBD in IT Act, 1961 and thus there is no requirement of maintaining books of account or getting them audited. The Committee thus recommend that the provision in Cl. 63(2)(b) which mandates audit for such non-residents be accordingly corrected and modified.

Clause No.& Title:

64. Facilitating payments in electronic modes.

64.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

64. Any person carrying on business with total sales, turnover, or gross receipts exceeding fifty crore rupees in the preceding tax year shall provide facility for accepting payments through prescribed electronic methods, in addition to any other electronic payment methods, already offered.

64.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

269SU. Every person, carrying on business, shall provide facility for accepting payment through prescribed electronic modes, in addition to the facility for other electronic modes, of payment, if any, being provided by such person, if his total sales, turnover or gross receipts, as the case may be, in business exceeds fifty crore rupees during the immediately preceding previous year.

64.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 64 of the Bill provides for facilitating payments in electronic modes. The clause corresponds to section 269SU of the Act under Chapter XX-B (Requirement as to mode of acceptance, payment or repayment in certain cases to counteract evasion of tax). The same has been included under the Sub-Chapter of Profits and gains of business or profession as the provision creates an obligation on the person carrying on business. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

64.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Section 64 may be removed. Section 187 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 is on similar lines of section 269SU of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Since the requirement and condition of both the sections of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 i.e., sections 187 and 64 are the same, section 64 may be removed.

64.5 Examination by the Committee:

With regard to the suggestion which seeks to remove clause 64 as it is duplicate of clause 187 (providing for acceptance of payment through prescribed electronic modes) of the Bill, the Ministry agreed to the duplication and stated, ‘In order to avoid repetition of the same provision at two different places, section 64 will be omitted’.

64.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, upon examination, recommend that Clause 64 be omitted, as it duplicates the provisions of Clause 187, which provides for acceptance of payment through prescribed electronic modes. The Committee believe that omitting Clause 64 and retaining Clause 187 will ensure a more appropriate and coherent flow of content in the Bill.

shall be deemed to be the depreciation actually allowed under this Act.

66.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 66 of the Bill provides for interpretation of Chapter IV-D which deals with various definitions related to income under the head “Profit and gains of business or profession”. This clause includes some of the definitions of the Section 43 of the Act and the remaining definitions of the terms which are been used in more than one section in the chapter of Profits and Gains of business or profession. There are many provisions in the act to incentivise payment through an account payee cheque or an account payee bank draft or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode, as prescribed, e.g. in sections 44AD,44ADA. Similarly, there are provisions to disincentivise payment in violation of the above mode. To facilitate easier understanding, a new term is being coined to define such payments. Term “Specified Banking or Online Mode” has been defined in Section 66(36) to mean transaction by an account payee cheque or an account payee bank draft or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode, as prescribed. The provisions of the existing section has been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

66.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

- Ministry of MSME supports the inclusion of definition of Micro and Small Enterprises with a request to rephrase:
  (12) “micro enterprise” shall have the same meaning as notified under the provisions of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006.
  (34) “small enterprise” shall have the same meaning as notified under the provisions of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006.
  This will bring uniformity in defining “Micro” and “Small” Enterprises and help them, especially w.r.t. matters related to delayed payments.

- The definition of “commodity derivative” in Chapter VII of the Finance Act, 2013 may be reproduced here. "commodity derivative" means— (i) a contract for delivery of goods which is not a ready delivery contract; or (ii) a contract for differences which derives its value from prices or indices of prices— (A) of such underlying goods; or (B) of related services and rights, such as warehousing and freight; or (C) with reference to weather and similar events and activities, having a bearing on the commodity sector;
  The definition of “Commodity derivative” in Chapter VII of the Finance Act, 2013 may be reproduced here. The same should not be linked with Finance Act, 2013.

- The definition of “National Housing Bank” may be removed from section 66. The reference of National Housing Bank was in existing section 43D clause (b) which was omitted by the Finance (No. 2), Act, 2024. Hence, this definition can be removed from section 66.

- The definition of “rent” may be removed from section 66. The term “rent” is not used in section 35(b)(i) of Income-tax Bill, 2025 as it is not relevant since the term “any sum payable” is used in this section. Hence, this definition can be removed from section 66.

- 43(5) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 provides that an eligible transaction in respect of trading in derivatives and commodity derivatives carried out in a recognized stock exchange are not speculative transactions, if STT and CTT have been paid. These exclusions may also be incorporated in the definition of speculative transaction in section 66(35) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025.

- The terminology “Specified Banking or Online Mode” has been referred to in 11 places in the Bill and is applicable for sections from 26 to 66 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025. Since the modes specified therein, namely, account payee cheque or an account payee bank draft or use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode, as prescribed are referred to in other provisions of the Bill as well, this terminology must be used in those provisions also. The usage and applicability of this phrase to be extended to other relevant provisions of the Bill.

- The definition of work may be removed from section 66. The term “work” is not used in section 35(b)(i) of Income-tax Bill, 2025 as it is not relevant since the term “any sum payable” is used in the section. Hence, this definition can be removed from section 66.

- Proviso to section 44AD mentions that 6% shall be applicable for amounts received in electronic mode (8% for other than electronic mode) during the previous year or before the due date specified in sub-section (1) of section 139 in respect of that previous year. 6% of total turnover or gross receipts realised in specified banking or online mode. Specified banking or online mode defined under section 66(36) of new bill. Amount realised in online mode before due date of filing return of income is missing and may be mentioned accordingly.

66.5 Examination by the Committee:

66.5.1 With respect to rephrasing of (12) and (34) dealing with respect to micro and small enterprises, the Ministry in their comments stated that, 'The reference has been correctly provided in the Bill as is the case in the IT Act, 1961. The suggestion has no merits'. But, upon seeking further clarification by the Committee that will it not be better to adopt the phrasing "as notified under the provisions of the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006" to better aid MSMEs, the Ministry in their reply furnished that,

(i) Presently the provision has a clear reference to the definition of micro and small enterprises in the MSME Act.

(ii) This is unambiguous and definitive as on date.

(iii) However, the suggestion for dynamically linking it to a notification under the MSME Act can also be considered."

And during the sitting held on 17.06.2025, the Ministry representatives stated that:

"…the issue was to make the definition of micro and small enterprises as per the definition given in the MSME Act. So, we accepted it."

66.5.2 With regard to the suggestion seeking to reproduce the definition of "commodity derivative" as provided in the Finance Act, 2013 in the Clause, the Ministry in their reply furnished that, 'The suggestion is accepted. There is no mention of word "commodity derivative" in the Bill except for in the clause 66 which is related to interpretation. The definition as provided in clause 66 is to be omitted'.

66.5.3 With regard to removal of definition of "National Housing Bank", the Ministry furnished that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion is acceptable as provision related to National Housing Bank is not applicable and thus the same is redundant'.

66.5.4 With respect to removal of definition of "rent", the Ministry furnished that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion is acceptable as provision related to "rent" is not applicable and thus the same is redundant'.

66.5.5 On the issue of speculative transaction wherein eligible transaction is not a speculative transaction where STT and CTT is paid, the Ministry in their response furnished that, 'It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion is acceptable as the definition of speculative transaction in the Bill misses the condition wherein eligible transaction is not a speculative transaction where STT and CTT is paid'.

66.5.6 With regard to the suggestion seeking to define "Specified Banking or Online Mode" in the definition section as it is used multiple times in the Bill, the Ministry in their response furnished that, ‘The suggestion will be considered’.

66.5.7 With respect to removal of definition of "work", the Ministry furnished that, ‘It is an inadvertent drafting error. Suggestion is acceptable as provision related to "work" is not applicable and thus the same is redundant’.

66.5.8 With regard to changes proposed for better reading, the Ministry stated that, ‘The suggestion seeks to change the drafting of clause 66 of the Bill. The current phrasing of the section is apt and conveying clear meaning’.

66.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee upon examination recommend the following with regard to various sub-clauses of Clause 66:

i) 66(4): may be omitted as there is no mention of word "commodity derivative" in the Bill except for in the clause 66 which is related to interpretation, thus making the term redundant. Hence, the definition as provided in clause 66 be omitted.

ii) 66(15): may be omitted as the reference of National Housing Bank which was in existing section 43D clause (b) of 1961 Act was omitted by the Finance (No. 2), Act, 2024.

iii) 66(28): may be omitted as the term "rent" is not relevant since now the term "any sum payable" is used in section 35(b)(i) of Income-tax Bill, 2025.

iv) 66(35): may be modified to incorporate for the fact that the definition of speculative transaction in the Bill misses the condition wherein eligible transaction is not a speculative transaction where STT and CTT is paid i.e. Section 43(5) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 provided that an eligible transaction in respect of trading in derivatives and commodity derivatives carried out in a recognized stock exchange are not speculative transactions, if STT and CTT have been paid and these exclusions have to be incorporated in the definition of speculative transaction in section 66(35) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 to align it with the 1961 Act and retain the intent of the same.

v) 66(45): may be omitted as the term "work" is no longer relevant, with the phrase "any sum payable" used in Section 35(b)(i) of the Income-Tax Bill, 2025, rendering this definition redundant.

vi) 66(12) and 66(34): may be redrafted to align the definitions of "micro" and "small" enterprises respectively with the definitions notified in the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises Development Act, 2006, rather than referring to "as assigned to it in section 2(m)" of that Act. This will bring uniformity in defining "Micro" and "Small" enterprises across both the MSMED Act and the Income-Tax Act, aiding MSMEs in matters related to delayed payments.

Apart from the above recommendation(s), the Committee find the Clause to be adequate and in line with regard to corresponding Section(s) of the 1961 Act and hence accept the Clause as it stands subject to the above proposed modifications.

(18) For the purposes of sub-section (17), “capital value of such units” means any amount invested by the assessee in the units referred to in section 80CCB(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961.

(1B) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any person receives at any time during any previous year any amount under a unit linked insurance policy, to which exemption under clause (10D) of section 10 does not apply [40][on account of the applicability of the fourth and fifth provisos thereof], including the amount allocated by way of bonus on such policy, then, any profits or gains arising from receipt of such amount by such person shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Capital gains" and shall be deemed to be the income of such person of the previous year in which such amount was received and the income taxable shall be calculated in such manner as may be prescribed.

(i) section 48; and

(ii) proviso to clause (42A) of section 2, the cost of acquisition and the period of holding of any securities shall be determined on the basis of the first-in-first-out method.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, the expressions "beneficial owner", "depository" and "security" shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in clauses (a), (e) and (l) of sub-section (1) of section 2 of the Depositories Act, 1996.

(3) The profits or gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset by a person to a firm or other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or a co-operative society) in which he is or becomes a partner or member, by way of capital contribution or otherwise, shall be chargeable to tax as his income of the previous year in which such transfer takes place and, for the purposes of section 48, the amount recorded in the books of account of the firm, association or body as the value of the capital asset shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset.

A = B + C - D

Where,

A = income chargeable to income-tax under this subsection as income of the specified entity under the head "Capital gains";

B = value of any money received by the specified person from the specified entity on the date of such receipt;

C = the amount of fair market value of the capital asset received by the specified person from the specified entity on the date of such receipt; and

D = the amount of balance in the capital account (represented in any manner) of the specified person in the books of account of the specified entity at the time of its reconstitution:

Provided that if the value of "A" in the above formula is negative, its value shall be deemed to be zero :

Provided further that the balance in the capital account of the specified person in the books of account of the specified entity is to be calculated without taking into account the increase in the capital account of the specified person due to revaluation of any asset or due to self-generated goodwill or any other self-generated asset.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this sub-section,—

(i) the expressions "reconstitution of the specified entity", "specified entity" and "specified person" shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in section 9B;

(ii) "self-generated goodwill" and "self-generated asset" mean goodwill or asset, as the case may be, which has been acquired without incurring any cost for purchase or which has been generated during the course of the business or profession.

Explanation 2.—For the removal of doubts, it is clarified that when a capital asset is received by a specified person from a specified entity in connection with the reconstitution of such specified entity, the provisions of this sub-section shall operate in addition to the provisions of section 9B and the taxation under the said provisions thereof shall be worked out independently.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where the capital gain arises from the transfer of a capital asset, being a transfer by way of compulsory acquisition under any law, or a transfer the consideration for which was determined or approved by the Central Government or the Reserve Bank of India, and the compensation or the consideration for such transfer is enhanced or further enhanced by any court, Tribunal or other authority, the capital gain shall be dealt with in the following manner, namely :—

(a) the capital gain computed with reference to the compensation awarded in the first instance or, as the case may be, the consideration determined or approved in the first instance by the Central Government or the Reserve Bank of India shall be chargeable as income under the head "Capital gains" of the previous year in which such compensation or part thereof, or such consideration or part thereof, was first received; and

(b) the amount by which the compensation or consideration is enhanced or further enhanced by the court, Tribunal or other authority shall be deemed to be income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" of the previous year in which such amount is received by the assessee :

Provided that any amount of compensation received in pursuance of an interim order of a court, Tribunal or other authority shall be deemed to be income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" of the previous year in which the final order of such court, Tribunal or other authority is made;

(c) where in the assessment for any year, the capital gain arising from the transfer of a capital asset is computed by taking the compensation or consideration referred to in clause (a) or, as the case may be, enhanced compensation or consideration referred to in clause (b), and subsequently such compensation or consideration is reduced by any court, Tribunal or other authority, such assessed capital gain of that year shall be recomputed by taking the compensation or consideration as so reduced by such court, Tribunal or other authority to be the full value of the consideration.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section,—

(i) in relation to the amount referred to in clause (b), the cost of acquisition and the cost of improvement shall be taken to be nil;

(ii) the provisions of this sub-section shall apply also in a case where the transfer took place prior to the 1st day of April, 1988;

(iii) where by reason of the death of the person who made the transfer, or for any other reason, the enhanced compensation or consideration is received by any other person, the amount referred to in clause (b) shall be deemed to be the income, chargeable to tax under the head "Capital gains", of such other person.

(5A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where the capital gain arises to an assessee, being an individual or a Hindu undivided family, from the transfer of a capital asset, being land or building or both, under a specified agreement, the capital gains shall be chargeable to income-tax as income of the previous year in which the certificate of completion for the whole or part of the project is issued by the competent authority; and for the purposes of section 48, the stamp duty value, on the date of issue of the said certificate, of his share, being land or building or both in the project, as increased by [41][any consideration received in cash or by a cheque or draft or by any other mode] shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset :

Provided that the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply where the assessee transfers his share in the project on or before the date of issue of the said certificate of completion, and the capital gains shall be deemed to be the income of the previous year in which such transfer takes place and the provisions of this Act, other than the provisions of this sub-section, shall apply for the purpose of determination of full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression—

(i) "competent authority" means the authority empowered to approve the building plan by or under any law for the time being in force;

(ii) "specified agreement" means a registered agreement in which a person owning land or building or both, agrees to allow another person to develop a real estate project on such land or building or both, in consideration of a share, being land or building or both in such project, whether with or without payment of part of the consideration in cash;

(iii) "stamp duty value" means the value adopted or assessed or assessable by any authority of the Government for the purpose of payment of stamp duty in respect of an immovable property being land or building or both.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), the difference between the repurchase price of the units referred to in sub-section (2) of section 80CCB and the capital value of such units shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising to the assessee in the previous year in which such repurchase takes place or the plan referred to in that section is terminated and shall be taxed accordingly.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, "capital value of such units" means any amount invested by the assessee in the units referred to in sub-section (2) of section 80CCB.

67.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 67 of the Bill provides for capital gains and also seeks to provide the chargeability of Income-tax under the head "Capital gains" for various kinds of transfer of capital assets. This clause corresponds to section 45 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

67.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

67.4.1 Suggestions pertaining to specific mention of Section 85 being an exemption provision in Clause 67(1) of Income-tax Bill, 2025–

- It is suggested that section 67(1) may be reworded as follows: "Capital gains. 67. (1) Any profits or gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset effected in a tax year shall, save as otherwise provided in sections 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88 and 89, be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Capital gains" and shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which the transfer took place."
  Section 67(1), the charging section for capital gains, excludes sections 82 to 89, except section 85. Section 85 also provides for exemption from capital gain. Therefore, it is necessary to include section 85 also in section 67(1) for exclusion.

- Another suggestion reiterating the need for mentioning Section 85 for exclusion stated that :
  Proposed provision: Any profits or gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset effected in a tax year shall, save as otherwise provided in sections 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88 and 89, be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Capital gains" and shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which the transfer took place.
  Section 85 being an exemption provision must also be mentioned along with the other sections.

67.4.2 Suggestions pertaining to the phrasing of Clause 67(2) –

- Fair value of the asset together with money shall be the full value of consideration. To remove reference to "value of money" and substitute by money only. The existing language undoubtedly provides "value of money or the fair value of assets", as the full value of consideration. The phrase "value of money" is an inelegant phrase. The phrase "value of" is appropriate for nonmonetary assets only. The phrase "value of money" appears in other sections also. If this suggestion is accepted, suitable change may be made in those sections also. For instance, section 72(5).

- Section 67(2)(b) refers to value of money, section 122(6)(c) refers to market value and section 69(1) uses the phrase "value". Thereby, inconsistent terminologies are used. A consistent terminology maybe employed to bring in uniformity. It is suggested that the statute uses the phrase 'fair market value' as any value (whether market or any other value) is expected to be a 'fair' one.

- Add a line at the end of sub-section (2) "such capital gains shall be taxed as long term or short term depending on the period for which the asset was held, for which the money or asset is received from the insurer."
  This will clarify how to determine whether the gains are long term or short term and there will be no ambiguity left nor any chance for several interpretations.

67.4.3 Suggestions pertaining to modifications in Clause 67(6) –

- In proposed section 67(6), it says ‘if the profits or gains arising from the transfer by way of conversion of a capital asset into, or its treatment by the owner…’ and thereafter provides the year of taxability and what shall be the full value of consideration. This provision may invite litigation by claiming that no profits and gains has arisen from transfer and hence, the second part will not trigger.
  Hence, the same may be modified as under: “(6) Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1), if the profits or gains arising from the transfer by way of conversion of a capital asset into, or its treatment by the owner as, stock-in-trade of a business carried on by him, then,— (a) such profits and gains shall be chargeable to income-tax as his income in the tax year in which such stock-in-trade is sold (or otherwise transferred by any other means); and (b) for the purposes of section 72, the fair market value of the asset on the date of such conversion or treatment shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.

- In (6)(1)(a), please add the after the words …as his income "from capital gains as long terms or short term depending on the period for which the asset was held by the assessee before the conversion" ;
  This makes it clear that the income is in the nature of capital gains and not business income, though it is charged in the year when the stock is sold and leaves no ambiguity on whether it is long term or short term.

67.4.4 Suggestion pertaining to modifications in Clause 67(7) –

- In S.67(7)(a), after the words income tax, insert "as capital gains" and delete the words "as income".

This makes it clear that such income will be taxed as capital gains and not as regular income, and there would be no confusion for a lay person.

67.4.5 Suggestions pertaining to modifications in Clause 67(9) –

- The income shall be chargeable to tax as "capital gains" to be inserted. Mention is only made of income being chargeable to tax. The head under which it will be chargeable is not mentioned, which mention is there in other subsections. In the absence of a reference to a head of income, a challenge to the very inclusion of such income in the total income could be a matter of contest. To avoid this, a suitable amendment is suggested.

- In section 67 subsection 9 (a), after the words 'chargeable to tax as his income' insert the words "form capital gains" and after the words 'of such transfer', insert the words "as long term or short term depending on the period for which he held the asset before the transfer"

- Since the Partner's account is moving account there is no clarity for computing the period of holding to determine STCG/ LTCG. The provisions prescribe value of money or FMV of other assets as on date of receipt to be the full value of consideration for the purpose of capital gains computation. However, no clarity is provided on how to compute the cost of acquisition, in cases where the part of the consideration payable is deferred to a different FY. Thus, suitable provision in the relevant sections may be provided to prescribe period of holding starting from the date of admission of the partner. Further, computation mechanism for cost of acquisition may be provided in case part of the consideration is deferred to a different FY.

- The phrase "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)" to be added.
  Proposed provision: Irrespective of anything contained in subsection (1), if any profits or gains arise from the transfer of a capital asset by a person, to a firm or other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or cooperative society) in which he is or becomes a partner or member, by way of capital contribution or otherwise, then,— (a) such profits and gains shall be chargeable to tax as his income in the tax year of such transfer; and (b) for the purposes of section 72 the amount recorded in the books of account of the firm, association or body as the value of the capital asset shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.
  To provide an overriding effect to sub-section (9) over sub-section (1). Otherwise, there would be an avoidable clash between section 67(9) and 67(11).

- Amendments proposed to be made in Clause 67(9) to curb litigations through claims that no profits and gains have arisen from the transfer of capital assets and hence the second part will not trigger :

"(9) ~~If any~~ The profits or gains ~~arise~~ arising from the transfer of a capital asset by a person, to a firm or other association of persons or body of individuals (not being a company or co-operative society) in which he is or becomes a partner or member, by way of capital contribution or otherwise, ~~then~~,— (a) ~~such profits and gains~~ shall be chargeable to tax as his income in the tax year of such transfer; and (b) for the purposes of section 72 the amount recorded in the books of account of the firm, association or body as the value of the capital asset shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.

67.4.6 Suggestion pertaining to incorporating the mandate of Circular no. 14 of 2021 dated 02.07.2021, in Clause 67(10) –

- With respect to Clause 67(10)(c)(ii), the following suggestion was submitted:
  It is important to factor in the amount on which taxes have been paid under section 8 while computing the capital account balance under section 67(10). Thereby, incorporating the mandate of Circular no. 14 of 2021 dated 02.07.2021, which was issued to remove difficulties, the proposed provision is : the balance in the capital account of the specified person in the books of account of the specified entity shall be calculated including the amount on which tax, if any, paid under section 8 without considering any increase in the capital account of the specified person due to revaluation of any asset or due to self-generated goodwill or any other self-generated asset;

67.4.7 Suggestion pertaining to Clause 67(14) –

- The following amendment was suggested with respect to Clause 67(14) –
  (14) Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1), if the capital gains arises to a person (being an individual or a Hindu undivided family), from the transfer of a capital asset, being land or building or both, under a specified agreement, ~~then~~,—
  (a) ~~such capital gains~~ shall be chargeable to income-tax for the tax year in which the certificate of completion for the whole or part of the project is issued by the competent authority; and
  (b) for the purposes of section 72, the stamp duty value, on the date of issue of the said certificate, of the share of such person, being land or building, or both, in the project, as increased by any consideration received in cash or by a cheque or draft or by any other mode shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.

67.4.8 Suggestions for modifying Clause 67(17) & (18) to drop any reference to section 80CCB(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 –

- With respect to Clause 67(17), the following suggestion was submitted :
  Proposed provision: "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1), the difference between the repurchase price of the units issued under a plan formulated under the Equity Linked Savings Scheme in respect of which a deduction has been allowed and the capital value of such units shall be taxed considering it to be the capital gains arising to the assessee in the tax year in which....."

- With respect to Clause 67(18), the following suggestion was submitted :
  For the purposes of sub-section (17), "capital value of such units" means any amount invested by the assessee in the units referred to in that sub-section.

67.5 Examination by the Committee:

67.5.1 Clauses 67 of Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds to Sections 45 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Regarding suggestions pertaining to specific mention of Clause 85 being an exemption provision in Clause 67(1) of Income-tax Bill, 2025, the Ministry of Finance, in its written replies submitted that –

> "The suggestion seeks to include clause 85 (Section 54EC of IT Act, 1961) in charging section 67(Section 45 of IT Act, 1961). 54EC is not mentioned in the section 45 in the Act. All the other Clauses mentioned in the charging section provide for charging of capital gains if the conditions prescribed in the said clauses are failed by the taxpayer. However, this is not applicable to clause 85(Section 54EC) as these involve investment in bonds that are locked-in for 3/5 years as applicable. The provisions are replaced in accordance with those of the IT Act. Therefore, it may not be feasible to act upon the suggestion."

67.5.2 Elaborating on the provisions mentioned in Clause 67(1) and inclusion of other relevant clauses therein, the representative of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting of the Committee, explained the reasons behind Clause 85 being an exemption provision in Clause 67(1) of Income-tax Bill, 2025 and submitted as under :

> "…There are many Sections which provide exemption from the capital gain tax. For example, have sold one residential property and invested in another residential property. So, that provides that you will get the exemption. Another provision says that if you are not able to do so within the time allowed for filing your return of income, then you deposit the money in your capital gain account with a bank. And then, the third provision says if this amount could not be used for three years, then in the last year it will again become taxable as capital gain. It will be taxed in the third year. So, when the chargeability of capital gain is being provided, first of all, the capital gain which has already taken place, secondly, capital gain which will be deemed to be capital gain because of the provision that in third year, you could not use that amount deposited in the capital gain account. So, for that, we have provided the chargeability. So, whatever sections where in some other year also the capital gain was becoming charged, we included here in the charging section specifically. But, Sir, 54EC is very simple. You purchase a bond. Up to Rs. 50 lakh, you can purchase a bond and up to that extent, your capital gain is not taxable. And it is never again taxed because already you have invested in bond which, for five years, is locked in. So that is why 54EC corresponding section is not mentioned in the charging section. Somehow, they are saying that why we have missed out that we should include that also. So, this was as it is in the original Act also. We have done the same thing here…"

67.5.3 With respect to the phrase "value of money" used in Clause 67(2) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025, the Ministry of Finance, in its written reply submitted that :

"The suggestion made is to replace the phrase 'value of money' with 'money'. The word 'value' is appended to money so that it is correctly aligned with phrase 'full value of consideration' used in the clause. There is no error in drafting and use of the phrase "value of money" is appropriate both in the Act and in the Bill. This suggestion is already addressed in the Bill."

67.5.4 Emphasizing on the necessity of retaining the phrase 'value of money' in Clause 67(2), the representative of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting, submitted that :

"…there is a phrase that we use in clause 67(2), that is, 'value of money'. So, the stakeholder is saying that if the value is appended to money, how does it make sense. The clause is drafted like this. Because we compare value of money or fair market value on the date of receipt, it shall be deemed to be full value of consideration because we are deeming full value to be one of these two values. That is why 'value' word has been used in A and B so that for the purposes of C, the value can be imported…

… If we use value in A and value in B, then we can use value in C because then C value gets aligned to value in A or B. That is why, we accept that value of money is money only."

67.5.5 Elaborating on the need for using terminologies such as 'value of money', 'market value' and 'value' in different contexts in the Bill, the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> “The three terminologies are used in different context and do not mean the same thing. Further, fair market value is already defined separately in the Act. Depending on the necessity of the provisions of the clause, suitable phrases have been used. This suggestion is already addressed.”

67.5.6 Regarding specificity with respect to long term and short term capital gains mentioned under sub-section (2) of Clause 67, the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> “This suggestion is only asking to add the said phrase for more clarity. However, the suggestion is redundant as the clause is already clear with respect to taxation of such gains. The treatment of “long term” and “short term” is governed by the definitions of the same as given in the chapter on Definitions. This suggestion is already addressed.”

67.5.7 With respect to suggestions for modifications regarding addition of the phrase ‘Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)’ in Clause 67(6), the Ministry of Finance stated that the suggested phrase was already included in the said clause and stated that :

> “The phrase "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)" is already in place in Clause 67(6)…”

67.5.8 Further, with regard to modifications suggested for clarifying the nature of income as capital gains instead of business income in the Clause 67(6)(1)(a), the Ministry submitted that :

> “This suggestion seeks to replace the phrase "as income" and replace it with "as capital gains" and to specify "short-term and long-term". However, the suggestion is redundant as the clause is already clear with respect to taxation of such gains as this is from the conversion of a capital asset. The treatment of ”long term” and “short term” is governed by the definitions of the same as given in the chapter on Definitions The intent is same as the existing section. Further, the provisions of Clause 67(1) clearly stated that this income will be charged as capital gains. This suggestion is already addressed in the Bill.”

67.5.9 In view of suggestions seeking to clarify that income being taxed as mentioned in Clause 67(7)(a) concerns capital gains and not regular income, the Ministry of Finance furnished that :

> “This suggestion seeks to replace the phrase "as income" and replace it with "as capital gains". However, the suggestion is redundant as the clause is already clear with respect to taxation of such gains. The provisions of Clause 67(7) are the same as corresponding provisions in the IT Act with simplified language. Further, the provisions of Clause 67(1) clearly stated that this income will be charged as capital gains. This suggestion is already addressed in the Bill.”

