WHY...?

THIS CONFERENCE

"The Chartered Accountant profession is well recognized and respected among individuals of society because of its versatility and the ability of CAs to adapt to various situations whether as auditors, consultants or business leaders. This attribute is inculcated in every CA student through testing on various challenging and demanding subjects and also through practical training and through various management courses.

The purpose of this year's national Conference is to enable students to realize their hidden potential through out of the box topics and role models from fields beyond our own and enable students to enhance their ability to adapt to various situations in every role they play.

This year's national Conference aims at 'Breaking the habit' by developing existing knowledge of students as well as opening avenues beyond our element, all with the intent of breaking the monotony and inculcating versatility in each students' personality."
