COURT DECISIONS

C.C.E. INDORE VERSUS M/S. G.D. ENTERPRISES [CESTAT NEW DELHI]

Brief: Remuneration or commission received by the agent for providing C&F Service should alone be considered as gross amount for computation of the service tax liability. The reimbursable expenses should be outside the scope and purview of Levy of Service tax.

OUR COMMENTS: In the above case, the assessee is providing Clearing and Forwarding services. As per the terms of agreement, besides receipt of commission for the services rendered to the principal the assessee also receives various expenses such as rent, loading and unloading, postage and telegraph, printing and stationery, sundry expenses etc. incurred by it for and on behalf of its principals in the form of reimbursement.

The Department included the reimbursement on these expenses in the gross amount and confirmed the service tax demand on the same along with interest and penalties

The assessee contended that holding that reimbursement on account of actual expenses incurred on behalf of the principle are not liable for service tax.

The Hon'ble CESTAT noted that in Rule 6(8) of the Service Tax Rules 1994, a special provision has been given for computation of taxable value in respect of amounts received by C & F agents. Receipts of expenditure at actual is very common in C & F line, and therefore, it has been specifically provided that tax is to be computed only on the amount of commission or remuneration, and no other reimbursable expenses should form part of the assessable value of such services.

Accordingly, it was held that remuneration or commission received by the agent for providing C&F Service should alone be considered as gross amount for computation of the service tax liability and that since the service tax statute does not provide for inclusion of reimbursable expenses therein, the same should be outside the scope and purview of Levy of Service tax.