67.5.10 Regarding suggestion seeking specific mention of ‘capital gains’ as the head under which income would be charged under Clause 67(9), the Ministry of Finance stated that :

> “The suggestion is that the income arising to a partner on transfer of capital asset to firm etc. may be specifically mentioned to be charged under the head 'capital gains'. However the suggestion is redundant as the clause is already clear with respect to taxation of such gains as this is from the conversion of a capital asset. Further, the provisions of Clause 67(9) are the same as corresponding provisions in the IT Act with simplified language and the intent is the same. This suggestion is already addressed in the Bill. Still if any ambiguity is there, same shall be addressed through drafting correction.”

67.5.11 Furthermore, during the Sitting of the Committee, the representative of the Ministry of Finance specifically assured the Committee that in case of an ambiguity in the provisions mentioned under Clause 67(9), the Ministry would take necessary action to resolve the same.

67.5.12 With respect to suggestions seeking insertion of phrases for clarifying source of income as ‘capital gains’ and for specifying whether the gains mentioned under Clause 67(9) were ‘short term or long term’, the Ministry of Finance informed that the same had already been addressed in the Bill and submitted that :

> “This suggestion seeks to follow the phrase "as income" with "from capital gains" and to specify "short-term and long-term". However the suggestion is redundant as the clause is already clear with respect to taxation of such gains. The treatment of “long term” and “short term” is governed by the definitions of the same as given in the chapter on Definitions. Further, the provisions of Clause 67(9) are the same as corresponding provisions in the

IT Act with simplified language. This suggestion is already addressed in the Bill."

67.5.13 Regarding suggestions relating to computation of period of holding and cost of acquisition in relation to Short Term Capital Gains (STCG) and Long Term Capital Gains (LTCG), the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

"The suggestion relates to providing clarity regarding period of holding and computing cost of acquisition where a partner receives any asset on dissolution/reconstitution of a firm. There is no difference in this section from the present Act. For period of holding, the definition is defined in Clause 2(101)(a) and Clause 2(102) which corresponds to Section 2(42A) and 2(42B) of the Act determines short-term or long term. Even if the income is deferred to the next year, it will be taxed in the tax year in which it was received. A circular (No 14 of 2021) has been issued with examples to remove difficulties. This is already addressed by the present provisions in the Bill."

67.5.14 Further, during the Sitting, the representative of the Ministry of Finance apprised the Committee as under :

"…they are asking clarity regarding period of holding, and computing, cost of acquisition where a partner receives any asset on dissolution, reconstitution of firm. We are saying, the Bill is presently aligned with the Act. That is one point. The period of holding is very clear as to what is short term and long term. On that, there is no confusion as to what is short term and long term. Regarding circular also, we have issued with examples to remove difficulty in particular cases."

67.5.15 With respect to the suggestion regarding insertion of the phrase "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)" in Clause 67(9) to avoid any clash with Clause 67(11), the Ministry of Finance stated that :

"The phrase "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)" has not been added as the non-obstante clause is not present in Section 45(3) as well, which is the corresponding section in the Act. The provisions of the Act are faithfully reproduced in the Bill with only simplification of language. Clause 67(9) provides for charging when there is a transfer of a capital asset by a person on becoming a partner of a Firm/BoI/AOP. Clause 67(11) provides for definitions that are relevant for 67(10). Clause 67(10) provides for charging of capital gains where a partner receives capital asset or money on the dissolution or reconstitution of a Firm/BoI/AoP. There is no conflict between these two sections. Therefore, this suggestion may not be feasible."

67.5.16 During the Sitting, the representative of the Ministry reiterated that since there is no conflict between the two provisions contained in Clauses 67(9) and 67(11) respectively, adding the phrase 'irrespective of anything' would be superfluous.

67.5.17 Concerning suggestion seeking to propose amendments in Clause 67(9) in order to avert the risk of litigations through claims that no profits and gains have arisen from the transfer of capital assets, the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> "Clause 67(9) corresponds to Section 45(3) of ITA which doesn't have any non-obstante clause. The provisions of the Bill are similar to that in the Act and the suggestions made by the stakeholder are already in place. The suggestion is not clear."

67.5.18 Regarding incorporating the mandate of Circular no. 14 of 2021 dated 02.07.2021 in order to factor in the amount on which taxes have been paid under section 8 while computing the capital account balance under Clause 67(10), the Ministry of Finance, however, submitted that :

> "The suggestion calls for the incorporation of the Circular into the provision of the Bill. This will make the Bill unwieldy and complicated. Therefore, this suggestion may not be feasible."

67.5.19 In this context, when asked if notifications and circulars from the Act will continue to remain in force in this Bill, the representatives of the Ministry of Finance, while referring to Clause 536 on Repeal and Savings stated that this concern was clearly addressed under this clause and further submitted that :

> "…as far as a circular or notification is issued under the old Act, correspondingly the same will apply to corresponding clauses in the new Act.
> …I will read the Savings Clause 536(2)(j). "Any agreement undertaken, appointment made, approval given, recognition granted, direction, instruction, notice, order or rule issued under the provision of the Repealed Income-Tax Act, so far as it is not inconsistent with the corresponding provisions of this Act, be deemed to have been entered into,

made, granted, given or issued under the corresponding provision of this Act." So, circular will come under this part. We need not reiterate all circulars again. That is our take on it."

67.5.20 With respect to the amendment suggested in Clause 67(14), the Ministry of Finance stated that :

> "The phrase "Irrespective of anything contained in sub-section (1)" is already in place in Clause 67(6) and 67(14)."

67.5.21 Regarding suggestions for modifying Clause 67(17) & (18) to drop any reference to section 80CCB(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> "It has been suggested that instead of referring to 80CCB of the IT Act, the relevant provisions or reference may be brought in to Clause 67(17) and (18). Section 80CCB allows for deduction only till 31.03.1992. This provision is now redundant. No assessee can claim this deduction anymore. However, to provide for the capital gains from such investments, the present Clause is in place. Further, the suggestion to only mention "units issued under ELSS" may also cause a reference to the deduction available under 80C(2)(xiii) (which also refers to ELSS by way of notification) which would result in unintended taxation. Therefore, the current version of the bill in which reference to Section 80CCB may be retained. Therefore, it may not be feasible to act upon the suggestion."

67.5.22 During the Sitting of the Committee, the representatives of the Ministry of Finance further simplified this issue and submitted that :

> "…there is a reference to Section 80CCB, which dealt with units of ELSS. The deduction was allowed only till 31.03.1992. But then the capital gains on units are still taxable. That is why, we have mentioned it."

67.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 67 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 pertains to capital gains and seeks to provide for the chargeability of Income tax under the head "Capital gains" for various kinds of transfer of capital assets. The Committee also note that Clause 67 of the Bill corresponds to Section 45 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Further, on examination of the views/suggestions given by various stakeholders and also the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee feel that with respect to provisions mentioned in sub-clause (9), the income arising to a partner on transfer of capital asset to a firm etc. may be specifically mentioned to be charged under the head 'capital gains'. The Committee, therefore, recommend that the said sub-clause may be suitably drafted to address any ambiguity in the provisions thereof.

Further, with respect to the remaining provisions under Clause 67, the Committee observe that they have been textually simplified while retaining the original intent of the corresponding Section of the Act. However, in sub-clause (18), the Committee find a cross reference to old Act of 1961 with respect to the mention of "any amount invested by the assessee in the units referred to in section 80CCB(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961". The Committee feel that such cross referencing is a deviation from the clean break intended through this Bill. Therefore, the Committee recommend the Ministry to remove the reference to the old Act of 1961 by clubbing it in the Savings clause coherently and accept the remaining portion of the proposed Clause 67, without any further change.

Clause 68 – Capital Gains on distribution of assets by companies in liquidation.

68.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 :

68. (1) Irrespective of anything contained in section 67, where the assets of a company are distributed to its shareholders on its liquidation, such distribution shall not be regarded as a transfer by the company for the purposes of the said section.

(2) If a shareholder, on the liquidation of a company, receives any money or other assets from the company, then,—

(a) such shareholder shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Capital gains", in respect of the money so received or the market value of the other assets on the date of distribution, as reduced by the amount assessed as dividend within the meaning of section 2(40)(c); and

(b) the sum so arrived at shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration for the purposes of section 72.

68.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961) :

46. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 45, where the assets of a company are distributed to its shareholders on its liquidation, such distribution shall not be regarded as a transfer by the company for the purposes of section 45.

(2) Where a shareholder on the liquidation of a company receives any money or other assets from the company, he shall be chargeable to income-tax under the head "Capital gains", in respect of the money so received or the market value of the other assets on the date of distribution, as reduced by the amount assessed as dividend within the meaning of sub-clause (c) of clause (22) of section 2 and the sum so arrived at shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration for the purposes of section 48.

68.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 68 of the Bill provides for capital gains on distribution of assets by companies in liquidation. This clause corresponds to section 46 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

68.4 Observations / Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 68 of the Income-tax Bill 2025 provides for taxation of capital gains arising from the distribution of assets by companies in liquidation and corresponds to Section 46 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. While recognizing the objective of addressing the taxation and value of consideration of money or assets received by an individual in the event of liquidation of a company, the Committee concur with the retention of the original intent and the textual simplification of the provisions under this clause. Therefore, after careful consideration of the proposal and the justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee accept the clause as proposed.

Clause 69 – Capital gains on purchase by company of its own shares or other specified securities.

69.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025 :

69. (1) If a shareholder or a holder of other specified securities receives any consideration from any company for the purchase of its own shares or other specified securities held by such shareholder or holder of other specified securities, then, subject to the provisions of section 72, the difference between the cost of acquisition and the value of consideration so received shall be deemed to be the "Capital gains" arising to such shareholder or the holder in the year in which the company purchases the shares or other specified securities.

(2) If the shareholder receives any consideration of the nature referred to in section 2(40)(f), from any company in respect of buy-back of shares, then for the purposes of this section, the value of such consideration shall be deemed to be nil.

(3) For the purposes of this section, "specified securities" shall have the same meaning as assigned to it in Explanation 1 to section 68 of the Companies Act, 2013.

69.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961) :

46A. Where a shareholder or a holder of other specified securities receives any consideration from any company for purchase of its own shares or other specified securities held by such shareholder or holder of other specified securities, then, subject to the provisions of section 48, the difference between the cost of acquisition and the value of consideration received by the shareholder or the holder of other specified securities, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising to such shareholder or the holder of other specified securities, as the case may be, in the year in which such shares or other specified securities were purchased by the company:

[42][Provided that where the shareholder receives any consideration of the nature referred to in sub-clause (f) of clause (22) of section 2 from any company, in respect of any buy-back of shares, that takes place on or after the 1st day of October, 2024, then for the purposes of this section, the value of consideration received by the shareholder shall be deemed to be nil.]

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "specified securities" shall have the meaning assigned to it in Explanation to section 77A of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956).

69.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 69 of the Bill provides for capital gains arising to shareholders or holders of specified securities, when a company purchases its own shares or specified securities. This clause corresponds to section 46A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

69.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Some of the important suggestions given by stakeholders are mentioned below :

(i) 69(1): "... deemed to be the "Capital gains" arising to such shareholder or the holder of other specified securities in the year in which the company purchases the shares or other specified securities."

a. The words "of other specified securities" may kindly be considered for insertion to read as "deemed to be the "Capital gains" arising to such shareholder or the holder of other specified securities in the year……."

(ii) Section 68 of the Companies Act 2013 provides for the requirements in respect of buy-back of securities by a company from its shareholders. This does not provide for any taxation aspects on buy-back which is covered under the Income-tax Act/Bill.

(iii) Deletion of sub-section (2) to section 69(1). Taxation of gains on buy-back of shares as dividend goes against the premise that return of capital cannot be dividend. 2. Such tax regime of dividend taxation goes against the accepted economic and accounting norms; and international understanding. 3. Increases tax for oversees investors who otherwise would have availed an exemption under the treaty provisions. 4. Challenges may also arise if there are reserves and surplus in the company and the buy-back happens out of the fresh issue.

69.5 Examination by the Committee:

Corresponding views of the Ministry of Finance to the aforementioned suggestions are mentioned below :

i. With regard to the words "of other specified securities" being considered for insertion, the Ministry in their comments furnished that this suggestion is acceptable as it is a drafting correction and hence, the term '"of other specified securities"' may be inserted in line with the Income-tax Act, 1961.

ii. On the issue of taxation aspects on buy-back, the Ministry furnished the following comment :

"Companies Act provide for a different set of regulations. Tax provisions are to be provided by a tax statute. Therefore, comparison to Companies Act for a tax provision does not have any rationale. The suggestion has no merits."

iii. (a) With respect to deletion of sub-section (2) to section 69, the Ministry furnished that :

"It is suggested that the gains on buy-back of shares should not be taxed. This amendment has been made by F(No.2)A 2024 to prevent misuse of buyback provisions by the promoters of companies by availing low rate of buyback. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

(b) Elaborating on the current regulation followed for taxation of gains on buyback of shares, the representative of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting, submitted that :

> "…it is suggested that gains on buyback of shares should not be taxed. This was a provision. It came in the Budget of July 2024. The buyback tax was at 20 per cent. We said that it will be taxed in the hands of the shareholder as dividend. So, the scheme of buyback of shares was changed by the Budget of July 2024."

69.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 69 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for taxation on Capital gains on purchase by company of its own shares or other specified securities and corresponds to Section 46A of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After careful consideration of the provisions under this Clause, the Committee are of the opinion that provisions mentioned in sub-clause (1) are not in line with those of the corresponding Section of the Act such that the phrase 'of other specified securities' has not been expressly mentioned in respect of the holder acquiring the capital gains. Therefore, in order to ensure alignment of this Clause with the relevant provisions of the corresponding Section in the existing Act, the Committee recommend the insertion of the said phrase in sub-clause (1) and the same may be redrafted to read as :

“69(1) - ….deemed to be “Capital gains” arising to such shareholder or the holder ‘of other specified securities’ in the year…”

The Committee accept the remaining content of Clause 69 as proposed.

(m) in a demerger (where the provisions of sections 230 to 232 of the Companies Act, 2013 do not apply), of a capital asset, being a share of a foreign company, referred to in section 9(9)(a), which derives directly or indirectly, its value substantially from the share or shares of an Indian company, held by the demerged foreign company to the resulting foreign company, if—

(i) the shareholders, holding not less than 75% in value of the shares of the demerged foreign company, continue to remain shareholders of the resulting foreign company; and

(ii) such transfer does not attract tax on capital gains in the country in which the demerged foreign company is incorporated;

(n) in a business reorganisation, of a capital asset by the predecessor co-operative bank to the successor co-operative bank or to the converted banking company;

(o) by a shareholder, in a business reorganisation, of capital asset being share or shares held in the predecessor co-operative bank, if the transfer is made in consideration of the allotment to the shareholder of share or shares in the successor co-operative bank or the converted banking company;

70.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 70 of the Bill provides for delineation of all the transactions which will not be regarded as transfer of capital asset for taxation as capital gains under Clause 67. This clause corresponds to section 47 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause. Clause 70(2) contains a tabular form of the definitions of the expressions used in this clause for better understanding. (The definition of "relocation" in the clause needs to be modified to have the cut-off date as 31st march, 2030 as amended by the Finance Act, 2025, instead of 31st March, 2025.)"

70.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

70.4.1 Clause 70(1)(t) provides that provisions of Clause 67 shall not apply to transfer in a relocation, of a capital asset by the original fund to the resulting fund and the cut-off date for such 'relocation', as provided by the Income-tax Bill 2025, is on or before 31st March, 2025. A prominent suggestion seeking to extend this time limit to 31st March, 2030, in order to align with the proposal contained in the Finance Bill, 2025, stated that :

- ITB 2025 does not incorporate the extended time limit proposed by the Finance Bill, 2025, which increases the time limit for transfer of assets from the original fund to the resultant fund up to 31 March 2030. Thus, increase the time limit for transfer of capital assets from the original fund to the resultant fund up to 31 March 2030 to align with the proposal contained in the Finance Bill, 2025.

70.4.2 Suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(zi) stated that :

- Currently, any transfer of a capital asset, being shares of a SPV to a BT in exchange of units allotted by that trust to the transferor is exempt from tax under section 47 of the Act (corresponding section 70 of the Bill). However, no similar exemption is provided in case of transfer of any convertible debt instruments (like CCDs / OCDs) of the SPV to the BT in exchange of units allotted by the BT to the transferor. Similarly, no exemption is provided for transfer of interest in an LLP to the BT in exchange of units allotted by the BT to the transferor. Further, there is no exemption provided for transfer of assets held directly by an individual or an LLP to a BT in exchange for units of a BTs.
  Thus, it is proposed to amend clause (xvii) of section 47 of the Act (corresponding section 70(1) (zi) of the Bill) to include convertible debt securities like OCDs / CCDs or interest in an LLP or directly held assets transferred to a BT in exchange of units allotted by that trust to the transferor. Similar amendments to be made to section 115JB of the Act (corresponding section 206 of the Bill) as well considering it defers share swap income to the year of actual transfer of units and doesn't extend such benefit to income arising on cashless swap of CCD/ OCD/ LLP interest/ assets held directly etc.

70.4.3 Suggestion with respect to Clause 70(1)(a) :

- To insert "by way" before the expression "of distribution…" would provide elegance and clarity to the language.
  Thus, proposed provision: (1) The provisions of section 67 shall not apply to transfer— (a) by way of distribution of capital assets on the total or partial partition of a Hindu undivided family;

70.4.4 Suggestion with respect to Clause 70(1)(e)/(j) :

- Overseas merger of two foreign companies would result in issuance of shares by resulting company to shareholders of amalgamating company (which could be an Indian Company).Shares of amalgamated company received in lieu of the shares held in the amalgamating company is not a 'transfer'. Given that Indian companies are increasingly going global, there should be tax exemption for such Indian shareholders in case of transfer of shares of the amalgamating company in exchange for amalgamated company shares pursuant to the merger of foreign companies since amalgamation operates on the 'vesting principle'

70.4.5 Suggestion with respect to Clause 70(g)/(h) :

- Many group companies undertake restructuring schemes that involve the amalgamation of foreign entities. However, in some jurisdictions, there may be no legal requirement to issue shares to the shareholders of the amalgamating company. Imposing such a condition could potentially limit the benefits of the restructuring. It is recommended to remove the condition of issuing shares to the shareholders of foreign amalgamated company, wherein there is no change in ultimate ownership of the group.

70.4.6 Suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(ze)(v)(vi):

- Enhancement of limits prescribed - The limits prescribed are outdated and warrant an upscaling. Such upward revision would enable ease of doing business which is the guiding factor for the limits prescribed.

70.4.7 Suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(l) :

- To change the phrase "do not apply" to "shall not apply". Hence, proposed provision: in a demerger (where the provisions of sections 230 to 232 of the Companies Act, 2013 shall not apply), of a capital asset, being a share or shares held in an Indian company, by the demerged foreign company to the resulting foreign company, if— (i) the shareholders holding not less than 75% in value of the shares of the demerged foreign company continue to remain shareholders of the resulting foreign company; and (ii) such transfer does not attract tax on capital gains in the country, in which the demerged foreign company is incorporated;

- The objective of the provision is to make the sections 230 to 232 of the Companies Act, 2013 inapplicable to demerger of foreign companies. The expression “shall not” (instead of “do not”) conveys this intent in a more appropriate manner.

70.4.8 Suggestion with respect to Clause 70(1)(zf) :

- To change the phrase "remain the same" to "remain as such". Hence, proposed provision: of a capital asset or intangible asset (by way of sale or otherwise) by a sole proprietorship concern to a company in case of succession of the sole proprietorship concern by the company in the business carried on by it, if— (i) all the assets and liabilities related to the business of the sole proprietary concern, immediately before the succession, become the assets and liabilities of the company; (ii) the shareholding of the sole proprietor in the company is not less than 50% of the total voting power in the company and this shareholding continues to remain as such for five years from the date of the succession;
- The legislative mandate is to maintain a shareholding above the stipulated limit of 50% of the voting power and not to enforce constant shareholding for a tenure of 5 years. The proposed language in the Bill may lead to unintended consequences. The same change has to be made for clause (zd) and (ze) of section 70(1).

70.4.9 Suggestion with respect to Clause 70(2) – opening portion in Column C corresponding to Sl. No. 1 of Column A in table under the clause :

- The phrase "The expressions-" to be removed as it is surplus to the definition. Hence, proposed provision: (a) “banking company” shall have the same meaning as assigned to it in section 5(c) of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 (10 of 1949);

70.5 Examination by the Committee:

Corresponding views of the Ministry of Finance to the aforementioned suggestions are mentioned below :

70.5.1 In response to the suggestion regarding increasing the time limit for transfer of capital assets from the original fund to the resulting fund up to 31 March, 2030, the Ministry submitted that :

> “ACCEPTABLE: Drafting Correction. The term ‘relocation’ requires that the transfer of capital assets from the original fund to the resultant fund takes place prior to 31 March 2025. The time limit has been extended to 31 March 2030 by the Finance Bill, 2025.”

70.5.2 During the Sitting, the representative of the Ministry reiterated that one amendment was made in the recent Finance Bill that was left to be incorporated.

70.5.3 In response to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(zi), the Ministry submitted that :

> "It is suggested that transfer of any convertible debt instruments (like CCDs / OCDs) of the SPV to the BT in exchange of units allotted by the BT should not be treated as a transfer under clause 70 (Section 47). The exemption is provided where ownership in SPV is transferred and ownership in BT is taken in lieu thereof. Debt instruments/ assets or any other interest thereof other than shares in SPV are not an instrument of ownership. The suggestion would result in tax avoidance and therefore not feasible."

70.5.4 Elaborating on the response to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(zi), the representative of the Ministry, during the Sitting, deposed as under :

> "…relates to business trust. So, we provide exemption to business trust from transfer if the shares of SPV are sold and then the SPV takes a holding in the business trust. So, business trust is there and then below it there is company/SPV and then if the shares of that SPV are sold so as to acquire shares in the business trust, for that we provide exemption. So, here he is asking that where there is a transfer of Convertible Debt Instruments from SPV to business trust also should be provided exemption. We are saying that it is not in nature of ownership where the ownership of one company is given away and in lieu of that the ownership of business trust is acquired. That neutrality we provide, but then convertible debt instruments is not an instrument of transfer of ownership."

70.5.5 With respect to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(a), the Ministry stated that :

> "This is in the nature of a drafting correction. The phrase "by way of" may be inserted before the expression "of distribution of capital assets". To bring about clarity. This is acceptable."

70.5.6 Regarding suggestion with respect to Clause 70(1)(e)/(j), the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> "The suggestion seeks to provide exemption to Indian shareholders in case of transfer of shares of the amalgamating company in exchange for amalgamated company shares pursuant to the merger of foreign companies. Tax neutrality is provided where the foreign company is holding Indian shares and where the scheme for amalgamation is subject to regulatory oversight. The suggestion would result in tax avoidance and leakages. Therefore, suggestion may not be feasible."

70.5.7 Further, during the Sitting of the Committee, the representative of the Department deposed as under :

> "…they are asking for an exemption for Indian shareholders where there is a transfer of shares of amalgamating company in exchange for amalgamated company. Two foreign companies are merging and then two foreign companies have Indian shareholders, for their amalgamation of two foreign companies, then the Indian shareholder's one right is extinguished and then he gets right in some other company. They are saying, you build tax neutrality in Indian income-tax law for merger of two foreign companies. We cannot provide that kind of oversight mechanism in our law."

70.5.8 In response to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(g)/(h), the Ministry stated that :

> "The suggestion seeks to remove the condition of 25% of same shareholders in the amalgamating and amalgamated company. This is an anti-abuse provision so that Indian assets are not parted with in a disguised manner. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

70.5.9 Elaborating on the response to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(g)/(h), the representative of the Ministry, during the Sitting, submitted that :

> "…there is a requirement in the scheme of amalgamation which we recognize under Income-tax Act, for which we provide tax neutrality for transfers. There 25 per cent shareholders of the amalgamating company should continue to be shareholders in the amalgamated company. They are saying, you remove this requirement of 25 per cent shareholders."

70.5.10 With respect to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(ze)(v)(vi), the Ministry responded as under :

> "The suggestion pertains to enhancement of limits prescribed for exemption of tax during conversion of the company into an LLP. This provision is enabled for small companies only to prevent misuse of the provisions. This suggestion is in the nature of a major policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

70.5.11 Responding to the suggestion pertaining to tax exemption in case of conversion of a company to a limited liability partnership (LLP), the representative of the Ministry deposed that :

"…It is for conversion of company into an LLP. So, there we provide exemption of tax, but there is a limit on turnover of the company also and that limit is Rs. 60 lakh. So, the suggestion is that this limit should be enhanced. What we are saying is that this provision is enabled only for small companies, so that the provision is not misused. That is why the limit of Rs. 60 lakh is there, so that small companies are enabled to convert into LLP."

70.5.12 In response to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(l), the Ministry submitted that :

"This is a drafting correction. The clauses 70(1)(l) & 70(1)(m) shall be appropriately redrafted to provide that certain provisions of Companies Act shall not apply in the cases of demergers referred in the said clauses."

70.5.13 Regarding the suggestion pertaining to Clause 70(1)(zf), the Ministry stated that:

"This is in the nature of a drafting correction. The suggestion is to change the phrase "remain the same" to "remain as such" and is acceptable to bring about clarity and to ensure consistency with the provisions of the Act. The same change may also be considered for (zd) and (ze) of Section 70(1)."

70.5.14 With respect to the suggestion regarding Clause 70(2) – opening portion in Column C corresponding to Sl. No. 1 of Column A in table under the clause, the Ministry stated that :

"This is in the nature of a drafting correction. The phrase shall be considered for removal from the opening line also.

70.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 70 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds to Section 47 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and seeks to delineate transactions that shall not be regarded as transfers for the purposes of capital gains taxation under Clause 67. The Committee also note that the intent and substance of the existing law have been retained in the proposed clause, with textual simplification and inclusion of a tabular format for definitions in sub-clause (2) for improved comprehension. After careful examination of the provisions in Clause 70 of the Bill – including the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance and the suggestions received from stakeholders, the Committee find the proposed provisions to be broadly acceptable.

However, on observing that certain drafting refinements are desirable for improved clarity, consistency, and alignment with legislative intent, the Committee, therefore, recommend the following modifications:

1. In Clause 70(1)(a), the phrase "by way of" be inserted before the expression "of distribution of capital assets" to enhance clarity in expression.
2. In Clause 70(1)(l) and Clause 70(1)(m), appropriate redrafting be carried out to clarify that certain provisions of the Companies Act shall not apply in the context of demergers referred to in the said clauses.
3. In Clause 70(1)(zd), (ze), and (zf), the phrase "remain the same" be replaced with "remain as such" to ensure consistency with the terminology used elsewhere in the Act.
4. In the tabular portion under Clause 70(2), the Committee recommend removal of the redundant phrase from the opening portion in Column C corresponding to Sl. No. 1 in Column A, as accepted by the Ministry.
5. The Committee also note that the definition of "relocation" needs to be modified to reflect the amended cut-off date of 31st March, 2030, as per the Finance Act, 2025, in place of 31st March, 2025.

Subject to the above modifications, the Committee find the provisions under Clause 70 to be acceptable.

Clause 71 – Withdrawal of exemption in certain cases

71.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

71. (1) The profits or gains arising from the transfer of capital asset not charged under section 67 by virtue of section 70(1)(c) and (d) shall, irrespective of anything contained in the said clauses, be deemed to be income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" of the tax year in which such transfer took place, if at any time before the expiry of eight years from the date of such transfer,—

(a) the transferee company converts the capital asset into, or treats it as, stock-in-trade of its business; or

(b) the parent company or its nominees or the holding company, ceases or cease to hold the whole of the share capital of the subsidiary company.

(2) If any of the conditions laid down in section 70(zd) or (zf) are not complied with, the profits or gains arising from the transfer of such capital asset or intangible asset not charged under section 67 by virtue of such conditions shall be deemed to be the profits and gains chargeable to tax under the head "Capital gains" of the successor company for the tax year in which such conditions are not complied with.

(3) If any of the conditions laid down in section 70(ze) are not complied with, the profits or gains arising from the transfer of such capital asset or intangible assets or share or shares not charged under section 67 by virtue of such conditions shall be deemed to be the profits and gains chargeable to tax under the head "Capital gains"of the successor limited liability partnership or the shareholder of the predecessor company, for the tax year in which such conditions are not complied with.

71.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

47A. (1) Where at any time before the expiry of a period of eight years from the date of the transfer of a capital asset referred to in clause (iv) or, as the case may be, clause (v) of section 47,—

(i) such capital asset is converted by the transferee company into, or is treated by it as, stock-in-trade of its business; or

(ii) the parent company or its nominees or, as the case may be, the holding company ceases or cease to hold the whole of the share capital of the subsidiary company, the amount of profits or gains arising from the transfer of such capital asset not charged under section 45 by virtue of the provisions contained in clause (iv) or, as the case may be, clause (v) of section 47 shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the said clauses, be deemed to be income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" of the previous year in which such transfer took place.]

(2) Where at any time, before the expiry of a period of three years from the date of the transfer of a capital asset referred to in clause (xi) of section 47, any of the shares allotted to the transferor in exchange of a membership in a recognised stock exchange are transferred, the amount of profits and gains not charged under section 45 by virtue of the provisions contained in clause (xi) of section 47 shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the said clause, be deemed to be the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" of the previous year in which such shares are transferred.

(3) Where any of the conditions laid down in the proviso to clause (xiii) or the proviso to clause (xiv) of section 47 are not complied with, the amount of profits or gains arising from the transfer of such capital asset or intangible asset not charged under section 45 by virtue of conditions laid down in the proviso to clause (xiii) or the proviso to clause (xiv) of section 47 shall be deemed to be the profits and gains chargeable to tax of the successor company for the previous year in which the requirements of the proviso to clause (xiii) or the proviso to clause (xiv), as the case may be, are not complied with.

(4) Where any of the conditions laid down in the proviso to clause (xiiib) of section 47 are not complied with, the amount of profits or gains arising from the transfer of such capital asset or intangible assets or share or shares not charged under section 45 by virtue of conditions laid down in the said proviso shall be deemed to be the profits and gains chargeable to tax of the successor limited liability partnership or the shareholder of the predecessor company, as the case may be, for the previous year in which the requirements of the said proviso are not complied with.

71.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> "Clause 71 of the Bill provides for conditions whereby exemption from taxation as capital gains are withdrawn. This clause corresponds to section 47A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

71.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Some of the important suggestions pertaining to Clause 71 are as follows :

- The drafting to result in claw back in year of violation of conditions of S. 47A of ITA 1961/ 71 of ITB 2025 appears to be inadvertent.

- With respect to 71(1)- The reference to parent company may be deleted as the term holding company is already mentioned therein.The co-existance of both the terms "parent" as also "holding" co, is likely to cause needless uncertainty as when two terms are used by the Legislature they are presumed to have independent meaning. Even otherwise, the term nominee attaches only one of the terms, i.e., the parent company, with the absence of nominee to the other term could cause avoidable difficulty. Similar change maybe made in 71(b).

71.5 Examination by the Committee:

The response of the Ministry of Finance corresponding to the aforementioned suggestions is as follows :

71.5.1 With regard to claw back in year of violation of conditions of S. 47A of ITA 1961, the Ministry furnished the following in their comments :

> "ACCEPTABLE: Drafting Correction. In the case of transfers defined as exempt from Capital Gains in Sections 47(iv) and (v), as per the provisions of Section 47A, the Capital Gain will be calculated for the year in which the transfer took place, and not in the year in which the conditions prescribed are satisfied. Suitable changes may be made in Clause 536(2)(q) (Repeal and Savings)."

71.5.2 Regarding suggestion with respect to Clause 71(1), the Ministry stated that :

> "The suggestion seeks to remove reference to a parent company as holding company is already mentioned. However, clause 70(1)(c) refers to "parent company" while the clause 70(1)(d) refers to a "holding company". Therefore the clause 71(1) which is applicable to the above two clauses has retained both the phrases in its provisions. This is consistent with the Act and the phrases have been kept the same. Therefore, it may not be feasible to act upon the suggestion."

71.5.3 Regarding retention of the phrase "parent company" in Clause 71(1), the Ministry submitted that :

> "…we have used the phrase 'parent company, audits nominees or the holding company.' So, the suggestion is that we should remove the reference to parent company because holding company is already there. No change has been made from that.
> …we have used here the word 'nominee'. If we remove the reference to parent company, then there are nominees of the holding company. There is a holding company; there is a subsidiary company. So, they have a direct relationship. Here, we have used parent company or its nominees when they cease to hold the share capital of the subsidiary company."

71.5.4 Further, when asked by the Committee to define the phrase 'parent company' for the purpose of clarity and to avoid any scope of misinterpretation, the representative of the Ministry assured the Committee that this would be examined.

71.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 71 of the Income-tax Bill 2025, corresponding to Section 47A of the Income-tax Act of 1961, provides for withdrawal of exemption in certain cases involving capital gains from transfer of capital assets and defines tax implications concerning situations wherein specified conditions are not met after such transfers. Thorough deliberation of the proposals made with regard to the clause, including the views/suggestions of the stakeholders and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance point to certain relevant facts. The Committee find that the proposal regarding changing the phrase containing the year of claw back in respect of violations of conditions as mentioned in clause 536(2)(q) from 'the year in which such conditions are satisfied or not complied with' to 'the year in which such transfer took place' holds good considering that transfers deemed as income chargeable under the head 'Capital Gains' must be taxed in the year in which such transfers took place. Therefore, the Committee recommend that clause 536(2)(q) (Repeal and Savings) may be suitably amended in respect of provisions pertaining to Clause 71 and accordingly, changes, if any, may be made in Clause 71 wherever necessary in order to avoid any inconsistency.

Further, for the sake of clarity and to eliminate any scope of misinterpretation, the Committee also desire that the phrase 'parent company' featuring in clause 71(1)(b) may be examined and clearly defined by the Ministry of Finance. The Committee approve the rest of the provisions under clause 71 as proposed.

Clause 72 – Mode of computation of capital gains

72.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

72. (1) Income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" shall be computed, by deducting from the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset, the following amounts:—

(a) expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer; and

(b) the cost of acquisition of the asset and the cost of any improvement thereto.

(2) In cases, as prescribed, the provisions of sub-section (1) shall have effect as if for the words "cost of acquisition" and "cost of any improvement", the words "indexed cost of acquisition" and "indexed cost of any improvement" had respectively been substituted.

(3) In computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains", the following amounts shall not be allowed as a deduction:—

(a) the interest claimed as deduction under section 22(1)(b) or under Chapter VIII;

(b) any sum paid as securities transaction tax under Chapter VII of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2004.

(4) If a unit holder receives any amount from a business trust with respect to a unit that is not in the nature of income under Schedule V (Table: Sl. No. 3.or4)and is not chargeable to tax under section 92(2)(k) or223(2), then,—

(a) such amount shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition of such unit; and

(b) if the transaction of transfer of a unit is not considered as transfer under section 70 and cost of acquisition of such unit is determined under section 73, the amount received with respect to such unit before as well as after such transaction, shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition.

(5) In case of value of any money or capital asset received by a specified person from a specified entity, as referred to in section 67(10), the specified entity is entitled to a deduction calculated in such manner, as prescribed for computing the amount chargeable to income-tax in its hands under that sub-section which is attributable to the transfer of such capital asset.

(6) In the case of an assessee, who is a non-resident, capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset being shares in, or debentures of, an Indian company (other than equity shares referred to in section 198) shall be computed—

(a) by converting the cost of acquisition, expenditure incurred, wholly and exclusively, in connection with such transfer and the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset into the same foreign currency as was initially utilised in the purchase of the shares or debentures; and

(b) the capital gains so computed in such foreign currency shall be reconverted into Indian currency, so, however, that the said manner of computation of capital gains shall be applicable in respect of capital gains accruing or arising from every reinvestment thereafter in, and sale of, shares in, or debentures of, an Indian company.

(7) In the case of an assessee who is a non-resident, any gains arising on account of appreciation of rupee against a foreign currency at the time of redemption of rupee denominated bond of an Indian company held by the assessee, shall be ignored for the purpose of computing the full value of consideration.

(8) In this section, the expressions—

(a) "Cost Inflation Index", in relation to a tax year, means such Index as the Central Government may, having regard to 75% of average rise in the Consumer Price Index (urban) for the immediately preceding tax year to such tax year, by notification, specify, in this behalf;

(i) expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer;

(ii) the cost of acquisition of the asset and the cost of any improvement thereto:

[48a][Provided that the cost of acquisition of the asset or the cost of improvement thereto shall not include the deductions claimed on the amount of interest under clause (b) of section 24 or under the provisions of Chapter VIA.

Explanation 1.—For the removal of doubt, it is hereby clarified that the cost of acquisition of a unit of a business trust shall be reduced and shall be deemed to have always been reduced by any sum received by a unit holder from the business trust with respect to such unit, which is not in the nature of income as referred to in clause (23FC) or clause (23FCA) of section 10 and which is not chargeable to tax under clause (xii) of sub-section (2) of section 56 and under sub-section (2) of section 115UA.

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of Explanation 1, it is clarified that where transaction of transfer of a unit is not considered as transfer under section 47 and cost of acquisition of such unit is determined under section 49, sum received with respect to such unit before such transaction as well as after such transaction shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition under the said Explanation;]

(iii) in case of value of any money or capital asset received by a specified person from a specified entity referred to in subsection (4) of section 45, the amount chargeable to income-tax as income of such specified entity under that sub-section which is attributable to the capital asset being transferred by the specified entity, calculated in the prescribed manner:

Provided that in the case of an assessee, who is a non-resident, capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset being shares in, or debentures of, an Indian company shall be computed by converting the cost of acquisition, expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer and the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset into the same foreign currency as was initially utilised in the purchase of the shares or debentures, and the capital gains so computed in such foreign currency shall be reconverted into Indian currency, so, however, that the aforesaid manner of computation of capital gains shall be applicable in respect of capital gains accruing or arising from every reinvestment thereafter in, and sale of, shares in, or debentures of, an Indian company :

Provided further that where long-term capital gain arises from the transfer [48b][(which takes place before the 23rd day of July, 2024)] of a long-term capital asset, other than capital gain arising to a non-resident from the transfer of shares in, or debentures of, an Indian company referred to in the first proviso, the provisions of clause (ii) shall have effect as if for the words "cost of acquisition" and "cost of any improvement", the words "indexed cost of acquisition" and "indexed cost of any improvement" had respectively been substituted:

Provided also that nothing contained in the first and second provisos shall apply to the capital gains arising from the transfer of a long-term capital asset being an equity share in a company or a unit of an equity oriented fund or a unit of a business trust referred to in section 112A:

Provided also that nothing contained in the second proviso shall apply to the long-term capital gain arising from the transfer of a long-term capital asset, being a bond or debenture other than—

Provided also that no deduction shall be allowed in computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" in respect of any sum paid on account of securities transaction tax under Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

(i) "foreign currency" and "Indian currency" shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in section 2 of the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (42 of 1999);

(ii) the conversion of Indian currency into foreign currency and the reconversion of foreign currency into Indian currency shall be at the rate of exchange prescribed in this behalf;

(iii) "indexed cost of acquisition" means an amount which bears to the cost of acquisition the same proportion as Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the asset is transferred bears to the Cost Inflation Index for the first year in which the asset was held by the assessee or for the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 2001, whichever is later;

(iv) "indexed cost of any improvement" means an amount which bears to the cost of improvement the same proportion as Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the asset is transferred bears to the Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the improvement to the asset took place;

(v) "Cost Inflation Index", in relation to a previous year, means such Index as the Central Government may, having regard to seventy-five per cent of average rise in the Consumer Price Index (urban) for the immediately preceding previous year to such previous year, by notification[48c] in the Official Gazette, specify, in this behalf.

72.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 72 of the Bill provides for mode of computation of capital gains. This clause corresponds to section 48 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

72.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

72.4.1 Suggestion regarding changing the phrase "the amount received" to "such amount received" in Clause 72(4) :

Section 72(4) provides for consequence of a particular genre of receipt from business trust. The two-fold "cumulative" consequences are captured in point (a) and (b) of the sub-section. Therefore, it may be appropriate to refer to the impugned amount as "such amount received" rather than "the amount received". Therefore, the proposed provision is – If a unit holder receives any amount from a business trust with respect to a unit that is not in the nature of income under Schedule V (Table: Sl. No. 3. or 4) and is not chargeable to tax under section 92(2)(k) or 223(2), then,— (a) such amount shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition of such unit; and (b) if the transaction of transfer of a unit is not considered as transfer under section 70 and cost of acquisition of such unit is determined under section 73, the such amount received with respect to such unit before as well as after such transaction, shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition.

72.4.2 Suggestion regarding restoration of Explanation (ii) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in Clause 72(8), in order to obtain clarity on the rate at which the currency is to be converted :

Explanation (ii) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 maybe restored in section 72(8) of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 to obtain clarity on rate at which the currency is to be converted, the explanation (ii) has to be restored. Therefore, proposed provision : In this section, the expressions— (a) "Cost Inflation Index", in relation to a tax year, means such Index as the Central Government may, having regard to 75% of average rise in the Consumer Price Index (urban) for the immediately preceding tax year to such tax year, by notification, specify, in this behalf; (b) "indexed cost of acquisition" means an amount which bears to the cost of acquisition, the same proportion as Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the asset is transferred bears to the Cost Inflation Index for the first year in which the asset was held by the assessee or for the year beginning on 1st April, 2001, whichever is later; and (c) "indexed cost of any improvement" means an amount which bears to the cost of improvement, the same proportion as Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the asset is transferred bears to the Cost Inflation Index for the year in which the improvement to the asset took place. (d) the conversion of Indian currency into foreign currency and the reconversion of foreign currency into Indian currency shall be at the rate of exchange prescribed in this behalf;

72.5 Examination by the Committee:

72.5.1 Regarding suggestion for changing the phrase “the amount received” to “such amount received” in Clause 72(4), the Ministry of Finance stated as follows :

> “The provisions in the Bill reproduce those in the Act faithfully and there is no change in the language used. The phrase "sum received" is used in the Act and "the amount" is used in the Bill. Futher, the reference is already made to "such unit" in the Bill. However, as the provisions in the Act were in the form of Explanations that are connected to each other, the use of the word such amount in the Bill may be acceptable.”

72.5.2 Responding to the suggestion regarding restoration of Explanation (ii) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in Clause 72(8), in order to obtain clarity on the rate at which the currency is to be converted, the Ministry submitted that :

> “This is a drafting correction and Explanation (ii) to Section 48 of the IT Act may be restored as "(d) the conversion of Indian currency into foreign currency and the reconversion of foreign currency into Indian currency shall be at the rate of exchange prescribed in this behalf;" in order to obtain clarity as suggested. This is acceptable.”

72.5 Observations / Recommendations of the Committee :

The Committee note that Clause 72 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for the mode of computation of capital gains and corresponds to Section 48 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After thoughtful deliberation of the provisions proposed under sub-clause (4)(b), the Committee recommend that for the sake of congruity with the corresponding provision in the parent Act, the phrase “the amount” be changed to “such amount” and the modified provision be read as :

"72(4)(b) – if the transaction of transfer of a unit is not considered as transfer under section 70 and cost of acquisition of such unit is determined under section 73, 'such amount' received with respect to such unit before as well as after such transaction, shall be reduced from the cost of acquisition."

Further, with respect to sub-clause (8), the Committee feel that in order to obtain clarity on the rate of conversion of currencies, the provision as contained in Explanation (ii) of Section 48 of the parent Act, needs to be included within the said sub-clause. Therefore, the Committee recommend that the said provision be included in sub-clause (8) as part (d) and the modified provision be read as :

"72(8)(d) - the conversion of Indian currency into foreign currency and the reconversion of foreign currency into Indian currency shall be at the rate of exchange prescribed in this behalf;".

Subject to the above modifications, the Committee find the provisions under Clause 72 to be acceptable.

This provides for better clarity and ease of understanding."

73.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

73.4.1 Suggestion regarding retention of Section 49(2AB) within Clause 73 of the Bill :

- Section 49(2AB) should be retained. Where the capital gain arises from the transfer of specified security or sweat equity shares, the cost of acquisition of such security or shares shall be the fair market value which has been taken into account while computing the value of fringe benefits under clause (ba) of sub-section (1) of section 115WC of the Income-tax Act, 1961.
  The sub-section may be relevant for transfer of securities obtained by employee on which fringe benefit tax was paid earlier, which securities are sold after the Income-Tax Bill 2025 becomes the operative Act.

73.4.2 Suggestion regarding changing the reference in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 4 from Section 17(2) to Section 17(1)(d) :

- The reference to Section 17(1)(d) must be given instead of Section 17(2). Section 17(2) deals with exclusions from perquisites. The correct reference of section 17(1)(d) must be made. Hence, proposed provision: Capital asset, being specified security or sweat equity shares, referred to in section 17(1)(d).

73.4.3 Suggestion regarding redrafting of Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 15 in Column C :

- To specify that the cost of acquisition of shares held in the demerged company shall be the original cost of amount paid for acquiring the original shares as reduced by the amount so arrived by under serial number 14. Therefore, suggested change: Cost of acquisition is "the cost of acquisition of the original shares held by the shareholder in the demerged company as reduced by the amount so arrived at under serial number 14".
  The absence of a specific mention from which the amount arrived in serial number 14 would be deducted makes the provision incomplete. The proposed reference makes the ascertainment of cost of acquisition complete.

73.4.4 Suggestion regarding making reference to Section 47A of the Act in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 16 :

- To provide that the cost of acquisition shall be the amount paid for acquiring the asset, if tax has been discharged upon the transaction totally exempted but subsequently charged to tax on account of exemption condition being violated - whether under the present law or the 1961 Act. Hence, suggested change in provision : Item No. 16 in table contained in Section 73(1): "Capital asset deemed to be chargeable to tax according to the provisions of section 71(1) and section 47A of the Income-tax Act, 1961."

Cost of acquisition in various cases of violation of exemption conditions shall be the actual consideration paid and not the deemed "follow up" cost of acquisition. The Bill has stepped up cost provisions where tax under the new dispensation is discharged. If there was a violation of the condition of exemption under the old law, but the new asset remained, and is sold under the new dispensation, what shall be the cost of acquisition is uncertain.

73.4.5 Suggestion pertaining to Clause 73(1), Table item 19 :

- The description of the specified capital asset should be incorporated in the section.

73.4.6 Suggestions regarding amendments in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 20 :

- To provide a new provision in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 20 outlining the deemed cost of acquisition of capital assets falling in Clause 67(16).
  Item No. 20 in table contained in Section 73(1): Capital asset being, "share in the project, in the form of land or building, or both, under section 67(14), not being the capital asset referred to in section 67(16)." Cost of acquisition is "The amount deemed as full value of consideration under section 67(14)."
  Proposed provision for outlining deemed cost of acquisition in cases covered under section 67(16): Capital asset, being "share in the project, in the form of land or building, or both, under section 67(16)." Cost of acquisition is "The amount of full value of consideration adopted for paying tax on capital gain under section 67(1)."
  If an assessee transfers his share in the project before issuance of certificate of completion, section 67(14) is not applicable. As per Section 67(16), the capital gains in such case shall be computed with reference to the other provisions of the Act. In such cases, the cost of acquisition of share transferred cannot be the cost referred in section 67(14). Hence, cases covered under section 67(16) of the Bill should be excluded from the clause as existing in the proposed Bill. Instead, a new clause as suggested maybe incorporated. In cases, where section 67(16) is applicable, the law does not provide for deemed cost of acquisition of share in the project. Providing deemed cost of acquisition in such cases would impart clarity.

- Column C of Sl. No.20 may be amended to provide that on subsequent sale of share of land or building or both, the cost of acquisition shall be deemed to be the stamp duty value of such share of land or building or both forming part of the full value of consideration u/s 67(14).
  The full value of consideration under section 67(14), however, includes both the Stamp Duty Value (SDV) of the share of land or building or both as well as consideration received in cash/cheque/draft etc.

73.5 Examination by the Committee:

73.5.1 Response of the Ministry of Finance on suggestion regarding retention of Section 49(2AB) within Clause 73 of the Bill :

> "The suggestion seeks for providing for cost of acquisition in cases where the shares obtained as fringe benefit are sold later with reference to section 49(2AB) of IT Act. Fringe Benefits are no longer applicable. Therefore, this provision is redundant. However, for cost of acquisition, this is covered by the Repeal and Savings Clause in 536(2), the provisions of which are : 536.(1) The Income-tax Act, 1961 is hereby repealed.(2) Irrespective of the repeal of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the repealed Income-tax Act), and subject to sub-section (3)—(a) nothing shall affect the previous operation of the repealed Act and orders or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or(b) nothing shall affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under the repealed Act or orders under such repealed Act;
> This is already addressed in the Bill."

73.5.2 Responding to the suggestion regarding changing the reference in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 4 from Section 17(2) to Section 17(1)(d), the Ministry of Finance stated that :

> "This is a drafting correction and the Entry at Si.No 4 in Clause 73 may be changed as : Capital asset, being specified security or sweat equity shares, referred to in section 17(1)(d). This is acceptable."

73.5.3 With respect to the suggestion regarding redrafting of Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 15 in Column C, the Ministry submitted that :

> "This is a drafting correction and 'S.No 15 in Column C may be changed as "the cost of acquisition of such original shares as reduced by the amount so arrived at under serial number 14"' in order to obtain clarity as suggested. This is acceptable. Redrafting may provide more clarity."

73.5.4 To the suggestion regarding making reference to Section 47A of the Act in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 16, the Ministry responded as under :

> "The suggestion seeks that on violation of condition, when capital gains is charged, the cost of acquisition provided in section 47A should be protected by making reference to the provision of IT Act. This is covered in the Repeal and Savings clause in 536(2), the provisions of which are :536. (1) The Income-tax Act, 1961 is hereby repealed.(2) Irrespective of the repeal of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the repealed Income-tax Act), and subject to sub-section (3)—(a) nothing shall affect the previous operation of the repealed Act and orders or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or(b) nothing shall affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under the repealed Act or orders under such repealed Act;

This is already addressed in the Bill."

73.5.5 Regarding the suggestion pertaining to Clause 73(1), Table item 19, the Ministry submitted that "

"The suggestion seeks that reference to S. 10(37A) of the IT Act for specified asset may not be provided. The provisions of 10(37A) give exemption to "income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" in respect of transfer of a specified capital asset arising to an assessee, being an individual or a Hindu undivided family, who was the owner of such specified capital asset as on the 2nd day of June, 2014". As the provisions of 10(37A) are redundant as on date, they have not been reproduced in the Bill and the reference is made to the IT Act, 1961. This is in line with the provisions in section 49(6) of the Act. This suggestion is already addressed."

73.5.6 During the Sitting, with respect to the suggestion pertaining to Clause 73(1) Table item 19 in the Bill, the representative of the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

"…this is in respect of capital gains in respect of transfer of specified capital assets arising to assessee being individual or HUF who was owner of such asset as on 2nd of June, 2014.
…. this issue is again relating to referencing of the 1961 Act. Fundamentally, it arises from that."

73.5.7 Further, when asked to incorporate the description of the phrase 'specified capital asset' in the said Clause so as to clarify and remove any scope for ambiguity, the representative of the Ministry assured the Committee that this would be considered.

73.5.8 Corresponding responses of the Ministry on the suggestions regarding amendments in Clause 73(1) Table Sl. No. 20 :

"The suggestion seeks a provision for determining the cost of acquisition for the transactions referred to in Clause 67(16) - where the assessee transfers his share in the project on or before the date of issue of certificate of completion in the case of a specified agreement (JDA). In such cases the cost of acquisition shall take its normal meaning. No specific deeming provision is required as the property stands transferred. Specific deeming provision is needed where the share is retained by the assessee at the time of completion certificate. The issue is already addressed."

73.5.9 Elucidating on the issue of deemed cost of acquisition for transactions where the assessee transfers his share of the asset between signing of Joint Development Agreement (JDA) and completion of project, the representatives of the Ministry of Finance stated that :

> "…we are saying that in these cases, cost of acquisition shall take its normal meaning. Like, there is a joint development agreement with the builder. Before that building comes into being, the taxpayer, the assessee sells his share. So, whatever is the cost of acquisition, that will take its normal meaning."

73.5.10 Providing further clarifications regarding the calculation of capital gains tax on the transfer of assets, the time of levying of such tax and the cost of acquisition of such transferred asset, the representative of the Department submitted that :

> "...यहां पर जो इश्यू है, वह काफी समय से लिटिगेटेड रहा है। पहला इश्यू यह था कि अगर मेरे पास एक पुरानी लैंड या बिल्डिंग है और मैं उसे किसी बिल्डर को दे देता हूं और उसके साथ एक ज्वायंट डेवलपमेंट एग्रीमेंट करता हूं। फिर उस पर वह बिल्डर घर बना करके या तो जो नया घर बन रहा है, उसमें से एक पार्ट हमें दे देगा और साथ में कुछ कैश भी हमें देगा। सर, इस स्थिति में लिटिगेशन हमेशा इस प्वाइंट पर होता था कि किस समय यह इनकम 'कैपिटल गेन' में टैक्सेबल होगा। क्या हमने जिस वर्ष में ज्वायंट डेवलपमेंट एग्रीमेंट साइन कर लिया, उस वर्ष में होगा या जिस वर्ष में हमें नया एसेट मिला? इसमें एक निश्चितता लायी गयी। उसमें यह बताया गया कि जिस साल में उस नये प्रोजेक्ट की कंप्लीशन सर्टिफिकेट मिल जाएगी, उस वर्ष में यह टैक्सेबल होगा और उस समय नए प्रॉपर्टी में मेरा जो शेयर मिला, और उसकी जो फेयर मार्केट वैल्यू है और जो मेरी अपनी पुरानी प्रॉपर्टी की वैल्यू थी, उसके साथ-साथ अगर मुझे कुछ कैश में मिला है तो वह कैश भी हमारी कंसिड्रेशन में जुड़ जाएगा। दोनों का डिफरेंस 'कैपिटल गेन' टैक्स होगा।
> .... यहां उसने यह प्रॉब्लम बतायी हुई है कि मैंने कंप्लीशन सर्टिफिकेट से पहले ही, जो मेरा राइट था, वह राइट मैंने किसी और को बेच दिया तो उसकी कॉस्ट ऑफ एक्विजीशन क्या होगी? सर, कॉस्ट ऑफ एक्विजीशन में तो कोई दिक्कत नहीं है, क्योंकि कॉस्ट ऑफ एक्विजीशन तो जो मेरी प्रॉपर्टी थी, वही है।..."

73.5.11 Regarding levying of capital gains tax over a transfer of capital assets, the representatives of the Ministry explained that :

> "...कैपिटल गेन्स में सेल कंसीड्रेशन रिसीव्ड पर नहीं है, सेल कंसीड्रेशन रिसीवेबल्स पर है, लेकिन गवर्नमेंट ने इंडिविज्युअल और एच.यू.एफ. पर यह प्रावधान किया है कि जब कम्पलीशन सर्टिफिकेट मिलेगा, उस समय इंसिडेंशियल कैपिटल गेन्स होगा, लेकिन

कैपिटल गेन्स पर वह दो फ्लैट हमको मिल जायेंगे तब चार्ज होगा। यह कैपिटल गेन्स की स्कीम में नहीं है। So, we have made an exception for individuals in HUF that you do not have money, when you get the completion certificate, that will be the year in which capital gains will be taxed.

… the provision is that before he gets two flats, if he sells them, then the deferment of capital gains to the year of completion does not survive. It gets taxed in the year in which we have sold a part of his sale consideration. या तो आप वेट करो, अगर पहले बेचते हो in that year, you get tax. That deferred rate does not operate then."

73.5.12 On the suggestion regarding 'Full value of consideration' on subsequent sale of an asset, the Ministry submitted that :

"The existing provisions under section 45(5A), Full Value of Consideration includes both the Stamp Duty Value (SDV) of the share of land or building as increased by consideration received in cash/cheque/draft etc. The provisions are same in the new IT Bill. The suggestion seeks that any consideration apart from the SDV should be ignored. This would bring inconsistency in tax treatment. The sale value for one transfer should be the cost of acquisition for subsequent transfer. Also, if the taxpayer receives any other amount in relation to the transfer, this should also be a part of cost of acquisition for subsequent stage- failing which the taxpayer would have to offer more income as capital gains. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is not feasible."

73.5.13 Further explaining the issue regarding 'Full value of consideration' in cases of subsequent sale of capital assets, the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee that :

"…The stakeholder is saying what would be the cost of acquisition in case of subsequent transfer. There is one transfer and then, there is a subsequent transfer. For second transfer, the cost of acquisition should only be stamp duty value. So, Sir, what we are saying, for the first transfer, the full value of consideration that we take, that is stamp duty value plus anything other than stamp duty value, if over and above the taxpayer has received any cash or in kind, whatever, that is added to the consideration.

So, what is the sale consideration for the first transfer, that is taken as cost to acquisition for the second transfer. So, for the subsequent transfer, we cannot deem it to be only stamp duty value because stamp duty value is Rs. 100…"

73.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 73 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for the cost of acquisition of the asset with reference to certain modes of acquisition and is synonymous with Section 49 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. On careful examination, the Committee find that within the provision regarding description of the capital asset as contained in Table serial number 4 of sub-clause (1), an erroneous reference has been made to Section 17(2) instead of Section 17(1)(d) which is of relevance in this case as it provides for the value of any specified security or sweat equity shares as mentioned in Table serial number 4. Therefore, the Committee recommend that the reference be changed from Section 17(2) to Section 17(1)(d) and the modified provision be read as :

"73(1) Table serial number 4 – Capital asset, being specified security or sweat equity shares, referred to in 'Section 17(1)(d)'".

Further, regarding provisions relating to the cost of acquisition as contained in column C of Table serial number 15 under sub-clause (1), the Committee find that the absence of a specific mention from which the amount arrived in serial number 14 would be deducted makes the provision incomplete. The Committee feel that insertion of the phrase "the cost of acquisition of such original shares" at the beginning of the provision would accord better clarity and therefore, the Committee recommend that the phrase be suitably inserted and the modified provision be read as :

"73(1) Table serial number 15 column C – 'the cost of acquisition of such original shares' as reduced by the amount so arrived at serial number 14".

Furthermore, the Committee take cognizance of the fact that a cross references has been made to the Income-tax Act of 1961 with regard to specified capital asset mentioned in this clause. The Committee are of the view that such cross referencing to the IT Act, 1961 in the current Bill will necessitate the reference to a repealed Act in future and will make the exercise cumbersome and unsuitable. Thus, the Committee recommend the Ministry to remove any reference to the IT Act, 1961 from the text of specific clauses and instead create relevant provisions in the Savings Clause 536 of the Bill in order to cover all such clauses requiring reference to the IT Act, 1961. Subject to the specified modifications, the Committee find the provisions proposed under Clause 73 to be acceptable.

Clause 74 – Special provision for computation of capital gains in case of depreciable assets.

74.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

74.(1)Irrespective of anything contained in section 2(101), for a capital asset forming part of a block of assets on which depreciation has been allowed under this Act or under the Income-tax Act, 1961 or under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the provisions ofsections72 and 73 shall be subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3) and (4).

(2) If, during the tax year, the full value of consideration received or accruing for the transfer of one or more assets in a block of assets exceeds the total of the following:—

(a) expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for such transfer;

(b) the written-down value of the block of assets at the start of the tax year; and

(c) the actual cost of any asset falling within the block of assets acquired during the tax year,

Such excess shall be deemed to be capital gains arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets.

(3) If any block of assets ceases to exist for the reason that all the assets in that block are transferred during the tax year, then,—

(a) the cost of acquisition of the block of assets shall be the writtendown value of the block of assets at the beginning of the tax year, as increased by the actual cost of any asset falling within that block of assets, acquired by the assessee during the tax year; and

(b) the income received or accruing as a result of such transfer or transfers shall be deemed to be short-term capital gains.

74.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50. Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (42A) of section 2, where the capital asset is an asset forming part of a block of assets in respect of which depreciation has been allowed under this Act or under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 (11 of 1922), the provisions of sections 48 and 49 shall be subject to the following modifications :—

(1) where the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the asset together with the full value of such consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of any other capital asset falling within the block of assets during the previous year, exceeds the aggregate of the following amounts, namely :—

(i) expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer or transfers;

(ii) the written down value of the block of assets at the beginning of the previous year; and

(iii) the actual cost of any asset falling within the block of assets acquired during the previous year, such excess shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets;

(2) where any block of assets ceases to exist as such, for the reason that all the assets in that block are transferred during the previous year, the cost of acquisition of the block of assets shall be the written down value of the block of assets at the beginning of the previous year, as increased by the actual cost of any asset falling within that block of assets, acquired by the assessee during the previous year and the income received or accruing as a result of such transfer or transfers shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets:

Provided that in a case where goodwill of a business or profession forms part of a block of asset for the assessment year beginning on the 1st day of April, 2020 and depreciation thereon has been obtained by the assessee under the Act, the written down value of that block of asset and short-term capital gain, if any, shall be determined in such manner as may be prescribed.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, reduction of the amount of goodwill of a business or profession, from the block of asset in accordance with sub-item (B) of item (ii) of sub-clause (c) of clause (6) of section 43 shall be deemed to be transfer.

74.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 74 of the Bill provides for special provision for computation of capital gains in case of depreciable assets. The said clause seeks to tabulate the methodology for arriving at the cost of acquisition for different capital assets. This clause corresponds to section 50 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

74.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

74.4.1 Suggestion regarding redrafting sub-clause (1) of Clause 74 :

- Sub-section (1) may be redrafted as follows - 74. (1) Irrespective of anything contained in section 2(101), for a capital asset forming part of a block of assets on which depreciation has been allowed under this Act or under the Income-tax Act, 1961 or under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, the provisions of sections 72 and 73 shall be subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3) and (4) (2) and (3). There is no subsection (4) in section 74. Therefore, section 74(1) can be subject to the provisions of subsections (2) and (3).

74.4.2 Suggestion regarding restoration of the explanation of goodwill under Clause 74 sub-clause (3) :

- The following provision has now been changed in the IT Bill to provide that in case of goodwill forming part of a block of assets also, the transfer would result in short term capital gains : Provided that in a case where goodwill of a business or profession forms part of a block of asset for the assessment year beginning on the 1st day of April, 2020 and depreciation thereon has been obtained by the assessee under the Act, the written down value of that block of asset and short-term capital gain, if any, shall be determined in such manner as may be prescribed. [Explanation—For the purposes of this section, reduction of the amount of goodwill of a business or profession, from the block of asset in accordance with sub-item (B) of item (ii) of sub-clause (c) of clause (6) of section 43 shall be deemed to be transfer.]
  Recommend that the provision of the proviso and explanation under section 50(2) of the IT Act, 1961 in respect of goodwill be restored.
  The proposed change results in policy change in the scheme of taxation of transfer of Goodwill. The intention of the IT Bill is not to make any policy change.

74.4.3 With respect to rewording of Clause 74(3)(b), it is suggested that:

- Since section 74(2) states that excess shall be deemed to be “capital gains arising from the transfer of short term capital assets”, similar language may be used in section 74(3)(b).
  Therefore, Section 74(3)(b) may be reworded as - (b) the income received or accruing as a result of such transfer or transfers shall be deemed to be short-term capital gains arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets.
  Different language in the sub-sections for different scenarios could result in unnecessary litigation when the ascribed meaning is intended to be the same in both the scenarios.

74.5 Examination by the Committee:

74.5.1 Response of the Ministry of Finance with respect to the suggestion regarding redrafting sub-clause (1) of Clause 74 :

> "This is a drafting correction and clause 74(1) may be modified to remove the reference to sub-clause (4). This is acceptable."

74.5.2 To the suggestion regarding restoration of the explanation of goodwill under Clause 74 sub-clause (3), the Ministry responded as under :

> "It was suggested that the provision of the proviso and explanation under section 50(2) of the IT Act, 1961 in respect of goodwill be restored. However, the Proviso was provided only for one year, i.e. AY starting on 01.04.2020 and it was meant to provide for taxation of goodwill on its removal from block of assets. Further, the Explanation refers to section 43(6)(c)(ii)(B) which is regarding the calculation of WDV of goodwill. However, "goodwill" itself was removed from the list of "intangible assets" in the definitions of Block of assets in Section 2(11) w.e.f 01.04.2021. Therefore the suggestion is not feasible."

74.5.3 During the Sitting, the representative of the Ministry shared details regarding the goodwill provision in the Income-tax Act and submitted that :

> "…the stakeholder is asking for a proviso in respect of goodwill which formed part of block of asset for only one particular year, that was 2020-21. So, that proviso is no longer applicable. That proviso was applicable only for one year. So, the goodwill treatment has changed from 2021…"

74.5.4 Responding to the suggestion regarding rewording of Clause 74(3)(b), the Ministry submitted that :

> "The short-term capital gains is defined as "capital gains arising from the transfer of short term capital assets" which is exactly what was used in clause 74(2). However, this suggestion may be considered to ensure consistency in drafting. Or, the corresponding change may be made in Clause 74(2) to ensure consistency within the Clause."

74.6 Observations / Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 74 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 defines a specific provision for computation of capital gains in case of depreciable assets and corresponds to Section 50 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Upon careful deliberation of the provisions under sub-clause (1), the Committee note a typographical error in the form of "sub-section (4)" within this sub-clause. Considering the response of the Ministry of Finance in this regard, the Committee recommend that this phrase may be deleted from sub-clause (1) in order to reflect the factually correct position and the said sub-clause may, therefore, be redrafted to read as :

"74(1) - … the provisions of sections 72 and 73 shall be subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3)".

Further, the Committee observe that while "capital gains" in sub-clause (2) of Clause 74 have been specified to be "arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets", no such specification has been provided for "capital gains" mentioned under sub-clause (3)(b). Taking into consideration the response of the Ministry in this regard, the Committee feel that consistency in drafting must be ensured within the Clause. Therefore, for the sake of uniformity, the Committee recommend the addition of the phrase "arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets" in sub-clause (3)(b) and the same may be redrafted to read as :

"74(3)(b) - the income received or accruing as a result of such transfer or transfers shall be deemed to be short-term capital gains 'arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets'."

Furthermore, the Committee note that with respect to depreciation allowed on capital asset forming part of a block of assets, the provision mentioned under sub-clause (1) has a cross reference to the Income-tax Act, 1961 and also to the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922. The Committee are of the view that such cross referencing to the IT Act of 1961 or 1922 in the current Bill could result in a cumbersome exercise of repeatedly referring to repealed Acts for referencing in future. Thus, to avoid any scope for complications in future, the Committee recommend that any reference to the IT Act, 1961 or 1922 be removed from the text of specific clauses and instead relevant provisions be created within the Savings Clause 536 of the Bill in order to cover all such clauses requiring reference to the IT Act, 1961 or 1922. The Committee accept the remaining provisions under Clause 74 as proposed.

Clause 75 – Special provision for cost of acquisition in case of depreciable asset.

75.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

75 .If depreciation has been obtained under section 33(2) for a capital asset in any tax year, the provisions of sections72 and 73 shall apply subject to the modification that the written down value, as defined in section 41, of the asset, as adjusted, shall be taken as the cost of acquisition of the asset.

75.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50A. Where the capital asset is an asset in respect of which a deduction on account of depreciation under clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 32 has been obtained by the assessee in any previous year, the provisions of sections 48 and 49 shall apply subject to the modification that the written down value, as defined in clause (6) of section 43, of the asset, as adjusted, shall be taken as the cost of acquisition of the asset.

75.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> "Clause 75 of the Bill provides for computation of capital gains with respect to assets that are depreciable, as well as the provision for their cost of acquisition. This clause corresponds to section 50A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

75.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

75.4.1 Suggestion regarding Clause 75 :

- Restore the original provisions of the IT Act, section 50A and 32(1)(i) The current language of the Bill in section 75 and section 33(2) are referring to different class of assets and a different policy in respect of the referred assets as compared to the provisions of the IT Act. The proposed change results in a policy change. The intention of the IT Bill is not to make any policy change, only simplify the provisions of the Income-Tax Act, 1961.

75.5 Examination by the Committee:

75.5.1 Response of the Ministry to the above mentioned suggestion :

> "There seems to be no difference between the provisions of Clause 198(2)(a) in the Bill and those mentioned in the suggestion. The suggestion is not clear."

75.6 Observations / Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after reviewing the provisions proposed under Clause 75, note that this clause relates to a special provision for calculating the capital gains to be taxed in respect of depreciable assets by adjusting the cost of acquisition to account for the depreciated value of the asset. The Committee also observe that while this clause corresponds with Section 50A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the provisions proposed therein stay true to the content and intent as envisaged under the parent Act. Further, after careful deliberation of the replies and justifications furnished by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee, while expressing satisfaction with the submissions of the Ministry, accept the proposed the clause in entirety.

Clause 76 – Special provision for computation of capital gains in case of Market Linked Debenture.

76.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

76. (1) Irrespective of anything contained in section 2(101) or section 72, the gains on the transfer or redemption or maturity, of a capital asset as mentioned in sub-section (2) shall be treated as short-term capital gains and shall be computed as per sub-section (3).

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the capital asset shall be—

(a) a unit of a Specified Mutual Fund acquired on or after 1st April, 2023 or a Market Linked Debenture; or

(b) an unlisted bond or an unlisted debenture which is transferred or redeemed or matures on or after the 23rdJuly, 2024.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the short-term capital gains shall be computed as per the following formula:—

X = A – B – C,

where,—

X = short-term capital gains;

A = full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer or redemption or maturity of the debenture or unit or bond;

B = the cost of acquisition of the debenture or unit or bond; and

C = the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for such transfer or redemption or maturity.

(4) No deduction shall be allowed for any sum paid as securities transaction tax as per Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004.

(5) In this section,—

(a) “Market Linked Debenture” means a security, by whatever name called, which has an underlying principal component in the form of a debt security and where the returns are linked to market returns on other underlying securities or indices, and include any security classified or regulated as a market linked debenture by the Securities and Exchange Board of India; and

(b) “Specified Mutual Fund” means a Mutual Fund, by whatever name called, which invests more than 65% of its total proceeds in debt and money market instruments or a fund which invests 65% or more of its total proceeds in units of such Mutual Fund, subject to the following:—

(i) the percentage of investment in debt and money market instruments or in units of a fund shall be computed with reference to the annual average of the daily closing figures;

(ii) “debt and money market instruments” shall include any securities, by whatever name called, classified or regulated as debt and money market instruments by the Securities and Exchange Board of India.

76.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50AA. [51][Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (42A) of section 2 or section 48, where the capital asset—

(a) is a unit of a Specified Mutual Fund acquired on or after the 1st day of April, 2023 or a Market Linked Debenture; or

(b) is an unlisted bond or an unlisted debenture which is transferred or redeemed or matures on or after the 23rd day of July, 2024, the full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer or redemption or maturity of such debenture or unit or bond as reduced by—

(i) the cost of acquisition of the debenture or unit or bond; and

(ii) the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer or redemption or maturity, shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising from the transfer of a short-term capital asset:]

Provided that no deduction shall be allowed in computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains" in respect of any sum paid on account of securities transaction tax under the provisions of Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004 (23 of 2004).

Explanation.— For the purposes of this section—

(i) "Market Linked Debenture" means a security by whatever name called, which has an underlying principal component in the form of a debt security and where the returns are linked to market returns on other underlying securities or indices and include any security classified or regulated as a market linked debenture by the Securities and Exchange Board of India;

(ii) "Specified Mutual Fund" means a Mutual Fund by whatever name called, where not more than thirty five per cent of its total proceeds is invested in the equity shares of domestic companies:

Provided that the percentage of equity shareholding held in respect of the Specified Mutual Fund shall be computed with reference to the annual average of the daily closing figures.]

Following clause (ii) shall be substituted for clause (ii) of Explanation to section 50AA by the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2024, w.e.f. 1-4-2026:

*(ii)* "Specified Mutual Fund" means,--

*(a)* a Mutual Fund by whatever name called, which invests more than sixty-five per cent of its total proceeds in debt and money market instruments; or

*(b)* *a fund which invests sixty-five per cent or more of its total proceeds in units of a fund referred to in sub-clause (a):*

Provided that the percentage of investment in debt and money market instruments or in units of a fund, as the case may be, in respect of the Specified Mutual Fund, shall be computed with reference to the annual average of the daily closing figures:

Provided further that for the purposes of this clause, "debt and money market instruments" shall include any securities, by whatever name called, classified or regulated as debt and money market instruments by the Securities and Exchange Board of India.

76.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 76 of the Bill provides for special provision for computation of capital gains in case of Market Linked Debenture. This clause corresponds to section 50AA of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified by simplifying the language with the same intent as that of the existing section. The computation mechanism has been provided by way of formula/equation in clause 76(3)."

76.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

76.4.1 Suggestions pertaining to grandfathering provision for Specified Mutual Funds and for retaining language as used in Section 50AA :

- Removal of grandfathering for Specified Mutual Funds acquired before 1 April 2023 from deemed STCG treatment is unclear and may be an inadvertent drafting error. Substitution of 'expenditure wholly and exclusively incurred in connection with transfer' to 'for such transfer' may create ambiguity and litigation. Therefore, suggestions:
  i) Reinstate the grandfathering provision for units of Specified Mutual Funds acquired prior to 1 April 2023 in ITB 2025.
  ii)Continue the language employed in Section 50AA of ITA 1961 in Section 76 of ITB 2025 regarding expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with the transfer to avoid litigation.
- To prevent ambiguity and potential litigation regarding deductible expenses, it is recommended to retain the language from section 50AA of the Act in section 76 of the ITB. Specifically, the phrase "expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with the transfer" should be used instead of "for such transfer". This would ensure continuity in the interpretation of deductible expenses and provide clarity to taxpayers in computing their capital gains.

76.4.2 Suggestion regarding Clause 76 (2) :

- It is suggested that this subsection 2 be split 3 ways as follows : For the purposes of sub-section (1), the capital asset shall be : (a) A unit of a Specified Mutual Fund acquired on or after 1st April 2023; OR (b) A Market Linked Debenture; OR (c) An unlisted bond or an unlisted debenture which is transferred or redeemed or matures on or after 23rd July 2024. This very clearly states that the Market Linked Debenture, whenever acquired, results in short-term capital gains. The language in the ITB leaves some uncertainty, where lay person interprets it to mean that the MLD would result in STCG only if acquired post 1st April 2023.

76.4.3 Suggestion regarding deletion of Clause 76 to prevent Market Linked Debentures (MLDs) being treated as Short Term Capital Gains (SCTG) :

- Section 76 causes distortions in investment decisions. Board notified instruments classified as Market Linked Debentures may suffer tax as Short Term Capital Gains although prior to such notification they were not to be so treated. A grandfathering provisions therefore to be incorporated in such cases. If it had been taxed as interest under the head 'Other Sources', interest paid on loans taken would have been available as a deduction which would be impermissible if the characterization is as capital gains. Thus, deletion of section 76 is suggested.

76.4.4 Suggestion regarding rewording of sub-clause (4) under Clause 76 :

- In computing the income chargeable under the head “Capital gains”, no deduction shall be allowed for any sum paid as securities transaction tax as per Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004.The proposed section does not mention the particular item from which deduction is not to be allowed. Such a clear reference is discernible in section 72(3). A language similar to that in section 72(3) of the Bill is proposed in section 76(4) also.

76.5 Examination by the Committee:

76.5.1 With respect to reinstating the grandfathering provision for units of Specified Mutual Funds acquired prior to 1 April 2023 in ITB 2025, the Ministry furnished that :

> "Grandfathering: The treatment of Specified Mutual Funds acquired prior to and post 1st April 2023 has been kept exactly the same in both the Bill (Clause 76) and Act (Section 50AA).
> Section 50AA was introduced to apply to Specific Mutual Funds defined in the Section, acquired on or after 01.04.2023. Clause 76 has similar language. The suggestion has no merits"

[Batch I, Sl. No. 86 part (i), Pg 76]

76.5.2 Further, during the Sitting of the Committee held on 26th May, 2025, the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee about the issue of grandfathering and stated that :

> "…fundamentally, that grandfathering is already available. In the old provision, it is written that assets/units acquired before this date are exempted from this provision and after this date, these provisions are applicable. And the same provisions have been carried forward into the new Bill. The grandfathering has already been provided. No further grandfathering is required…"

76.5.3 Furthermore, with regard to continuing the language employed in Section 50AA of ITA 1961 in Clause 76 of ITB 2025 regarding expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with the transfer to avoid litigation, the Ministry in their response accepted that :

> "The phrase used in the IT Act, is preferable. This is a drafting correction and clause 76 may be redrafted to include the phrase ""expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with the transfer"" in line with the provisions of the ITA 1961. This is acceptable."

76.5.4 Responding the suggestion regarding Clause 76(2), the Ministry stated that :

> "The phrase "on or after 1st April 2023" is mentioned before "Market Linked debenture" and there is no doubt that this is not applicable to MLDs. This is only applicable for Specified Mutual Funds. This suggestion is already addressed."

76.5.5 In response to the suggestion regarding deletion of Clause 76 to prevent Market Linked Debentures (MLDs) being treated as Short Term Capital Gains (SCTG), the Ministry submitted that :

> "It is suggested that the Market Linked debentures (MLDs) purchased before the amendment in Section 50AA be allowed to have interest on loans for them set off as deduction. The treatment of has been kept exactly the same in both the Bill (Clause 76) and Act (Section 50AA). Section 50AA was introduced to apply to MLDs defined in the Section, Clause 76 has similar language. The payout from MLDs is only at maturity and there is no income from other sources. Therefore, the concept of getting deduction for interest paid on loan taken is irrelevant. The only change brought in by Section 50AA was to treat MLDs as short-term capital assets irrespective of the period of holding. Therefore, this suggestion is not clear."

76.5.6 Responding to the suggestion regarding rewording of sub-clause (4) under Clause 76, the Ministry stated that :

"This is a drafting correction and clause 76 (4) may be redrafted as ""In computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains", no deduction shall be allowed for any sum paid as securities transaction tax as per Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004" in line with the provisions of the ITA 1961. This is acceptable."

76.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 76 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds to Section 50AA of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and seeks to provide for a special provision for computation of capital gains in case of Market Linked Debenture by way of a defined formula/equation. After careful examination of the provisions contained in this clause, along with the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance and the suggestions received from stakeholders, the Committee find the proposed provisions to be broadly acceptable. Further, while taking note of the textual simplification, the Committee also observe that the intent and substance of the existing law have been retained in the proposed clause.

The Committee, however, observe that certain drafting refinements are desirable for improved clarity, consistency, and alignment with legislative intent. The Committee, therefore, recommend the following modifications :

1. For the purpose of enhanced clarity, within the formula for computation of short term capital gains contained in Clause 76(3), the phrase "in connection with" be inserted within the provision contained under variable 'C' and the modified provision be read as :

   "C= the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively 'in connection with' such transfer for redemption or maturity".

2. For making the provision contained in sub-clause (4) clearly discernible, the phrase "In computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains"," be inserted and the modified provision be read as :

   "76(4) – 'In computing the income chargeable under the head "Capital gains"', no deduction shall be allowed for any sum paid as securities transaction tax as per Chapter VII of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 2004."

Subject to the above modifications, the Committee find the proposed provisions under Clause 76 to be acceptable.

Clause 77 – Special provision for computation of capital gains in case of slump sale.

77.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

77. (1) Any profits or gains arising from the slump sale effected in the tax year shall be chargeable to income-tax as long-term capital gains and shall be deemed to be the income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2).

(2) The profits and gains arising from a slump sale involving the transfer of a capital asset, being one or more undertakings or divisions owned and held by an assessee for 36 months or less, immediately before the date of its transfer, shall be treated as short-term capital gains.

(3) In relation to capital assets, being an undertaking or division transferred by way of slump sale,—

(a) the "net worth" of the undertaking or division shall be deemed as the cost of acquisition and the cost of improvement for sections 72 and 73; and

(b) the fair market value of the capital assets on the date of transfer, calculated in such manner, as prescribed, shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer.

(4) Every assessee, in the case of slump sale, shall furnish in the prescribed form a report of an accountant, before the specified date referred to in section 63, and the report shall—–

(a) include the computation of the net worth of the undertaking or division; and

(b) certify that the net worth has been correctly arrived at as per the provisions of this section.

(5) For the purposes of this section,—

(a) the "net worth" shall be the "aggregate value of total assets" of the undertaking or division, as reduced by the value of its liabilities as appearing in the books of account, and for computing net worth, any change in the value of assets due to revaluation shall be ignored;

(b) the "aggregate value of total assets" shall,—

(i) for depreciable assets, be the written down value of the block of assets determined under section 41(1)(Table: Sl. No.3);

(ii) for capital asset being goodwill of a business or profession, which was not acquired by the assessee by purchase from a previous owner, be nil;

(iii) for capital assets for which the entire expenditure has been allowed or is allowable as a deduction under section 46, be nil; and

(iv) for other assets, be the book value.

77.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50B. (1) Any profits or gains arising from the slump sale effected in the previous year shall be chargeable to income-tax as capital gains arising from the transfer of long-term capital assets and shall be deemed to be the income of the previous year in which the transfer took place :

Provided that any profits or gains arising from the transfer under the slump sale of any capital asset being one or more undertakings owned and held by an assessee for not more than thirty-six months immediately preceding the date of its transfer shall be deemed to be the capital gains arising from the transfer of short-term capital assets.

(2) In relation to capital assets being an undertaking or division transferred by way of such slump sale,—

(i) the "net worth" of the undertaking or the division, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be the cost of acquisition and the cost of improvement for the purposes of sections 48 and 49 and no regard shall be given to the provisions contained in the second proviso to section 48;

(ii) fair market value of the capital assets as on the date of transfer, calculated in the prescribed manner, shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of such capital asset.

(3) Every assessee, in the case of slump sale, shall furnish in the prescribed form a report of an accountant as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288 before the specified date referred to in section 44AB indicating the computation of the net worth of the undertaking or division, as the case may be, and certifying that the net worth of the undertaking or division, as the case may be, has been correctly arrived at in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this section, "net worth" shall be the aggregate value of total assets of the undertaking or division as reduced by the value of liabilities of such undertaking or division as appearing in its books of account :

Provided that any change in the value of assets on account of revaluation of assets shall be ignored for the purposes of computing the net worth.

Explanation 2.—For computing the net worth, the aggregate value of total assets shall be,—

(a) in the case of depreciable assets, the written down value of the block of assets determined in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-item (c) of item

(i) of sub-clause (c) of clause (6) of section 43;

(aa) in the case of capital asset being goodwill of a business or profession, which has not been acquired by the assessee by purchase from a previous owner, nil;

(b) in the case of capital assets in respect of which the whole of the expenditure has been allowed or is allowable as a deduction under section 35AD, nil; and

(c) in the case of other assets, the book value of such assets.

77.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 77 of the Bill provides for the computation of capital gains in the scenario of a slump sale of a capital asset. This clause corresponds to section 50B of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

77.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

77.4.1 Suggestions regarding rewording of sub-clause (2) and reducing holding period in case of slump sale under Clause 77(2) :

- Reduce the period of holding to 24 months to qualify for long term capital gains. This will bring the period of holding to fall under short term capital asset, in line with the definition of Short Term Capital Asset under S 2(101)(a) of the IT Bill As the IT Bill proposes to streamline provisions, then, it is logical that no asset class should have a period of holding different than that provided in the definition section.

- Sub-section (2) may be reworded as given below- (2) The profits and gains arising from a slump sale involving the transfer of a capital asset, being one or more undertakings or divisions owned and held by an assessee for 3624 months or less, immediately before the date of its transfer, shall be treated as short-term capital gains.
  Section 77 contains the special provisions for computation of capital gain in case of slump sale. Section 77(2) provides that transfer under a slump sale of an undertaking held for "not more than 36 months" would be deemed to be capital gains from transfer of a short-term capital asset. Since the period of holding for treating capital assets as short-term and long-term are either 24 months or 12 months depending on the asset as per section 2(101), therefore, the period of holding for the undertaking transferred in slump sale to be treated as short term capital asset can be "not more than 24 months" in line with the period of holding of land and building.

77.4.2 Suggestion regarding incorporating cost accountants in practice under Clause 77(4) :

- 77(4) Every assessee, in the case of slump sale, shall furnish in the prescribed form a report of a chartered accountant in practice or a cost accountant in practice, before the specified date referred to in section 63, and the report shall—
  Slump sale means sale of entire business as going concern with all assets and liabilities in one go.
  So for calculation of value of slump sale, the expertise of cost accountants is necessary. Hence, the cost accountants in practice may be allowed to furnish such a report.

77.5 Examination by the Committee:

77.5.1 Response of the Ministry of Finance regarding suggestions pertaining to rewording of sub-clause (2) and reducing holding period in case of slump sale under Clause 77(2) :

> "It was suggested to reduce the holding period in the case of slump sale from 36 months to 24 months. Slump sale is different from sale of any other capital asset and a shorter duration would enable misuse of the provision. This is a policy decision outside the mandate of the IT Bill, 2025."

77.5.2 Elaborating on the duration of holding period during the transfer of a capital asset under slump sale, the representative of the Department, during the Sitting, apprised the Committee that :

> "…We have provided slump sale for holding of capital asset as short term and long term. There is a limit of one year for listed and two years for others. But for slump sale, we have maintained a period of 36 months. Below 36 months, it is short term and above 36 months, it is long term. So, there is a differential treatment for slump sale which we are saying that it is justified because slump sale is different from sale of any other capital asset because a whole undertaking is being transferred. So, some guardrail has to be there. That is why, this is a different kind of transfer. So, 36 months is retained when we did that rationalization of capital gains. So, we have only retained this limit in the Act as well as in the Bill…"

77.5.3 To the suggestion regarding incorporating cost accountants in practice under Clause 77(4), the Ministry replied that :

> "The suggestion made by the stakeholder to incorporate "cost accountants" is not in line with the provisions of the IT Act 1961. This is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

77.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after a detailed examination of the provisions proposed under Clause 77 of the Bill, including the representations received from stakeholders and the rationale provided by the Ministry of Finance, observe that the proposed Clause seeks to govern the computation of capital gains in the event of a slump sale. The Committee note that the provisions under Clause 77 largely corresponding to those contained in Section 50B of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, and that the terminology and language have been simplified in the Bill for ease of reference without altering the legislative intent. The Committee observe that the concept of net worth, its computation methodology, and exclusions (such as ignoring revaluation of assets) have also been retained with appropriate clarification. Accordingly, the Committee find that the provisions proposed under Clause 77 are aligned with the objective of providing clarity, consistency, and continuity with the existing legal framework. The Committee, therefore, accept the provisions under Clause 77 as proposed.

Clause 78 – Special provision for full value of consideration in certain cases

78.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

78. (1) If the consideration received or accruing from the transfer of a capital asset, being land or building or both, is less than the stamp duty value, then, for the purposes of section 72, the stamp duty value shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer, subject to the following:–

(a) the stamp duty value on the date of agreement may be taken as the full value of consideration, if—

(i) the date of the agreement fixing the consideration and the date of registration for the transfer of the capital asset are not the same; and

(ii) part or full consideration is received on or before the date of the agreement by an account payee cheque or account payee bank draft or electronic clearing system through a bank account or any other electronic mode, as prescribed;

(b) if the stamp duty value does not exceed 110% of the consideration received or accruing, such consideration shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration for section 72.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of sub-section (1), the Assessing Officer may refer the valuation of the capital asset to a Valuation Officer, and the provisions of sections 269(3) to (8), shall, with necessary modifications, apply in relation to such reference, where—

(a) the assessee claims that the stamp duty value exceeds the fair market value of the property as on the date of transfer; and

(b) the stamp duty value has not been disputed in any appeal or revision or no reference has been made before any other authority, court or the High Court.

(3) In this section, "assessable" means the value which any authority of the Government would have adopted or assessed as if it were referred to such authority for the purposes of payment of stamp duty, regardless of anything to the contrary contained in any other law in force.

(4) If the value determined by the Valuation Officer on a reference made under sub-section (2) exceeds the stamp duty value, such stamp duty value shall be taken as the full value of consideration.

78.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50C. (1) Where the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer by an assessee of a capital asset, being land or building or both, is less than the value adopted or assessed or assessable by any authority of a State Government (hereafter in this section referred to as the "stamp valuation authority") for the purpose of payment of stamp duty in respect of such transfer, the value so adopted or assessed or assessable shall, for the purposes of section 48, be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer :

Provided that where the date of the agreement fixing the amount of consideration and the date of registration for the transfer of the capital asset are not the same, the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority on the date of agreement may be taken for the purposes of computing full value of consideration for such transfer:

Provided further that the first proviso shall apply only in a case where the amount of consideration, or a part thereof, has been received by way of an account payee cheque or account payee bank draft or by use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode as may be prescribed, on or before the date of the agreement for transfer:

Provided also that where the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority does not exceed one hundred and ten per cent of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer, the consideration so received or accruing as a result of the transfer shall, for the purposes of section 48, be deemed to be the full value of the consideration.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of sub-section (1), where—

(a) The assessee claims before any Assessing Officer that the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority under sub-section (1) exceeds the fair market value of the property as on the date of transfer;

(b) the value so adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority under sub-section (1) has not been disputed in any appeal or revision or no reference has been made before any other authority, court or the High Court, the Assessing Officer may refer the valuation of the capital asset to a Valuation Officer and where any such reference is made, the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3), (4), (5) and (6) of section 16A, clause (i) of sub-section (1) and sub-sections (6) and (7) of section 23A, sub-section (5) of section 24, section 34AA, section 35 and section 37 of the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 (27 of 1957), shall, with necessary modifications, apply in relation to such reference as they apply in relation to a reference made by the Assessing Officer under sub-section (1) of section 16A of that Act.

Explanation 1.—For the purposes of this section, "Valuation Officer" shall have the same meaning as in clause (r) of section 2 of the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 (27 of 1957).

Explanation 2.—For the purposes of this section, the expression "assessable" means the price which the stamp valuation authority would have, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, adopted or assessed, if it were referred to such authority for the purposes of the payment of stamp duty.

(3) Subject to the provisions contained in sub-section (2), where the value ascertained under sub-section (2) exceeds the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority referred to in sub-section (1), the value so adopted or assessed or assessable by such authority shall be taken as the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer.

78.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 78 of the Bill provides for special provision for full value of consideration in certain cases. This clause corresponds to section 50C of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

78.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

78.4.1 Suggestion regarding creating a new different sub-section from sub-clause 78(1)(b) :

- Sub-clause (b) of section 78(1) must be a different sub-section to give better clarity on the determination of full value of consideration.
  If the consideration received or accruing from the transfer of a capital asset, being land or building or both, is less than the stamp duty value, then, for the purposes of section 72, the stamp duty value shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer, subject to the following:— (a) the stamp duty value on the date of agreement may be taken as the full value of consideration, if— (i) the date of the agreement fixing the consideration and the date of registration for the transfer of the capital asset are not the same; and (ii) part or full consideration is received on or before the date of the agreement by an account payee cheque or account payee bank draft or electronic clearing system through a bank account or any other electronic mode, as prescribed;

78.4.2 Suggestion regarding extending the 10% tolerance band to the value of asset determined by the Valuation Officer under Clause 78(4) :

- Sub-section (5) may be inserted after subsection (4) - (5) Where the value adopted or assessed or assessable by the stamp valuation authority or the value determined by the Valuation Officer, as the case may be, does not exceed 110% of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer, the consideration so received or accruing as a result of the transfer, shall, for the purposes of section 72, be deemed to be the full value of consideration received. A tolerance band of 10%, therefore, applies when the stamp duty value is determined by the Stamp Valuation Authority as per section 78(1). However, it is not clear whether the 10% tolerance band is also applicable to the value determined by the Valuation Officer, on a reference being made by the Assessing Officer under section 78(2). When the valuation is referred to the Valuation Officer and the officer determines a value lower than the stamp duty value, this lower value is taken as the full value of consideration. However, it is not clear whether the 10% tolerance band would also apply to such valuation.

78.5 Examination by the Committee:

78.5.1 Responding to the suggestion regarding creating a new different sub-section from sub-clause 78(1)(b), the Ministry of Finance submitted that :

> "The suggestion seeks to make a sub-clause as a sub-section. The provision has been kept exactly the same in both the Bill (Clause 78) and Act (Section 50C).The sub-clause (b) is part of 78(1) and thus it implicitly means that this is for the "purposes of 78(1). Therefore a different sub-section as suggested is not required. This has been already addressed in the Bill."

78.5.2 Regarding suggestion for extending the 10% tolerance band to the value of asset determined by the Valuation Officer under Clause 78(4), the Ministry submitted that :

> "It is suggested that the tolerance band of 10% be extended on the value determined by DVO. The provisions of 78(4) allow for the lower value to be taken between the SDV and Valuation officer's determination. The 10% band is not applicable here and is given only for the difference between the SDV and actual consideration paid. There is no overlap between these two conditions. Allowance of 10% band on DVO value where it is lower than SDV tantamounts to questioning the valuation itself. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

78.5.3 Giving a detailed explanation of the application of tolerance band to the value of an asset assessed by the Departmental Valuation Officer (DVO), the representative of the Ministry, during the Sitting, apprised the Committee that :

"…the Act provides that if the Departmental Valuation Officer (DVO) determines a value of the property which is more than the stamp duty value then the stamp duty value shall be taken as the full value of consideration.
We have provided a benchmark. The stamp duty valuation is final now. If DVO assesses less than this, then that value will be taken. But that is already less than the stamp duty value. The Act provides ten per cent tolerance band in case we are taking the stamp duty value. If it is Rs. 5,00,000 and somebody has purchased it in Rs. 4,50,0000, we say that up to Rs. 4,50,000 it is okay. If it is below that then the difference amount will be taxed as that will become your income…
…Suppose there is a house in Vasant Vihar which is being sold and the stamp duty value is Rs.5 crore. I say that I have sold it for Rs.4.5 crore. My capital gains will be computed on Rs.4.5 crore only, not on 5 crores because of that ten per cent window. I give a ten per cent window from Rs.5 crore to come up to Rs.4.5 crore and nothing below than that…"

78.5.4 Further elaborating on the process followed for valuation of an asset in scenarios such as distress sale, the representative apprised the Committee that :

"…For that, you can challenge the Assessing Officer and he is bound to refer it to the Departmental Valuation Officer. Again, he will go through the entire process and he will determine the fair market value…
…. We have provided two provisions. If the person challenges the stamp duty value itself, which is fixed and if he wins, he will get the benefit here.
Secondly, if he has not challenged that but says that due to all these reasons, my value is correct and the fair market value is less than the stamp duty value then the matter goes to DVO. He takes into consideration all these facts and determines the correct value…
… Once it goes to DVO, you need not pay the tax till the DVO reports come. There was some issue in that also which we have addressed in the current Bill so that when it goes to DVO in all sections, we get six months of time and after that only the order is made…"

78.5.5 Furthermore, explaining about the process for valuation followed in cases where the value gained on sale of an asset is much below the stamp duty value, the representative submitted that :

"…in that case, the assessee will have to write to the Assessing Officer that the value at which I have sold the property is correct. The stamp duty value may be higher. But my value is correct.
Then the Assessing Officer will refer the matter to DVO. Our DVOs are on deputation from CPWD. They are civil engineers. They will give you an opportunity and you will put up your case before them. After taking all the considerations into account, they will determine what should be the value…
…we take the value of every property where it is registered. A value is determined by the Registration Officer. We take that value for that particular property..

…In the existing Act, it is Section 50C. So, Proviso 4 provides this tolerance limit. It says:

> "Provided also that where the value adopted or assessed or accessible by the Stamp Valuation Authority does not exceed 110 per cent of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer, the consideration so received or accruing as a result of the transfer shall, for the purposes of Section 48, be deemed to be the full value of consideration."

So, it clearly says, Sir, if 10 per cent margin has been given, so Stamp Duty Valuation Officer says Rs. 5 crore, I have sold it for 4 crore 50 lakhs, it is fine. I will pay tax as per Rs. 4 crore 50 lakhs. Sir, when it goes to DVO, previously also it was a separate section. There, another tolerance limit has been provided. It says, even if the DVO assesses it more than the Stamp Valuation Authority, suppose the DVO says the property should have been of Rs. 6 crore, even in that case, we will be taxing only up to Rs. 5 crore…"

78.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough deliberation upon the proposal made in Clause 78 under examination, including the views/suggestions of stakeholders and the justification given by the Ministry of Finance, find that the proposed provisions align with the policy objective of simplifying and clarifying the legal framework. The Committee observe that Clause 78 retains the essential features of the corresponding provisions under Section 50C of the Income-Tax Act, 1961. The Committee further note that while the structure and drafting of the provision have been simplified, the substantive content and intent remain unchanged from the existing law. Accordingly, the Committee find that the Clause promotes legal clarity without altering the underlying principles. The Committee, therefore, accept the provisions under Clause 78 as proposed.

Clause 79 – Special provision for full value of consideration for transfer of share other than quoted share

79.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

79. (1) If the consideration received or accruing from the transfer of a capital asset, being share of a company other than a quoted share, is less than the fair market value of such share determined in the manner as prescribed, the value so determined shall be deemed as the full value of considerationreceived or accruing as a result of the transfer for the purposes of computing income under the head "Capital gains".

(2) The provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply to any consideration received or accruing as a result of transfer by such class of persons and subject to such conditions, as prescribed.

(3) In this section, "quoted share" means the share quoted on any recognised stock exchange with regularity from time to time, where the quotation of such share is based on current transaction made in the ordinary course of business.

79.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50CA. Where the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer by an assessee of a capital asset, being share of a company other than a quoted share, is less than the fair market value of such share determined in such manner as may be prescribed, the value so determined shall, for the purposes of section 48, be deemed to be the full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer:

Provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any consideration received or accruing as a result of transfer by such class of persons and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "quoted share" means the share quoted on any recognised stock exchange with regularity from time to time, where the quotation of such share is based on current transaction made in the ordinary course of business.

79.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 79 of the Bill provides for special provision for full value of consideration for transfer of share other than quoted share. This clause corresponds to section 50CA of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

79.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

79.4.1 Suggestion regarding modification of the language of Clause 79 to retain a phrase similar to Section 50CA of ITA 1961, clarifying that the substitution of fair market value will be for the purposes of Section 72 of ITB 2025 only :

- Section 79 makes reference to "computing income under the head 'capital gains'" and not to Section 72 (corresponding to Section 48 of ITA 1961). This can lead to controversy in respect of applicability of S. 79 to other sections under "capital gains" which provide a mechanism for determination of full value of consideration [such as Section 67(9) of ITB 2025 (corresponds to section 45(3) of ITA 1961) on transfer of capital asset by partner to firm], potentially subjecting them to Section 79.Modify the language of Section 79 to retain a phrase similar to Section 50CA of ITA 1961, clarifying that the substitution of fair market value shall be for the purposes of Section 72 of ITB 2025 only.

79.4.2 Suggestions regarding Clause 79 which have also been clubbed with Clause 92(2)(m) :

- Currently certain deeming provisions with valuation rules (e.g., 50CA, 50B, 56(2)(x), etc.) intended to be Anti-Tax Avoidance Rules ('ATAR') are part of charging provisions and hence apply as a default rule, creating uncertainties for genuine commercial transactions and leads to unnecessary litigation. Certain provisions lead to double taxation for buyer and seller. (S.50CA and 56(2)(x) of the Act/ S.79 & 92 of Bill). Only real income should be brought to tax, and notional norms should be removed, as they are burdensome, litigative and erodes investors confidence. Safeguard in the form of GAAR is available for dubious structures.

- To avoid litigation and ensure that genuine transactions are not adversely affected, it is essential to clarify that the provisions of sections 50CA and section 56(2)(x) of the Act do not apply to bona fide transactions supported by proper documentation and commercial negotiations. A proviso should be added to clarify that sections 50CA and section 56(2)(x) of the Act do not apply to genuine bonafide transactions, particularly those backed by robust commercial negotiations and valuation reports.

- 1. The only exemption provided is for transfer of a capital asset between holding company and its wholly owned subsidiary. Genuine transaction between group companies for realignment of shareholding is not given specific exemption from provisions of sections 50CA and 56(2)(x).
  If the taxpayers obtains any undue tax benefits, GAAR provisions can be invoked by tax authorities to deny such benefit. Transfer of shares amongst ultimate holding and any step-down subsidiary or amongst fellow subsidiaries should be exempted from the applicability of capital gains tax and IFOS. For consistency, the definition of holding company and subsidiary company should be defined as per the Companies Act, 2013.

2. Transfer of shares to a 'relative' for consideration lower than FMV are though exempted in the hands of transferee relative, however, If transfer is done at price lower than FMV, then differential of FMV and transfer price will become taxable in the hands of transferor relative u/s 50CA. Further, the section does not exempt the transfer of assets between relatives on account of family settlement. Transfer of shares between relatives for consideration lower than FMV or on account of family settlement should be exempted from the applicability of section 50CA and section 56(2)(x)
3. In case of transfer of shares of a listed company through an off-the-exchange transaction at a pre-determined value, anti-abuse gains shall arise in case the traded price is higher than the pre-determined price on the date of transfer. This would create an unnecessary hardship for the acquirer by taxing notional gains arising from under a genuine transaction. Transfer of shares of a listed company through an off-the-exchange transaction at a pre-determined value should be exempted from the applicability of section 56(2)(x).

79.5 Examination by the Committee:

79.5.1 Responding to the suggestion regarding modification of the language of Clause 79, the Ministry submitted that :

> "For the purpose of removing ambiguity and possible litigation, the reference to section 48 (Clause 72 in ITB) used in the IT Act, is preferable and the suggestion is acceptable.
> The suggestion is in the nature of a drafting correction."

79.5.2 Response of the Ministry with respect to suggestions pertaining to Clause 79 which have also been clubbed with Clause 92(2)(m) and which stated that on the issue of real income being brought to tax, and notional norms being removed, as they are burdensome, litigative and erode investors confidence :

> "Suggestion seeks GAAR provisions be applied instead of Section 50CA and 56(2)(x). These are specific provisions to deal with specific cases of valuation. Usage of GAAR for such specific cases would dilute the purpose of GAAR. Additionally, GAAR would be too cumbersome to be invoked for cases where sale of property is at less than FMV/Stamp Duty Value. GAAR is used only in very few cases and it cannot substitute Section 50CA which is automatically applied. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

"The suggestion seeks to amend 50CA and 56(2)(x) so that these provisions that call for determination of Fair Market Value do not apply to "bona fide" transactions. 'Bona fide' is a subjective term and open to litigation. Undervaluation of shares and other assets is rampant and provision for anti-abuse are needed. This suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

"It is suggested that the transfer of unquoted shares among group companies, relatives/family settlement or by a listed company should not be subject to determination of Fair Market Value as called for in section 50CA/56(2)(x). These are anti-abuse provisions. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

79.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee observe that Clause 79 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 relates to a special provision for full value of consideration for transfer of share other than quoted share and is synonymous with Section 50CA of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After careful examination of the provisions contained in this clause, along with the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance and the suggestions received from stakeholders, the Committee note that though the provision under sub-clause (1) has been textually simplified, no reference to Clause 72 is found in the said provision, thereby relinquishing the original legislative intent and giving way to ambiguity and possible litigation. Therefore, the Committee recommend that the language of sub-clause (1) be modified to retain the reference to Clause 72 and the provision under Clause 79(1) be suitably amended to stay true to its original intent.

Subject to the above modification, the Committee find the provisions under Clause 79 to be acceptable.

Clause 80 – Fair market value deemed to be full value of consideration in certain cases

80.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

80.If the consideration received or accruing from the transfer of a capital asset is not ascertainable or is unable to be determined, its fair market value on the date of transfer shall be deemed as the full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer for the purposes of computing income under the head “Capital gains”.

80.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

50D. Where the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of a capital asset by an assessee is not ascertainable or cannot be determined, then, for the purpose of computing income chargeable to tax as capital gains, the fair market value of the said asset on the date of transfer shall be deemed to be the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of such transfer.

80.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> “Clause 80 of the Bill provides that the fair market value shall be deemed to be the full value of consideration as a result of transfer of a capital asset by an assessee in cases where the consideration is not ascertainable or cannot be determined. This clause corresponds to section 50D of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.”

80.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestion regarding Clause 80 :

- The phrase "cannot be determined" suggests an impossibility or a situation where it is not possible to ascertain the consideration due to lack of information or inherent complexity, setting a high bar for using FMV. The revised phrase "unable to be determined" could give the Tax Authority more discretion, potentially leading to more frequent use of FMV and litigation.
  Retain the phrase “cannot be determined” as in Section 50D of ITA 1961 in Section 80 of ITB 2025 to avoid ambiguity and litigation.

80.5 Examination by the Committee:

Response of the Ministry regarding above mentioned suggestion :

> “For the removal of ambiguity, this is acceptable. Accordingly, the phrase may be replaced by “cannot be determined”.

80.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 80 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds with Section 50D of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and prescribes that fair market value of the transferred capital asset be deemed to be the full value of consideration for taxation in cases where the same is not ascertainable. After careful consideration of the views/suggestions made by the stakeholders and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee, however, observe that the phrase "cannot be determined" is better suited compared to the revised phrase "unable to be determined" when referring to the gains accruing from the transfer of a capital asset. Therefore, with a view to avoid any scope for ambiguity or future litigations, the Committee recommend that the said phrase be replaced and accordingly, the modified clause be read as :

"80 - If the consideration received or accruing from the transfer of a capital asset is not ascertainable or 'cannot be determined', its fair market value on the date of transfer shall be deemed as the full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer for the purposes of computing income under the head "Capital gains"."

Clause 81 – Advance money received.

81.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

Where any capital asset was, on any previous occasion, the subject of negotiations for its transfer, any advance or other money received and retained by the assessee in respect of such negotiations—

(a) shall be deducted from the cost for which the asset was acquired or the written down value or the fair market value, as the case may be, in computing the cost of acquisition;

(b) shall not be deducted from the said cost, where such advance or other money has been included in the total income of the assessee for any tax year as per the provisions of section 92(2)(h).

81.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Advance money received.

51. Where any capital asset was on any previous occasion the subject of negotiations for its transfer, any advance or other money received and retained by the assessee in respect of such negotiations shall be deducted from the cost for which the asset was acquired or the written down value or the fair market value, as the case may be, in computing the cost of acquisition :

Provided that where any sum of money, received as an advance or otherwise in the course of negotiations for transfer of a capital asset, has been included in the total income of the assessee for any previous year in accordance with the provisions of clause (ix) of sub-section (2) of section 56, then, such sum shall not be deducted from the cost for which the asset was acquired or the written down value or the fair market value, as the case may be, in computing the cost of acquisition.

81.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 81 of the Bill provides for advance money received regarding the transfer of a capital asset. This clause corresponds to section 51 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

81.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestions regarding Clause 81(b) :

- Clause 81(b) of the New Bill / Section 51 of the current Law specifies that any advance money received and retained by a taxpayer during negotiations for the transfer of a capital asset should not be deducted from the asset's cost if such amounts are included in the taxpayer's total income under section 56(2)(ix) of the current law/ clause 92(2)(h) of the new Bill.

The New Bill does not address whether amounts included in total income under the Current Law for tax years prior to 2026-27 should also be excluded from reduction, creating ambiguity. To address this, it is recommended that Clause 81(b) be revised to specify that no reduction is necessary when forfeited sums have already been taxed under the Current Law.

- In proposed section 81(b), there is no reference to the provisions of section 56(ix) which ought to be included. Further, the term used is 'retained' while in the present act the terms used are 'forefeited and the negotiations do not result in transfer'. The use of term 'retained' does not convey the meaning as required. Hence, the same be modified as under:
81. Where any capital asset was, on any previous occasion, the subject of negotiations for its transfer, any advance or other money received and forfeited retained and the transfer has not taken place, by the assessee in respect of such negotiations— (a) shall be deducted from the cost for which the asset was acquired or the written down value or the fair market value, as the case may be, in computing the cost of acquisition; (b) shall not be deducted from the said cost, where such advance or other money has been included in the total income of the assessee for any tax year as per the provisions of section 92(2)(h) or section 56(ix) of the Income-tax Act, 1961.

81.5 Examination by the Committee:

81.5.1 Responses of the Ministry of Finance corresponding to the aforementioned suggestions :

"This suggestion is already addressed. This is covered by the provisions of Repeal and Savings in Clause 536 of the Income-Tax Bill, the relevant provisions are as follows :536(2)(b): affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under the repealed Act or orders under such repealed Act;"

"(i) The suggestion seeks reference to IT Act provision. The reference to clause 92(2)(h) of Bill has been made in the provisions of clause 81 in sub-clause (b). The explicit reference to 56(2)(ix) of Act has not been made as this is covered under the Repeal and savings clause in section 536.
(ii) The suggestion seeks to substitute 'retained' with 'forfeited'. The words "forefeited" and 'retained' cover different types of situations. The phrase "retained" has been used in the corresponding provisions in both the Bill and the Act. The suggestions have already been addressed in the Bill."

81.5.2 Elaborating on laws relating to money received and retained by the taxpayer during negotiations, the representative of the Ministry informed the Committee during the Sitting that :

> "…they are saying is that if any advance money has been received for some transaction and it is retained, and if it is received prior to the coming of the new IT Bill, then, you provide some repeal and savings for that also. In our repeal and savings, there is a specific Clause 536 2(b) which clearly says, 'Affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under the repealed Act or orders under such repealed Act'. They will be saved. So, this will be covered by that. No specific saving is required. This time, we have provided a very detailed repeal and savings this time and try to cover whatever is there…"

81.5.3 Regarding retention of the phrases 'retained' and 'forfeited', the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee as under :

> "…the stakeholder is seeking a reference to an income tax provision. We are referring to 92H. There, sir, the reference to the clause of this has been made in provisions of 81B. So, explicit reference has not been made as this is covered in repeal and saving. Part of it, we are saying repeal and saving, and then there is another suggestion where it is said that we should substitute retained with forfeited. So, 'retained' and 'forfeited', we are saying it is used in different contexts. They have different meanings. Forfeited is different and where money is retained as an advance, that has different treatment. So, they are required to be retained…"

81.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 81 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for advance money received regarding the transfer of a capital asset and corresponds to Section 51 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After a detailed examination of the provisions proposed under Clause 81 of the Bill, including the representations received from stakeholders and the rationale provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee observe that the proposed Clause seeks to define the structure for dealing with advance payments received during negotiations for transfer of a capital asset. The Committee also note that in the provisions contained under this Clause, the terminology and language have been simplified for ease of reference without altering the legislative intent. Further, the Committee observe that the provisions proposed under this Clause seek to prevent tax avoidance by providing an unambiguous framework for the treatment of advance money received as capital gains during transfer of capital asset and have also been retained with appropriate clarification. Accordingly, the Committee find that the provisions proposed under Clause 81 are aligned with the objective of providing clarity, consistency, and continuity with the existing legal framework. The Committee, therefore, accept the provisions under Clause 81 as proposed.

Clause 82 – Profit on sale of property used for residence.

82.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(1) Where an individual or Hindu undivided family—

(a) has long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, being buildings or lands appurtenant thereto, and being a residential house, the income of which is chargeable under the head "Income from house property" (original asset); and

(b) has within one year before or two years after the date of such transfer purchased, or has within three years after that date constructed, one residential house in India (new asset),

then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:—

(i) if the capital gains exceeds the cost of the new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67, and for computing capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67 and for computing capital gains from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gains.

(2) If the capital gains is not used by the assessee to purchase the new asset within one year before the transfer of the original asset, or is not utilised for the purchase or construction of a new asset before filing the return of income under section 263, then—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be deposited in a specified bank or institution and utilised as per the scheme notified by the Central Government;

(b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under section 263(1); and

(c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date of filing of the return.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount, already utilised for purchasing or constructing the new asset, together with the deposited amount under sub-section (2) shall, subject to sub-section (7), be deemed to be the cost of the new asset.

(4) If the amount deposited under sub-section (2) is not fully utilised for purchasing or constructing the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be charged to tax under section 67 as the income of the tax year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(b) the assessee shall be entitled to withdraw the unused amount according to the said scheme.

(5) If the capital gains under sub-section (1) does not exceed two crore rupees, the assessee may, at his option, purchase or construct two residential houses in India, and where such option has been exercised,—

(a) for the purposes of sub-section (1)(b), “one residential house in India” shall be read as “two residential houses in India”; and

(b) for the purposes of sub-sections (1)(b) and (2), “new asset” shall mean two residential houses in India.

(6) If during any tax year, the assessee has exercised the option mentioned in sub-section (5), he shall not be entitled to exercise such option for the same tax year or any other tax year.

(7) If the cost of new asset exceeds ten crore rupees, the amount exceeding ten crore rupees shall not be taken into account for the purposes of sub-section (1).

(8) If the capital gains on the transfer of original asset exceeds ten crore rupees, the amount exceeding ten crore rupees shall not be taken into account for the purposes of sub-section (2).

82.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Profit on sale of property used for residence.

54. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), where, in the case of an assessee being an individual or a Hindu undivided family, the capital gain arises from the transfer of a long-term capital asset, being buildings or lands appurtenant thereto, and being a residential house, the income of which is chargeable under the head "Income from house property" (hereafter in this section referred to as the original asset), and the assessee has within a period of one year before or two years after the date on which the transfer took place purchased, or has within a period of three years after that date constructed, one residential house in India, then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the previous year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(i) if the amount of the capital gain is greater than the cost of the residential house so purchased or constructed (hereafter in this section referred to as the new asset), the difference between the amount of the capital gain and the cost of the new asset shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase or construction, as the case may be, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the amount of the capital gain is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, the capital gain shall not be charged under section 45; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase or construction, as the case may be, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gain:

Provided that where the amount of the capital gain does not exceed two crore rupees, the assessee may, at his option, purchase or construct two residential houses in India, and where such option has been exercised,—

(a) the provisions of this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "one residential house in India", the words "two residential houses in India" had been substituted;

(b) any reference in this sub-section and sub-section (2)to "new asset" shall be construed as a reference to the two residential houses in India:

Provided further that where during any assessment year, the assessee has exercised the option referred to in the first proviso, he shall not be subsequently entitled to exercise the option for the same or any other assessment year:

[52-54][Provided also that where the cost of new asset exceeds ten crore rupees, the amount exceeding ten crore rupees shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this sub-section.]

(2) The amount of the capital gain which is not appropriated by the assessee towards the purchase of the new asset made within one year before the date on which the transfer of the original asset took place, or which is not utilised by him for the purchase or construction of the new asset before the date of furnishing the return of income under section 139, shall be deposited by him before furnishing such return [such deposit being made in any case not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for furnishing the return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139] in an account in any such bank or institution as may be specified in, and utilised in accordance with, any scheme which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, frame in this behalf and such return shall be accompanied by proof of such deposit; and, for the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount, if any, already utilised by the assessee for the purchase or construction of the new asset together with the amount so deposited shall [52-54][, subject to the third proviso to sub-section (1)] be deemed to be the cost of the new asset :

Provided that if the amount deposited under this sub-section is not utilised wholly or partly for the purchase or construction of the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(i) the amount not so utilised shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(ii) theassessee shall be entitled to withdraw such amount in accordance with the scheme aforesaid:

[52-54][Provided further that the capital gains in excess of ten crore rupees shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this sub-section.]

Explanation.—[Omitted by the Finance Act, 1992, w.e.f. 1-4-1993.]

82.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 82 of the Bill provides for the capital gains arising from profits on sale of residential properties not to be charged in certain cases. This clause corresponds to section 54 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

82.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

82.4.1 Suggestion regarding Clause 82(1) :

- Sub-section (1) of section 82 may be redrafted as follows - 82. (1) Where an individual or Hindu undivided family–– (a) has long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, being buildings or lands appurtenant thereto, and being a residential house, the income of which is chargeable under the head "Income from house property" (original asset); and b) has within one year before or two years after the date of such transfer purchased, or has within three years after that date constructed, one residential house in India (new asset), then, instead of the capital gain being charged to incometax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:— (i) if the capital gains exceeds the cost of the new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67, ~~and for computing capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be nil~~; or (ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67 ~~and for computing capital gains from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gains~~. Sub-section (1A) may be inserted – If the new asset is transferred within two years of its purchase or construction, the capital gains not charged under section 67 on the basis of the cost of such new asset as per sub-section (1) shall be charged as capital gains of the tax year in which such new asset is transferred. If the new asset is sold or transferred within 3 years, the manner in which the earlier exempted capital gains is subject to tax varies in sections 82, 83, 84 , 85 and 86. In sections 82,83 and 84, the earlier exempted capital gains is reduced from the cost, whereas sections 85 and 86 deems the capital gains not charged to tax earlier as income chargeable to tax of the year in which the transfer of the new asset takes place. Moreover, whereas the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term is "more than 24 months", the minimum period of holding of new asset is 3 years in sections 82 to 86 (except section 85, where it is 5 years). The minimum period of holding of new asset be reduced from 3 years to 2 years in line with the minimum period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term capital asset under section 2(67) read with 2(101). In case of the new asset is not held for a minimum period of 2 years, the capital gains exempt earlier should be deemed as income chargeable to tax in the year of transfer of the new asset. This should be the consequence of transfer of new asset before the minimum period of 2 years in all sections [sections 82 to 86 (except section 85)].

82.4.2 Suggestion regarding Clause 82(2) :

- With respect to 82(2)- Purchase or construction must be done before filing return of income under section 263(1) and not under a belated or other type of return under section 263.The return can be updated or belated as well. Updated return can be filed upto 4 years. There may be contentions that purchase or construction can be done upto 4 years as well. Thus, to give better clarity, reference to section 263(1) to be mentioned, as to the date by which the property has to be purchased or constructed, absent which, the consideration alternatively may be deposited as per the notified scheme.

  Proposed Provision: If the capital gains is not used by the assessee to purchase the new asset within one year before the transfer of the original asset, or is not utilised for the purchase or construction of a new asset before filing the return of income under section 263(1), then— (a) the unutilised amount shall be deposited in a specified bank or institution and utilised as per the scheme notified by the Central Government; (b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under section 263(1); and (c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date of filing of the return.

82.4.3 Suggestion regarding Clauses 82 to 86 :

- There are too many scenarios under which the specific exemption from capital gains is provided. Recommend that these sections be collapsed into one single section with the benefit to be provided and all the conditions and restrictions for the sale of various assets be captured in a separate schedule. These sections are some of the most litigated sections, due to misinterpretation and confusion arising out of very small difference in the description of specific assets for which the exemption is provided. This suggested change will make it easier to understand the differentiation and better understood by the lay persons so as to reduce litigation.

82.5 Examination by the Committee:

82.5.1 Response of the Ministry to the suggestion regarding redrafting of Clause 82(1):

"It is suggested that the holding period of the new asset under this clause 82 where exemption from capital gains is taken be reduced from 3 years to 2 years. It is a beneficial roll over provision where benefit is allowed on condition that asset is retained for a reasonable period. A period of 3 years is prescribed as it is reasonable. This is not connected to the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term or short-term. This suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill. 2025."

82.5.2 Explaining the provisions under Clause 82(1), the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee that :

"…this relates to rollover provisions for capital gains. So, capital gains, it is claimed exempt, and then it is to be invested in new asset. For investing in new asset, the period is three years. So, it is a beneficial provision. Three years is a reasonable period. So, that is what we are saying…"

82.5.3 Response of the Ministry to the suggestion regarding Clause 82(2) :

"The suggestion seeks that date for utilisation for capital gains be provided as return filing due date rather than date under s. 263 (which includes time available for belated return). The insertion of 263(1) would give the assessee less time to purchase the new asset when compared to the present provisions. Therefore the suggestion is not feasible."

82.5.4 Elaborating on this further, the representative of the Ministry stated that :

"…the suggestion is that utilization for capital gain be provided as return filing due date rather than date under Section 263, which includes time available for billeted return. Sir, this is actually against the taxpayer. So, because we are providing for time available for capital gain utilization, they are saying that it should be return filing due date. Return filing due date comes earlier than the date for belated return. So, this insertion, if we accept the suggestion, it will give less time to the taxpayer to utilize his capital gains…"

82.5.5 Response of the Ministry regarding suggestion pertaining to Clauses 82 to 86 :

"There are a number of subtle differences in the provisions which are not uniform in nature. Therefore, tabular formulations would not be conducive for easy reading. Therefore, it may not be feasible to act upon the suggestion."

82.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after careful consideration of the proposal contained in Clause 82 under examination, including the views and suggestions of stakeholders and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, find the proposed provisions to be appropriate. The Committee, noting the Ministry's justification, observe that Clause 82 corresponds to Section 54 of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, and that the drafting has been simplified without altering the substantive scope or legislative intent of the existing provision. Accordingly, the Committee accept the Clause as proposed.

Clause 83 – Capital gains on transfer of land used for agricultural purposes not to be charged in certain cases

83.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

83. (1) Where an assessee, being an individual or a Hindu undivided family,—

(a) has capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, being land, which was used by the assessee or his parent, or the Hindu undivided family for agricultural purposes (original asset), in two years immediately preceding the date of transfer; and

(b) has, within two years after that date, purchased any other land for being used for agricultural purposes (new asset),

then, instead of the capital gains being charged to income-tax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:—

(i) if the capital gains exceed the cost of the new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67, and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67, and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gains.

(2) If the capital gains is not utilised by the assessee to purchase the new asset before filing the return of income under section 263, then—

(b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under section 263(1); and

(c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date of filing of the return.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount already utilised for purchasing the new asset together with the deposited amount under sub-section (2), shall be deemed to be the cost of the new asset.

(4) If the amount deposited under sub-section (2) is not fully utilised for purchase of the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be charged under section 67 as the income of the tax year in which two years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(b) the assessee shall be entitled to withdraw the unused amount according to the scheme referred to in sub-section (2).

83.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Capital gain on transfer of land used for agricultural purposes not to be charged in certain cases.

54B. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), where the capital gain arises from the transfer of a capital asset being land which, in the two years immediately preceding the date on which the transfer took place, was being used by the assessee being an individual or his parent, or a Hindu undivided family for agricultural purposes (hereinafter referred to as the original asset), and the assessee has, within a period of two years after that date, purchased any other land for being used for agricultural purposes, then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the previous year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(i) if the amount of the capital gain is greater than the cost of the land so purchased (hereinafter referred to as the new asset), the difference between the amount of the capital gain and the cost of the new asset shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the amount of the capital gain is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, the capital gain shall not be charged under section 45; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase, the cost shall be reduced, by the amount of the capital gain.

(2) The amount of the capital gain which is not utilised by the assessee for the purchase of the new asset before the date of furnishing the return of income under section 139, shall be deposited by him before furnishing such return [such deposit being made in any case not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for furnishing the return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139 in an account in any such bank or institution as may be specified in, and utilised in accordance with, any scheme which the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, frame in this behalf and such return shall be accompanied by proof of such deposit; and, for the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount, if any, already utilised by the assessee for the purchase of the new asset together with the amount so deposited shall be deemed to be the cost of the new asset :

Provided that if the amount deposited under this sub-section is not utilised wholly or partly for the purchase of the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(i) the amount not so utilised shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year in which the period of two years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(ii) The assessee shall be entitled to withdraw such amount in accordance with the scheme aforesaid.

Explanation.—[Omitted by the Finance Act, 1992, w.e.f. 1-4-1993.]

83.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 83 of the Bill provides for capital gains on transfer of land used for agricultural purposes not to be charged in certain cases. This clause corresponds to section 54B of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

83.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestion regarding Clause 83(1) :

- Section 83(1) be reworded as follows - 83. (1) Where an assessee, being an individual or a Hindu undivided family,— (a) has capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, being land, which was used by the assessee or his parent, or the Hindu undivided family for agricultural purposes (original asset), in two years immediately preceding the date of transfer; and (b) has, within two years after that date, purchased any other land for being used for agricultural purposes (new asset), then, instead of the capital gains being charged to incometax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:— (i) if the capital gains exceed the cost of the new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67, ~~and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase, the cost shall be nil~~; or (ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67, ~~and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gains.~~ Sub-section (1A) may be inserted – (1A) If the new asset is transferred within two years of its purchase, the capital gains not charged under section 67 on the basis of the cost of such new asset as per sub-section (1) shall be charged as capital gains of the tax year in which such new asset is transferred.

  If the new asset is sold or transferred within 3 years, the manner in which the earlier exempted capital gains is subject to tax varies in sections 82, 83, 84, 85 and 86. In sections 82,83 and 84, the earlier exempted capital gains is reduced from the cost, whereas sections 85 and 86 deems the capital gains not charged to tax earlier as income chargeable to tax of the year in which the transfer of the new asset takes place. Moreover, whereas the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term is "more than 24 months", the minimum period of holding of new asset is 3 years in sections 82 to 86 (except section 85, where it is 5 years). The minimum period of holding of new asset be reduced from 3 years to 2 years in line with the minimum period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term capital asset under section 2(67) read with 2(101). In case of the new asset is not held for a minimum period of 2 years, the capital gains exempt earlier should be deemed as income chargeable to tax in the year of transfer of the new asset.

This should be the consequence of transfer of new asset before the minimum period of 2 years in all sections [sections 82 to 86 (except section 85)].

83.5 Examination by the Committee:

Response of the Ministry with respect to the suggestion :

> "It is suggested that the holding period of the new asset under this clause 83 where exemption from capital gains is taken be reduced from 3 years to 2 years. It is a beneficial roll over provision where benefit is allowed on condition that asset is retained for a reasonable period. A period of 3 years is prescribed as it is reasonable. This is not connected to the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term or short-term. This suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill. 2025."

83.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 83 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 corresponds to Section 54B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and provides for exemption of capital gains from being taxed in certain cases regarding transfer of land used for agricultural purposes. The Committee also understand that this clause introduces a structure where capital gains accrued from the transfer of agricultural land are not immediately taxed if these are reinvested in new agricultural land within a specified period of time. Further, after careful deliberation of the views/suggestions give by stakeholders and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee concur with the retention of the original intent and the textual simplification of the provisions and therefore, accept the clause as proposed.

Clause 84 – Capital gains on compulsory acquisition of lands and buildings not to be charged in certain cases.

84.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

84. (1) Where an assessee has—

(a) capital gains arising from the transfer by way of compulsory acquisition under any law, of a capital asset being land or building or any right in land or building, forming part of an industrial undertaking belonging to him, which was being used by the assessee for the business of the said undertaking in the two years immediately preceding the date of transfer (original asset); and

(b) within three years after that date, purchased any other land or building or any right in any other land or building or constructed any other building for shifting or re-establishing the said undertaking or setting up another industrial undertaking (new asset),

then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:—

(i) if the capital gains exceeds the cost of new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67, and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the cost of new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67 and for computing capital gains from the transfer of the new asset within three years of its purchase or construction, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gains.

(2) If the capital gains is not utilised by the assessee to purchase the new asset before filing the return of income under section 263, then—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be deposited not later than the due date for filing the return of income under sub-section (1) of the said section in a specified bank or institution and utilised as per the scheme notified by the Central Government;

(b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under the said sub-section; and

(c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date for filing the return.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount already utilised for purchasing or constructing the new asset together with the deposited amount under sub-section (2), shall be deemed to be the cost of the new asset.

(4) If the amount deposited under sub-section (2) is not fully utilised for the purchase or construction of the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be charged under section 67 as the income of the tax year in which three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(b) the assessee shall be entitled to withdraw the unused amount according to the said scheme.

84.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Capital gain on compulsory acquisition of lands and buildings not to be charged in certain cases.

54D. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), where the capital gain arises from the transfer by way of compulsory acquisition under any law of a capital asset, being land or building or any right in land or building, forming part of an industrial undertaking belonging to the assessee which, in the two years immediately preceding the date on which the transfer took place, was being used by the assessee for the purposes of the business of the said undertaking (hereafter in this section referred to as the original asset), and the assessee has within a period of three years after that date purchased any other land or building or any right in any other land or building or constructed any other building for the purposes of shifting or re-establishing the said undertaking or setting up another industrial undertaking, then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as the income of the previous year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(i) if the amount of the capital gain is greater than the cost of the land, building or right so purchased or the building so constructed (such land, building or right being hereafter in this section referred to as the new asset), the difference between the amount of the capital gain and the cost of the new asset shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase or construction, as the case may be, the cost shall be nil; or

(ii) if the amount of the capital gain is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, the capital gain shall not be charged under section 45; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its purchase or construction, as the case may be, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gain.

(2) The amount of the capital gain which is not utilised by the assessee for the purchase or construction of the new asset before the date of furnishing the return of income under section 139, shall be deposited by him before furnishing such return [such deposit being made in any case not later than the due date applicable in the

Provided that if the amount deposited under this sub-section is not utilised wholly or partly for the purchase or construction of the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(i) the amount not so utilised shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(ii) The assessee shall be entitled to withdraw such amount in accordance with the scheme aforesaid.

The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

84.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestion pertaining to rewording of Clause 84(1) :

- Section 84(1) be reworded as follows - 84. (1) Where an assessee has— (a) capital gains arising from the transfer by way of compulsory acquisition under any law, of a capital asset being land or building or any right in land or building, forming part of an industrial undertaking belonging to him, which was being used by the assessee for the business of the said undertaking in the two years immediately preceding the date of transfer (original asset); and; (b) within three years after that date, purchased any other land or building or any right in any other land or building or constructed any other building for shifting or re-establishing the said undertaking or setting up another industrial undertaking (new asset), then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:— (i) if the capital gains exceeds the cost of new asset, such excess shall be charged under section 67 , ~~and for computing any capital gains arising from the transfer of the new asset~~

(1A) If the new asset is transferred within two years of its purchase or construction, the capital gains not charged under section 67 on the basis of the cost of such new asset as per sub-section (1) shall be charged as capital gains of the tax year in which such new asset is transferred.
If the new asset is sold or transferred within 3 years, the manner in which the earlier exempted capital gains is subject to tax varies in sections 82, 83, 84 , 85 and 86. In sections 82,83 and 84, the earlier exempted capital gains is reduced from the cost, whereas sections 85 and 86 deems the capital gains not charged to tax earlier as income chargeable to tax of the year in which the transfer of the new asset takes place. Moreover, whereas the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term is "more than 24 months", the minimum period of holding of new asset is 3 years in sections 82 to 86 (except section 85, where it is 5 years). In case of the new asset is not held for a minimum period of 2 years, the capital gains exempt earlier should be deemed as income chargeable to tax in the year of transfer of the new asset. This should be the consequence of transfer of new asset before the minimum period of 2 years in all sections [sections 82 to 86 (except section 85)].

84.5 Examination by the Committee:

Response of the Ministry of Finance on suggestion pertaining to rewording of Clause 84(1) :

> "It is suggested that the holding period of the new asset under this clause 84 where exemption from capital gains is taken be reduced from 3 years to 2 years. It is a beneficial roll over provision where benefit is allowed on condition that asset is retained for a reasonable period. A period of 3 years is prescribed as it is reasonable. 84.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after careful consideration of the provisions contained in Clause 84 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 under examination, including the views and suggestions of stakeholders and the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, find the proposed provisions to be appropriate. While noting the justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee also observe that Clause 84 corresponds to Section 54D of the Income-Tax Act, 1961, and that the drafting of the provisions under this Clause has been simplified without altering the substantive scope or legislative intent of the existing provision. Accordingly, the Committee accept the provisions under Clause 84 as proposed.

Clause 85 – Capital gains not to be charged on investment in certain bonds.

85.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

85. (1) Where an assessee has—

(a) long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of land or building, or both, (original asset); and

(b) within six months after the date of such transfer, invested whole or part of the capital gains in a long-term specified asset (new asset), then, the capital gains shall be dealt with as follows:—

(i) if the capital gains exceed the investment in the new asset, the amount of capital gains as exceeds such investment shall be charged under section 67; or

(ii) if the capital gains is equal to or less than the investment in the new asset, the whole of such capital gains shall not be charged under section 67.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), investment made in the long-term specified asset from capital gain arising from transfer of one or more original asset shall not exceed fifty lakh rupees,—

(a) during any tax year; or

(b) in the year of transfer of the original asset or assets and in the subsequent tax year.

(3) If the new asset is transferred or converted (otherwise than by transfer) into money within five years of its acquisition, the capital gains not charged under section 67 as per sub-section (1), shall be deemed to be income chargeable as long-term capital gains in the tax year of its transfer or conversion.

(4) Any loan or advance taken on the security of the new asset shall be regarded as transfer of the new asset on the date of such loan or advance.

(5) Where the investment in the new asset has been taken into account for sub-section (1), no deduction under section 123 for any tax year shall be allowed for such investment.

(6) In this section, “new asset” means any bond, redeemable after five years and as notified by the Central Government for the purposes of this section with such conditions (including a condition for providing a limit on the amount of investment by an assessee in such bond).

85.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Capital gain not to be charged on investment in certain bonds.

54EC. (1) Where the capital gain arises from the transfer of a long-term capital asset, being land or building or both, (the capital asset so transferred being hereafter in this section referred to as the original asset) and the assessee has, at any time within a period of six months after the date of such transfer, invested the whole or any part of capital gains in the long-term specified asset, the capital gain shall be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(a) if the cost of the long-term specified asset is not less than the capital gain arising from the transfer of the original asset, the whole of such capital gain shall not be charged under section 45;

(b) if the cost of the long-term specified asset is less than the capital gain arising from the transfer of the original asset, so much of the capital gain as bears to the whole of the capital gain the same proportion as the cost of acquisition of the long-term specified asset bears to the whole of the capital gain, shall not be charged under section 45 :

Provided that in case of long-term specified asset referred to in sub-clause (ii) of clause (ba) of the Explanation occurring after sub-section (3), this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "three years", the words "five years" had been substituted.

Explanation.—In a case where the original asset is transferred and the assessee invests the whole or any part of the capital gain received or accrued as a result of transfer of the original asset in any long-term specified asset and such assessee takes any loan or advance on the security of such specified asset, he shall be deemed to have converted (otherwise than by transfer) such specified asset into money on the date on which such loan or advance is taken.

85.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 85 of the Bill provides for capital gains not to be charged on investment in certain specific bonds. This clause corresponds to section 54EC of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

85.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestions regarding Clause 85 :

- Under Section 54EC of the existing Act, the gains arising from transfer from long-term capital assets are eligible for exemption. The proposed amendment, which replaces the term “asset” with “gains” in Clause 85 of the New Bill, will restrict the scope of the exemption. Consequently, the deemed short-term capital gains arising from the transfer of long-term depreciable assets will no longer be eligible for exemption.
  Retain the provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (or) clarification should be introduced that deemed short-term capital gains on long- term depreciable capital assets will be eligible for exemption under these provisions.

- Section 54EC (corresponding section 85 of the Bill) provides for exemption of capital gains arising from long term capital assets, being land or building or both and invested in any bonds issued by NHAI, REC or any other bonds notified by Central Government which are redeemable after five years. To attract retail investors in BT units and to enable them to participate in commercial real estate, the benefit of this section be extended in case the capital gains is invested in units of BT and held for a period of 5 years from the date of investments. Alternatively, the benefit of section 54F (corresponding section 86 of the Bill) may be extended to investment in units of BT to promote commercial real estate investments which is currently restricted to investment in residential house. Other conditions like lock-in of three years may equally be applied to investment in units of BTs.

- Section 85(1) may be redrafted as follows - 85. (1) Where an assessee has— (a) long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of land or building, or both, (original asset); and (b)within six months after the date of such transferon or before the due date applicable in his case for filing return of income under section 263(1), invested whole or part of the capital gains in a long-term specified asset (new asset), The time limit for investment in long-term specified asset is presently 6 months from the date of transfer. This is the position under section 54EC of the Income-tax Act, 1961 also. There are certain concerns arising out of this time limit, which needs to be addressed (i) In a number of transactions, there is some difference in dates of actual handing over of possession, submission of documents for registration of transfer, actual date of registration and even a subsequent modification of registered document due to demand of additional stamp duty. All these dates, though may fall in the same year but still may differ from each other, creating an unnecessary dispute regarding actual date of transfer and thereby time limit of 6 months. If the date of investment in specified bonds is made upto the due date of filing return u/s 139(1), such disputes can be avoided. (ii) Bringing the time limit upto the due date of filling of ITR shall also bring parity with exemption provisions under sections 54 to 54F of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (Sections 82 to 86 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025), where assessee is permitted to deposit the money in Capital Gains Account Scheme upto the due date of filing of return. In fact, assessee would be in a better position to take a call as to which exemption option is better suited for him. (iii) In many cases, the assessee is not aware about exemption provision and comes to know about it only when he approaches his/her tax consultant at the time of filling of return of income. By this time, 6 months period is already over and thus, the assessee inadvertently loses the benefit of exemption. (iv) The time limit expires exactly at 6 months from the date of transfer. Due to this, even an otherwise aware assessee may miss it unintentionally.

85.5 Examination by the Committee:

85.5.1 Corresponding response of the Ministry of Finance with respect to the above-mentioned suggestions :

> "The current clause, as drafted in the Bill is clearer and unambiguous in meaning. The deduction under section 54EC is intended only for long term capital gains and not for assets that are long term. The current provisions may be retained. The suggestion has no merits."
> "It was suggested that exemption from capital gains by investing in certain long-term specified bonds be extended for investment in units of Business Trust. Units of BT are not in nature of bonds. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."
> "It was suggested that the time given to invest in Bonds prescribed in 54EC be extended till the time of filing return rather than within 6 months of the transfer of the capital asset. Investment in bond does not require much time. A uniform timeline of 6 months for all taxpayers seeking exemption u/s 54EC is sufficient. Further, if a property is sold in March of an year by an individual, the proposed provision will give only 4 months, i.e before July to make the investment u/s 54EC. This suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill. 2025."

85.5.2 Elaborating on the steps taken to address ambiguities in Clause 85 regarding investment in capital gains, the representative of the ministry, during the Sitting, apprised the Committee as under :

> "…regarding the investment of capital gains in bonds. Here, there is some difference from the old Act. The old Act used the word, 'Where the capital gain arises from the transfer of a long-term capital asset'. This was the word which was used. Now, we are saying, 'Where the assessee has earned long-term capital gain'. In the earlier Act as well as in the present Act, there is a specific section which states that if a depreciable asset was sold, then whatever capital gain was earned, was taxed as a short-term capital gain. But using this, some ambiguities were there. So, we have set it right…"

…it is also for NRIs if they earn long-term capital gains and they invest in capital bonds…

…Last year, when we rationalized the capital gains, then we said that this indexation benefit was taken away and a straightforward a half per cent tax was provided. For the residents, we provided that they can opt for both…

…As regards the non-residents, whatever the gain is there, for that there is a provision for TDS for the similar amount because non-resident may file his return of income or may not file his return of income. So, as per the present provisions of IT Act, whatever his income is, the corresponding the deductor, the payer, he has to deduct that amount as TDS…

…So, one issue which will come in case of non-residents is that if we provide option to him, then it will become difficult for the deductor also and for the non-resident also because whether he is opting that or that, how, that will become difficult to determine for the payer, for the deductor, that what amount of TDS he will do. So, that is why, for non-residents, we have kept the things simple in that sense. For residents, yes, there is some benefit but at the same time, there is some complication also because of that benefit. So, just, that is I have tried to explain the rationale behind it…"

85.5.3 During the Sitting, the Secretary of the Ministry of Finance assured the Committee that the provision regarding long term capital gains of NRIs shall be examined further.

85.5.4 Regarding extension of exemption from capital gains by investing in certain long-term specified bonds for investment in units of Business Trust, the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee as under :

"…rollover benefit under Section 54 EC in the Act, we provide for certain long-term specified bonds. So, the suggestion is that this exemption from capital gains should also be provided for investment in units of business trust…

… these funds, 54 EC bonds, we generally give for large infrastructure projects and for public sector companies. So, like REC is mentioned, the Rural Electrification Corporation, that is mentioned. They get these funds because the coupon rate that is given on these bonds, that is around 5 per cent little less than 5 per cent.

So, the company gets those funds, say Rs. 2000 crore or Rs. 3000 crore, at a very reduced rate. So, basically, the Government, by way of 54EC, is giving tax subsidy on these bonds because partly we are giving away our tax. So, that is why those companies are able to float these bonds at a rate of 5 per cent or less than 5 per cent. So, that benefit should be available…

… We have said that units of business trust are not in nature of bonds. Bonds are different because interest is available on bonds; so, that the taxability of bond is different. And the units of business trust – they get dividend. Then if they sell it, the unit holder gets capital gain and dividend income. So, the taxability of a unit of business trust is different and taxability of a bond is different. So, they are asking that the benefits which are given to bonds should be given to the units of business trust. That is why we have mentioned that units are on a different footing and bonds are on a different footing…"

85.5.5 On the issue of extending time given to invest in Bonds prescribed in 54EC till the time of filling return, the representative of the Ministry apprised the Committee as under :

"…it talks about 54EC bonds. There is a time limit of six months in which they have to be invested. The taxpayer gets capital gains and within six months, he has to invest in these bonds. So the suggestion is that instead of six months, that time should be available till the filing of returns. So if I have capital gains, suppose in April, then my return filing date comes, in July next year. So he is asking that much time. We are saying six months' time is enough for subscription to a bond…
…if I sell in March, then I will get only four months…"

85.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

While noting that Clause 85 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 pertains to non-chargeable capital gains accrued from investment in certain specific bonds, the Committee also recognize that exemptions offered under this clause are aimed at encouraging investments in specified financial instruments and intended for providing financial stability. Further, the Committee observe that the provisions proposed under this clause are synonymous with Section 54EC of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Furthermore, after thoughtful deliberation of the views / suggestions made by the stakeholders, the Committee express satisfaction with the response and justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance and therefore, accept the clause as proposed in its entirety.

[59][Provided further that where the cost of new asset exceeds ten crore rupees, the amount exceeding ten crore rupees shall not be taken into account for the purposes of this sub-section.]

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

"net consideration", in relation to the transfer of a capital asset, means the full value of the consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset as reduced by any expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer.

(2) Where the assessee purchases, within the period of two years after the date of the transfer of the original asset, or constructs, within the period of three years after such date, any residential house, the income from which is chargeable under the head "Income from house property", other than the new asset, the amount of capital gain arising from the transfer of the original asset not charged under section 45 on the basis

86.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 86 of the Bill provides for non-chargeability of capital gains in specific scenarios of investment in residential house. This clause corresponds to section 54F of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

86.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestion relation to Clause 86 sub-clauses (1) & (7) :

- Section 86(1) and (7) be re-worded as follows - 86. (1) If an individual or a Hindu undivided family has—(a) capital gains arising from the transfer of any longterm capital asset, not being a residential house (original asset); and (b) within one year before, or two years after, the date of such transfer, purchased, or has within three years after that date constructed, one residential house in India (new asset), then, the capital gains shall be dealt with as follows:— (i) if the net consideration is more than the cost of the new asset, so much of the capital gains as bears to the whole of the capital gains, the same proportion as the cost of the new asset bears to the net consideration, shall not be charged under section 67; or (ii) if the net consideration is equal to or less than the cost of the new asset, no capital gains shall be charged under section 67. (7) If the new asset is transferred within two ~~three~~ years of its purchase or its construction, the capital gains not charged under section 67 on the basis ofcost of such new asset as per subsection (1) shall be charged as long-term capital gains of the tax year in which such new asset is transferred. If the new asset is sold or transferred within 3 years, the manner in which the earlier exempted capital gains is subject to tax varies in sections 82, 83, 84 , 85 and 86. In sections 82,83 and 84, the earlier exempted capital gains is reduced from the cost, whereas sections 85 and 86 deems the capital gains not charged to tax earlier as income chargeable to tax of the year in which the transfer of the new asset takes place. Moreover, whereas the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term is "more than 24 months", the minimum period of holding of new asset is 3 years in sections 82 to 86 (except section 85, where it is 5 years). The minimum period of holding of new asset be reduced from 3 years to 2 years in line with the minimum period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term capital asset under section 2(67) read with 2(101). In case the new asset is not held for a minimum period of 2 years, the capital gains exempt earlier should be deemed as income chargeable to tax in the year of transfer of the new asset. This should be the consequence of transfer of new asset before the minimum period of 2 years in all sections [sections 82 to 86 (except section 85)].

86.5 Examination by the Committee:

Response of the Ministry of Finance in respect of the suggestion :

> "It is suggested that the holding period of the new asset under this clause 86 where exemption from capital gains is taken be reduced from 3 years to 2 years. It is a beneficial roll over provision where benefit is allowed on condition that asset is retained for a reasonable period. A period of 3 years is prescribed as it is reasonable. This is not connected to the period of holding of an asset to be treated as long-term or short-term. This suggestion is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill. 2025."

86.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 86 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 relates to non-chargeability of capital gains in specific scenarios of investment in residential house and is synonymous with Section 54F of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After carefully examining the suggestions made by stakeholders and the justification and the response of the Ministry of Finance, the Committee note that the content and intent of the proposed clause do not deviate from the core as envisioned under Section 54F of the parent Act and therefore accept the said clause as proposed.

Clause 87 – Exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area.

87.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

87. (1) If the assessee has—

(a) capital gains arising from the transfer of capital asset, being machinery or plant or building or land or any rights in building or land used for the business of an industrial undertaking situated in an urban area, effected in the case of shifting of an industrial undertaking situated in an urban area (original asset) to any non-urban area (new area); and

(b) within one year before or three years after the date of such transfer,—

(i) purchased new machinery or plant for business of the industrial undertaking in the new area;

(ii) acquired building or land or constructed building for his business in the said area;

(iii) shifted the original asset and transferred its establishment to such area; and

(iv) incurred expenses on such other purpose as specified in a scheme notified by the Central Government for this section, then, instead of the capital gains being charged to income tax as income of the tax year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with as follows:—

(A) if the cost and expenses incurred in on all or any of the purposes mentioned in clauses (i) to (iv) (new asset),—

(I) is less than the capital gains, the difference shall be charged under section 67 as the income of the tax year; or

(II) is equal to or more than the capital gain, no capital gain shall be charged under section 67;

(B) for computing any capital gain arising from transfer of the new asset within three years of its being purchased, acquired, constructed or transferred, the cost shall be nil in case of clause (a) or shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gain in case of clause (b).

(2) If the capital gain is not used by the assessee for the new asset within one year before the transfer of the original asset, or before filing the return of income under section 263, then—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be deposited in a specified bank or institution and utilised as per the scheme notified by the Central Government;

(b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under sub-section (1) of the said section; and

(c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date for filing the return.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount already utilised for purchasing or constructing the new asset together with the deposited amount under sub-section (2) shall be deemed to be the cost of the new asset.

(4) If the amount deposited under sub-section (2) is not wholly or partly utilised for the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be charged under section 67 as the income of the tax year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(b) the assessee shall be entitled to withdraw the unused amount according to the said scheme.

(5) In this section, the expression “urban area” means any area within the limits of a municipal corporation or municipality, declared to be an urban area by the Central Government for the purposes of this section, having regard to—

(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), where the capital gain arises from the transfer of a capital asset, being machinery or plant or building or land or any rights in building or land used for the purposes of the business of an industrial undertaking situate in an urban area, effected in the course of, or in consequence of, the shifting of such industrial undertaking (hereafter in this section referred to as the original asset) to any area (other than an urban area) and the assessee has within a period of one year before or three years after the date on which the transfer took place,— then, instead of the capital gain being charged to income-tax as income of the previous year in which the transfer took place, it shall be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(i) if the amount of the capital gain is greater than the cost and expenses incurred in relation to all or any of the purposes mentioned in clauses (a) to (d) (such cost and expenses being hereafter in this section referred to as the new asset), the difference between the amount of the capital gain and the cost of the new asset shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its being purchased, acquired, constructed or transferred, as the case may be, the cost shall be nil ; or

(ii) if the amount of the capital gain is equal to, or less than, the cost of the new asset, the capital gain shall not be charged under section 45; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its being purchased, acquired, constructed or transferred, as the case may be, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gain.

Explanation.—In this sub-section, "urban area" means any such area within the limits of a municipal corporation or municipality as the Central Government may, having regard to the population, concentration of industries, need for proper planning of the area and other relevant factors, by general or special order, declare to be an urban area for the purposes of this sub-section.

Provided that if the amount deposited under this sub-section is not utilised wholly or partly for all or any of the purposes mentioned in clauses (a) to (d) of sub-section (1) within the period specified in that sub-section, then,—

(i) the amount not so utilised shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year in which the period of three years from the date of the

Explanation.—[Omitted by the Finance Act, 1992, w.e.f. 1-4-1993.]

87.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> "Clause 87 of the Bill provides for exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area. This clause corresponds to section 54G of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

87.4 Examination by the Committee:

87.4.1 During a discussion on exemption of capital gains for an industrial undertaking in the event of shifting from an urban area, the representatives of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting of the Committee, submitted that :

> "…there are two provisions where some exemption is allowed on rollover of assets. One asset is given away and then other asset is purchased. So, Section 54G is applicable where exemption on Capital Gain is claimed on transfer of assets in case of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area. There, the rollover is allowed.
> We also provide rollover under Section 54GA where transfer of assets is in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area to any Special Economic Zone. So, we provide exemption in these two cases."

87.4.2 Further, apprising the Committee about the intent of the provisions under this Clause, the representatives of the Ministry also stated that :

> "…this exemption was given to decongest the urban areas. There was a specific purpose for that. The exchequer is foregoing the due tax which should have been charged on the capital gain…. Here, the purpose is the urban areas are decongested and the industries move out of urban area."

87.5 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

While noting that Clause 87 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area, the Committee also recognize that this clause is aimed at encouraging decongestion of urban areas through tax exemptions and corresponds to Section 54G of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After thoughtful deliberation of the proposal and justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee concur with the retention of the original intent in this clause along with the textual simplification of its provisions in this Bill and therefore, accept the clause as proposed.

Clause 88 – Exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area to any Special Economic Zone.

88.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

(a) capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset, being machinery or plant or building or land or any rights in building or land used for the business of an industrial undertaking situated in an urban area, effected in the course of or in consequence of shifting of such industrial undertaking (original asset) to any Special Economic Zone in any area; and

(b) such deposit shall be made not later than the due date applicable in the case of the assessee for filing the return of income under the said sub-section; and

(c) the proof of deposit shall be submitted along with the return on or before the due date for filing the return.

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the amount already utilised for purchasing or constructing the new asset together with the deposited amount under sub-section (2) shall be deemed to be the cost of the new asset.

(4) If the amount deposited under sub-section (2) is not wholly or partly utilised for the new asset within the period specified in sub-section (1), then,—

(a) the unutilised amount shall be charged under section 67 as the income of the tax year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

(b) the assessee shall be entitled to withdraw the unused amount according to the said scheme.

(5) In this section "urban area" shall have the meaning assigned to it in section 87.

88.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

(2), be dealt with in accordance with the following provisions of this section, that is to say,—

(i) if the amount of the capital gain is greater than the cost and expenses incurred in relation to all or any of the purposes mentioned in clauses (a) to (d) (such cost and expenses being hereafter in this section referred to as the new asset), the difference between the amount of the capital gain and the cost of the new asset shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year; and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its being purchased, acquired, constructed or transferred, as the case may be, the cost shall be Nil; or

(ii) if the amount of the capital gain is equal to, or less than, the cost of the new asset, the capital gain shall not be charged under section 45, and for the purpose of computing in respect of the new asset any capital gain arising from its transfer within a period of three years of its being purchased, acquired, constructed or transferred, as the case may be, the cost shall be reduced by the amount of the capital gain.

Explanation.—In this sub-section,—

(b) "urban area" means any such area within the limits of a municipal corporation or municipality as the Central Government may, having regard to the population, concentration of industries, need for proper planning of the area and other relevant factors, by general or special order, declare to be an urban area for the purposes of this sub-section.

Provided that if the amount deposited under this sub-section is not utilised wholly or partly for all or any of the purposes mentioned in clauses (a) to (d) of sub-section (1) within the period specified in that sub-section, then,—

(i) the amount not so utilised shall be charged under section 45 as the income of the previous year in which the period of three years from the date of the transfer of the original asset expires; and

88.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 88 of the Bill provides for exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area to any Special Economic Zone. This clause corresponds to section 54GA of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

88.4 Examination by the Committee:

As also mentioned in Para 87.4.1, during a discussion on exemption of capital gains for an industrial undertaking in the event of shifting from an urban area, the representatives of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting of the Committee, stated that such exemption is provided under Section 54GA (of the Act) where transfer of assets is in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area to any Special Economic Zone.

88.5 Observations / Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough scrutiny of proposed Clause 88 pertaining to exemption of capital gains on transfer of assets in cases of shifting of industrial undertaking from urban area to any Special Economic Zone, find that it is aimed at encouraging relocations of industrial undertakings for fostering economic growth in Special Economic Zones and is synonymous with Section 54GA of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee also note that the content of the clause does not deviate from its core and retains the spirit envisaged under Section 54GA of the IT Act. After careful consideration of the proposal and justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee express satisfaction with the response of the Ministry in this regard and therefore, accept the clause as proposed.

Clause 89 – Extension of time for acquiring new asset or depositing or investing amount of capital gains.

89.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

89. Irrespective of anything contained in sections 82, 83, 84, 85, and 86,—

(a) if the transfer of the original asset mentioned in those sections is by way of compulsory acquisition under any law; and

(b) if the compensation awarded for such acquisition is not received by the assessee on the date of transfer, then, the period available to him under those sections for acquisition of the new asset or investment or deposit of capital gain in specified bank or institution shall be reckoned from the date of receipt of compensation.

89.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Extension of time for acquiring new asset or depositing or investing amount of capital gain.

54H. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 54, 54B, 54D, 54EC and 54F, where the transfer of the original asset is by way of compulsory acquisition under any law and the amount of compensation awarded for such acquisition is not received by the assessee on the date of such transfer, the period for acquiring the new asset by the assessee referred to in those sections or, as the case may be, the period available to the assessee under those sections for depositing or investing the amount of capital gain in relation to such compensation as is not received on the date of the transfer, shall be reckoned from the date of receipt of such compensation :

Provided that where the compensation in respect of transfer of the original asset by way of compulsory acquisition under any law is received before the 1st day of April, 1991, the aforesaid period or periods, if expired, shall extend up to the 31st day of December, 1991.

89.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 89 of the Bill provides for scenarios for extension of time for acquiring new assets or depositing or investing amounts, with respect to capital gains. This clause corresponds to section 54H of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

89.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after reviewing the provisions proposed under Clause 89 understand that this clause seeks to extend the time available to taxpayers for reinvesting capital gains in cases where the original asset is compulsorily acquired and compensation to the assessee is delayed. The Committee also find that the proposed clause does not alter the content and intent introduced vide Section 54H of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Further, after careful deliberations of the replies and justifications furnished by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee, while expressing satisfaction with the submissions of the Ministry, accept the proposed clause in entirety.

(iv) in relation to any financial asset purchased by any person in whose favour the right to subscribe to such asset has been renounced, means the aggregate of the amount of the purchase price paid by him to the person renouncing such right and the amount paid by him to the company or institution, as the case may be, for acquiring such financial asset ;

(ab) in relation to a capital asset, being equity share or shares allotted to a shareholder of a recognised stock exchange in India under a scheme for demutualisation or corporatisation approved by the Securities and Exchange Board of India established under section 3 of the Securities and Exchange Board of India Act, 1992 (15 of 1992), shall be the cost of acquisition of his original membership of the exchange:

Provided that the cost of a capital asset, being trading or clearing rights of the recognised stock exchange acquired by a shareholder who has been allotted equity share or shares under such scheme of demutualisation or corporatisation, shall be deemed to be nil;

(ac) subject to the provisions of sub-clauses (i) and (ii) of clause (b), in relation to a long-term capital asset, being an equity share in a company or a unit of an equity oriented fund or a unit of a business trust referred to in section 112A, acquired before the 1st day of February, 2018, shall be higher of—

(i) the cost of acquisition of such asset; and

(ii) lower of—

(A) the fair market value of such asset; and

(B) the full value of consideration received or accruing as a result of the transfer of the capital asset.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause,—

(a) "fair market value" means,—

(i) in a case where the capital asset is listed on any recognised stock exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018, the highest price of the capital asset quoted on such exchange on the said date:

Provided that where there is no trading in such asset on such exchange on the 31st day of January, 2018, the highest price of such asset on such exchange on a date immediately preceding the 31st day of January, 2018 when such asset was traded on such exchange shall be the fair market value;

(ii) in a case where the capital asset is a unit which is not listed on a recognised stock exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018, the net asset value of such unit as on the said date;

(iii) in a case where the capital asset is an equity share in a company which is—

(A) not listed on a recognised stock exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018 but listed on such exchange on the date of transfer;

[64][(AA) not listed on a recognised stock exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018, or which became the property of the assessee in consideration of share which is not listed on such exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018 by way of transaction not regarded as transfer under section 47, as the case may be, but listed on such exchange subsequent to the date of transfer (where such transfer is in respect of sale of unlisted equity shares under an offer for sale to the public included in an initial public offer);]

(B) listed on a recognised stock exchange on the date of transfer and which became the property of the assessee in consideration of share which is not listed on such exchange as on the 31st day of January, 2018 by way of transaction not regarded as transfer under section 47, an amount which bears to the cost of acquisition the same proportion as Cost Inflation Index for the financial year 2017-18 bears to the Cost Inflation Index for the first year in which the asset was held by the assessee or for the year beginning on the first day of April, 2001, whichever is later;

(b) "Cost Inflation Index" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (v) of the Explanation to section 48;

(c) "recognised stock exchange" shall have the meaning assigned to it in clause (ii) of Explanation 1 to clause (5) of section 43;

(b) in relation to any other capital asset,—

(i) where the capital asset became the property of the assessee before the 1st day of April, 2001, means the cost of acquisition of the asset to the assessee or the fair market value of the asset on the 1st day of April, 2001, at the option of the assessee ;

(ii) where the capital asset became the property of the assessee by any of the modes specified in sub-section (1) of section 49, and the capital asset became the property of the previous owner before the 1st day of April, 2001, means the cost of the capital asset to the previous owner or the fair market value of the asset on the 1st day of April, 2001, at the option of the assessee :

Provided that in case of a capital asset referred to in sub-clauses (i) and (ii), being land or building or both, the fair market value of such asset on the 1st day of April, 2001 for the purposes of the said sub-clauses shall not exceed the stamp duty value, wherever available, of such asset as on the 1st day of April, 2001.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this proviso, "stamp duty value" means the value adopted or assessed or assessable by any authority of the Central Government or a State Government for the purpose of payment of stamp duty in respect of an immovable property;

(iii) where the capital asset became the property of the assessee on the distribution of the capital assets of a company on its liquidation and the assessee has been assessed to income-tax under the head "Capital gains" in respect of that asset under section 46, means the fair market value of the asset on the date of distribution ;

(iv) []

(v) where the capital asset, being a share or a stock of a company, became the property of the assessee on—

(a) the consolidation and division of all or any of the share capital of the company into shares of larger amount than its existing shares,

(b) the conversion of any shares of the company into stock,

(c) the re-conversion of any stock of the company into shares,

(d) the sub-division of any of the shares of the company into shares of smaller amount, or

(e) the conversion of one kind of shares of the company into another kind, means the cost of acquisition of the asset calculated with reference to the cost of acquisition of the shares or stock from which such asset is derived.

(3) Where the cost for which the previous owner acquired the property cannot be ascertained, the cost of acquisition to the previous owner means the fair market value on the date on which the capital asset became the property of the previous owner.

90.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 90 of the Bill provides for meaning of the terms "adjusted", "cost of improvement" and "cost of acquisition" with respect to calculation of capital gains. This clause corresponds to section 55 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified. Further, the section 55(2)(ab) of the Act which deals with the cost of acquisition in relation to a capital asset, being equity share or shares allotted to a shareholder of a recognised stock exchange in India under a scheme for demutualisation or corporatisation was omitted as it was considered to be redundant. (After reconsideration, it is proposed to include these provisions."

90.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

90.4.1 Suggestion regarding amendment of the provisions for cost of acquisition under Clause 90 :

- The absence of corresponding provisions of Section 55(2)(ab) can lead to litigation on the computation of capital gains on the transfer of such shares. Insert provisions similar to Section 55(2)(ab) of ITA 1961 in Section 90 of ITB 2025 to avoid litigation and ensure clarity in the computation of capital gains on the transfer of such shares.

90.4.2 Suggestion regarding updation of Base Year of cost of acquisition as mentioned under Clause 90 sub-clauses (9) &(10) :

- The Base Year may be changed as 1st April, 2021. Since, 25 years have elapsed from the last Base Year. Reflect a 25-year update cycle.

90.5 Examination by the Committee:

90.5.1 Response of the Ministry on the suggestion regarding amendment of the provisions for cost of acquisition under Clause 90 :

> "For the removal of ambiguity and to avoid litigation, this is acceptable. Accordingly, the provisions for cost of acquisition may be amended."

90.5.2 Regarding suggestion relating to updation of Base Year of cost of acquisition as mentioned under Clause 90 sub-clauses (9) &(10), the Ministry submitted that :

> "This suggestion relates to the updating of the Base Year of cost of acquisition. The suggestion seeks exemption to capital gains accrued upto 1.4.2021. This has significant impact on exchequer. This is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025. However, this suggestion is noted."

90.5.3 During the Sitting of the Committee held on 05th June, 2025, the representative of the Ministry of Finance informed the Committee about the meaning of updating Base Year of cost of acquisition and submitted that :

> "…this relates to updating the base year for cost of acquisition. So, right now, we take it as 1st April, 2001. That means, capital gains incurred up to 2001 are not charged to tax. So we take cost of acquisition as cost of acquisition, whatever is the value of a property on 1st April 2001. So that is the base year. So, they are saying that the base year be changed to 1st April 2021…"

90.5.4 Further, during the Sitting, the Secretary of the Ministry of Finance also apprised the Committee that this issue regarding updation of Base Year of the cost of acquisition will fall in the category of a Finance Bill and that the Ministry would re-examine the provision relating to such an updation.

90.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee

The Committee note that Clause 90 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for meaning of the terms "adjusted", "cost of improvement" and "cost of acquisition" with respect to calculation of capital gains and corresponds to Section 55 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee also note that while Section 55(2)(ab) of the parent Act specifically provides for transfers to be considered as cost of acquisition or full value of consideration for the purpose of taxation, the clause lacks in such specifications, thereby intensifying the possibilities of ambiguity or litigation. Therefore, after careful deliberation of relevant views/suggestions given by the stakeholders and the response of the Ministry of Finance, the Committee recommend that for the purpose of providing clarity in the computation of capital gains, provisions similar to Section 55(2)(ab) of the parent Act may be inserted in Clause 90 and the clause may be suitably amended to include the provision for cost of acquisition.

The Committee further note that in sub-clause (4)(b), with respect to deduction on account of depreciation of a capital asset, a reference has been made to the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Committee are of the view that such cross referencing to the IT Act of 1961 in the current Bill could result in a cumbersome exercise of repeatedly referring to repealed Act for referencing in future. Thus, to avoid any scope for complications in future, the Committee recommend that any reference to the IT Act, 1961 be removed from the text of specific clauses and instead relevant provisions be created within the Savings Clause 536 of the Bill in order to cover all such clauses requiring reference to the IT Act, 1961.

Expressing satisfaction with the response and justifications of the Ministry of Finance, the Committee accept the remaining provisions under this clause as proposed.

Clause 91 - Reference to Valuation Officer.

91.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

91. (1) For ascertaining the fair market value of a capital asset for this Chapter, the Assessing Officer may refer the valuation of capital asset to a Valuation Officer,—

(a) if the value of the asset claimed by the assessee is as per the estimate by a registered valuer, but the Assessing Officer is of the opinion that the value so claimed is at variance with its fair market value;

(b) in any other case, if the Assessing Officer is of the opinion that—

(i) the fair market value of the asset exceeds the value claimed by the assessee by more than the percentage or amount, as prescribed; or

(ii) having regard to the nature of the asset and other relevant circumstances, it is necessary so to do.

(2) The provisions of section 269(3) to (8) shall, with necessary modifications, apply in relation to such reference made under sub-section (1).

91.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Reference to Valuation Officer.

55A. With a view to ascertaining the fair market value of a capital asset for the purposes of this Chapter, the Assessing Officer may refer the valuation of capital asset to a Valuation Officer—

(a) in a case where the value of the asset as claimed by the assessee is in accordance with the estimate made by a registered valuer, if the Assessing Officer is of opinion that the value so claimed is at variance with its fair market value;

(b) in any other case, if the Assessing Officer is of opinion—

(i) that the fair market value of the asset exceeds the value of the asset as claimed by the assessee by more than such percentage of the value of the asset as so claimed or by more than such amount as may be prescribed in this behalf ; or

(ii) that having regard to the nature of the asset and other relevant circumstances, it is necessary so to do, and where any such reference is made, the provisions of sub-sections (2), (3), (4), (5) and (6) of section 16A, clauses (ha) and (i) of sub-section (1) and sub-sections (3A) and (4) of section 23, sub-section (5) of section 24, section 34AA, section 35 and section 37 of the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 (27 of 1957), shall with the necessary modifications, apply in relation to such reference as they apply in relation to a reference made by the Assessing Officer under sub-section (1) of section 16A of that Act.

Explanation.—In this section, "Valuation Officer" has the same meaning, as in clause (r) of section 2 of the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 (27 of 1957).

91.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> "Clause 91 of the Bill provides for reference to Valuation Officer for ascertaining the fair market value of a capital asset. This clause corresponds to section 55A of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

91.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee, after thorough scrutiny of the proposed Clause 91 pertaining to the reference of capital asset to Valuation Officer for assessment of fair market value of the said asset, find that it is synonymous with Section 55A of the Income-tax Act that was invented with the objective of conferring powers on the Assessing Officer to revaluate the capital asset and bring it to fair valuation. Noting that the content and intent of the proposed clause do not deviate from the core as envisioned under Section 55A of the Income-tax Act, the Committee express satisfaction with the justification and response of the Ministry of Finance and therefore accept the clause as proposed.

(i) without consideration, the aggregate fair market value of which exceeds fifty thousand rupees, the whole of the aggregate fair market value of such property;

(ii) for a consideration which is less than the aggregate fair market value of the property by an amount exceeding fifty thousand rupees, the aggregate fair market value of such property as exceeds such consideration :

Provided that this clause shall not apply to any such property received by way of a transaction not regarded as transfer under clause (via) or clause (vic) or clause (vicb) or clause (vid) or clause (vii) of section 47.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause, "fair market value" of a property, being shares of a company not being a company in which the public are substantially interested, shall have the meaning assigned to it in the Explanation to clause (vii); to comply with any of those conditions, then, any consideration received for issue of share that exceeds the fair market value of such share shall be deemed to be the income of that company chargeable to income-tax for the previous year in which such failure has taken place and, it shall also be deemed that the company has under reported the said income in consequence of the misreporting referred to in sub-section (8) and sub-section (9) of section 270A for the said previous year:

(ix) any sum of money received as an advance or otherwise in the course of negotiations for transfer of a capital asset, if,—

Provided that where the date of agreement fixing the amount of consideration for the transfer of immovable property and the date of registration are not the same, the stamp duty value on the date of agreement may be taken for the purposes of this sub-clause :

Provided further that the provisions of the first proviso shall apply only in a case where the amount of consideration referred to therein, or a part thereof, has been paid by way of an account payee cheque or an account payee bank draft or by use of electronic clearing system through a bank account or through such other electronic mode as may be prescribed, on or before the date of agreement for transfer of such immovable property:

(ii) subject to such other conditions, as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf.

Explanation.—For the purposes of clauses (XII) and (XIII) of this proviso, "family", in relation to an individual, shall have the same meaning as assigned to it in Explanation 1 to clause (5) of section 10:

Provided further that clauses (VI) and (VII) of the first proviso shall not apply where any sum of money or any property has been received by any person referred to in sub-section (3) of section 13.

(b) the expression "property" shall have the same meaning as assigned to it in clause (d) of the Explanation to clause (vii) and shall include virtual digital asset;

(xi) any compensation or other payment, due to or received by any person, by whatever name called, in connection with the termination of his employment or the modification of the terms and conditions relating thereto;

[68][(xii) any specified sum received by a unit holder from a business trust during the previous year, with respect to a unit held by him at any time during the previous year.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause, "specified sum" shall be computed in accordance with the following formula, namely:—

Specified sum = A-B-C (which shall be deemed to be zero if sum of B and C is greater than A), where—

A = aggregate of sum distributed by the business trust with respect to such unit, during the previous year or during any earlier previous year or years, to such unit holder, who holds such unit on the date of distribution of sum or to any other unit holder who held such unit at any time prior to the date of such distribution, which is,—

(a) received under a unit linked insurance policy;

(b) being the income referred to in clause (iv), which is not to be excluded from the total income of the previous year in accordance with the provisions of clause (10D) of section 10, the sum so received as exceeds the aggregate of the premium paid, during the term of such life insurance policy, and not claimed as deduction under any other provision of this Act, computed in such manner as may be prescribed.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this clause "unit linked insurance policy" shall have the meaning assigned to it in Explanation 3 to clause (10D) of section 10.]

92.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 92 of the Bill provides for incomes which are chargeable to tax under the head "Income from other sources". This clause corresponds to section 56 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified. Further, in sub-clause 92(5)(g), specific reference to maternal and paternal lineage in the definition of "relative" has been made with the intent to remove ambiguity. This is retained with the same intent in this clause."

92.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

92.4.1 Suggestion with respect to transfer of units of (publicly / privately) listed Business Trusts under Clause 92 :

- Section 56(2)(x) of the Act (corresponding section 92 of the Bill) read with Rule 11UA of the Income-tax Rules provides that FMV of quoted security transacted other than through stock exchange shall be the last lowest price traded on-exchange. Given the nature of BT units, such units aren't frequently traded and quarterly/ regular distributions occur on such units; therefore, unlike typical listed equity shares, valuation of these listed units should not be considered basis the last traded price.
  In case of privately listed, It may be noted that SEBI regulations require quarterly reporting of value of such units in public domain. Thus, the FMV of units may be ascertained basis the last valuation report available rather than the last traded price.
  Rule 11UA (to notify new set of Rules in relation to the Bill) for listed BT units to determine FMV of such units based on last valuation report in public domain.

92.4.2 Suggestion regarding lowering the tax-slab under Clause 92(2) for dividend received from Indian Companies :

- Taxation of dividends (section 92 of the Bill)
  Dividends are distributed by Corporate from its profits after paying a corporate tax. of 25% (approx.). Further, the recipient of dividend again pays tax on such dividend. This results in double taxation. It disincentivizes investment, hurts retired and small investors, creates administrative burdens, etc.

Higher tax on dividends received from overseas subsidiaries disincentivizes Suggestions are: Lower tax slabs for dividend received from Indian companies.
Lower tax rate of 15% on dividends received from overseas subsidiaries as it has a precedent in section 115BBD of the present Act.

92.4.3 Suggestion with respect to Clause 92(2)(l) :

- For annuity policies, where lump sum amount used for purchase of the same is generally out of the previously taxed incomes, the annuities paid to senior citizens may be exempted from tax to encourage the provisions for old age. The purchase price may also be exempt from the GST.Also the commuted income as allowed by IRDAI upto 60% may be considered for tax exemption.
  The senior citizen group is expected to be around 20% of the population by year 2050 in and around the Amrit Kal period and for the larger social security and old age income for them particularly in a falling interest rate scenario and to bridge the protection gap, the income coming from the annuities which is bought from the post taxed income of the individuals needs to be considered for tax relief to some extent if not fully.This will greatly facilitate a move toward inclusive Viksit Bharat with protected and financially independent senior citizen society.

92.4.4 Suggestions related to Clause 92(2)(m) :

- 1. Although conversion of debentures or preference shares into shares have been specifically exempt from capital gains tax, there is lack of clarity regarding exemption on receipt of shares pursuant to conversion under section 56(2)(x). It is recommended to bring in a clarification regarding non-applicability of section 56(2)(x) on conversion of such compulsorily convertible instruments, if:
  Issuance of original instrument was done at FMV (in compliance with section 56(2)(x)); and Conversion is done as per the terms specified at the time of issuance based on the valuations at that time
  2. It appears that the section 56(2)(x) applies to issue of right shares/ bonus shares as well. In the case of bonus issue or rights issue there is no change in pre and post shareholding pattern as the same is issued to all the shareholders in equal proportion. Subjecting issue of bonus shares and rights issue to gift tax would create unnecessary ambiguity in the hands of shareholders considering that their interest in the entity remains intact post issue of shares by way of bonus/ rights issue.It is recommended that necessary amendments are made to carve out issue of shares by way of bonus and rights issue from taxation under section 56(2)(x).

3. The resolution plan approved under the IBC, may require that the acquirer take over the management of the company ata nominal consideration. The purpose of the resolution process is to encourage acquirers to take over debt ridden companies and turn them around thus saving jobs and infrastructure and support the economy, if there is still a case for continuing profitable operations if appropriately managed. Transactions effected due to resolution plan approved by NCLT under IBC to be kept outside purview of provisions of taxes in the hands of recipient under section 56(2)(x).Further, such transaction should also be kept outside the purview of capital gains taxability under section 50CA.

- The provisions of s.56(2)(x) of ITA 1961 has been retained in clause 92(2)(m) of ITB 2025 and s. 50CA of ITA 1961 in clause 79 of ITB 2025.
  These are anti-abuse provisions to check underpricing of transactions but do not contain adequate safeguards for bonafide transactions where the price is lower than Rule 11UA value for genuine reasons.
  Pursuant to industry representations, the Finance (No.2) Act 2019 amended s.50CA and s.56(2)(x) to give power to CBDT to notify cases to which these provisions will not apply. CBDT has issued Rule 11UAC and 11UAD.
  However, the CBDT has used this power very sparingly to remove hurdles in PSU divestment like Air India, ILFS/ IDBI restructuring, etc. Following are Illustrative cases where bonafide transactions face tax hurdles u/s. 56(2)(x) and/or 50CA :-
  Fresh issue of shares in scenarios like Initial Public Offer (IPO), private placement, rights, bonus, etc.
  Investment made by holding company into its wholly owned subsidiary (domestic as well as foreign company) or other intra-group reorganization
  Time lag involved between fixing up share price by the parties under an agreement and actual allotment / transfer of shares due to time taken in making regulatory compliances and / or seeking shareholder or regulatory approvals
  Transfer of shares of a listed company through an off-the-exchange transaction at a pre-determined value (where SEBI takeover code is applicable)
  Options or share warrants which are issued at a particular date giving option to the holder to subscribe for shares at a future date at the prefixed value which is generally at FMV on the date of issue of options/warrants (E.g. ESOP Trusts of unlisted companies).
  Conversion of an existing instrument into equity shares as per the terms specified at the time of issuance based on the valuations at that time
  Transfer or issue of shares or securities in case of corporate insolvency resolution process under IBC or stressed companies, whose book value of assets is much higher than the actual realizable value.
  Transfer of assets between relatives for consideration lower than FMV or on account of family settlement.
  Recommendation:

To codify that clauses 92(2)(m) & 79 of ITB 2025 (S. 56(2)(x) and 50CA of ITA 1961) do not apply in bonafide and genuine commercial transactions as supported by documentary proof.

It is also recommended that Rule 11UAC and 11UAD be amended by way of a notification. Further, prior to the issue of Final Notification, it is recommended that a draft Notification should be published for stakeholders' comments to ensure that all possible bonafide cases faced by industry get adequately represented in the Final Notification.

- It is recommended that any waiver of loans pursuant to the resolution plans approved under the Code may not be subject to tax under the Income-Tax Bill.

- Considering the clear object and purpose behind introduction of sections 50CA & 56(2)(x) and to avoid any unnecessary litigation in this regard, it needs to be clarified through a proviso/explanation that the said sections would not be applicable to genuine bona fide transactions entered into by a taxpayer. The initial onus to demonstrate that the transaction is not with the motive of tax abuse may be on the taxpayer. For instance, transactions entered into between parties based purely on commercial negotiations backed by documentary evidence of a robust process supported say by auction or bid processes, or transactions supported by Valuation reports of Registered Valuers or transactions which meet the Arm's Length Price test under the Transfer Pricing Rules ought not to be covered within the ambit of sections 50CA & 56(2)(x) as a matter of routine. And, if the AO is able to rebut the aforesaid claims put forth by the taxpayer, it may still be open to him to invoke the provisions of the said sections.

  Additionally, in M&A deals, typically there is always a time gap between the signing of the deal and its eventual closure i.e. consummation of the transaction. For instance, an acquirer agreeing to acquire controlling interest in shares of a listed company having signed a definitive binding agreement would have to go through the elaborate processes under the SEBI Takeover Code before the final acquisition as agreed can be consummated. This causes a significant problem especially where listed price moves up between the date of signing and the eventual acquisition/transfer of the shares. For instance, if an agreement for acquisition of shares is signed at a price of Rs.105 per share and on that date the listed price is say Rs. 100 and if thereafter the listed price runs up to Rs. 120 by the time of closing of the deal, the difference between Rs.120 and Rs. 105 may be deemed to be a gift in the hands of the acquirer. This seems totally unintended since the acquirer actually signed the deal to acquire the share at Rs. 105 at the time when the listed price was only Rs. 100. This issue persists in the parallel provision proposed in clauses 79 & 92(2)(m) of ITB 2025.

  It is recommended to clarify that that so long as the acquisition price is more than prescribed Rule 11UA value (listed price) on the date of signing of the deal, the provisions of section 56(2)(x) of ITA 1961 (clause 92(2)(m) of ITB 2025) ought not to apply. In any case, the deemed gift may be clarified to not exceed the difference between Rule 11UA value and acquisition price on the signing date.

92.4.5 Suggestions pertaining to Clause 92(5)(g) :

- Suggestion 1 - Specific reference to maternal and paternal lineage in the definition of "relative" removes ambiguity. Typographical error in referencing Section 355(i) instead of Section 355(h) for exemptions when specified persons receive amounts from non-profit organizations (registered charitable/ religious trusts).Align the definition of “relative” in all provisions of ITB 2025 to include both paternal and maternal lineage. Correct the typographical error to reference Section 355(h) for exemptions when specified persons receive amounts from non-profit organizations (registered charitable/ religious trusts).
- Suggestion 2 - Align the definition of “relative” in all provisions of ITB 2025 to include both paternal and maternal lineage. Correct the typographical error to reference Section 355(h) for exemptions when specified persons receive amounts from non-profit organizations.

- Clause 92(5)(g) (same as S 56(2)(viib) in the existing Act) defines "relative" from the perspective of the donor (in case of direct gifts) or settlor (in case of trusts) but does not recognize reciprocal relationships. For example, an uncle gifting to a nephew qualifies as a gift between relatives (since father’s brother is considered a “relative” from the donee’s perspective); however, a settlement into trust is to be seen from the settlor’s perspective – and from the uncle perspective, nephew is not expressly defined as a “relative” (though logically. It should be so assumed). This not only creates an artificial asymmetry that is inconsistent with the common understanding of familial relationships, since it is obvious that reciprocity should be implied also, but important to clarify this expressly.

- In clause 92(5)(g), subpoint (e), reference to maternal and paternal may also be made immediately after ‘lineal ascendants’ Following text may be considered for subpoint (e) “(E) any lineal ascendant (maternal as well as paternal) or descendant (maternal as well as paternal);” Rationale: Proposed change would make 1. Make Tax laws simple and lucid. 2. Would be read and understood by taxpayers and tax administration in a uniform manner. 3. Reduce tax litigation thereby providing certainty. The manner in which sub-clause E has been worded, it may leave scope for one to argue that maternal and paternal relationship would apply to ‘descendants’ and not apply to ‘ascendants’. One may also contend that as far as ‘lienal ascendents’ are concerned, it would apply to paternal ascendents (and not to maternal or vice versa). If the intent is to advance the benefit to both lienal ascendants as well, the change suggested may be considered. In clause 92(5)(g), subpoint (e), reference to maternal and paternal may also be made immediately after 'lineal ascendants'.

- It is suggested that in item (E), the phrase "maternal as well as paternal" be added after both "ascendant" and "descendant" for consistency Alternatively, the bracketed clarifications may be omitted entirely from both sub-clauses (E) and (F), as they are unnecessary and may introduce ambiguity The use of bracketed qualifiers like "maternal as well as paternal" after "descendant" is redundant since a descendant is inherently lineal Further, the absence of the phrase after "ascendant" in item (E), when it is included in (F), creates inconsistency Uniform language or omission of such qualifiers would avoid interpretative confusion and promote clarity in defining "relative".

92.4.6 Suggestion which is common to Clause 92 and Clause 79 :

- Currently certain deeming provisions with valuation rules (e.g., 50CA, 50B, 56(2)(x), etc.) intended to be Anti-Tax Avoidance Rules ('ATAR') are part of charging provisions and hence apply as a default rule, creating uncertainties for genuine commercial transactions and leads to unnecessary litigation. Certain provisions lead to double taxation for buyer and seller. (S.50CA and 56(2)(x) of the Act/ S.79 & 92 of Bill).
  Only real income should be brought to tax, and notional norms should be removed, as they are burdensome, litigative and erodes investors confidence. Safeguard in the form of GAAR is available for dubious structures.

92.5 Examination by the Committee:

92.5.1 Response of the Ministry of Finance to the suggestion with respect to transfer of units of (publicly / privately) listed Business Trusts under Clause 92 :

> "This suggestion seeks that FMV of units of BT based on last valuation be adopted for 56(2)(x) rather than last traded price. This will increase litigation. The provision is in nature of anti-abuse. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

92.5.2 Elaborating on the last traded value being considered as the income from units of business trust, the representative of the Ministry, during the Sitting, submitted that :

> "…it talks about units of business trust. What we take for purposes of income from units of business trust, they are gifted to somebody. Then what would be the fair market value in their hands? The fair market value is taken as the last traded price. The suggestion is that rather than last traded price, you take it based on the last valuation. We are saying that last traded price is a definitive price which is available as per records. So, the suggestion would increase in litigation because it is a very subjective matter that what is the last valued price."

92.5.3 Response of the Ministry to the suggestion regarding lowering the tax-slab under Clause 92(2) for dividend received from Indian Companies :

"Until FY 2019-20, dividends were tax-free in the hands of the recipients (shareholders) as companies paid a Dividend Distribution Tax (DDT) while disbursing dividends. Since FY 2020-21 when DDT was abolished, dividends are taxable in the hands of the shareholders and not the companies. The reference to 115BBD is misplaced as this was provided for dividend received from specified Foreign companies as no DDT is leviable on overseas enterprises and this section is redundant as on date. Moreover, the provisions of section 80M(Clause 148) provide for deduction for dividend that is further distributed by companies to their shareholders. Therefore, this suggestion may not be feasible."

92.5.4 Response of the Ministry with respect to suggestion regarding Clause 92(2)(l) :

"It is suggested that the annuities paid to senior citizens may be exempted from tax. Annuity is in nature of pension which is taxable. After an exemption limit of 12 lakh, separate exemption may not be required. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

92.5.5 Corresponding responses of the Ministry of Finance relating to suggestions related to Clause 92(2)(m) :

"It is suggested that the transfer of unquoted shares by conversion of debentures/preference share or issues of right shares/bonus shares or transactions approved by NCLT should not be subject to determination of Fair Market Value as called for in section 50CA/56(2)(x). These are anti-abuse provisions. Also, separate carve-outs for specific cases will only complicate the provisions. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

"The suggestion seeks to amend 50CA and 56(2)(x) so that these provisions that call for determination of Fair Market Value do not apply to "bona fide" transactions. 'Bona fide' is a subjective term and open to litigation. Undervaluation of shares and other assets is rampant and provision for anti-abuse are needed. This suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

With regard to waiver of loans pursuant to the resolution plans approved under the Code, the Ministry in their comments furnished that, "The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

92.5.6 Regarding determination of fair market value provisions under Clause 92(2)(m), the representative of the Ministry submitted that :

"…we adopt fair market value for unquoted shares. So, the suggestion is that for unquoted share, by conversion of debentures, preference shares or issue of right shares or bonus shares or transactions approved by NCLT, they should not be subject to determination of fair market value. So, Sir, these are specific anti-abuse provisions and separate carve-outs will only complicate the provision…
…I will just try to explain it slightly. Clause 92(2)(m) is a generic provision where it says that if I receive an asset which is lesser than the fair market value, then the difference between the asset value and the fair market value…."

92.5.7 With regard to waiver of pursuant to resolution plans, the representative of the Ministry of Finance, during the Sitting held on 16th June, 2025, assured the Committee that the Ministry would submit a detailed note on waiver of loans pursuant to resolution plans.

92.5.8 When asked to furnish views with respect to the suggestion relating to Clause 92(2)(m), the Ministry in its written reply submitted that :

"The suggestion seeks to clarify in Sections 50CA and 56(2)(x) that these provisions that call for determination of Fair Market Value do not apply to "bona fide" transactions. 'Bona fide' is a subjective term and open to litigation. Undervaluation of shares and other assets is rampant and provision for anti-abuse are needed. The market price of a listed share is determined by the price as on the stock exchange. The price on the date when the shares were received by the taxpayer will be the market price as this is a movable property. In the example mentioned in the suggestion, if the taxpayer received shares of Rs. 120/- for Rs 105/-, then it stands to reason that he has received a property for Rs 15/- less. Therefore, it will remain as income under the provisions of section 56(2)(x) of the Act. The provisions are faithfully reproduced here in the Bill as well. Any change in this may lead to misuse whereby the agreement may be signed at a certain pre-determined rate that may not reflect the true market price."

92.5.9 Corresponding responses of the Ministry of Finance relating to suggestions pertaining to Clause 92(5)(g) :

> "Suggestion 1 – Acceptable. This is a typographical error - reference to Section 355(i) in Clause 92(3)(f) appears incorrect and the correct reference is to 355(h)."
> "Suggestion 2: The reference to maternal and paternal lineage is specific to Clause 92(5)(g). The term relative is defined in various provisions of the IT Act, 1961 giving different meanings.
> The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."
> "It is suggested that the lineal descendant of a brother or sister be also be treated as a relative for the purposes of this clause 92(5)(g). This is against the traditional concepts of who can be a relative for gift purposes. This suggestion is in the nature of a major policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."
> "The suggestion is in the nature of a drafting correction. For the purpose of providing clarity, the words "maternal or paternal" may be place after the phrase "lineal ascendant" as well. This is acceptable."

92.5.10 Response of the Ministry regarding suggestion which is common to Clause 92 and Clause 79 :

> "Suggestion seeks GAAR provisions be applied instead of Section 50CA and 56(2)(x). These are specific provisions to deal with specific cases of valuation. Usage of GAAR for such specific cases would dilute the purpose of GAAR. Additionally, GAAR would be too cumbersome to be invoked for cases where sale of property is at less than FMV/Stamp Duty Value. GAAR is used only in very few cases and it cannot substitute Section 50CA which is automatically applied. The suggestion made by the stakeholder is in the nature of policy change which is beyond the scope of the objectives of the IT Bill, 2025."

92.5.11 Expounding on the provisions under Clause 92(5)(g) regarding persons who can be treated as relatives for the purpose of gifting, the representative of the Ministry, during the Sitting held on 05th June, 2025, apprised the Committee as under :

> "…there is a definition of relative, and the stakeholder is asking for change in its definition. They want to include 'linear descendant of a brother or a sister' also in that definition…
> .. In this Section, we have defined relative as a spouse, brother or sister, brother or sister of the spouse, any linear descendant or ascendant, now we have clarified maternal and paternal both, of the person and of the spouse. This much we have already provided.

… It is different in some other provisions. But this is specifically for those where we are saying that any gift received from these persons will not be taxed, even if it is without any consideration.

So, now they say that brothers, sisters and children also should be included in this. That is not included here. We have limited it up to your own brother, sister and brother and sister of the parents. We have It is different in some other provisions. But this is specifically for those where we are saying that any gift received from these persons will not be taxed, even if it is without any consideration.

So, now they say that brothers, sisters and children also should be included in this. That is not included here. We have limited it up to your own brother, sister and brother and sister of the parents. We have included this up to that extent…"

The uncle can gift to me. That would be exempt in my hands. But I cannot gift to my uncle.

… Sir, in case of an individual, it is his lineal ascendant, descendant, like nana, nani. They all will be covered under this. You can go up to whatever stage. Similarly, my son, my grandson will also be covered in this. …

… It is because the gift has to be taxed at the hands of the recipient. They can gift to me. What is exempt is gift received from a relative."

92.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 92 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 pertains to taxation of income accrued from other sources and corresponds to Section 56 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Upon thoughtful deliberation of the provisions under this clause, the Committee observe that in sub-clause (3)(f) an incorrect reference to Clause 355(i) - "relative", in relation to an individual, has been made instead of a reference to Clause 355(h) – "related persons" in relation to non-profit organizations. The Committee, therefore recommend that in sub-clause (3)(f) the reference to Clause 355(i) be changed to Clause 355(h) and accordingly, the modified provision be read as :

“92(3)(f) - from or by any registered non-profit organisation as defined in section 355(g), except when received by any person referred to in section 355(h);”.

Further, with regard to the provisions contained in sub-clause (5)(g) sub-point (E), the Committee note that the phrase “maternal as well as paternal” not being expressly mentioned in respect of “lineal ascendant” makes this provision open to ambiguity, thus making way for litigations. Therefore, for the sake of clarity, the Committee recommend that suitable changes be made in sub-clause (5)(g) and the modified provision be read as :

“92(5)(g)(E) - any lineal ascendant “(maternal as well as paternal)” or descendant (maternal as well as paternal);”.

Further, after careful consideration of the views/suggestions of the stakeholders, the Committee express satisfaction with the justification and response of the Ministry of Finance thereto, and therefore, accept the remaining provisions under Clause 92 as proposed.

Explanation.—[Omitted by the Finance Act, 1988, w.e.f. 1-4-1989.]

93.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> "Clause 93 of the Bill provides for deductions for eligible expenses for computing the taxable income under the head "Income from other sources". This clause corresponds to section 57 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

93.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

Suggestion related modification of Clause 93(1)(a) :

- In ITB 25, after words "referred to in section 2(40)(f)", bracket is to be closed.

93.5 Examination by the Committee:

Response to the Ministry to the above mentioned suggestion :

> "This is in the nature of a drafting corrections and the square bracket may be closed as suggested. This is acceptable."

93.6 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 93 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for deductions for eligible expenses for computing the taxable income under the head "Income from other sources" and corresponds to Section 57 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. After careful deliberation of the provisions under the clause, the Committee find an erratum in the provision contained in sub-clause (1)(a) wherein the square bracket enclosing the phrase "excluding those referred to in section 2(40)(f)" has not been closed. Therefore, the Committee recommend that the typographical error be corrected and the provision be modified to read as :

"93(1)(a) – for dividends '[excluding those referred to in section 2(40)(f)]'…".

Further, after careful examination of the justification provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee express satisfaction with the response of the Ministry and accept the remaining provisions as proposed.

Clause 94 – Amounts not deductible.

94.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

94. (1) Irrespective of anything contained in section 93, the following amounts shall not be deductible in computing the income of any assessee chargeable under the head "Income from other sources":—

(3) For an assessee, being a foreign company, the provisions of section 59 shall apply in computing the income chargeable under the head "Income from other sources", as they apply in computing the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

(4) In computing the income from winnings from lotteries, crossword puzzles, races including horse races, card games and other games of any sort, or from gambling or betting of any form or nature, no deduction for any expenditure or allowance related to such income shall be allowed under this Act.

94.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

40A;

(2) The provisions of section 40A shall, so far as may be, apply in computing the income chargeable under the head "Income from other sources" as they apply in computing the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall apply in computing the income of an assessee, being the owner of horses maintained by him for running in horse races, from the activity of owning and maintaining such horses.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-section, "horse race" means a horse race upon which wagering or betting may be lawfully made.

94.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

"Clause 94 of the Bill seeks to enumerate the deductions that are not allowable to be set off against incomes referred to in clause 92. This clause corresponds to section 58 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause."

94.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

The Committee note that Clause 94 of the Income-tax Bill, 2025 provides for enumeration of deductions that are not allowable to be set off against incomes obtained from other sources, as referred to in clause 92. The Committee also understand that this clause is synonymous with Section 58 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and aims at correct computation and charging of taxable income, thereby improving tax compliance by the assessee. After careful deliberation of the proposal and justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee express satisfaction with the response of the Ministry and accept the clause as proposed.

Clause 95 – Profits chargeable to tax.

95.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

95. The provision of section 38(1)(a) shall apply in computing the income of an assessee under section 92, as they apply in computing the income of an assessee under the head “Profits and gains of business or profession”.

95.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Profits chargeable to tax.

59. (1) The provisions of sub-section (1) of section 41 shall apply, so far as may be, in computing the income of an assessee under section 56, as they apply in computing the income of an assessee under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

(2) []

(3) []

Explanation.—[]

95.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

> “Clause 95 of the Bill seeks to propose that any benefit in cash or otherwise obtained on account of remission or cessation of any liability, for which a deduction has been allowed in an earlier year, shall be taxable in the year in which the benefit has been obtained. This clause corresponds to section 59 of the Act. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.”

95.4 Observations/Recommendations of the Committee:

After reviewing the provisions proposed under Clause 95, the Committee understand that this clause, while being synonymous with Section 59 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, seeks to propose that any benefit in cash or otherwise obtained on account of remission or cessation of any liability, for which a deduction has been allowed in an earlier year, shall be taxable in the year in which the benefit has been obtained. While recognizing the objective of making any profitable income of an assessee chargeable to tax, the Committee concur with the retention of the original intent and the textual simplification of the provisions under this clause. Therefore, after careful consideration of the proposal and justifications provided by the Ministry of Finance, the Committee accept the clause as proposed.

CHAPTER V

INCOME OF OTHER PERSONS, INCLUDED IN TOTAL INCOME OF ASSESSEE

Clause 96: Transfer of income without transfer of assets

96.1 Provision proposed in the Income-Tax Bill, 2025:

All income arising to any person by virtue of transfer,—
(a) whether revocable or not, and whether effected before or after the commencement of this Act; and

(b) where there is no transfer of assets from which such income arises, shall be chargeable to income-tax as the income of the transferor and shall be included in his total income.

96.2 Relevant Provision of the Principal Act (Income-Tax Act, 1961):

Section 60: All income arising to any person by virtue of a transfer whether revocable or not and whether effected before or after the commencement of this Act shall, where there is no transfer of the assets from which the income arises, be chargeable to income-tax as the income of the transferor and shall be included in his total income.

96.3 Reasons/Justification given by the Ministry of Finance for the proposed provision:

Clause 96 of the Bill seeks to provide that the income which is transferred to any other person without the transfer of the assets from which such income arises shall be clubbed in the income of the transferor. The clause corresponds to section 60 of the Act. Redundant provisions have been removed. The provisions of the existing section have been textually simplified and retained with the same intent in this clause.

96.4 Important Views/Suggestions given by Experts/Stakeholders:

96.4.1 Clause 96 of the Bill be substituted as follows (by adding sub-clause 2):
96. (1) All income, arising to any person by virtue of transfer – (a) ..... (b) where there is no transfer of assets from which the income arises, shall be chargeable to income-tax as the income of the transfer and shall be included in his total income.

96.4.2 Irrespective of sub-section 1, dividend ordered to be paid as per Section 123(5) of the Companies Act, 2013 to any registered Non - Profit Organisation shall be income arising only to such Non-Profit Organisation and not as the income of the transferor.

96.5 Examination by the Committee:

96.5.1 In regard to the suggestion that dividend ordered to be paid as per Section 123(5) of the Companies Act, 2013 to any registered non-profit organization shall be treated as income arising solely to such Non-Profit Organization and not as the income of the transferor, where there is no transfer, the Ministry in their written reply has stated that these are anti-abuse provisions. Where there is no transfer of assets (only an arrangement, covenant, agreement), income shall continue to be clubbed in the hands of the transferor. Further during the Sitting of the Committee, representatives of the Ministry deposed as under:
